

Block all to robocalls and the fake numbers they follow up with after Nomorobo blocks them!

PLEASE, PLEASE let our phone companies let us block these annoying, intrusive and rude calls. I am so sick of them, either it is someone who can't speak English trying to sell me something that I have no interest in or tryint to intimidate me into buying something or there is on one there. THIS IS VERY ANNOYING. I have better things to do with my time than waste it on these calls.

I receive robo and other unsolicited calls daily on my office, home and cell phones. I am on the do not call list to no avail. Many of these calls continue to come from the same callers who I have requested delete me from their call list and that I am on the Do Not Call List. Please give consideration to helping the consumers in America. Thank ou.

They are annoying and very disruptive. I want them to stop.

I'm a small business owner who feels that I am being constantly harassed by telephone solicitors and robocalls. I think it is the FCC's responsibility to develop a program to intercept these annoying and time-consuming calls or alternatively fine the callers as a deterrent. We'll be watching how our politicians vote on this issue.

Why Must my family be annoyed, disturbed and feel threatened by these incessant calls from machines?

We are forced to shut the ringer off our phone. If we didn't need one for an emergency, I would tear it out and save my 40 dollars a month.

We need a way to block these calls and have some peace of mind.

Thank you for your time.

I am tired of paying for phone service only to have it used to harass me. I think it should be illegal for anyone to ring my phone unless there will be a live person on the line when I pick up: Not a live person after several seconds' delay, and definitely not a recording (and that goes for political calls as well as commercial and charitable appeals). It should be illegal to ring a number several times then hang up after the call is answered (as ALL mass callers do, because their systems dial several numbers at once). All mass callers should have to clearly identify themselves at the start of the call and accurately indicate the nature of the call (sales, charitable solicitation, political pitch). Further, I think that "surveys" shouldn't be exempt, because too many of the calls I receive now are masquerading as surveys when they are actually just pitches, either for causes (political and charitable) or businesses: For example "We are calling you today to see if you are happy with your ____ service. Have you had service interruptions in the last 6 months?" (End of "survey", beginning of sales pitch.) Finally, the option to block any and all numbers should be a phone account holder's right, since the current no-call list is only partially effective, and all calls should be required to display the source number so that they can be blocked. Entities making mass calls who conceal the source phone number should be fined and shut down--it's not hard to identify such nuisances on modern phone systems.

My understanding is that the NSA has lots of information about phone calls: It should be used to enforce existing regulations regarding no-call requests, and to fine and/or block sources that violate regulations. No sense wasting all that money gathering phone call data, and it would be rare good publicity for the NSA.

I understand that implementation and enforcement of the standards I propose above would be difficult for government agencies (although I do think the standards should be set and enforced as well as possible)--that's why it is important that citizens be given tools to protect themselves from nuisance and predatory callers.

As for those boilerroom bandits who argue that limiting mass calling is an unfair restriction of their businesses: Give me their home phone numbers and/or mobile numbers and I'll set up a computer to illustrate the problem to them.

Since the government doesn't seem to be able to do anything about shady telemarketers or outright criminal scam callers, I have come to regard Nomorobo as an indispensable adjunct to my telephone service. Perhaps if everybody had access to this, or a similar utility, the problem would resolve itself.

Francis Hearn

The Federal government (and many state governments) provide for a "Do-Not-Call" list, which telemarketers are REQUIRED to check BEFORE they call people, so they do not call people whose phone numbers are on the list. Likewise, current law FORBIDS robocalling to cell phones. Likewise, sending of junk faxes is prohibited.. Nonetheless, scofflaws (criminals!!) routinely IGNORE these laws and routinely make MILLIONS of such phone calls every week... and the governments do little or nothing to prosecute these crimes. If the government chooses (selectively!) to abdicate its responsibility to enforce the laws in effect, then consumers need to be allowed to do whatever they can to address the continuing problem.

Robocalls need to stop. They cleverly call from numbers that are hijacked or otherwise disguised so you can't block them. They constantly interrupt family time and hang up when you ask to be removed from their list.

NOMOROBO is the best thing to happen to irritating robo calls! Robocalls are a constant annoyance and distraction. I find most of them are from dubious and unsolicited vendors selling products that are of little or no interest. I need more help blocking robocalls to my home number. Although Robocall has helped GREATLY it does not catch everything. Verizon does a VERY POOR job of helping the consumer in this area. Verizon FIOS only lets me list 10 numbers to block and UNKNOWN NUMBERS and PRIVATE calls still make it through. In this age of unbelievably technology, you would think they could give the consumer greater control of calls that make it through wouldn't you??

Every morning I get the same call from an UNKNOWN NUMBER, they call again in the evening. Not just once or twice a week, EVERY DAMN DAY. I suspect the phone company wants consumers to give up their land lines and just use cell phones, otherwise they would do something to help the consumer block these companies who show up as known robocallers. So I get UNKNOWN calls even though I have set up FIOS up to reject such calls so their attempts don't work. I still get the CLEANING SVC call, the PBA calling, and others that I have no idea who they are.

Please make the phone companies do more to help consumers and SUPPORT NOMOROBO. In fact, the phone companies should be forced to work with NOMOROBO if they cannot fix the problem themselves or give the consumer the tools to make more choices on who calls them.

Our household phone along with our mobile phones receive many robocalls. Our telephone service providers do not provide adequate call screening options. On our home phone Verizon only offers us to ability to block ten numbers that we must specify in advance. Our cellular provider, AT&T, only offers options that cost money. We have been using Nomorobo's service to help block the calls on our home phone and it has been a terrific help to our privacy and sanity. We need more options for blocking robocalls, please help us see more and better options for our service providers!

I think no commercial company or commercial individual should have the ability to place calls and computerized calls to my home for products or services of which I have no interest in and have never asked for information on, I have Robocall blocking, I appreciate it very much, It blocks about 90 percent of the irritating calls we get, however we get some local unwanted calls mostly from contractors wanting work, we have hung up on most of that type but had some callers repeatedly tell us we were rude over and over the same caller. The phone company only wants to sell us more services and do nothing about the problem commercial calls invading our home, disrupting our privacy, peace, and quality of life.

My home phone is plagued with robocalls. In one day alone, I received 32 robocalls. I have actually considered disconnecting our home phone because of this problem. Please help private citizens to expand their control over their own phones. Robo calls are a computerized invasion of our privacy, for which we never asked or gave permission. The "do not call" list has not worked. Unless you can come up with a way we can bill any unwanted callers for wasting our time, robo call blocking is our best defence yet. The ability to block robocalls is very high on my priority list and so should it be on yours! As a retired person and home all day, I consider these kinds of calls an invasion on my privacy. This is NOT what I pay for to have phone service in my home. It's a complete waste of time and money for both me and the robocaller company. I'm forced to keep my answering machine on 24/7. Robo calls have essentially taken away my ability to use with my telephone as I did for about 60 years. Nearly every call is now an automated sales pitch. The number & frequency of those calls exploded over the past few years until we had just stopped answering. 25 or 30 a day is not unusual. About 7 months ago I was ready to shut down the land line completely. Just then we saw an article about an application called NOMOROBO which could be used to block calls from most known generators of robo calls. The service turned out to be about 90% effective.

For years we've dutifully registered on the government "do not call" list. For a long time it worked well, but in the absence of enforcement it became useless in recent years. So, if for some reason services such as NOMOROBO are removed from the equation, I believe the government has an obligation to step in & prosecute those who make those marketing calls despite our clear statement that we don't want to receive them. If our government won't enforce the law I'll be furious if the only other recourse we've found is taken away.

I am retired so I am home most of the time and can attest I receive several of these calls every day. I do not count them but would estimate I receive between four and ten per day. Often times they come after I have gone to sleep and they wake me up. I have registered with the National No Call List and Nomorobo but the calls persist. I am annoyed and fed up. I really like robocall blocking features like Nomorobo. We get to many calls even though I prescribe to 'National Do Not Call Registry'. My name is Martin Friedman. I live in Simi Valley California and I have been plagued by Robo calls for the past three years. I discovered a firm called nomorobo that promised to lower my blood pressure from repeated Robo callers and their arrogant and annoying practices. My wife and I were plagued with calls starting at 7 AM and continuing through the dinner hour. I had tried the governments website that registered me to be on the do not call list. That was absolutely worthless. Nomo Robo has been a godsend. We get one ring and The call is literally erased. Since robocalls are illegal and the FCC apparently is ill equipped to enforce the law, I think it is high time to force telephone companies to disallow robocall lines, and obligate the phone companies to block the existing robocall capabilities. Robocalls are extremely annoying. We the public cried out and received a partial solution in the way of the Do Not Call list, but that is not working well at all. Many of us do not enjoy being interrupted at dinnertime or called over and over by charitable organizations or even those who we do business with. If I want to purchase a product I'll initiate the transaction. When I have cash to give to charity I'll pick the destination when I'm able to give. For those who really insist, send me mail via the USPS, which is in need of the business, so that I can read it when I'm ready to.

Many people are disconnecting their land line to avoid annoying Robocalls. This of course is affecting the telephone companies negatively.

Stop RoboCalls!

I am sick and tired of getting robo calls on my land line phones. It is time someone stops this. It is annoying and useless. I need some way that is simple to block all these type of calls. I would like to add all political robo calls to the list as well.

Terry

Robo calls invade my privacy! They also just keep on trying, even if I'm not home; I can see them on my caller lists. Filling out the FCC form is extremely time-consuming, and rarely stops the problem. Robocall blocking products provide a defense for all of us, and must be allowed. Otherwise, our privacy is at the mercy of robocallers! Please make robocalls illegal, and allow the robocall blocking products, such as Nomorobo, to help all of us prevent this invasion of our privacy.

I pay for a phone service through my ISP which I am SERIOUSLY considering dropping because I receive at least a dozen calls a day from robocallers and telemarketers. My landline is nothing but a nuisance now. I've called Comcast several times about the situation and they give me no options to combat the situation. Many times I have to unplug my phone so I don't have to hear it ring all day long. I have absolutely NO control over my own phone. I am utterly helpless. I am so frustrated that I've doing research to cut the cord because I'm paying a high bill to Comcast and they can offer me no assistance whatsoever. Thank you for allowing me to vent.

Robocalls are an invasion of my privacy. Prior to my implementation of a robocall blocking product, calls from a variety of sources were coming in the rate of 3-5 per day, beginning at 8:03 AM and lasting until 10 PM. With the blocking product, my nuisance calls have been reduced by almost 100%.

Before, if I inadvertently picked up a robocall and requested that I not be called again, the callers would persist, sometimes more than once a day. Some even resorted to raising their voices as though I was deaf. As a caregiver and a senior citizen, these intrusions are alarming and troubling.

I would have never believed that my phone would become an instrument of anger and/or terror. Please do everything in your power to enforce and strengthen laws against robocalls.

Thank you.

Louise Fadness

90% of the calls to my house are robocalls or telemarketers even though I registered for the national "do not call" registry and tell every single one of them "put me on your do not call list." No one listens. Nomorobo.com has cut down my annoying calls to one or two a day. It's a godsend. You should make it easier to block these calls, not harder!

A family member nearly didn't answer a call because he didn't recognize the phone number and figured it was a robocall. It was a home calling to tell him his wife, daughter and pet dog were being attacked by a Pit Bull while on their walk together.

We are old and having to answer robocalls is a nuisance. We would never buy from robocalls.

Please block!!!

The abuses of calls at all times of the day, and the lack of a person when many calls are received makes the use very obnoxious. Many times, the phone remains dead for a significant duration before the recording begins. In addition, I simply don't like solicitations so the ability to block calls should be an option on all calls rather than my having to find the caller to ask them to put me on their do not call list. Many times, there is nothing but a simplistic recording and no way to opt out.

This could help.

winston-salem, nc

I think robo calls are a total invasion of my privacy. It is my right to choose to receive them or not. Nomorobo has saved me much time and aggravation. We need some help stopping robo calls. I can only block 20 at a time on AT&T. Nomorobo is doing a very good job, but they have trouble stopping them all. If I need to make a 911 call at the same time I get a robo call I have to wait until the robo ends

Steve Knight

With the sole exception of emergency notifications (so-called "reverse 911 systems"), robocalling equipment has NO LEGITIMATE USE! Therefore, manufacture, possession, sale, or use of robocalling equipment should be a felony for all but those government agencies that need to make emergency notifications for public safety purposes. However, since Congress is still shirking their duty on this matter it is up to the FCC to do their own duty by making robocall blocking technology easily accessible to all Americans and to mandate that all communication companies make the technology available to all of it's customers immediately.

Please, please, please do something effective about robocalls. They are unwelcome, intrusive, annoying, and relentless. I don't want anyone enabled to make automatic robotic calls to my phone legally. They are harnessing my phone minutes without my desire or permission. They do so without invite and against my wishes. They are not held accountable and the FCC has done NOTHING about it!

Please take control of this. Prohibit robo and other unsolicited nuisance calls. Please allow robo blocking products that we want so that we can protect ourselves from this harassment.

I work at home and robocalls are a huge distraction. I hate hearing from companies that want to sell me timeshares, computer security, other worthless things. My husband and I receive 4 and 5 uninvited robocalls every day! We have tried several ways to block these calls, like star 60 and the National Do Not Call list but these calls keep coming.....maybe because they are illegal and scams and the people operating them don't care if we are irritated! We even got a "call" from the IRS, threatening action against us if we didn't return a call. Good thing we know that the IRS doesn't contact people by phone! I have tried to sign up for nomorobo and been sent on an endless loop of helpless tries. If we can block any number of calls on our cells phones, why can't we do the same on our landlines? We're ready to quit!

Allow me to control my phone. I pay for it!

I find it appalling that I cannot block these robocalls especially the voluminous amount experienced this year during the election. I can block telemarketers, but not robocalls. Worse yet, I have to pay for them calling my number and lose valuable phone minutes.

Robocalls suck. Not only are they just plain irritating, but they're also used to initiate criminal activity and consumer fraud. You can't force companies to stop doing it because one, you're inept as a government entity and two, loopholes. What you can do is de-regulate so that better services can be offered. robocalls are totally unacceptable.please stop this intrusion to my home.

Please, PLEASE allow us/me the consumer to "BLOCK ROBO CALLS". I am sick and tired of calls touting insurance, better phone deals, political calls, etc which all begin with a short ROBO Call then asking to press a number for more (live operator) information. It's so annoying I did not even vote this year for the first time in about 40 years. If I cannot get a "live" call from a political party/ candidate rep that just shows me TOTAL unconcern for us, the voting public.

It might be easy for you to say "just hang up", yet these calls come at all times of the day and night and on any days Monday through Friday. Kind of interesting I can add call blocking on selected numbers, but not on ROBO calls!!! C'mon, as a consumer I pay for phone service and if I don't want these nuisance calls it should be MY CHOICE.

Services such as Nomorobo are essential to maintaining a nominal modicum of peace in the house while still owning a land line phone. It stops several calls a day and yet we still receive occasional calls. Without it we surely would get rid of our land line which would result in us not paying the associated telecom taxes for that line and you losing revenue. Please, please keep us consumers sanity in your minds when determining a resolution to this. We need Nomorobo!

Christopher Osswald

I paid for my phone and I pay for the use of my phone and there is no reason why I should be bombarded with these unwanted calls. Before I signed up with NoMoRobo, I was getting between 5-10 calls a day with no way to stop them. Now, I only get 1 or 2 and it is so satisfying to hear that one ring and then silence. I smile every time that happens. I will accept a legitimate call and politely decline their sales pitch, but these robocalls are just ridiculous. Not to mention a total waste of my time.

Bonnie Cook

Our phones no longer belong to us. Congress passed the Do not call law but you don't enforce it. It's a waste of time to make a complaint. These calls interrupt our meals at home and our businesses. Most of the calls are scams. This morning a man called, claiming he was from "Windows" about my computer. After I asked what part of India or Bangladesh he was from, he hung up on me. Even Rachel, the credit card caller has moved from land lines to mobile. When I respond, they never let me speak to Rachel. We are at a point that we only answer calls recognized by caller i.d. Friends and relatives who are not listed as contacts are disregarded. We are about to cancel our land line. If enough people do it, what will the phone company sell?

I strongly encourage you to do everything you can to make it easier for consumers to block robo phone calls. We were getting deluged with multiple calls every day, often from totally bogus businesses. In our case, we finally found a tool, nomorobocalls, that works to minimize the unwanted interruptions.

Consumers need more tools like this. And if more legislation is needed so that offenders can be tracked down and prosecuted, that would also be a good thing.

John Anthony

If I pay my phone bill I should have the privilege of blocking unwanted calls that I feel are harassment. Then you have an ill person in the house and you have all of these calls coming in as if no one else matters. What makes it even worse is that I would not buy anything from these irritating phone calls. Half the time you can't understand them. Our rights in this country have gone right down the drain. Congress needs to start thinking about what the American people want. Do not take this away from us.let me give you an example. We sold our timeshare 14 years ago we were constantly getting calls asking if we want to sell our condo I've told them a 1000 times we sold it.

Please support Nomorobo and other robocall blocking solutions. Despite the presence of laws restricting telemarketing in California, many companies have found ways to get around the laws and continue to call my home. Despite telling the companies to remove my number, they either ignore my request (and how am I going to protest?) or new companies emerge. Since implementing Nomorobo it has eliminated many but not all calls. I need Nomorobo to enable me to have peaceful time at home without unwanted interruptions. Thanks for your attention to this matter.

I don't even answer my phone any more because of the many sales calls I receive. I am sick and tired of getting these robocalls. Consumer Services is the worst. This company has called me several times per week for over the last two years even though I have told them to quit calling me. I have filed over 25 complaints against this company with the FTC over the past years. Cannot block their number as they just call back using probably a spoofed number. Since companies like this just ignore the Do Not Call List and the FTC does nothing about it consumers need a product that can block these types of calls

I believe that I should be able to block any calls received by "my" phones. That's land line or cell phone or thru my cable company, like Comcast. I pay for the phones; the numbers belong to me as long as I pay my bill and I should control who can call me or at least block robocalls.

Robocalls are a way for companies to intimidate and and bully senior citizens and others who may not be savvy enough to know an option exists via nomorobo calls to help them

Isn't the FCC the sponsor who awarded a company who could develop a system for blocking robo calls a prize ?

I live in Pennsylvania and we have the option of having our phone numbers blocked from robocallsand have also registered my number with the Federal site. However neither entity is as effective as nomorobo calls.

Vendors such as Verizon, AT & T et al should be required to initiate EFFECTIVE stop robo call programs for their customers and finally,,,,,,,,, local, state and federal candidates for public office should be prohibited from using robo call systems ! They are just as annoying as credit card and medic alert calls ! STOP THE INSANITY !

In the past, ROBOCALLS have been insistent, annoying and invasion of my privacy. The calls would begin at 9 am and continue until 9 pm. Since I installed NOMOROBO it has been heavenly. Only a tiny fraction of ROBOCALLS have occurred. When a ROBOCALL does get through I record the number and contact NOMOROBO with the number and that call stops. The NOMOROBO has been a blessing to me and request that the FCC allow NOMOROBO to continue research in stopping more ROBOCALLS. The "Do Not Call Registry" is a farce.

Anthony Rini
Staten Island, NY

Ninety-eight per cent of telemarketing calls are unsolicited and annoying. As the recipient of these calls, they are a complete waste of my time and the energy expended in answering the phone. Oftentimes, nobody is on the other end of the phone and I hang up while the automatic dialing mechanism is in the process of routing the answered call to a live telemarketer. Again, this is a waste of my time.

The remaining two per cent of telemarketing calls do not interest me either. Thank God for nomorobo.

I have Nomorobo now and it has made life at home so much more pleasant by catching the calls it recognizes. Just wish it could block all the annoying calls. Some of these companies are so persistent and are actually preying on older people. Everyone should have the right to block them. Thank goodness Xfinity makes it available. All companies should do the same and you can make it happen.

My home is my haven and I have the right to not be disturbed by Robocalls. If there is number on the caller id, I can block the call (but only up to 20 calls can be blocked). But, most of the caller ids show 000 000 000.

Allowing robo calls on cell phones will kill cell phones as surely as it did landlines. The intrusion of these calls, as many as 10 a day, forced me to disconnect the landline. I am so tired of telemarketers and robo callers. We need a solution and protection from these predatory marketing tactics. I work from home and these constant calls interfere with my livelihood. I have signed up for Nomorobo, which at least offers me some relief from these abusive callers. I fear even more for my elderly parents who are less able to discern between calls they need to take and the incessant telemarketers. Dennis Yates

Don't stop NOMORO.COM

Please allow blocking of robocalls to all who wish that their phone to be a private instrument meant for personal calls, not for unwanted interruptions from marketers.

Personally, I'm in a wheelchair & have trouble answering my land line. Often when I am able to answer within a few rings there is no one on the line. I wonder if some of these robocallers bill their sponsors by the number of connections completed, not the number of conversations actually made.

In any event, please be responsible for enacting legislation for the common good, & allow phone companies to eliminate robocalls.

Thank you for your consideration.

Prior to using Nomorobo, our house would get repeated phone calls... sometimes starting as early as 7:30AM and sometimes as late as 10:30PM any day of the week. I tried utilizing the Do Not Call list...which proved useless and ineffective. Now that we are registered with Nomorobo our phone can go an entire day sometimes longer with no phone calls. This is an effective consumer tool I choose to use to help keep my privacy on my terms. When it comes to receiving phone calls, I want to be the one to limit what I chose to receive. I feel empowered and supported by Nomorobo. I love having a service that is effectively helping me block unwanted calls, incessant ringing, calls that are answered with dead space as a computer connects to a recording. The FCC needs to focus and respond to the citizens of this country not the special interests of phone companies, medical alert salesmen, scam artists, and political parties.

Robocalls absolutely ****.

We are bothered CONSTANTLY every day. We just hang up on everyone.

Don't tell me that you have the right to invade my privacy. You don't!

Don't tell me that the "robocall" individuals/companies are not paying big bucks to the telephone companies to get through their systems- they are!

There needs to be a HUGE class action law suit against the telephone companies AND all the robocallers. I would sign a petition in an instant.

I am sick and tired of robocalls. I get them nearly every day. In fact, I get many more robocalls than I get private calls. These robocalls are intrusive to my life at home. They are as bad as e-mail spam, which has been successfully and, in my view, appropriately prosecuted in this country. I use NoMoRobo to block robocalls to my house and it has made such a big difference to my daily life. Why on earth can't I have the freedom to prevent a misuse of my telephone service?

Laura Cohen
Albany, NY

I do not want to receive robocalls, and want an easy way to block them. I am currently using nomorobo. Just as I have spam filter for my email, I would like a "robocall filter" for my phone.

Laureen Lightfoot
Tinton Falls, NJ

Now that I'm retired and home most of the day, I receive so many robocalls. They are very disruptive to my day. In addition, even if the robocall doesn't leave a message, my phone requires me to listen to the buzzes left on the phone by the robocall and then to delete the message.

Robocalls should not be allowed, and the phone companies must provide a way to block them.

Thank you!

I feel a victim of telemarketing calls that constantly call when we eat, sleep or any time. we rush to the phone to see marketing calls asking for my formal first name without knowing me. Not now. Nomorobo has restored my life to relative normalcy. When hit by a call, I ask to be removed from their internal call list. Works sometime. I wonder (and sometimes ask) if they actually give to the charity they are representing. They never say they do.

I'm getting way too many repeated robo calls despite requesting to be taken off their lists and the do not call list doesn't seem to be a deterrent.

Brian Benkel

I would like to block all robocalls. It's very hard for a disabled person to get up every time the phone rings to find it's a robocall. We have had some days with over 20 calls. Enough is enough.

Why can't I select a third party to monitor my telephone calls?

Aren't services like call answering, provide by Verizon and others giving them permission to do exactly that?

Preventing the consumer the ability to have a third party monitor their telephone calls would compare to banning third party, fire wall or virus protection for a PC.

The "burden of proof" is on you; you must demonstrate that that kind of a ban would benefit the general public.

Please, please allow us to block robot calls. They wake me up in the morning and keep me up at night and, they call me all day long, often not even replying to my "hello!"

If we have any right of privacy then, we should be able to block unwanted annoying telephone calls.

George Haik

With all of the associated fee's that we pay for phone usage and the cost of the phones on top of it all , someone tell me WHY I'm not allowed to control what garbage I get or the time that we get these invasive calls.

Why are the political ps exempt & charities also?

T. Knight

NO MORE ROBOCALLS!! They should not be allowed, but if you can't stop them altogether it is my right to choose whether or not I want to receive robocalls on a phone that I own and a service that I pay for. It has to be my choice. Please allow me to keep nomorobo. I was at my wits end before I was able to add this service to my phones. I have health issues and it prevents me from having to constantly get up to answer the phone when it's all robocalls.

I don't appreciate receiving robocalls on my home phone. Even though I am on the National Do Not Call list these people call at all hours of the day. I hope you do the right thing and allow phone companies to apply blocking solutions to these irritating calls.

We have registered ALL our phones with the national: "DO NOT CALL"

During election periods this becomes worse.

I am sick and tired of getting solicitation calls when I sit down to dinner, get ready for bed, or even now wake up to robo calls. As the "protector" of consumer telephone services, you have the power to change consumers' access to control over the phone service we pay for. Please take the necessary steps to give consumers the option to block robocalling. We who pay for phone service should not be assaulted in our own homes with unwanted calls that interrupt our daily lives and fill up our answering machines with nonsense.

Thank you.

Cheryl McDonald

Robocalls are a bane to our peace and quiet. They are intrusive and disturb people who want no part of whatever these people they are selling. I want to receive calls ONLY from people who I have given permission to use my phone. Please force all phone companies to give their customers the ability to block all robocalls.

Mekki Weinzierl
Reno, NV

Please teach the companies that are utilizing robocalls a lesson by providing a simple, effective solution to block these for consumers. We pay our phone bills, not these companies, so tell them that we HAVE THE RIGHT to block these bothersome phone calls. You could also just FORBID them from utilizing robocalls as these calls are counter-productive and cause consumers to AVOID the companies that utilize them! They are also incredibly annoying and intrusive and should be banned altogether.

The sheer amount of calls we were receiving before Nomorobo was ridiculous. You name it--salesmen, political calls, charitable organizations, surveys, private number, out of area, 800 service, Anonymous, Washington, D.C.,(or virtually any state in the Union), etc., etc., etc. I am sick of it! I want control over who can invade the peace and privacy of our home.

After we signed up for Nomorobo, the calls would just ring once and disconnect. MUCH BETTER. However, I noticed that this didn't get all the calls, so I went on our cable provider's website, scrolled through our calls on our phone handset and MANUALLY added those numbers to the BLOCK list. We had wonderful peace and quiet for about a week. Then slowly, but surely, the calls' frequency increased. I gave up. Now, Nomorobo still catches some of the calls, but the ones that get through, end up ring, ring, ringing all the day long. They are now starting at 8:30 AM to about 8:30 PM. We want to keep our landline, but this is absurd. I have also noticed that some of the calls have letters and numbers together, instead of just numbers in the traditional format. Also, my husband has gotten on some list on his cell phone and they call multiple times a day; never from the same number/place. We want CONTROL of robocalls and some semblance of our privacy back!

Austin, TX

Please block all robocalls coming into my phone. I have not authorized anyone to robocall me on my phone.

Spokane, WA

We receive calls almost every day from companies that got our name from somewhere. We are not interested in doing business with anyone who calls US! If we have a need, we will call them. There absolutely should be a way to block these calls!

MY phone - MY use!

MY phone - MY decision!

MY phone - MY control!

Phone companies don't want to block because they make money from robocalls. They put the blame on everyone but themselves. Penalize them by fining them three times the amount they make from robocalls, and watch how quickly they respond!

It has been so refreshing to have a home life, let alone dinner hour, free of robo calls. All consumers should have the same opportunity. Extend it to everyone.

The FCC has no right to tell me I can't authorize the phone company to block robo calls. These companies gabe no regard for anyone. I am 71 years old and have medical problems. It is very annoying when they wake me. Please let me decide if I want to block their calls

Consuela Vales

Over the last year and a half, number of robocalls I receive have exploded. I get now 10 - 15 calls a day from 8 in the morning and up to 10 PM. Most are the usual "800 services", "Credit card alert", "Consumer survey" and the like; plus new ones that multiply because they ARE NOT GET PUNISHED. I've bought new cordless phone which allows to block up to 250 numbers; but it is little help because these scammers change caller ID's and numbers at will. WHAT IS THE PROBLEM?!!! Forget false problems, like Net neutrality, look at the real problems affecting tens of millions of americans. Solution, may be not perfect, is known, it is NOMOROBO. However, my service provider, COMCAST, doesn't want to participate, and FCC is doing nothing.

I beg you to start paying real attention to this country wide problem.

Robocalls need to be blocked, consumer must have tools to block these calls as they are used by individuals for fraud, harassment, intimidation, etc., more than anything else. Any legitimate use of robocalls is out-played by these individuals, so consumers should be allowed to block each and every single robocall. Any loophole for "legitimate" robocalls will be used for unintended purposes.

My wife and I signed up for nomorobo to stop the numerous robo calls we received. the do not call list set up by the government is a farce. It has gotten to the point where I give robo callers hell over the phone. Some don't even speak understandable english.

Nomorobo should be expanded to political robo calls. Politicians are the main source of calls during the campaigning season. They should be prohibited. As senior citizens we should not have to run to the phone for some political hack trying to influence our vote. the calls are an invasion of our privacy.

Please do something to stop this madhouse phone calls. They are annoying and wasting citizens time

Before we activated Nomorobo, morning, noon and late into the night unsolicited, unwanted callers plagued us. The do not call registry didn't stop the calls. They just kept on coming. Hundreds of calls from scammers. Hundreds of calls from Rachel at card services. Calls, calls and more calls. We were so frustrated. The calls were driving us CRAZY! After we activated Nomorobo, 99.9% of the unwanted calls stopped. Nomorobo saved us from the abyss of unwanted, unsolicited calls. We are forever grateful.

When concentration counts, losing track of what you're doing interferes with productivity. And when productivity matters, nothing harms it more than interruptions. When those interruptions come in the form of robocalls that have nothing to do with one's interests or employment, it compounds the effects of lost on-the-job effectiveness.

Without the ability to block those calls, the interruptions add up, over the course of a year, to more than a man-day of effort. Multiply that by millions of workers, and the loss of output is incalculable.

Just as the government permits calls and faxes to be blocked from legitimate businesses, it should enable private enterprise (in the absence of government oversight of less-than-trustworthy companies) to provide technology to consumers that lets them block unwanted phone-based solicitations.

Robocalls are very annoying and intrusive. If I wanted to find out about products or services offered by companies, I would find out about it on my own. I don't appreciate unsolicited phone calls from salespeople or company representatives trying to solicit my business.

I think that robot phone calls are harassment and probably a form of stalking. In the last year I have gotten these calls at least eight times a day -- sometimes more. In 2014, an election year, I would get up to 5 calls a day from the same robot. They start as early as 8 a.m. and last until as late as 9:30 p.m.

Today, I have reading glasses next to each of my three phones so I can identify the unknown caller and their telephone number ahead and not answer the call. But that doesn't make it any better. Just the ringing can be annoying particularly when you are busy cooking, cleaning, entertaining, etc. As a retiree I spend more time at home than the person going to work.. And having family and friends scattered across the nation, their calls,-- sometimes an emergency -- are important to me.

My home is my castle but it is invaded by robots. This is war and even though not a man, I am willing to fight.

There needs to be some protection and/or options for consumers to be able to control the unsolicited calls that we receive 7 days a week-362 days a year---half of these "people" can barely speak/understand English and the other half , hang up when u are stupid enough to answer--which makes me wonder why they even called????-- and that so called " do not call" list really only exists on our wish list--- big joke---

Please block robocalls.

Please allow consumers to block robocalls. Technology has defeated the Do No Call list, and junk calls regularly arrive on my home number, my fax number, and my mobile numbers. I think it's ridiculous that this question should even have to be asked, NO ONE wants to receive these robocalls, they're annoying and make a complete farce out of the government's DNC registry. They also target the elderly who are often misled into believing the calls are legitimate, often costing them hundreds if not thousands of dollars. Several call blocking devices are available on the market but people should not have to pay out of their pocket to put an end to this nuisance.

Bill and Linda Dee

Without basic robocall blocking we receive 5 to 10 calls a day from robots. These solicitations are violating my sense of private and the peace of my home. Even with two levels of blocking many still get through. The law to prevent this is not slowing the onslaught down. I would prefer if this activity was illegal, but as it is not, I am adapting by using robocall blocking. Without the blocking I would remove my phone.

Fred Warren

I appreciate the blocking of calls. I do not like receiving unwanted calls, I pay the phone bill not those unwanted callers; invasion of my privacy is what I call it. I have caller ID and if I do not know the caller I let it go to voice mail and majority of the time there is no messages.

Having a home telephone shouldn't mean daily and nightly interruptions by robo-callers. Thanks to a robocall-blocking app we placed on our phone, the unwanted and distressing calls have been limited in recent months, though some still get through and drive us crazy. Please help protect our privacy by allowing such robocall-blocking products to continue their service.

Chevy Chase, Maryland

I'm now retired and receive robocalls several time a day, everyday. The FCC must allow Americans to block these calls. I receive the same calls over and over. My protestations do not register at all with the callers. And, this is despite being on the Do-Not-Call List. That list is inadequate for this problem. Unless individuals are allowed to block these calls, they will continue. Please act in the interest of the public.

There is no more electronic annoyance than the robocall. Unlike spam which can be filtered, there is nothing except a service like Nomorobo which can prevent repeated unsolicited, unwanted, intrusive phone calls for services which are unwanted, unneeded and usually fraudulent. This has all come about because the Federal Government has chosen to favor the special interests that want to continue the practice of forced marketing. The "Do not call list" is worse than a joke because it fosters expectations of competence by the Federal Government. A foolish proposition.

I need Robocall blocking products. Each day most of the phone calls I get are robocalls. I have Nomorobo installed on my phone and it does help. It is so annoying to race to the phone to answer and it is the same garbage calls over and over every day. I guess they are machines so they can keep calling. Robocalls have completely ruined the telephone system. Who wants to even answer their phone when 90% of calls are telemarketing computers violating the law and most won't even say anything until you've said HELLO 5 times and been kept waiting for 30 seconds?

STOP the calls to my house!!! At all hours of the day and night from these people/companies.

I'm on the do not call list, but I still get calls waking me up in the middle of the night on my cell phone. I keep my phone by my bed in case something happens to my sick mother and I can get to her quickly. So I can't turn it off, because I want to be there for her in case she needs me. I shouldn't have to keep switching my ringtone to prevent from being woken up. That's what the FCC doesn't understand. If I'm still getting calls when I'm on the do not call list, then shouldn't I be able to take matters in my own hands? Clearly, there are people still are not on the do not call list, let them have robo calls. I, personally only want to be woken up if there's an emergency. The people that want the technology to block the robo calls are already on the do not call list. There's no way to be removed from their lists without being made a large living target (I had my identity stolen when I tried. When I had a someone make documents taken in my name and there was never an arrest.) Please let people be able to stop the robo calls, we want to protect ourselves. The FCC should side with people that want the calls to stop, not the companies still trying to harass people that have requested it to stop.

Robocall blocking is the best thing to happen to phones in years. A large amount of calls are scam artists, and, unfortunately, there are those who fall prey to these calls. Robocall blocking is one way to block those creeps.

Robocalling is very annoying and intrusive. Consumers should have the right to block these calls. NOMOROBO has been a godsend to our family in blocking a majority of calls sent to our home. I would like to see the same type of blocking products that will also block local State calls. Boston, MA

I have been in the Veterans movement since June 6, 1968 (D Day anniversary) since I came home on a stretcher from Vietnam.

This note that I write to you today, is hoping you can help me. I'm a 100% percent disabled American veteran who was injured on my fourth tour of Vietnam. When my phone rings, I always attempt to answer it, because I also mentor younger disabled war veterans from the last two war. Nothing is harder than crawling to the phone to answer it with all of my injuries and finding out it's a computer calling me.

About 22 combat veterans from both Iraq and Afghanistan are committing suicide every day. Between the VA system that is overstretched and in my opinion broken, a phone call could be a Veterans' last call, they may be reaching out to us senior veterans in what is called mentoring.

I have personally taken guns out of the mouth of more than one veteran who sometimes will call me to just say goodbye. They are on the direct path to self destruction, the facts are clear. A phone call at my home may make the difference between life and death for todays younger veterans. Please look up the facts for yourself by asking the VA how many veterans each day are committing suicide? Just over one hour on your clock means another veteran is now gone. It's not the enemy killing our veterans, it's them taking themselves out.

Most of my calls are not from Veterans today. It's some computerized free enterprise company trying to sell me something. That alone should make the rules clear, don't call me if you're trying to sell me something! Who knows, maybe a member of your friends or family that is a veteran may call me to say goodbye one day. I don't make one dime, nor is it easy to take a loaded gun out of someone's mouth.

I work very close with veterans groups, the law enforcement community and others, that a guy named Larry Lamb a survivor of the Siege of Khe Sanh (the longest gun battle in American history) is someone you can trust and call. The do call me, and I have saved some and lost others, it's what happens in WAR.

Give the Veterans a chance please.

Love

Larry Lamb

Please continue to allow robocall blocking products. With the automated calls it is almost pointless to have a landline anymore. Without a blocking feature we are constantly bombarded by robo-calls, all hours of the day and night. It is an intrusion on a service we pay for,so therefore we shouldbe able to control it. If the consumer had their way robo-calls would be banned..nobody wants to talk to a machine and if we truly sought the business of the companies using this feature we would reach out to them... most of them are scams anyway. Let the consumer have some control please.

Enough of the unwanted solicitations!!! That includes non profits and political action committees. If I don't know you I don't want to take a phone call from you !! Please help preserve what little privacy we have left.

Please do not restrict robocall blocking products. I am 83 and it is a constant battle answering robocalls and telling the party to please stop calling me. Isn't there anything the FCC and phone companies can do to stop this disgraceful problem.

I am sick and tired of being woken up in the morning and having to answer the phone through the day because of ROBO Calls!!!!

I have joined the Nomorob call service to stop them and give me some relief.

Please let me keep this service and not have to deal with the hundred of calls that were coming in each month so I can have my time freed up to do more important things, like taking care of my family!!!!

Please do not interfere with this.

Thank you

Robo calls are a pain in the butt. Especially political we all should have the right to have these calls blocked if we choose to my answer machine is full daily and I work 3 full time jobs so when i get the chance to sleep i do NOT want to have the phone ring and bother me over something that I could less about and then you can not understand what they are saying because it is always some one from India or even worse a computer .I do not need sales people calling me for loans,or FREE money etc:if I need something I will go to the PROPER local people for the service or product.

My elderly parents are struggling to continue to live independently at home and I cannot tell you how upsetting these robo calls are for them. They have decreased hearing on top of dementia and literally loose sleep with concern. Short of taking away the phone, their life line to society and to medical health, I am at wits end on what to do next.

My time is valuable. My phone is not free (both land and cell lines are minimal accounts with per-minute charges). I should have to right to block robocalling INCLUDING POLITICAL CALLS to my numbers as they represent a real cost to me in time and funds.

We had so much trouble with robocalls we cancelled our land line phone service. Please do something to put a stop to this practice. We pay for phone service and should be able to protect ourselves from unwanted calls of all kinds.

Please allow robo call blocking. I am on the do not call list and it is a sham. Even being on the do not call list, I get at least two to three calls a day from robo calls wanting to finance my mortgage or a hundred other different scams. We would not need robo call blocking if the FCC' s do not call list was effective, but IT IS NOT.

I pay for land line phone service so I will have it in case of emergency and for security system monitoring. I think that should give me the right to decide who can call me on that line. I am tired of having my phone ring constantly from robocalls. The Do Not Call registry doesn't stop these unsolicited calls. Robocalls should be completely eliminated in my opinion. Citizens should at least be able to block them. I'd like to be able to forward them all to the FCC or legislators who won't do anything to keep our homes from being invaded by these nuisance and often scam callers.

Blocking Robocalls is essential for many of us, especially those who may be susceptible to the many scams that are out there. No important call has ever been made through a Robocall. They are merely a device for the marketing of products, services, or political candidates. Do not allow yourselves to be dictated to by the money. Please consider those of us who need it. Thank you.

Please give consumers the ability to easily block robocalls. Despite having been listed on the "do not call" registry for years, I routinely receive robocalls because modern technology makes it nearly impossible to track the companies and fine them. I pay for the use of my phone and I want the ability to block unwanted calls such as robocalls. Please force phone companies to provide an easy, free way to block robocalls. Thank you.

Susan Gilbert
Vienna, VA

We have had to tell companies that called us repeatedly that we:

- DON'T have credit card debt and don't need to consolidate
- DON'T need a home monitoring system (we already have one)
- DON'T need a new credit card

These companies change their caller ID. They change - spoof - the phone number they call from. They don't listen when asked politely not to call me anymore. They don't seem to get the idea that we neither need nor want their services / products / whatever.

The ONLY solution we had to stop them from calling was NoMoRoBo, a free and easy to use service that blocks these idiotic companies from getting through to our home and disturbing our peace.

Because my home phone service provider (Verizon) only allows 10 calls to be blocked - and I have to specify which ones to block - I have to rely on a company like NoMoRoBo to provide this valuable service.

Do NOT prevent this. This company and this type of service has to be permitted.

I am so tired of robocalls. I get them all day, every day, sometimes even after we've gone off to sleep. It's gotten to the point where I don't ever want to answer my phone. Kim Reichelt

We are paying for our telephone service, lock, stock and barrel in addition to every pass through tax and fee that the telephone/cable companies can pass on to us. That the FCC would even consider not allowing the taxpayer and consumer the RIGHT to block computerized calls is outrageous.

The public has NO lobbyists to represent its interests, as do the communications company. It is up to you to keep them in check.

Until we signed up with nomorobo.com, we had pestering computer dialed phone calls intruding on our lives. Please do not let pursuit of money by corporations abusing use of public information (our phone numbers) to continue by denying the public the right of refusal.

Jerry and Dennis Curtis
Chester, VA

In spite of signing up for the "Do Not Call" list that is supposed to make my phone number out of bounds for sales callers, we have suffered repeated "robocalls" at all hours of the day. Sometimes there is not even anyone there. It is a violation of the "Do Not Call" law, and it is extremely irritating.

I have a right to answer calls or not on my phone, and I also have a right to actually block calls from people I don't wish to communicate with. Why are these robocall people getting away with this? I use the Nomorobo system and love it. I hope the FCC can help us in eradicating this invasion of our privacy. These people are violating the law!

Kristin M. McCabe

Allowing the robocall companies to continue to shanghai our phones is nonsense. The problem continues to grow exponentially. It is time to urge the telephone conglomerates stand up for needed change. If they won't, perhaps cable and satellite phone companies will.

I am tired of having to put up with these calls. The NO CALL list does not work. They (robot callers) seem to have more power over my phone than I do. I get more robo calls then personal and business calls combined. Blocking products are used by people who want them and should have them!

Please let robocalls be blocked. It is very unpleasant receiving robocalls and having to deal with the salespersosn on the other end of the call. We have been signed up for a long time on the "Do Not Call" list but everyday we get bombarded with robocalls to our house phone. How is this even possible since we are on the "Do Not Call" list. Most of the calls are spoofed numbers and there is never a human on the other end. THANKFULLY we found Nomorobo, a free and easy service that cuts off these annoying calls. Everytime the phone rings just once we know that Nomorobo is doing it's job. Please let these types of companies continue to provide this valuable service of blocking robocalls. We'd pretty much just close out our phone service is they didn't exist, that's how bad the robocalls have gotten.

My land line phone has become a huge nuisance - I receive multiple solicitation calls every single day. I no longer answer my phone because it is so rarely a personal call for anyone in my household. The junk phone callers have figured out clever ways to manipulate the caller ID, so it is difficult to tell who is calling before answering.

Please take action to allow me to block these unwanted calls made by machines. I do not want to receive them.

Gretchen Renshaw

We used to receive on average 10 - 15 unsolicited robocalls per day, some as late as 9 or 10 pm. Since listing our phone with Nomorobo, we have been bothered much, much less by these intrusions into our privacy. We strongly urge you to continue to allow robocall blocking products to be used. Robocallers and in-person marketers have an unfair advantage over the general public; privacy and domestic peace should always be respected.

Nomorobo is the best thing that ever happened to my phone service!

We went from 3-4 annoying robo calls a day to NONE.

Everybody should have the option to make these pests go away (and the "Do Not Call" list never even slowed them down--they just ignored it).

Resa & Marty Workman
San Diego, CA

It seems that as each year passes, consumers are asked to pay more for services rendered, while in return, receiving less service, freedom, and control over the very services we are paying for. Robocalls are an intrusion upon our private, and personal communications devices against our will.

If we have rights as citizens to deny access to our private properties, such as our homes, vehicles, etc., from unauthorized visitors, why should it be any different for our privately paid for means of communications? Our phones, whether residential or mobile, are in our private homes, as well as on our person. If we have not directly solicited in a very obvious and open fashion, and not by the deceptive means that many companies use to allow third party affiliations to contact us, which most of us don't want, then we should not be contacted by these automated or live means.

I have the robocall blocking features like Nomorobo. It's the best thing that I have ever done as far as unwanted phone calls are concerned. I like having the robocall blocking products and would hate to see it discontinued.

Everyone I talk to is exasperated by these robo calls. Many have signed up for nomoro.com, but it hasn't solved the problem. not everyone can afford a Caller ID service and phone. Robo calls are one of the most annoying of the all the small annoyances of daily life. I would LOVE a way to keep them from interrupting and inconveniencing us multiple times a day every day, and I don't understand why it is not made easier to block them. Why do businesses seem to have a de facto right to harrass me over phone lines I pay for (de facto in that nothing serious seems to be done to stop them or even enforce the exisiting laws)? Please make them go away (or rather make it possible for me to make them go away).

I no longer answer the phone at my house, or any number on my cell phone that I do not recognize, because the robo calls are who is calling most of the time. I get robocalls on my home and cell numbers. They cost me time and money that could be going to more useful things, aside from the fact that they are generally just annoying. I want you to block Robocalls! For crying out loud do your jobs and represent.

I'm on the donotcall list and Nomorobo. I still get two to three calls per day.

It drives me crazy. Pressing #3, as they say, 'if you don't not want to be called" only makes them call more. I've gotten calls from the same place twice in one day. I don't want an unlisted number. The phone company should consider how many people have dropped their landlines... not because they use their cell so much but because they've had it with telemarketers. I have caller ID so I no longer answer them but my days are spent running to the phone and then my ans. machine is filled with recordings about carpet cleaners, mortgage refi, etc. All recordings so you can't pick up the phone and tell them to stop. I've spent hours reporting numbers to the DONOTCALL website, which is a complete joke, so if my tax dollars are paying for that , you can stop now. Nomorobo is a bit better in that the phone just reings once and stops... but even that is annoying.

The phone companies should provide technology to block robocalls and telemarketing calls. The amount of these unwanted calls that I get each day is a tremendous waste of time and potential danger to consumers.

The phone companies should be embarrassed that their systems let these calls go through to their customers.

Richard Law
Thousand Oaks CA

It has always been a mystery to me why the FCC does not REQUIRE the phone companies to provide customers with a service that will do one, simple thing. Rather than have CALL BLOCKING which requires me to first identify the number of the caller that I want to block, I want a service to be known as CALL PERMITTING. This new service would allow me to create a blank database of only the numbers that I WANT to get through to me to cause a ring through signal to reach my phone (both land line and cellular). If the incoming ANI data does not contain a number that I SPECIFICALLY AUTHORIZE to ring my phone, then their call is automatically BLOCKED by the phone company and my phone does NOT RING. This solves the problem of scammers from spoofing telephone numbers and stops EVERYONE from getting through unless I SPECIFICALLY put them on my pass-through list. It gets rid of CHARITIES, POLITICAL CALLS, and even BUSINESSES that I had a previous business relationship with. It also gets rid of pranksters and other imbeciles who think it is a good idea to make phony phone calls. Criminals who decide to call my phone number to determine if anyone is home before they break in will also be blocked with NO EFFORT FROM ME.

How will POLICE departments, SCHOOL systems, and any other official agencies be allowed to call me for reverse 911 calls to warn of emergency situations? That's easy. The local telephone business office would put their numbers on an EXEMPT LIST to allow them to get through at any time of the day or night.

It is about time that the FCC get off of its collective behind and do something that is of such importance to the vast majority of the American Public. I regard my phone line in the same way that I regard the front door to my house. I do not want anyone to invade my privacy in any way, manner, shape, or form unless I specifically invite them to contact me. Period. I believe that this is a First Amendment issue in that I have the right to be heard and to either hear or not hear from anyone I choose to accept or reject regardless of their motive or message.

Timothy W. Frost

I dont want robocalls!!! They are a waste of MY valuable time. I should get to decide who,OR WHAT, calls me.Not you,not some conglomerate trying to sell me something...ME. If I want to use robo blockers,that should be MY right.

Why would you not allow me to block spam robo calls to my own line? This seems so counter intuitive. The government service (donotcall.gov) is a joke that can be easily circumvented with calls routed through different nodes and the fines are a joke if they are even being imposed. Nomorobo saves us from a barrage of spam and robo calls on a regular basis, and if anything, you as a regulatory body should be helping them out, not fighting them. Free market, no?

I'm so tired of answering robo calls. I'd like to be able to opt out of getting any call that is not from an actual person on the line. It is time that we people get a chance to take back our phone lines and eliminate all unsolicited calls, especially the robo calls.

Robocalls have become a daily nightmare and I urge you to take stronger steps to eliminate them, including requiring the phone companies to offer better blocking services and also stepping up enforcement on violators. My phone rings from am to late pm with robo calls. Why can consumers do nothing to stop this annoyance? How many people are asking

You to keep this unwanted advertising? I'd venture to say NO ONE is asking you to continue allowing these calls into his or her home. Please stop this NOW! I won't put my number for fear of more robo calls.

Margaret Collett

Please stop the robocalls to cell phones. These calls are annoying and count against my minutes.
Robocall blocking would be a fantastic thing.

Brenda Persons

Robocalls are an annoying invasion of privacy and shouldn't be allowed. I want to be on a nomorobo call list to block them.

Robo calls are very disruptive to my family time and for as many times I explicitly say I want to be placed on a do not call list, they do not listen. And for good reason because there's very little I can do that does not consume my time to go after these Robo callers. You must allow consumers more tools to "combat" this unwanted invasion and disruption of my time.

Respectfully,

Telecom customers should be allowed to block calls from unwanted callers. Their calls are an invasion of privacy and an unwanted interruption. It is difficult to block all calls using telephone providers because they have limits on how many you can block. Companies should be allowed to provide call blocking services.

Judith Harrison
Mountain View, CA

I am so tired of being continuously interrupted by robocalls. This is MY house, and I feel these calls are an invasion on my peace and serenity.

WHY CAN'T WE CHOOSE TO STOP THESE CALLS? WHO GIVES OTHERS THE RIGHT TO INTERRUPT OUR LIVES SEVERAL TIMES A DAY TO GIVE US A SALES TALK ABOUT THINGS WE HAVE NO INTEREST IN?

Pat Eyre

I support blocking robocalls. I support blocking telemarketers.

If the FCC will not aggressively go after telemarketers and will not stop the endless marketing calls in violation of their rules, then the FCC should let me deal with the violators of the law using technology.

Look, either enforce the law or let me deal with it. Don't tie my hands. It's my phone. I pay for it.

Joe Farrell
Claremont, CA.

Robocalls have gotten out of hand largely, I suppose, by how easy it is to set up an automatic dialing system and pre-recorded message. We are frequently called by the same businesses more than once per week. My wife and I are grateful that Nomorobo exists. At least the majority of calls get caught by them. Congress needs to listen to their constituents and not the businesses that employ these tactics.

Many senior citizens are bothered physically when a phone rings for no important reason and they are already on the "Do Not Call" registry. Also, some of these callers are not legitimate businesses. They are sometimes scams just itching to catch someone.

Your goal should be to make it easier to block Robocalls. Think about it. These companies are not interested in obeying laws if they call people already listed on the "Do Not Call" registry.

Alan & Nancy Hyman
Warminster, PA

It's my telephone service that I pay for and it's been horribly abused by innumerable robocallers. The FCC has done next to nothing to allow me to control the telephone service that I pay for. I believe that it is the legal responsibility of the FCC to establish a simple means by which telephone service rate payers can easily control the unending assault from robocallers on our privacy and our right to peaceful tranquility in our lives. The constant barrage of these unsolicited intrusions into our daily lives must stop and it is the FCC's responsibility to provide an adequate method of protection from this abuse.

David & Rhonda Peterson

Since it is my phone, which I pay for, I should be able to block robocalls by whatever means necessary. They are an invasion of my privacy. I do not want this calls and will use any technology available to limit this intrusion. That is my right to do so.

I also think that any one - individual or company - should be REQUIRED to show their name under the Caller ID. Since this my personal number that is being called, I have the right to know who is calling me. This outweighs their "need" to hide this information.

Save us some money and end the DO NOT CALL list. It does not work anyway.

It should be MY choice whether or not I accept Robocalls. I am paying for the phone line and own the phone. I should have the right to decide whether I can block unwanted, unsolicited phone calls. It is especially important since the majority of these calls are scams and spam and spoofs trying to con people out of their money or identity or take control of their computers and hold them for ransom.

Why would anyone want us to be exposed to more opportunities for criminals to take advantage of us?

I have been using NOMOROBO for a few months now and it has transformed my life. I get at least three or four robo calls a day that are successfully intercepted. This has saved me several hours of time that was wasted before I signed up for NOMOROBO.

Eric Myrvaagnes

I am really tired of receiving Robo Calls. If I choose to not answer the calls, the companies continue to call back...sometimes as often as 3 times in a hour based on the Caller ID information I can see.

Currently, I have a feature that allows me to block Robo Calls. I want to continue to use this feature as it allows me to maintain control of the incoming calls I receive to my home.

Dennis R. Kohn
Merced, California

Robocalls and other unwanted solicitation calls have spiraled out of control. It has reached the point where we simply no longer answer our home phone. We easily receive 10 times as many unwanted junk calls as actual legitimate calls. When I tell solicitors that I am on the do not call list they laugh and have even cursed me out.

Phone companies are complicit in this onslaught and need to be forced to allow and implement any and all call blocking solutions. Phone solicitors refuse to abide by the do not call list and are never prosecuted anyway. The only answer is to provide citizens with tools to block these nuisance calls that invade our privacy on a nightly basis.

Warren Vanderslice

I cannot think of anything more annoying than to answer the phone and find that some scam telemarketer is pushing his product, service, charity, survey, political party, etc. by way of a recorded message and ignoring the do not call list. I am so unimportant to them that I'm not worth having a real person make the call, but am relegated to a recording instead. However, I don't want my number to be ignored on the do not call list either.

The FCC and the FTC have done a terrible job of managing this problem and have never put teeth into the legislation that calls for sever penalties for violating people's requested privacy and peace.

This problem needs to be solved for those of us who are sick of this practice. Not only robocalls, but all unwanted calls should be made easy to block by the phone companies of America. The technology is there to make this happen and these jerks should be stopped once and for all. My privacy and choice of how I spend my time at dinner, when sleeping, or doing other life activities should be a choice I can make and have it be effective. The do not call list has become meaningless and useless in stopping this harassment.

I only give my number to family and a few select friends. I don't want to be bothered at all hours with robo calls. In the last few months, I have been getting several a day. Please don't ignore my request because I requested to remain anonymous.

I waste hours every month, wading through needless robocalls, for every imaginable cause, that has no bearing on my family. I have filled the blocked numbers list on my phone system, I have filled the allowable blocked numbers list on my phone service, but it doesn't even come close to the number of robocalls we continue to get on our house phone and also on our cell phones. I have Nomorobo service on the house phone line, but even that fails to catch half of them. Every weekend I filter through the ones it did not catch and add them to the list of number we don't want to hear from. Clearly 99% of the calls coming through on our house phone are unnecessary and unwanted. If I had any interest in the services being sold, I could easily find firms online and contact them myself. At least then it would be firms I wanted to deal with, instead of someone I never heard of cold calling me. I do not seriously consider anyone who is cold calling. That goes also for junk mail and junk email. Our numbers have been listed on donotcall.gov for 10 years, but that doesn't seem to do any good, either. Until a solution can be developed that really addresses this trash, we need to retain the ability to block junk calls. While I do appreciate the fact that someone is potentially making their living this way, I don't want it on my dime. Robocalling is clearly out of control. It's way over time to get rid of it. Our phone line is being held hostage by these idiots!

I do not want to be bothered by computerized outgoing calls from scammers who ignore do not call lists, charities I have never contributed to, or organizations conducting fake surveys.

Of course I can simply not answered, but these calls are an annoyance at all hours of the day and evening. Let me block them!

Something must be done about Robocalls. They are an invasive persistent infuriating misuse of the phone service I pay for. The phone companies are no help. I understand that phone carriers do not want to provide consumer with programs that block robocalls. I use Nomorobo on my land line, and that program blocks many robocalls, but not all. Unfortunately, my cell phone carrier does not offer the opportunity to use the same program. I request that you institute appropriate rules with enforcement means to block robo-calls to private residences. It is presently an infringement on my privacy to have to put up with these calls. It is insufficient to allow robo calls to be transferred to private answering machines when we refuse to answer the call directly. It is now fraudagalent use of private phone services and negates my attempt to not answer the call, now I have to take separate action to remove these calls from my answering system, double jeopardy?

The issue of robocalls is getting out of hand. They typically start in the morning and go into the evening. Those robocalls should be outlawed. Companies use robocalls to break the laws and annoy subscribers of phone service. Even when a number is registered with the DO NOT CALL registry, owners of those robocalls do not obey the law. Service of nomorobo is a valuable tool to keep those robocalls at bay. The FCC should be going after those robocallers and yank their service! Many of those robocallers spoof their caller ID and returning a call to the listed number gets you nowhere.

San Diego, CA

Please take action to stop robocalls. I have used NOMOROBO for sales calls, but I still get many other types. My town uses robo calls to make important announcements and this is true of institutions who need to communicate with large numbers of people. Robocalls are a source of frustration and insecurity to everyone but especially me and others in my age group. As a newly minted retired, senior citizen I never know if that unsolicited phone call is a legitimate pain in the ass or a criminal checking to see who answers the phone or if someone is at home. I use call screening and only answer numbers I know at this point. I will use robocall blocking devices and anything else to stop unwanted calls. Please help me to keep safe, feel secure, and enjoy my peace and quite by allowing all robocall blocking products and let the phone user make the choice to use or not.

The telephone system was never intended to allow marketers unlimited access to phone users. It is a service paid by the users, for the users' convenience, and not supported by sellers who gain access without permission.

Given the situation -- anyone can dial random numbers without cost or penalty -- we users have the right and should have the ability to block unwanted intruders.

Russell Thorstenberg

Phil King

Allowing public "service" companies to generate income by allowing any and all entities to intrude upon our lives at any time via computer robocalls is very disheartening. Of course, the service companies want to make some additional very easy bucks at the expense of the general public. Why should they be allowed to diminish the quality of life of everyone and we not be allowed to block these calls? What's next? Will we have to pay the phone company money to have get them to stop torturing us with robocalls?

Before signing up with Nomorobo, we were getting multiple robocalls per day, despite the fact that they are illegal. I reported the calls to the do-not-call registry many, many times, and nothing was ever done. Since signing up for Nomorobo, my robocall volume has gone down significantly. More work needs to be done, because illegal calls still get through. But everybody should have the ability to use products like Nomorobo to block robocalls. And more work needs to be done to make these products better.

Nothing is more annoying than being in the middle of a project or watching a favorite TV show and have the phone ring. You rush to get there and find out it's a God damned telemarketer. I hate the month before elections and the medical and medicare enrollment periods at the end of each year. Because my phone rings off the hook. I have caller id so I know an unsolicited call, like "Service", "unavailable" or an 800 number. But I can't block them! The FCC needs to block this harassment. Phone companies are obviously benefiting monetarily, or they would block calls from PACs and telemarketers. I you represent the consumer, you will provide robocall blocking solutions.

Kurt J. Baney

Let us block robo calls.

They are a nuisance. I am not going to buy anything based on a robo call. Many of the services offered are scams. And an easy way to do it would be to tax the callers. That would put an end to it very quickly.

Kathy Brewer

There are only a couple of words for robocalls....vile and disgusting. Why should I be charged to get unsolicited phone calls? My current carrier does allow me to block up to 20 numbers, but there needs to be another solution, such as Nomorobo, or at the very least allow me to block as many calls as I need to. Political calls are the absolute worst and are often masked to appear that they are coming from a legitimate caller.

I am a retired senior citizen after having worked hard all of my life. At this point I want to simply relax and peacefully enjoy whatever time I have left on this earth here in my home in Florida. Instead I am constantly and incessantly annoyed by robocalls daily. On average by actual count I receive 25 to 30 weekly. I have placed my name on the

"do not call" lists to no avail, apparently they mean nothing to these callers. This is absolutely an invasion of my privacy, nothing less! The only solution to this very serious problem is a robocall blocker which I wholeheartedly endorse and would most welcome.

Nicholas Perilli
Ormond Beach, Fl.

The National Do Not Call list was great for a year or two. It is now completely ineffective. It looks from here like there is no more enforcement and that the people behind these unwanted calls are not the least bit afraid of The FCC. The unwanted callers have also learned to defeat many preventive measures and now spoof legitimate calls by faking legitimate phone numbers. It should not be legal to present false identity via electronic spoofing.

Americans would be better off if services like NoMoRobo are supported and expanded. At my home I receive from 2 to 6 unwanted calls EACH DAY that can't be blocked by the services I have now, including NoMoRobo and that provided by my phone and my phone service. These unwanted intrusions into my day need to be stopped and I support NoMoRobo's efforts to do just that.

It's time!!! (Seriously!!) to make robocall blocking solutions available and accessible to the public.

Robocalls are a source of annoyance, inconvenience, increased blood pressure, and temporary insanity. They should be outlawed. Since that's not gonna happen, I should continue to be allowed to block them. EVERYBODY should be able to block them.

I use a service called Nomorobo which has been a godsend, blocking calls nearly every day. It diverts the call after a single ring, stopping me from racing (I use that term loosely at my age) to the phone just to hear that I've just won an island vacation (as soon as I give them my credit card number for the "service charges") or can get my diabetes medications less expensively (I don't have diabetes) or can turn over my timeshare to them for such a tiny fee.

Don't touch my Nomorobo!!

Rochelle Oms
Mableton GA

One of the best services I've ever subscribed to is norobocalls.com. We receive a dozen or more robocalls every day, and it is a blessing to have them diverted from us after one ring.

Robocalls are a blight on phone service.

I pay for my telephone service. My phones are inside my house. I consider unsolicited calls an invasion of privacy. Far worse are the ubiquitous robocalls. I WANT the right to block these calls.

James & Susan Peak
Ashburn VA

Every time I get an unnecessary, unsolicited and un wanted or ocala, it costs ME. These need to be stopped before they start.

Several Months ago I logged all my calls (using caller id information) and found that approximately 82% of incoming calls registered on my home phone were unwanted calls, mostly robocalls. This is an annoying level of unwanted calls. My phone is supposed to be for MY use and benefit and I keep it mostly for emergency calls, outgoing calls to doctors and businesses and friends, and calls to my children. Not all of the unwanted incoming calls are robocalls, but a lot of them are.

Please REQUIRE that consumers be given significant levels of control on their incoming phone calls and allow (and encourage) blocking of robocalls (and other unwanted calls, if possible). Forget about putting loopholes and exemptions in for politicians, religious organizations, and charities. If I want them, I'll allow them! The exclusion system should allow for enough specifics to allow any such calls that are WANTED to be sent through and the others blocked!

Thank you for considering and protecting the consumer!

My name is Thomas Wood, and I'm 75 years old with a very bad back. Robo. calls are more than just a bother for me. They really a pain you know where. Norobo is a big help for my wife and I. IF the phone co.'s can block them WHY haven't they done so, Norobo is a new co I think. AT&T has been around for well over a hundred years, (I know because I'm an AT&T retiree) and I really don't think they WANT to block them. To much money there to block them. Please don't bow down to them on this, Thank you.

The Telephone Companies are interested in only one thing-profits. They could care less about criminals using their services to rip people off.NOMOROBO has finally given me some relief from these criminals and now the phone companies are rushing to protect these criminals to protect their profits.

NOMOROBO has made our life CONSIDERABLY more pleasant since we installed it, blocking upwards of a dozen calls EVERY DAY, featuring boiler room scum that quickly turn from a considerate caring person to someone whose language would turn your mother to stone when you reject their plea. Luckily, NOMOROBO has virtually stopped this on our home phone. Since the taxpayer funded Do Not Call List is essentially powerless, please allow this service to make our cellular phone as pest free as our home service now is. Thank you!

I sometimes get 5 calls in a day from India telling me there is a problem with my computer. Also get calls almost daily on both my cell and land line from a credit card group. Both of my numbers are on the Federal Do Not Call List. I should not have my privacy invaded this frequently!!!

Ruth Hewlett
Elkton, MD

Robo calls are driving me crazy. I get them at home and on my cellphone; at least 5 a day. Most are phony operations like getting me a free medical alert system "covered by Medicare. Medicare does not cover it. Also, calls to lower my interest rate. I have no outstanding loans and haven't and any for 40 years. Most come from cell numbers and are pure fly by night swindlers block the number and call from an other cell. Such calls should be illegal with a heavy penalty for making them.

CARL J. PELLECK

I feel robocall blocking products should be allowed for consumers. They give consumers like me the choice of having unwanted calls at all times of day and night blocked.

We as paying consumers should have the right to block any unwanted calls coming into our homes.

Garner, NC

I have a serious illness and it is very important that I rest each afternoon. I am frequently disturbed by ridiculous robocalls attempting to sell me things I don't need or want. It has become so annoying, I've actually considered discontinuing my land line.

Please make it possible to block such calls. Those who want them could still receive them but it would protect the rest of us from the tyranny of the marketeers. Thank you for your action on behalf of the American people.

I, for one, am sick and tired of being harassed by the robo calls. When I called the FCC to file a complaint, I was told they could do nothing to help me slow or stop these calls, however I could register on "nomorobo". I have been on the "do Not call" registry for years, but the FCC said that is not enforced, it is used to collect data only. Nomorobo at least protected me from these cons and stalkers.

Mona capaci
Virginia Beach, VA

Telemarketers have learned to circumvent the do not call list, and now you are considering making it difficult, if not impossible, to block unwanted calls? Allowing consumers to block robo calls is the least that should be done. We are already assaulted day and night with unsolicited interruptions.

Sheryl Lambert
Missouri City, TX

Robocalls are a scourge. Unwanted interruption is the least of the problem. They are unregulated and as such they are the source of scams that rob the elderly and naive of millions each year. Private phone users should have the option to control who has the right to their telephone. Failure to allow the option to block us a failure of the FCC mission when you bow to the will of the service providers.

the consumer should have the ability to dictate which callers have access to him/her, whether telemarketers, political callers; robocallers or otherwise. The consumer pays for his/her phone number & for use & maintenance of his/her devices. Often unwanted callers steal a consumer's limited allotment of minutes, in the case of mobile phones.

Please allow consumers the right to choose who "uses" its devices via phone calls. Allow all blocking of ALL unwanted calls to landlines or cell numbers.

Joseph & Patricia Snyder

These robocalls come in at all hours of the day and night, and are a serious invasion of privacy not to mention a conduit for illegal activity (scams). ATT allows me to block up to 20 at one time, but the numbers keep changing. It's time to put a stop to this annoyance.

Jon Rantzman
Walnut Creek, CA

We have AT&T and they allow the blockage of robocalls. Although this doesn't affect us, we fully support that other phone companies SHOULD do the same!

Customers are entitled to their privacy. Even though we have protection, the phone on occasion will ring once, then stop. The call is blocked, but often one of us begins to move towards the phone to answer it. If robocalls are allowed, we're certain those calling will continue to pester all of us, at anytime during the day.

Since a good percentage of these calls are for selling purposes, we don't need marketing 24-7 at our home! We're perfectly capable of buying merchandise as we've done for years through many different ways!

Whoever started this type of business needs to get themselves another job. People we know don't want these calls, let alone wanting to listen to an onslaught of sales pitches all day long! It's annoying and it must be stopped!

I am so happy to have my robocalled calls blocked. Instead of having to be told off by marketers all day long, I can just see if the phone rings a second time for a valid phone call from someone I want to talk to. I have robocalled starting sometimes at 6:00 AM because they call from the east and don't consider me or the three hour time difference. Pretty much from them until 9 PM I get 6-10 robocall attempts. Please make this service as easy as possible.

I have tried time and time again to put a stop to robocalling to my phones. I put my numbers on the list and they still call. They also call until almost 9 at night. I have chronic illnesses and I need all the sleep I can get and I go to bed early to make up for the time. Everytime, I am interrupted. Now I have to rely upon shutting off my ringer and caller ID to monitor my calls. I should NOT have to do this.

Before Nomorobo was enlisted to help me control the interruptions, I was so frustrated. The advertisers were constantly interrupting family meal times...even breakfast...it was so bad, I almost dropped my land line and went totally cellular. I would have too if I couldn't control such unwanted calls.

I hope the FCC will not allow these intrusions to return, but realize money talks and the persons calling have the money...the problem with money talking is that it lies...a lot. Continue to help me control what comes into my house via the phone. THANKS.

Nomorobo stops the 40 - 50 robocalls I get a month. I figure the carriers have a choice they charge us for our phone lines which are being abused by robocalls they have bypassed do not call lists. Those of us who are able and cannot get a robocall blocking service should cancel their service, find a VOIP solution that allows call filtering. If you won't support robocall blocking then you should mandate the phone lines are free as they seem to be supported by unsolicited advertising. The carriers wouldn't be fighting this if they weren't making money off of it seems like double dipping.

Greg Clardy

Please do not allow robo calls to continue. Since using Nomorobo at least 6 calls per day are blocked on my home phone number. What a pleasure as compared to prior to the initiation of Nomorobo. This not only has to be continued but must be extended to cell phone numbers as well.

This is a no-brainer! Please allow to stop robo-calls of any kind if I wish to do so. And I certainly wish. There is absolutely no gain for me to have telemarketers call me constantly, and annoy me. You HAVE THE POWER TO STOP IT. Whatever happened to the DO NOT CALL LIST?

I get at least seven and as many as 20 robocalls every day. It has reached the point that I simply don't answer the phone anymore, but only return messages. Why am I still paying for a landline? Only so that there's somewhere for such calls to go, and my real (cellular) phone doesn't get contaminated.

Please do not let the phone companies get away with this. Obviously they are getting something from the robocallers, and don't want to lose that. But don't we, the rate-paying public, deserve to be able to answer our phones?

We want robocalls blocked! It is so bad with spoofed numbers, that we have received calls allegedly from our own phone number! This is an invasion of privacy. People do not walk uninvited into our homes, so why should they be allowed to do so via phone? Supposedly the carriers have ways to do this. Or, do they make money on all the garbage calls used on their systems and do not want these calls stopped?

People, please, MAKE IT STOP!!!!!!

The "Do Not Call List" sounded like a good idea. Unfortunately, it never actually worked to any great degree. A solution to bothersome and, in many cases, illegal and fraudulent calls was discovered - NOMOROBO. I've used it for six months now and it has been a Godsend. You need to do everything you can to allow solutions like NOMOROBO to be easily used by frustrated and angry consumers. It would certainly be a breathe of fresh air if a government agency like the FCC did what was in the best interests of the average citizen rather than the best interests of a group with deep pockets.

Why shouldn't we be able to block robo calls? We shouldn't have to be bothered by these insulting and aggressive scammers. We can't even legitimately get off their call list and I'M ON THE FEDERAL DO NOT CALL LIST and I update it (and my elderly parents) each year!

I receive 5 to 10 robocalls a week on my cell phone, and there's nothing I can do. It has gotten to the point where my cell phone has a limited use because I'm reluctant to answer any calls at all. It is time for the FCC to act on this. We need to put these lawbreakers out of business by requiring cell phone companies to allow us to block such calls.

Tony Wagner

I pay good money for my residential phone service and I believe I have the right to be able to block telemarketers from my phone, to include their ROBOCALLS. I am able to selectively block up to ten phone numbers on my Verizon Digital Voice phone account, but the sneaky telemarketers will change their calling numbers when they find out they are blocked, so that I can never keep up with their barrage! I can also block them with my Panasonic cordless phone, but there is a 30 number limit and they receive a busy signal so they call back in short order. I saw a news article, two or three years ago, that the FCC was making a law barring telemarketers from using automatic calling systems, unless agreed to by the recipient, under penalty of law, but evidently Congress or the Senate, in concert with telemarketing lobbyists, have squashed that bill/law.

Please allow ROBOCALL blocking programs to be allowed!

One of the best things I ever did to my phone service was to sign up for nomorerobo. Why should outsiders have the right to invade my home with calls that I have not requested?

I have installed NoMoRobo on my landline telephone and am very satisfied with its ability to prevent most - but NOT all - junk calls from invading my privacy. I am on the "Do Not Call List" as well but still must accept some "leakers".

Why doesn't Verizon do more to eliminate junk calls?!

Dear FCC:

I believe that I have the right to tell a person or company- to stop calling me--and being able to have them stop or suffer some consequence-- I strongly believe that the FCC should take strong action to stop robocalls--not just --we will study it --since it has already been studied to death-- but take meaningful action so I am not constantly being bothered by these call even though I have on numerous times asked them to please stop. I would hope that political calls would be covered--but being a realist -that will not happen

Hal Endresen

Stop robocalls now! if you are a consumer oriented organization, you will know that the companies opposing this, only want to make money off of the poor consumer's harassment.

I also suffered abuse at the hands of a stalking husband who bought a robocall service that originated out of TN, to regularly call random women in DC, as if from my DC cell, where I used to live and still have a cell number, between the night time hours of 6 pm and 9 pm. So their caller id would just show my number, putting the area code at the back. So when these women would call me back (and not digit the extra three digits for an area code, they would get me, asking why I was calling them and harassing them). One women was a divorcee whose husband bought such a service, and she told me all about it. The pattern fit and contd for about a month. I would take notes of my Q&A whenever someone called back. I would have them read back my number. The first three digits of my cell, w/o the 202 code, was traced back to a robocaller based in TN. Or call masker, or forwarder. Internet research confirmed I was a likely target. Good luck.

Robo calling results in most calls be answered with no one on the other end. It is more than annoying, it's harassment! Each robo call to my business costs me time away from my clients. If it is legal for a business to use technology to make calls and find someone on the other end before committing a resource to try and sell them something, it should also be legal for the receivers of those calls to use technology to avoid those calls. Phone companies should offer a solution, not be part of the problem and robo calls are a problem.

Robert Hagel
Temecula, California

I spent 33 years with the Federal Aviation Administration and one of my greatest obstacles was not having the resources to provide the proper service to the American public. So although I was extremely frustrated at the inability of the FCC to prosecute and stop telemarketers whom I reported on numerous times for violating my "National Do Not Call List" requests, I understood that FCC resources are limited and I had to live with these unwanted calls. I had looked into several commercial products to block unwanted calls, but none met my needs until I found NoMoRobo. This service started at the request of the Federal government and has been a god-send. And the service in no way restricts the telemarketing industry rights at all...they are still permitted to call me, and I have the right to simply pick up the phone and hang up on them. NoMoRobo simply automates the process for me! Please do not allow the telemarketing industry to change any laws in their favor. NoMoRobo is simply an answering service that works for me for free! If they can use technology to robo dial me, I should be able to use technology to robo hang-up on them! Everyday I hear at least one incoming phone call ring once and quit and I smile.....I'm able to see what number called me on my phone's caller ID and not once did it block a call I wanted. Please allow NoMoRobo to have expanded powers to block non-profit groups and political ads at my request instead of limiting what they can do. I don't mind federal government being unable to fix every problem the public has....that's just not possible. But to enact or change rules to make or problems worse would be unconscionable! If you can't make NoMoRobo better, then please just leave it be as is. Thank You.

We have used nomorobo for a few months. It has helped tremendously to cut off those annoying automated calls. Some still get through but we have not had the scammer calls we were receiving where they threaten to deport us if we do not pay!! And they usually claim to be from the IRS.

Thank you, Nomorobo!! FCC, please listen and help people live an uninterrupted family dinner time.

Robocalls are voice spam, impacting quality of life for everyone who answers the phone. It's machine-directed noise blasted at humans, and it will continue to irritate and harass us unless we have our own automated defense. Nomorobo's a great start, but I'm sure the phone companies can come up with improvements. They'll only take action if pushed to do so, unfortunately. We need the FCC on our side to do the pushing. Please help.

I work from home and, before blocking the robocalls, I routinely received between 3-5 telemarketing or sales calls per day. Each time the phone rang, I had to stop what I was doing to check what number was calling. This was not only a complete nuisance and time waster, but it caused me to lose concentration diminishing my ability to do my job effectively. I was seriously considering turning off my home phone completely. I imagine I will do so if I lose the ability to block these nuisance calls.

Robo calls are annoying, unwanted, and many times I do not get an answer if I respond. In addition, they can become a danger to elderly people trying to hurry to answer the phone. Since there is now some way that the Caller ID shows your home number, this creates unnecessary anxiety on the person being called. Robocalls are not wanted and create more problems for those being called. Ban them!

Robo Calls are invasive and often belligerent. Many times when we asked for the caller to remove us from their list, the comment was" What are you going to do about it". Robocall removes most callers effectively and now our dinners are peaceful.

Robocalls must be stopped!

I have been registered with the government "Do Not Call Registry" list for years and have found it to be totally useless in stopping the calls. I've filed complaints against numerous callers on Registry website and nothing has changed. That service is a complete and utter joke.

Despite my efforts over the last 5 or 6 years at stopping these telemarketing idiots from calling, I still receive numerous calls on my two phone lines and my fax line everyday of the year. I received at least four or five of them just today.

The latest trend is that they are now "spoofing" my own phone number!!! When my phone rings the caller ID indicates that it my own phone calling me!

That is ridiculous! The steps currently in place by the telephone companies and the "Do Not Call Registry" are totally ineffective and do nothing to stop the calls.

I would appreciate it if you would enact rules to stop the madness! PLEASE do something to stop the madness.

Ronald J. Bennett

I insist that I be allowed to block robocalls! I pay for my phone use and you do not. If I have to give up nomorobo, I will do away with a land line all together. I am sick of this type of call coming into my home at all hours 7 days a week and with nomorobo, we finally have some peace! Until you become a middle class citizen, you will probably never understand what it feels like to be assaulted daily in your own home by these calls! Calling while you have dinner, calling while you are sleeping, calling while you are trying to recover from illness.It is madding!

I want to have the freedom to block callers that I have no interest in talking to. I block them with my iPhone, they just get another number and try again the next day. I am a doctor, when someone needs to reach me, I want to pick up the phone and know its not someone trying to sell me something, wasting my time when I could be helping someone who actually needs my time. I remember once stressing out because I received a voicemail from my emergency line that routes to my phone, only to find it was another telemarketer! Come on! It interferes with EMERGENCIES!!

Robocalls are an invasion of our privacy and are disruptive to our home life. Lately, when we politely attempt to ask to be placed on the organization's "do not call" list, the caller abruptly hangs up. We feel like prisoners in our own home: the phone rings, we don't answer because callerid lets us know it's not a party we'd like to speak with! Please give us the ability to block robocalls.

Let us have the same ability for cell phones, too. Why should I pay for a call that I don't want to receive?

Please block robocalls. They are incredibly annoying

Hanoch McCarty
Galt CA

Automated calls have been a HUGE annoyance for me. I recently had a very unpleasant experience with a company offering a credit repair service.

This was a robocall recording that gave no option to be removed. Would call between 6 and 8 times a day and never allowed us to speak to a representative. These calls had to be manually blocked using a very cumbersome method suggested by the phone company.

After blocking, we would receive calls from the same company under a different caller ID number. Each time we blocked one number, they would call the next day using a different number. Eventually, they began spoofing the caller ID info in such a way that it could not be blocked at all.

Even our phone company could not suggest a reasonable fix other than to change our number. I'm sorry, but this is NOT an option. I should not have to turn my life upside down because the phone company refuses to provide a secure service for its customers.

Please consider a policy that will allow phone companies to block autodialers and robocalls. There are laws against Spam emails. Why is there no law against this intrusion?

I am sick and tired of being harassed inside my own home. In addition to holding down a rather intense job, I run a music teaching business in my home. Before I signed up for Nomorobo, I was strongly considering doing away with my landline because not only was it shattering my very limited downtime during dinner, it was compromising my teaching. Especially during election cycles, I was getting up to 15 calls per day. Turning off my ringer didn't help, as my answering machine beeps incessantly once it records a call. Nomorobo has solved the problem for me. How can it be legal for robocallers to hijack a service for which I am paying in this way, especially when I have been on the national do not call list for as long as it has existed, and have specifically asked these companies to take me off their calling lists? Violations of the do not call list ought to be prosecuted, and I ought to be able to determine whether or not I wish to receive political calls. Since this is not the case, PLEASE do not remove the only recourse left for consumers to block robocalls.

Brenda Wristen
Lincoln, Nebraska

Even after activating the no-call list we get numerous robocalls, sometimes several in a day. It is intrusive and maddening. I decide who can come into my home, but these people invade our home whenever they please. Please make this practice illegal.

We get unauthorized calls on a daily basis. So, the phone companies do not do a good job of blocking robo calls. So, the FCC needs to allow us to do this (or force the phone companies to do as good a job as we can). Please force the phone companies to allow robocall blocking solutions to us - the consumer!

I get several robo calls every day. It's EXTREMELY annoying! It's MY phone...I want a product , or a service that I can use to block these fools. The calls eat up my answering machine and worse yet, wake me at all hours when I'm trying to sleep! SOMETHING needs to be done! Thanks.

Allow people to block robo calls and plain annoying calls. That shouldn't be allowed , it's harassment.

Please do something about the robo calls we keep getting. They always come at the most inconvenient times and are NEVER welcomed. Something also needs to be done about all of the scam calls that we get. I have gotten as many as 5 in one day! They keep calling back with different caller ID's, but the same scam. Our senior citizens are in great danger from these predators.

I have NEVER changed my mind or voted for someone because of a robo call!

My phone line has been "spoofed" by telemarketers. They use my phone number and there is nothing I can do about it. My phone rings and the caller ID says it is me on the line! Comcast tells me they are working on it but that has been 6 months now. I reported it to the police and they are clue less as to what to do about it.

Get these robocallers out of my life! They call several times a day - and ALWAYS - at dinner time. People who want to give me free vacation (right!) or sell me something, insurance, charities looking for contributions (even the ones that I contribute to....), anything. I don't need any of them and yet they persist in calling me even I have told them not to call.

Please stop these people intruding on my privacy!

We receive no less than 4-5 robocalls/day. I have even blocked these unwanted phone #'s on my phone providers website where I now have 30 #'s listed. However, we continue to receive these annoying calls at all hours of the day and as late as 9 pm in the evening. This borders on harassment!!!!

I was getting anywhere between 10 and 25 robocalls on any given day before I got nomorobo. How annoying do you think it is to get that many calls every day that you don't want, trying to sell you something that you don't need or want. It seemed like we spent the whole day answering the phone, just to listen to a sales pitch for something useless, and when we said no thanks, we were usually met with more pitches, or just plain rudeness from the caller. I think robocalls of all types should be outlawed! They are nothing but a nuisance, and they disturb the peaceful atmosphere in my home. Nomorobo is the best thing I've done to my phone service. Hands down!

Let me have some peace. I've been on the "Do not call" list for quite some time, but It doesn't work, and the FCC doesn't have the funds (or, perhaps, the will) to enforce it.

I think robocalls should be stopped. What is the point of having a do not call list but allowing robocalls. I have used nomorobo for years and the only drawback is that the phone still rings in your home (only once) but still annoying early on a weekend day.

Unless the FCC is going to reduce the charges or actually pay my phone bill, I do not believe they should have any control on what calls I choose to receive in my home.

I totally support the ability, as a consumer that relies upon the telephone system, TO HAVE A TELEPHONE SERVICE FEATURE THAT WILL ALLOW ME TO BLOCK ROBOCALLS. I receive about four to five calls a day from these robocall services. (Three to four times more during State and local government elections.) The callers use high pressure tactics to get me to purchase numerous services THAT I DON'T WANT OR NEED. My mother got caught in this web of deceit and paid over $2,500 for stuff she didn't need on an annual income of $28,000. Do your job and give the consumer the ability to block robocalls through our telephone service provider. As the individual reading this e mail, I am sure that you receive these calls as well so you know how irritating they are.

Stanley E. Ellison, Jr

About phone stalkers that harass the civilian population: We used to get hundreds of robocalls and recorded messages per week with the 'push one to talk' or 'push another number to stop these calls', the latter causing even more of the annoying calls. Some of the phone calls are from V numbers overseas, from different countries, etc. Some of these phone stalkers actually used our own home phone number to call us ! How do these PHONE STALKERS get away with that sh*t ? ! Finally I said I'M NOT TAKING THIS STALKING ABUSE ANYMORE ! I decided to aggressively defend our phone line, and regularly phone the FTC at 1-888-382-1222 to complain about phone stalkers almost every day. This aggressive defensive approach has worked somewhat, only the stalkers continue to call in spite of the fact that we are on the DO NOT CALL list. HELP US PROTECT OUR PHONES ! ! ! ! HELP ! ! ! ! HELP ! ! ! !

I do not write as eloquently as I would like, do in plain terms... I loath robo calls and love any way to eliminate or reduce them. The National Do Not Call List does not work. Services such as Nomorobo do work. I'm sure there are other such services, but this is the one I chose to sign up with. That said, there still are at least a dozen calls that get through each week. Each counts toward my limited call count. I wouldn't mind marketing calls so much if there was a real live person on the other end.

As a senior citizen and a veteran I will tell you that most of the scams that target us come in the form a robocalls. These uninvited guests who attempt to gain access to our life savings through the telephone are not just an annoyance, to a senior citizen who is losing mental capacity because of age, they add to confusion and can potentially invite criminal activity. My robocall blocking service stops over 20 calls per week and my phone number is on both the Florida and Federal do not call list. This is my phone. I paid for the hardware, I pay for the service. I need to have a home phone for safety and security purposes. I should have the right to have robocall blocking services if I wish.

Between my home phone (number through my cable company) and my cell phone, I receive numerous robocall's at all times of the day from early morning to bedtime 7 days a week. It is very annoying and disruptive. Please give us a way to block these calls easily, effectively and efficiently!! Enough is enough. I've asked callers to take my name off their list politely and sometimes rudely and they just talk over me no matter what I do. Again, enough is enough. Dennis Diehl

Robocalls abuse the purpose of the telephone as a subscriber intends it. We who pay to have a phone number do so to be accessible to PEOPLE who wish to contact us - nobody with a phone intends it for use by machines. Since many robocalls originate from foreign countries, and use spoofing techniques, US laws against such abuse are unenforcable. Therefore the only recourse we have as phone subscribers is technology to limit who can get through.

Hi,

I use Nomorobo and it is a great service. Please allow me to block robo calls on all my phones. Robocalls are intrusive and a complete waste of time. They are a contributor to noise pollution at our home when we try to spend quality time together. Does someone really think we want to receive an unsolicited call that is for the most part a direct violation of my right to own a phone and choose who calls me? If I didn't ask them to call me about their product, service, or political campaign then what makes them think I will actually listen. Specifically recorded robocalls!! Really? I am going to sit and listen to a politician tell me why I should vote for them...on the freaking phone? That has got to stop. It is lazy and irresponsible for the politician and the FCC to think that it is OK to do that! Please stop.

They are like a swarm of midges flying in your face, interrupting meals, work, sleep when I'll etc. Even with robocall blocking programs AND the Do Not Call program AND using Caller ID these pestiferous nuisances plague our calls. I do not know about you, but I am tired of robo-calls. Do you remember Rachael, who tried to sell a product through a robot and harassed callers? I do, and finally I got tired of robo-calls between political and sales. Even today, many of them spam me still using non-affiliated numbers. All robo-calls should be block-able, not just a few.

I can tell you this, if you deny the right to use services or grant expansion of phone companies to block robo-calls, I will use any lobbying arm to pass new legislation to override your rule by statute.

I am tired of telemarketers calling numerous times a day. No matter how many times I ask to be taken off their list...the calls persist. As many as 15 to 20 calls per day. Since using robot all blocking, I no longer feel harrassed, have mealtimes interrupted and life is much less stressful. I see no valid reason to not have control over who calls my home. Do not take away my rights.

houston texas

I understand that you may be considering prohibiting the use of services such as Nomorobo to block robocalls. Robocalls have become an incredible intrusion and nuisance into my everyday life and the only relief I have found is activation of Nomorobo. Call blocking alone is not sufficient because of limitations on the number of phone numbers that can be blocked and the ability of those making robocalls to constantly change the numbers from which they make such calls. Instead of limiting or prohibiting blocking services, you should be expanding access and instituting rules that impose more restrictions on the ability to make robocalls. There is no reason why a person suffering assault should be deprived of the ability to choose to block these types of calls.

Please do the right thing and protect my right to reject robocall assaults.

These robocalls are intrusive,relentless, numerous and disruptive to our household. Nomorobo gives some relief and blocking products would be most welcome in presenting a choice to be rid of these noxious pests.

I had been getting more annoying calls then ever. At least nomprerobo blocks most nuisance calls. Its the only thing that works.

I tried to get robo call blocking but my particular phone service does not provide it (Verizon, land copper line) unless I switch to Fios. I do not want to do that now because I will be moving in a few months to a location that does not provide Fios service. So I am stuck forever with constant, and I do mean constant, Robo calls. Several of them call me twice a day, every day and that includes weekends. I normally get between 6 and 12 such calls every day. The fact that I am on the so called "do not call" list doesn't matter in the least as the vendors know this law is not being enforced. Please start protecting the people rather than the companies that are already breaking the law. Please put a stop to the Robo calls and force phone companies to provide blocking services.

Rose Arnold
Silver Spring, MD

Eband nomotobo, the service is wonderful, my spam calls have fallen from about a dozen per week to just a couple per week.

I would love to sign up for Nomorobo as I am fed up with the continual, annoying, disruptive calls from marketing creeps using my phone to intrude on my life. The do not call registry is a joke -- everyone ignores it. Verizon only allows Nomorobo if you have a mobile phone. If you have only a land line, like many older people my age, Verizon wants to deny you services to force you pay outrageous fees for mobile technology you don't need in order to get access to reasonable services. I need a phone for safety, and I don't feel that I should have to pay excess fees to prevent others from using it to harass me. Please, please help senior citizens, among others with land lines, to get access to Nomorobo so we can have some peace in our lives!

Robocalls are a terrible intrusion in life. They're mostly pre-recorded and selling something we don't want or need. They come repeatedly at all hours of the day and evening. They're disruptive. What's worse, we've been on the Do Not Call list for years and all these robocalls purposely violate the list.

NoMoRobo.com has finally given us some peace from the incessant robo calls that came to our home. We are on the DoNotCall.gov for our home phone call and that does nothing!! We still were getting the calls for Medical Alert, etc. When we signed up for Nomorobo.com, these type of calls stopped. The crooks and those off-shore don't pay any attention to the DoNotCall List! Marlborough MA

I find it very disturbing to have the phone ring so many times a day with telemarketing calls and totally ridiculous to answer only to have nobody on the line or get a prerecorded message. Asking to opt out is usually impossible because there is no one to speak with and when you call the number back you find that the phone number does not exist. I take care of my 89 year old father...its difficult for him to get to the phone to answer it just to find that it is robocall or or unsolicited telemarker. The phone company will only block 25 numbers and our phone will block 30 numbers. (My mobile phone will block unlimited numbers, so why can't the phone company?). We are registered with the "do not call" list, but that hasn't stopped the calls from coming in. In fact, we are getting more calls than ever. The simplest solution that I see at this time is to force the phone providers to allow unlimited call blocking and to a provide service to reroute robo calls from calling through.

Please block robocalls. I get calls from international numbers, internet numbers that are not traceable, and now my own number. Many of the numbers are from area codes in the states. When I register consumer complaints with those states the attorney general's staff in those states inform me that those numbers are computer generated and not traceable. If this problem is not addressed on the national level the states will continue to be overwhelmed. Please give us the tools to block these all of these calls.

Please do whatever is necessary to BLOCK robo calls. These organizations call at all hours and disturb my peace at home. It is a true invasion of my privacy. Rachel from "Card Holder Services" has been calling my home 3-7 times a week for 5 1/2 YEARS. I have been on the do not call list the entire time. I have reported the problem to the FTC and the FCC. Amazingly they have both claimed they cannot make the man who owns the company stop. They actually know who he is and where he lives (California). There are millions of TAXPAYERS who are being tortured by this man and other companies. And the phone company profits and Congress gets stroked. Google "Rachel from card holder services".

Gaithersburg, Md

"Robocalls" on mobile phones have been repeatedly linked to predatory behavior aimed at deceiving citizens at best, and intimidating and stealing vital personal and financial information at worst. The greater and not far-removed impact of the government acting passively in response to this widespread practice destabilizes consumer faith. The communications industry has increased its revenues by taking advantage of the government's passivity in responding to this completely remediable consumer threat. Please find a way to unhinge from your participation in this unfair and illegal practice and allow a way for consumers to avoid this without having to pay a fee.

I'm fed up with running to the phone and to find upon answering, it's a wonderful robocall. It's my private phone, I pay for it and expect it to be used for legitimate calls by people I've given the number to for personal or business matters. There is no logical reason for blocking products not to be available to the public. It's especially frustrating when we have to wait for someone on the other end to decide to speak. We have to wait for someone to tell us something we don't want to hear in the first place.

Tim Human

The existing FTC's Do Not Call list is nearly worthless. It is routinely ignored and requires the victim to get information which, when asked for, results in the pest caller hanging up.

Worse, most pest calls are usually robocalls, almost always with a recording on the calling end. Eventually, if you last through the recording, a live person will try to sell you something.

These robocalls are an outrage. If it is not possible to effectively outlaw them, for whatever reason, robocall blocking services or devices should be routinely available, and all phone carriers should be required to inform subscribers of their availability. Better yet, all phone carriers should be required to provide a robocall blocking service upon request by the subscriber. This is the most effective way to free us from the plague of robocalls.

Kim Boriskin

The "Do Not Call" registry was the government's answer to loud complaints regarding annoying robotic phone calls. It was filled with loopholes and didn't work. The FTC awarded a prize to the best solution to annoying robo calls and Nomorobo.com was the winner. It worked, proving that private industry, given incentive and left to its own devices, can easily solve the problem. Now, the FCC, li$tening to Big Telecom, proposes to do away with this choice. SHAME ON YOU!!! I don't want solicitations on my phone. Period! And I want a government representative of the people, not one that is a shill for corporate greed.

Keep the blocking legal....the lack of privacy is horrendous.

I was getting five or six robocalls a day before I subscribed to nomorobo. A lot of them were the same thing - targeting senior citizens and others having to do with credit card interest rates. Over and over, the same calls from the same companies. There was no way to tell them to take you off their list, because it was impossible to speak to a person. My options were to pay an extra fee to my phone company to block the call or to use Nomorobo (free). Since I started using nomorobo, the calls have ceased to be a problem. My phone still rings four or five times a day and stops after one ring - which is the way Nomorobo intercepts the call.

I can't think of any good reason why I shouldn't be able to use this on my phone. Of course the phone companies oppose it - it cuts into the fee they charge for blocking calls!

I can't see much of a difference between using this and listing your phone number on "Do Not Call" list.

Elizabeth Dean

I urge you to expand, not eliminate the ethnology for blocking telemarketing calls. The "do not call" is completely ineffective, and now it's time to give those of us with landlines the freedom from unwanted calls that we deserve.

This is cruel and unusual punishment. At least if I had the opportunity to talk back, but these robots are not talkative at all.

I don't think this robotic treatment of our fellow citizens falls under the glorious Judeo-Christian method. If you agree with this premise, could you stop the robots?

Much obliged,

It's my phone, please make it easier for me to block annoying robocalls.

Robo calls and all unsolicited sales call serve no useful purpose. First, there is so much scamming going on you can't tell the legitimate calls from the illegitimate ones . Second, due to the amount of calls my wife and I personally stopped answering all calls unless we know who is calling.

Please, everyone we know feels the same way that they are very annoyed by these calls. Please do something to stop these annoyances.

Absolutely we need and want solutions to block robocalls! I am sick and tired of being woken up by robocalls (I work shifts, so often sleep during the day). I receive several every day! It's gotten to the point where I just turn the ringer off on my home phone (which I maintain mostly for emergencies). I am at the point where I may just have to discontinue landline service entirely.

Please help to stop robocalls. Each phone company should have a provision to block these calls if the customer wants it. I do not mind paying extra for this service. Elderly people need this, as they are duped by these sales calls and sometimes lose their life savings or are tricked into giving a credit card number and their credit is hacked. Please help us

Robocalls are a real pain in the you know what. They interrupt me throughout the day. I have to let my answering machine log the call but there will not be any messages. So I just let the phone ring and if there are any of my friends calling, then I return there calls. Everyone should have robocall blocking. The phone rings once and that is it.

I am tired of all these robodialer calls! There are days when the calls are very frequent.

Because I have VOIP calling via Verizon FIOS, we were able to enable NOMOROBO. It is wonderful. I love having those calls blocked (and seeing who was calling, at least the number, on caller ID). I would love to have this on my cell phones, and I support having it available for people who don't have VOIP.

As a retired person I was inundated with robocalls. My son alerted me to robocalls blocking systems and I employed one of them. It has really worked to cut back on unwanted calls. Almost none of the robocalls I received used my answering machine to leave messages, so it was clear they did not have an important message for me. I support robocall blocking companies and systems. I don't want to be hounded as I have been increasingly in recent years via robo systems. I really desire to have a robocall blocking system and request that you permit them to service those who desire them.

We are retired and would like to spend one day in peace without 5 robo calls per day. Please do something to block these unwanted and unsolicited calls. We pay for a "private" line, we are not a public phone booth. Therefore we should be able to have only the calls we want. Thank you

Thank you for taking this issue seriously. Unwanted phone calls at all hours by machines is wrong. I now turn off the ringers on both my home and cell phones so I can sleep undisturbed. The only way my family can reach me in an emergency is to knock on my door between 8pm and 4am. That is a sad thing.

I pay extra every month for caller ID so I don't have to be bothered with the telemarketers and robots during my waking hours.

I have been on the no call list since it became available but the list is just a waist of time and money. It stops no one.

Robocallers ignore the Do Not Call registry rules. I have a right to privacy and if I don't want these jerks to interrupt me I should be able to block them. They have every right to advertise their products and services, so let the energy companies, sub-prime lenders and scam artists BUY advertising in magazines, radio and TV like anyone else who wants to sell. Most of these robocallers are crooks in the first place. Put them out of business.

The heck with the big phone companies who want to block my rights. Shame on them. We consumers need companies like NoMoRobo because the State and Federal programs are totally ineffective against robo calls. We are in our eighties and are subjected to constant harassment by robo callers.

We should have access to technology on our side to help protect us from the ABUSE of technology by these robocallers.

I get multiple calls daily on both my home phone and cell phone...many times from the same companies.

And if you hang up, they continue to tie up your line until their side is done.

Please help us by allowing us to have access to the tools needed to opt out from these types of calls.

I do not appreciate multiple robocalls daily. I get them from politicians and charities as well as from people selling things. This must stop. Please help me. I do not appreciate being harassed and threatened day and night. These solicitors are rude. I should be able to choose who calls me and I should not be afraid to answer my phone, as I am able to choose when to answer my front door at my home. Please stop the constant telephone ringing. It is driving me crazy! Thank you.

My cell phone minutes belong to ME. They are NOT there for some robocall Spammer to steal from my be intruding on MY service. It shouldn't take rocket science to remove this problem and Block ALL robocalls - except those I've specifically authorized (alerts from my electric company when there's bad weather expected, because I use life-saving electrical devices). While my last phone had a feature that allowed me to block a specific number, my UPGRADE to a so-called smart phone doesn't have that feature - plus the Spammers are continually changing their displayed/transmitted numbers. Threaten to shut down their business altogether and perhaps we can have some progress BUT please fund/find the technology to make blocking a required part of cell phone plans And to develop a better means of blocking these unwelcome, uninvited intrusions and theft of services for which we, the owners of cell phones, pay.

I hate these robo calls. I have collected and placed on my personal

'Do not answer' list over 370 numbers. They call over and over.

Scams for 'free' cruises, loan money, steam carpets, donations to all sorts of fake organizations, steal your credit card numbers,steal your bank account numbers, take over your computer..... on and on.

If you answer they will know it is a good number and they will call two or three times a day.

They are scum and must be blocked since the 'Do not call' registry is useless.

Robocalls are in invasion of an individual's right to privacy and freedom from the intrusion of unwanted and unsolicited phone calls. Calls which are often made by unscrupulous and unethical representatives or are scams altogether. The fact is the "Do Not Call List" is not enforced and is essentially a farce. Lacking any other means, it is therefore incumbent upon individuals to find ways to block the intrusion and stop the calls. If the FCC can't provide the means to stop them, then it should support the availability of call blocking products.

I feel is without question my right to have a service which blocks robocalls. I cannot fathom a convincing argument, based on individual rights rather than corporate monies, which would deny this.

The situation has gotten really out of hand.....Not only does it potentially cost consumers for the "opportunity" to listen to a sales pitch, but the situation becomes concerning privacy-wise! Haven't we been through this scenario before? Listen to us this time, we are the public!

The Robocall service has given us much needed relief from all the bothersome callers who have no right to invade our lives and intrude on our personal phone services that we pay large bills to have so we can connect to people. This is our right to have our communication lines for our own use and not for the use of these hackers that obtain our information and personal habits. It is ridiculous that no one has stepped in: I get several of these calls a day, some of them come through my caller id with my own number on them, so they must be quite sophisticated and criminal. Since using the robocall service, I have enjoyed silence again from these callers and it is just about perfect. It should be used and monitored by anyone who sells phone service.

Nancy Vosnak

Those calls which come in continually from "Customer Svc.", (to name just one) are very frustrating and bothersome, especially when a person has difficulty getting out of a chair and has pain when walking to the phone. If one says "not interested, and please don't call again", they pay no attention and will continue to call. Please put a stop to these kinds of calls.

Spring Lake, MI.

I'm so tired of calls to my home all through the day and evening that I did not want. I have calls blocked by the do not call registry but these people have found a way around that with robocalls.

Danville CA

Robo calls are an invasion of my private time. I should be able to stop calls that I do not want and do not want to repeat hello over and over for an automated machine to connect me with a person who has interrupted my privacy! I find this annoying and unnecessary. If I call and annoy people, the person can put a trap on my line and report me to law enforcement. I want the freedom to stop calls I don't wish to receive in MY home, on MY phone, which I pay AT&T to use. I do not owe it to any solicitor to answer the phone. Just as I have the right to not answer my door when an unwanted person knocks!

I am frankly appalled at the volume of robocalls. I find them intrusive, certainly unwanted, and a violation of my privacy. Robocalls are the worst thing EVER, especially from politicians who don't have to abide by the no-call list. Nomorobo has saved my sanity by blocking up to 10 calls a day! Please, please, please allow the general public to have these applications... or ban calls to those on the no-call list.

I love my robocall blocking.. saves me alot of frustration of having so many unwanted calls. I just want til my second ring then I am usually ok knowing it's not a solicitArion call... please do t take away my right to stop these calls...

I get a number of unwanted 800 calls daily. My daughter in Mountain View Ca is able to block them after 1 ring. Why can't I do the same with my Comcast home phone or AT&T cell phone?

Ben Kuiken
Bellingham, Washington

Prior to implementing a robocall blocking service we received an average of 18 robocalls per day over 6 months on two phone lines. That's 36 calls per day to look at with caller ID to determine if they are calls we want or need to answer. 432 calls per year to sift through and most of them during the dinner and evening hours.

We actually had to upgrade our phone services to a service that could accommodate the robocall blocking service that we now use. We now get only a call or two a week that is other than a legitimate call. And these are calls dialed by a person, not robocalls dialed by predictive dialer software.

Why should I have to pay for upgraded service to have the ability to block robocalls with a service that I had to research and install? My guess is that the phone company is making too much revenue from selling services to known robocall organizations and is reluctant to stop or provide call blocking for fear of revenue loss. It is called greed!

Please support and encourage call blocking on both landline and mobile phones. The unending solicitations at all times of day and night are beyond intrusive. Responding to phone solicitations is unsafe and subjects uninformed and/or otherwise trusting individuals to serious loss of privacy and resources. There can be no sensible argument against giving individuals the right to accept or reject unwanted calls. Moreover, in the immediate aftermath of today's terrorist events in Paris, and other such recent events in Canada, Australia and, 9/11 New York, it is not an over-reaction to fear that malicious wrongdoers will somehow use telephone communication as yet another weapon in their arsenal of destructive strategies. Please, please, please support and encourage call blocking on both landline and mobile phones.

I do not want robocalls. They ignore the FCC rule on not to call if you are on the no call list. We need a way to block these calls. A lot are coming from overseas. Lots of them tell me I have a problem with my PC.

As a Senior Citizen I am constantly barraged by scam robo calls.

Most are trying to pry confidential information , i.e credit card numbers, social sec. numbers, banking info. Many of my peers have been conned by giving this sort of information, only to have it used in identity and credit card theft.

Most originate outside the U.S., and prey on our citizens.

Why should I have to be swamped with everyone calling me for something I do not want or need? This is not a service - it is an invasion of my privacy. Most of these calls come in around dinner time. I strongly believe there should be a free service to block all calls that I wish to block.

The federal government cannot handle this huge problem of Robo calls. Go on the Internet and see just how angry people truly are. I am glad I found out about NoMoRobo because they solved a problem.

There are many many people that fall for the cons that these people give. It is very sad when people are cheated out of their hard earned money, not to mention the inconvenience of answering telephone calls with no one there.

I only wish the federal government can stop that outfit from India that call claiming to be from Windows or other companies saying that they have detected a virus on my computer. I laughed at them but they got an older friend of mine and tricked her into paying them money to clean up her computer after they installed the virus to begin with. Thank goodness NoMoRobo takes all those calls for me.

When a company calls me with a fraudulent phone number appearing on my telephone screen, I just add it to my list for NoMoRobo to take. Who would want to do business with a company that?

The do not call list no longer works. When I moved a year ago and got a new phone number I started receiving sales and robo calls within hours of the phone being activated. When you research the numbers that call on the internet they are listed as marketing and sales that do not honor do not call. I even received a robo call from my own phone number one day. These calls are annoying and if you answer to try to get removed from the list you get more frequent calls. I believe these calls are someone trying to get money from me so I don't answer. When you pay for a call you have the right to refuse. Also if your number is unlisted then only those you want to have it; have it. To call every number is an abuse of your privacy. Not to mention they are unwanted scam artists preying on the uninformed to get information on your identity. I would never deal with someone who doesn't want to be identified or fake their own identity. If you call the number back you can't reach them, number is invalid, mailbox full, not accepting calls or the number is spoofed(not their real number). Most show a cell phone number and no name or address is available, then they change the number each month. Some just call and let ring once and hang up, you don't even get a chance to answer. Then within a minute they recall and hang up. Also they hang up when you answer. Anyone with a brain know not to deal with them but some idiots are out there. How can anyone think this is on the level but they continue to call. I have been on the DNC registry for 14 years and still I get calls all the time. Some say the DNC is worse than not being on it. They claim less calls when they removed the number. WHY these slimeballs are still in play is a pure case of the FCC not doing their job to stop them. No way can they make honest calls without identifying themselves correctly with a real, actual address and name. Credit card services is not a real name. I get a lot of these wanting to reduce my interest payments but never tell me where they are; TX, VA, etc are all I can get out of them. When I ask for a return number so I can call them back if we get disconnected they hang up fast! Even if I try to get an actual address all I hear is a click! They have to be stopped before someone stops them permanently due to frustration.

We need to be able to at least block Robocalls. The "Do Not Call" list is not working. It's not being enforced. The salespeople laugh at me when I ask them to take me off their list. I was finally forced to purchase an expensive call blocking device for our home land line after years of receiving annoying robocalls. I have signed up on the National Do Not Call registry on several occasions over the years with little to no success.. My wife and I are both retired senior citizens with major health problems and were were constantly bombarded from early morning to late evening hours with these robocalls. We could not rest peacefully due to the invasion of our privacy from these incessant telemarketers. If the FCC can't stop these purveyors of havoc on people's lives, then they should at least let us purchase any device or means at our disposal and cost to attain some semblance of peace and quiet from these vermin. P.S., the call blocker does work and our lives have been much more livable since its installation. The robocalls still attempt to call but the call blocker prevents the phone from ringing and disturbing our peace.

JK Sherrod

The incredibly annoying and deceptive use of "robocalling" has taken the scourge of telemarketing to new lows. Now they can spoof the caller id so you can't tell who is calling you at dinner time. I don't need to lower my credit card rate! Just for fun I sat through a sequence of representatives just to see what the catch was. At the very end you find out it only costs $650 to have them TRY to lower your interest rate. What a scam. I do tell the people that call saying they are from the IRS that my name is Slartybartfast but you don't get a chance to do that with robo calls. Just the #@%& interruption

I'm also dealing with a parent close to death with Alzheimer's. I can't ignore calls, since it could be a doctor or hospital or someone else calling with critical news.

I appreciate the blocking of robocalls immensely. Marketing of this type is an intrusion and I bless the cut off of the ringtone after one ring.

Robo calls are a rude interruption of our lives, typically coming during lunch or dinner time. They are not wanted, and even if I wanted the product they were selling, I would not buy it from a robo caller. I pay for my telephone line, and do not want robo calls, therefore products that allow for blocking robo calls should not only be allowed, but phone companies should be forced to offer the product, and make the public aware of the blocking option.

We want to be able to block these calls invading our home. It's one thing to have them attached to TV and radio- that's our cost for entertainment, and if we don't like them we turn them off. We have no control over these robocalls invading our peaceful evenings. We should have the right to refuse these calls invading our homes.

Amy Roderick

I'm fed up with robocalls, including those from political and so-called charitable organizations, and would like to see (or hear) an end to all of them. They are not only an invasion of privacy but a colossal waste of time to those who answer or are forced to listen to them, either in person or on their answering machines. I'm therefore happy and grateful that "Nomorobo" is addressing this problem, and trust you will listen to its worthy champion when he meets with you. Who knows? Someday he may actually be awarded a Nobel PEACE Prize!

As a senior citizen I am tired of answering robocalls. There are far too many of them in a day to answer. They are very annoying. Please help us to stop this robocalling Please block them! If I need something or someone to fix something I WILL CALL THEM! not vice-versa. Thank you.

I hate rob calls and I should have control of who I permit to reach me by phone. I would like a more effective way to block robo calls, but until you act to provide a better mechanism than currently available, I use NOMOROBO and love it. Do not do anything that would dis-allow services like NOMOROBO. Better yet, provide an equivalent or better federal service to accomplish the same goal.

Please take stronger actions to prevent unwanted and intrusive robocalls to citizens. Please consider that many of us are caregivers and very often are interrupted from caring for our loved ones by such calls. It's our home, the phone is our property and we are entitled to privacy in our homes. Such calls are invasive, a nuisance and wasteful.

Thank you

Finally, a tool that helps protect my Constitutional right to privacy. I can't imagine how any sane person could legitimize anything to the contrary! PLEASE, make it mandatory that telephone communication companies (wireless, VOIP, & landline) provide such an option free of charge to consumers.

We currently use NOMOROBO.COM and are truly enjoying our uninterrupted evening meal every day. To deny us the option for such a service would clearly be unconstitutional and I seriously doubt any such blatant and deliberate denial of our rights would withstand any legal challenges.

I think it is ridiculous to prevent a company like NOMOROBO from protecting all U.S. citizens from annoying and sometimes dangerous robo-calls!!! If you can have your calls screened and blocked, so should we!!!

For those of us wishing to block unwanted solicitations (robo-calls) please require the phone companies to provide us with easy ability to do so. It's my phone, my cell service, I pay for the minutes and usage - it's my tool not theirs. If I want to block them, I should be able to.

As a user of a service that blocks robocalls, I want this service to continue to be available to me. Additionally, I think this should be a service available to all customers through all of the telephone service providers. The robocallers have become a significant portion of our total telephone calls, and the service has been of considerable benefit to us.

The number of "robocalls" has escalated exponentially in the past few years. There are many nights that we are interrupted 4, 5, 6 times or more. When picked up most of these calls wind up with a hang up; those that do actually get "answered" is by a recorded voice for any number of reasons. THIS IS MY PHONE AND MY HOME. The people who do robocalling do NOT have any respect for their recipients peace of mind, peace in the home. As an American I have the RIGHT to privacy and the RIGHT to liberty and the pursuit of happiness. These calls usurp those rights as well as many more. We are up in years and cannot be running to the telephone only to have callers (and many times "scammers") interrupt or daily life! I signed up for a service to block robocalls. PLEASE DO NOT TAKE THIS LAST LINE OF DEFENSE AWAY FROM US, I BEG YOU! Please DO NOT side with the companies that use robocalls to drive us all crazy!

Susan Hinkle

The number of redundant calls I receive weekly number in the range of 15-20. That's absurd and I resent it deeply. Even with caller ID which I pay out of pocket for and a private unlisted # which I also pay for, I'm inundated with these calls. They are unsolicited, uncomfortable to receive and time consuming. Please, please do something to prevent them from recurring.

I get 50 to 100 robo calls per month if not more am sick of answering the phone only to hear a computer talking to me. So now I block each one using feature built into phone to block them after they call. However the number is limited to 50 numbers and am running out of slot to enter new numbers. I consider it an invasion of my privacy to receive calls on a phone I pay for without any control over who calls.

Robocalls are annoying and disturbing. Features like NOMOROBO are a wonderful thing and should be available to all customers of all phone companies.

Robocalls are constant nuisance. These calls are received about a dozen times each and every day. They come in a variety of forms ranging from recordings, telemarketers, and just dead air. My cable company provides up to 32 numbers to block and the ability to block callers that block caller ID. This is not enough to stop these harassing calls. Robocalls are ubiquitous now and getting worse. There are just too many to list to block the numbers and many use false caller ID to get past the blocking of anonymous callers.

NOMOROBO has been a great help in solving this problem. It is doing a great job of bringing these calls to zero with my cable company Optimum which provides my phone service.

I am now getting robocalls on my cell phone. Fortunately my smart phone can set a block on these when I get a call wherein I set the phone to block the number.

The do not call registry does not work. These robocallers do not stop or care about the registry.

A law must be enacted to stop this activity.

Unfortunately for the citizens of the United States the laws are now bought and paid for by big business. As phone companies are big business with big campaign contributions I suspect that the interests of the people will be trumped by big business. As the benefactors of big business dollars I doubt congress will do anything to stop this scourge on its constituents lest they lose the campaign contributions that buy the media adverts that get the votes for election.

Please prove me wrong and vote your conscience.

Do the right thing and serve your constituents.

Blocking robocalls is necessary today because government organizations do not care if we, the consumer, receive robocalls and other calls that should be blocked. Why? All government organizations are helping big business make more money and this is by allowing these robocalls. This is bad for us consumers and tax payers.

So FCC please stop these robocalls and other illegal call to my phone. It really bothers me.

Nomorobo product works very well and I could live without it.

Phone companies need to do more to prevent scammers from phishing phone numbers and about robocalls. The National Do Not Call list is a joke and doesn't work. Robocall blocking products are the best thing we have right now. This has helped cut down on the number of calls I receive per day.

The FCC should have sponsored NoMoRobo instead of hampering and tampering.....

Telemarketing robocalls should not exist.

Since they do, there should be a way to block such calls.

The phone companies cannot be trusted to have their clients' interests in mind neither can our legislators

both are influenced by telemarketers' money but the FCC has a fiduciary duty to serve the public allow blocking of robocalls.

Jim Morrison

The amount of robo calls we receive are beyond what you'd imagine.

Nomorobo id doing a tremendous job of blocking.

We feel it's up to our decision as to which calls we answer.

The thing one to in mind is that it's OUR phone, ans should be judged by others to tell me which calls should be answered.

Allen, TX

The Robo Callers are getting more and more creative just because I won't accept their calls. They are calling during dinner times, bed times, all hours of the day, and even disguising the real reasons for their calls. I pay for my phone and I shouldn't have to put up with this. There are no civil liberties being salvaged here.....just annoying calls that I hang up on or ignore anyway. I work the graveyard shifts so it is very upsetting to my sleep cycles to have to put up with this damaging tactic of calling me for things that I am not even interested in. We have enough of that with TV commercialswhen will it ever stop? Please draw the line and enact a law that will help us. Thank you for your time.

I have a robo caller blocker and am so thankful. I get at least 3 calls/day. That's about 21 calls/week, over 1000 calls per year. This is getting so ridiculous, it is absurd. I want to have the ability to block these unwanted NUISANCE calls. Please do not restrict robo blockers.

WHY DON'T YOU ENFORCE THE DO NOT CALL LEGISLATION?

WE RECEIVE 8 TO 10 ROBOCALLS A DAY. WE ARE FORCED TO SCREEN OUR CALLS THROUGH OUR ANSWERING MACHINE.

do YOU THINK THIS IS FAIR?

I am on both the National & Florida do not call list. Both are jokes. They do absolutely nothing. I have been using NOMOROBO ever since it first came out. It really works. IS IT POSSIBLE THAT OUR GOV'T COULD EVER TAKE ACTION TO PUT A STOP, ONCE & FOR ALL, TO THESE ROBOCALLS? IT'S MIND BOGGLING TO THINK THAT THESE CALLS, WHICH ARE A DEFINITE INVASION OF OUR PRIVACY, CAN'T BE STOPPED. THE ROBOCALLS ARE MINDLESS, SELF-SERVING, GREEDY TELEMARKETING. WHY CAN'T YOU REGULATE THEM AS MUCH AS YOU REGULATE THE GENERAL PUBLIC? I WONDER WHAT THE FCC IS GAINING BY ALLOWING ROBOCALLS TO CONTINUE. HMMMM.....

FCC its incompetent. Because of that, is an accomplice or its in cahoots with all those criminals that roam around trying to find victimas particularly among us, senior citizens. Otherwise how can you guys explain why so many phone calls comes from numbers that can not be traced, in spite of being in the ridiculous No Call List keep on coming etc. Take a look at this and give me an explanation not an excuse. Nomorobo is great. Since activating it my family can actually enjoy meals without annoying calls. Just wish it was available for my Verizon cell.

It would also be great if it could block all the annoying election campaign calls. I made it a policy that anyone running for election that makes a call to my house/cell does not get my vote.

I believe it should be our option to block calls or not. I receive, on average, four to five calls a day. I have taken to turning off the phone unless I am going to make a call. I shouldn't have to do that Robocalls are an outrage to a persons privacy. I have no intention of buying something or having my rugs cleaned from a person/company invading my privacy. It is important to a persons freedom to make it easy and efficient to block these calls before they come into our home.

Please do everything you can to make us able to block these calls!

Thank you for doing this work.

Palo Alto,CA

Robocalls call for the wrong persons, call early morning, late at night and all throughout the day. They are annoying. Sometimes all they do is wait for someone to answer then hang up. Some even want you to hold the line until they come to the phone. Some give you a reference number and tell you call them back. Please please please stop this nuisances.

We need the ability of to block callers on land lines, just as you can on a cell phone.

Temecula, CA

I don't need or want robocalls. The last thing I want is to be interrupted while driving and have a robocall. I need to block those calls.

robo calls disrupt my life!!! they call at any time particularly when I'm in the middle of a project. I have talked to their sales reps and asked them to please stop calling me...I don't want what they're selling but they continue to call over and over and over!....please help!!!!

I am writing you to tell you that I absolutely think robocall blocking products should be legal. Robocalls are annoying, invasive and should be abolished. They are impossible to stop and are constantly calling my phones. I don't even answer a call if I don't recognize the number. If they don't leave a message I figure it's a robocall. The robocall software I use has been a Godsend. While it doesn't eliminate all robocalls it makes life so much better. I utterly support the legality of robocall blocking products. I don't need to be answering calls made by computers that I don't want to hear or answer. Instead of stopping robocall blocking products I advocate stopping robocalls.

Antonio Ponce

Would you like it if the same people called you every day or every week? There is no way to get off their list. These individuals are mean and rude. Please ask them to stop. Their numbers have filled my Caller ID and they continuously call even when I ask them to stop calling. Even when I tell them I don't want to buy, donate, participate. They do not care or respect what I say. Please ask these people to stop making unsolicited telephone calls regardless of the reason. It is not appreciated ever. Thank you.

Livermore, CA

Robocall blocking is essential. FCC remains powerless to stop "scam" calls and the "do not call" list is a joke.

Companies like NOMOROBO are the only way to get any relief from the incessant and intrusive "robo" calls.

I demand the telephone companies provide paying consumers with an easy and effective way to stop these calls.

Donald Anguish
Baldwinsville, NY

I have been using a robo blocker for almost a year and I experience at least 10 to 15 single rings (sign that they were robos) every week. I have caller ID so I can see how often these calls originate from the same number and how often the caller is anonymous. Please do not take this ability to block away from me since there should be no such calls coming into my phone anyway. I am on the Do Not Call List and have been for years. It doesn't seem to affect the number of nuisance calls received.

My family is fed up with robo call disturbances. We don't answer unknown callers anymore, but often have to listen to ringing phones. I have been on do-not-call lists for years, but the robo calls seem to get worse. Please take action to allow us to avoid these pests.

I need call-blocking to function as a human being. I get 30 calls a day I have no desire to receive from foreign phishing operations to product cold callers sold my name by my health care provider, realtors unsolicited making offers to buy my home and debt collector scams on 20 year old debt much of which isn't mine! Call-blocking is the only reason I now own a home phone and don't change my number every 6 months!

Jennifer Painter

I get at least 3 robo calls a day. It is so invasive and interrupts what I'm doing. I don't answer the phone if I can help it when I get one of these calls. Signing up in the past for do not call lists did not seem to make a difference. Our lives are stressful these days, and that's one less stress

I could live without. Please eliminate these useless calls!

TOP THEM!!!They are annoying and there is usually NOONE there.....

For months after stopping other calls with the Do Not Call list, I got at least four to five calls per week, many twice in a day, from a notorious collection agency. I never answered or called back. According to Experian and Equifax, I have not had a single late payment on any obligation since at least 1984.

Cape Coral, FL

Current Do Not Call lists are wholly ineffective. You can fix this, please do.

Gail Flowers

Robocalls are just a scourge! They are incessant, often rude and don't offer any services that I would want to hear any information.

They call as early as 8:15AM Eastern time because so many come from numbers that are not the numbers that show up on caller ID.

The worst is the phishing as the IRS wanting you to call back immediately. If one calls back, your number goes on an active robocall list.

There will come a time without having nomorobo on my cell phone that I just won't answer it any longer.

Jayne Ferguson
New York, NY

I am tired of getting phones calls at all hours of the day and night. And, having people ask me questions that are none of their busines. Sometimes we got calls at 8:00 am lasting into the late evening hours; that is until I installed a robocall blocking product. It has been our savior--no more constant phone calls asking personal questions!!!

East Haven CT

I am so tired of all the robocalls that I have been receiving on both of my phones, both landline and cell. The Do Not Call list is a joke, and we definitely need a new, better way to control who can call an individual. Please force the telephone companies to provide a way to block these annoying calls. Isn't thus what we pay taxes for?

Nomorobo has made our evenings at home much more enjoyable. Having our private time interrupted by robo calls is disturbing and unwanted. We should have the right to not accept robo calls. More and more organizations are ignoring the Do Not Call list. Robo-calling has become rampant and is (in my personal opinioin) an invasion of my home, my time, and my privacy. I am convinced that there is technology (which is not costly) that could prevent such calls from being delivered. I strongly urge you to require telephone service providers to implement such capability and provide it to consumers.

Carl Jones
Palo Alto, CA

The push for profits will never outweigh the imposition on us by these callers. Before I signed with Nomorobo, I would have to answer as many as 30 calls a day. They completely ignore the Do not call list. The only way to stop them is to block these automated calls. It is indeed my phone and paid for by me so I should be able to control who calls.

Robocalls are nothing more than an annoyance. How often do people find these solicitations compelling? I am very appreciative of NOMOROBO and the quick termination of these automated calls. Now please force TRACFONE to be an acceptable carrier to allow NOMOROBO to curtail calls. With limited number of minutes available on my device it is almost more important since they are stealing my allotted minutes.

Jacquie Waeber
Bedminster, NJ

I consider these calls an invasion of my right to privacy. They are more than annoying when you get a call from the same number every hour during the day starting at 8 A.M. up to 9 P.M. day after day. I am registered on the do not call list and noborobo as well. These blocks may not be perfect but they have definitely reduced the amount of calls from what I use to receive.

Carole A

I am so sick of getting at least 5 calls a day that are foul calls. Even Red Cross is doing robo calls. Do you enjoy answering a phone and have nobody on there for a few seconds? I've even had machines to call them back. This is so annoying. Your in the middle of doing something and the phone rings and it's a sales pitch. I LOVE NOMOROBO. I wait and if the phone only rings once I know they took care of it. Red Cross 2x to stop calling and they still call. I want all soliciting calls to stop. Please help people to be able to stop them.

Sheryl Witte-Snyder

We receive approximately 6 to 10 robocalls a day. I have tried blocking the numbers but it doesn't work because the phone numbers are bogus. Also, when I do answer my phone from an unknown caller and tell the telemarketer that I'm listed with the "Do not call registry", they hang up on me before I complete the sentence.

Robocalls are an intrusive form of emotional abuse and need to STOP.

Rob Bosley

"Carmen from Consumer Credit" would call five times a day, "Slip & fall" would call a couple times a day. Nomorobo cut these junk calls to about two a week. We should not have to be bothered all day answering calls made by machines!

Linda Groves
Rochester, NY

leave our phones alone. it is MY phone, I PAY the bill. If I want to have some calls blocked and not be bothered by telemarketers, scammers and such, that should be my right. I don't know what the Atty Generals have against people being able to protect themselves against scammers and the other low lifes that don't want their numbers blocked, but it is none of their business and certainly not against the law. If they continue, people will just stop answering calls where they don't know the number calling. I know I already don't.

north port, fl

I just want to let you know that I think that the "Do Not Call List" is a joke. I receive several calls a day from every scammer in the Nation. It is getting out of control!! There are calls that I receive that use spoof numbers that I can't block but would love to have the option to do so.

Since my phone carrier does not have a number blocking option I searched around and found out about Nomorobo. It has helped a great deal. Now if some bogus robo call comes through, the phone rings once and Nomorobo takes care of the rest. It helps to relieve some of the "Bogus" calls but I would also like to have the option as to who can and cannot call me.

Thank you for listening to my concerns

Blocking robo calls is, in reality, simultaneous call Forwarding. This is the best product to protect The consumer from UNWANTED calls. Simultaneous
Ring enables nomorobo to sample the incoming phone
Call. If some person does not care to use nomorobo,
Nobody is forcing them to. To those of us who view
The telephone as an interruption in ones life, this Ability to get rid of SPAM, is life saving. I do not ask
The JUNK callers to call me. I already pay for telephone Service, isn't that enough??

I've registered with NOMOCO but the calls continue. The same #'s call again & again - leaving no messages. Days later I sometimes do answer the phone and they hang up on me. WHY are you calling - no message & hang up when answered. Try to look up the number on white pages and never found.

Very Very annoying.

You truly need to stop Robocalls coming into our homes day and night. At the minimum, we receive 3 of these phone calls per day, and have many days with as many as 6 or more on one given day. If I want to find out about a group, organization, company, etc. I will make to call to get the info. We no longer answer our phone when we don't recognize the name or the number, but it is such an invasion into our home. Funny part is , they never leave a message - must be a real important call?????

The companies that make robocalls ought to be fined big time. The calls should be totally against the law.

I'm tired of robocalls! I get them daily, starting as early as 7am! I've tried blocking the numbers on my phone, but they use different ones every day. It needs to stop and the Do Not Call list is no help. Roboblocking is the answer!!! Please listen and help.

Dr. And Mrs. Linus D. Wright

Please insist upon allowing me and my telephone company the ability to block "robo calls" I would estimate that 85% to 90% of the incoming calls to my telephone are robocalls. They are annoying and almost entirely made up of scam sales and fraudulent calls. The phone number is always spoofed with a useless or nonexistent caller id information. It's my telephone and I pay the bill on it. No one especially the phone companies has the right to tell me that I cannot block any phone number coming in to my phone line.

Also the "Do not call" list is next to useless. Companies and people running scams and fraud schemes that make telephone calls don't care about it.

Robo callers are ignoring the "Do Not Call List". Complaints to Congress have been fruitless. Yes!, the FCC should allow phone companies be able to block robo calls. Robo calls are not being used to advertise, they are being used to scam, harrass and rip off consumers.

I am sick and tired of these Robo calls. As I cared for my dying mother in my home these calls came morning, noon and night disturbing her sleep and her care. I am on the National and State (MA) do not call list yet I continue to receive telemarketer and Robo calls. One telemarketer with an Indian accent even threatened to kill me! He continued to call me back every 5 minutes. I called the Barnstable Police (MA). An officer came out to my home when this Indian called back for the 11th time! The officer took the call and told the person in no uncertain terms that he better not call my number back. Would you like these continued interruptions throughout the day and night? Would you like your dying parents last days continually interrupted by unwanted phone calls? You are the agency that is supposed to protect consumers. I even filed a case with you to no avail. PLEASE DO YOUR JOB!!!!

Robocalls annoy me 5-6 times a day 7 days a week, you wont do anything about it so i'm happy to block them,,, please let me continue to block them untill you come to your senses...

Having robocall blocking has been GREAT. Can't emphasize how helpful blocking has been. We were receiving as many as 6 or 8 call a DAY - many from the same number. Notifying Nomorobo of new robocall numbers has been effective in reducing the number of calls even more. The Do Not Call Registry is ineffective as a deterrent since the scammers either ignore the list or stay ahead of it by changing numbers.

We should not be harassed by unwanted calls and should provide protection for the unwary about the scammers.

I believe it is clear that "the people" are annoyed with phone solicitation and robocalls. The vast majority of "the people" would like you to work with the congress to provide a stop to this irritation, including political robocalls.

I and my wife request that you work with the phone companies and congress on behalf of "the people" and against the self interest and lobbying of business and politicians to stop phone solicitation and robocalls.

Remember, it is in "the peoples" interest to stop this!

I concur with the NOMOROBO position on blocking ALL unsolicited sales calls. It is extremely annoying to have several calls per day at all hours of the day selling me things I have no interest in. IF I want to buy an item or a service, I will do my research and make my own calls, or better yet, use the internet to do so. And while we are at it -STOP ALL SPAM! You have the power, force the communications companies to engineer robust solutions that are consumer oriented, not sales call oriented!

it is unfair that i am forced to receive robocalls. i can't say take me off your list. i can't say you have the wrong number. when i moved and got a new number i received hundreds of calls from someone who skipped out on debts. most were robocalls. during election season you would probably receive sainthood if you allowed us to block them. The problem of unsolicited calls are major to me. I have been called at all hours of the day. They usually involve some sales pitch of products that I have no interest in. I choose to use my phone to contact friends, family and businesses that I patronize. I resent the fact that so many companies, charities and political parties monopolize my phone line with interruptions from robocalls at the most inconvenient times. I am tired of the mindless interruptions. Signing up for the NOMOROBO service has been a wonderful benefit for my quality of life and I wish that I could sign my elderly mother up for the service as well. Please do your duty for fellow citizens and shield us from the annoying robocalls.

Please allow consumers to block robocalls using their local phone service providers. The calls come at all hours of the day and night. We have had two calls at 5 A.M, for the last two mornings. A call at that time might mean a family member is ill or needs assistance so we always answer. It is frustrating to realize the 5 A.M. call is a robocall and it is difficult to get back to sleep. Those who make robocalls don't respect dinner time and sleep. The calls are annoying and lack respect and civility. Thank you for helping with this problems.

California

I am writing not just for myself, but for the people I work with and the parents of children my children go to school with. We are tired of receiving these robocalls. I have yet to come in contact with anyone who has taken advantage of a service or product offered to them through these robocalls. They are more of a nuisance than anything else. Since I've been using a product to block robocalls, it's easier to listen to my voicemails. If companies have the right to sell me something in this manner, why shouldn't I have the right to block these calls. I believe this should also extend to the various politicians using this method to get their name out there. I intentionally won't vote for any politician who uses robocalls to contact me.

I receive approx. 5 calls a day with people trying to sell me something. I don't answer the phone anymore, unless I hear a voice I know. My family and friends don't like me doing that, but not answering is the only defense I have against these telemarketers. My family and friends have the same problem with robocalls. I consider it a national epidemic. Telemarketers have no shame; they call early in the morning and are especially active during dinner time. I'm sure this is not news to you. Please consider giving the consumer help and relief in getting these calls blocked.

Thank you for your concern.

It is time to end unsolicited phone calls from organizations that have no relationship with the person they are calling, including calls from telemarketers and fundraisers. The do-not-call list is helping, but enforcement is challenging. The best way to stop unsolicited calls is to make call-blocking technology more accessible to consumers; however, we need the FCC's help. Phone companies are making it difficult to implement the call-blocking technologies that are currently available. For example, Verizon Wireless does not offer the "simultaneous ring" feature consumers need to use NomoRobo on cell phones. Can the FCC please use its regulatory authority to help?

Robocalls have become a nightmare. I was getting 6 to 10 calls a day from the same recorded message. It went beyond annoyance to actually causing interruption of important calls. Or, running to the phone just to hear a recording that I could not get the calling company to stop. Now I just listen for the second ring and know it is a legitimate caller.

Nomorobo has made our home tolerable again. Before we had this service our dinner was interrupted each and every evening. Stop the madness and crack down on the borderline illegal calls.

i am on the DO NOT CALL list but that does not stop the robo calls or any of the other sales callers. I have reported these calls to the do not call agency to no avail. this system is broken. I deserve relief. where is it???? is no one listening??? does our government care??? HELP HELP HELP

PLEASE do something!! Help us to STOP these constant and annoying calls!! They totally destroy our peace and quiet. They care NOTHING about interrupting dinners or evenings at home. One of the MOST irritating things about these calls is that MOST of the time, even when we try to ANSWER the call, they HANG UP. Most likely this is because someone else was reached before we did answer the phone. We are senior citizens. We have close relatives who are sick and in hospitals. We always think that these calls could be from someone important. We have to run to the telephone...which is getting harder and harder to do with our OWN health problems...and then find out it is nothing but these annoying calls!! You really MUST do something to protect law-abiding U.S. citizens. Please PLEASE help us!!

Robocalls are out of control and with the advent of IP telephony, donotcall.gov became useless. I was one robocall away from cancelling my landline completely. Nomorobo has sufficiently, although not completely, eliminated enough robocalls that I have decided to maintain my landline for now. I am stunned that phone companies are not themselves working more aggressively to curtail robocalls as I'm sure that I'm not the only paying customer who will abandon my landline if robocalls return the their previous annoying level.

Please don't stop us from being able to stop these robocallers. They are most certainly annoying and in most cases, they are trying to scam people. My husband and I are elderly and I don't want these people bothering me. Sometimes we get upward of 20-30 unwanted calls EVERYDAY!.

Not only do I hate robocalls, they are a major annoyance. Could you answer this question?

"Why shouldn't an individual be able to determine who is allowed to use the phone that they alone pay for?"

In addition, I simply don't want certain people delivering their verbal spam in my living room. This should be my choice, not any one else's

Please, please, please - help us all and put an end to the robo calls, or help us make them unprofitable by allowing us to block them effectively.

Yes, if they didn't work, companies wouldn't use them and move on. But I know I am tired of the automated 'credit repair', 'loans', 'search engine ranking', and other tedious calls that interrupt my day (over and over).

Don't let the phone companies dictate public policy. thank you.

Since sometime in 2012, after being on the do not call list I have kept a list of the dates and numbers of spam/robo calls received at my home. Many of the same numbers appear numerous times a day. To date I have 18 pages and working on the 19 page. The do not call list does not work and is a major problem for me.

I want to be able to block all unwanted calls.

Every day we get two to four robo calls, starting around 9 am. They call, ring, and 90% of the time hang up when the answering machine answers. The only one to leave a message was the "IRS" telling us we were on danger of being arrested if we didn't call back immediately! This, in spite of our reupping our placement on the 'do not call list'.

Please, please help us get control of our phone back. We are sick and tired of the endless ringing and hangups. We pay the bill; we should be able to have control of of our phone line!!

Kathy Howard and William Sudbrink

Robocalls and scammers, spoofing numbers, constantly calling my home day in and day out at all times of the day and night, have become the bane of our existence! It never stops and it needs to!!! We ordinary citizens have very little in our arsenals to fight back and our own government is all but useless in stopping any of it. Harassment is harassment folks. It seems to me that we should have some recourse in this regard and it should be viewed as breaking the law! Time to take some meaningful action and spend our tax dollars in a way we actually WANT them spent!

Susan Shirley

I can't tell you how much I appreciate the ability to block robo calls. I was getting 10-15 robo callers daily. The only thing that saved my sanity is "Nomorobo"! It's my right, and should be for everybody, to BLOCK AUTO DIALED CALLS!! I have the right to determine what calls I want to receive! I'd like auto dialed calls to be illegal altogether, but baring that, I certainly will defend my right to have a robo call blocking service!

while I am unsure my protest will actually matter, the thing I am certain of is that this whole business of telemarketers calling my personal wireless phone to offer me a cruise I don't want, or home insurance I do not need, is far out of control. Wireless companies (as well as residential phone providers) allow only a finite number of callers to their own block list. Therefore, as the person paying for access to calls I DO want, unwanted solicitation calls should be restricted. Many municipalities have laws preventing solicitation outside public places and business, but I am to believe no legislation exists to prevent them from reaching my private phone line? Unacceptable! These calls should be forbidden, or at the very least consumers should have the freedom to unilaterally block them.

Aevanna Sabo
Perris, CA

The totally automated robo calls are exasperating. They take time from what I want to do and fill up my answering machine with garbage. In this group, besides those trying to sell me unwanted time shares, power, legal and medical services, I would also like to block political calls, but I guess that is too much to ask. When I am actually switched to a person, I tell them in no uncertain terms that I will vote against their candidate or party if I get another call. That usually puts them off, but it is a nuisance. I should be able to decide who I want to block and who I do not want to.

You better let me use Nomorobo to block unwanted calls to my phones. All of them.

My husband and I are senior citizens. We get dozens of unsolicited calls daily. Its a bit difficult to get up and get to the phone and then have a call that has no one on the other end and to make it worse they call several times a day! I have inquired about having a unlisted number was told there would be a monthly fee for that and to be honest we just can't afford to pay more than we are now. It would be nice to have peace and quiet in our own home and I don't think thats to much to ask. Thank You

We don't want Robocalls, even from politicians so give us the ability to block them. Imagine a local kid calling you 5 times a day and hanging up when you answer. Multiply that by how many companies make Robocalls and you see why it is a problem. I can't just shut my phone off in case my kids call me in an emergency so I have to listen to these annoying calls many times during the day. I have a right to privacy in my own home. Stop them now. Robo calls are very annoying and disruptive. I currently have to pay a significant amount to block calls. Because of the sheer volume of robo calls I also miss some legitimate calls because I am reluctant to even answer the telephone. I have tried all sorts of alternatives including Do Not Call. I run a small business from my home and have kids in school - I do NOT need 15 or more calls a day from the guys who "wants to fix my computer", the robowoman who wants to talk about my credit or someone telling me they are with the IRS - enough is enough! and phone companies should be helping the CONSUMER with this matter.!

Robocall blocking products are a must! Your efforts to prevent companies and organizations from intruding on my privacy through no-call lists have failed!

I am heartily sick and tired of having my phone bombarded by "ROBOCALLS" both day and night. My current household phone setup allows me to block up to 250 calls. In 6 months that memory section of my phone is now full.

I am in full support of the software Nomorobo since it works perfectly.

Before I installed the software, I would receive 4-8 Robo calls a day from the likes of the famous "Sarah" or "Linda" types.

Now, 1 ring and the call is directed to Nomorobo, and I am not bothered by almost any calls.

I urge you to not listen to the phone companies, who have proven to be quite ineffective, and obviously have only their own financial interests in this, and would love to block a successful company like Nomorobo from protecting the public.

Robo calls and other unsolicited telephone calls have annoyed and burdened our household for a long time. This is not free speech but rather a private nuisance. If they stood outside with a megaphone, the solution would be obvious. We cannot eat a quiet meal or take a nap without interruption. Like others, we are considering dropping our landline.

I am tired of receiving multiple calls every day from alarm companies, insurance companies etc. When I ask them to put me on their "DO NOT CALL LIST", THEY HANG UP ON ME AND CONTINUE TO CALL. You and Congress tried to institute a National Registry several years ago and all my phone have been registered. I still get calls. Mostly ROBO Calls. The calls are the same recording and every time I tell them not to call me or press a button to stop calling, they just come back under a different number. The same voice, message and purpose.

You need to either require the phone companys to add a service to stop ROBO Calls or stop ROBO Calls and outlaw them. This has become a huge problem and something needs to be done.

If I want to talk to you I would call you! Or google you if I want your sales pitch! Please keep robo calling in the hands of the consumers.

Raymore MO

I've been on the Do Not Call list since it was created. It worked in the beginning but I now receive just as many calls, if not more, than I ever did. And now they call my cell phone as well. It's constant and annoying. Yesterday I received a robocall from the same number three times in a row! I have tried reporting violators but it's not easy. While I have Caller ID and can avoid these calls, people like my 86 year old father and 91 year old aunt do not and they are the kind of people most susceptible to these atrocious practices. If Do Not Call does not work, we need more options. It is ridiculous that these companies are more in control of my telephone than I am.

Robocalls need to be stopped. Call all hours of the day and night. It is up to you to stop them. It is about time the Government do what is right for the nation.

We all know you can stop them.

We have been inundated with unsolicited and unwanted spam calls for years. Last December, we switched our phone service to Time-Warner Cable, and our phones became digital. This meant we could use a robocall blocking service. We signed up with NoMoRobo, and now most of these calls are blocked (THANKS NOMOROBO). We get anywhere from a half-dozen to 20 or 30 calls per day, that are these spam calls. It is especially annoying when the Robot calls come in at 2, 3 or 4am. If you think this is an exaggeration, pull the phone records, and you'll find these calls.

NoMoRobo has been a godsend to us. Everyone should have access to such a service.

Stop robocalls, it is ridiculous, they are coming all hours of the night and day. I am retired and I don't need this nonsense going on in my life. Peace and quiet is hard enough to come by without this kind of intrusion going on. I am tired of these kind of intrusions constantly rearing their ugly head. My cell phone carrier does not permit use of RoboCall blocking products. I should have the right as to whether or not I use it. Please exercise your responsibility and power to resolve this.

I was getting so many solicitations from telemarketers that I was forced to screen all of my calls. Thankfully, Nomorobo has eliminated many of them. I now smile every time my phone only rings once because I know Nomorobo has blocked another unwanted disruption to my day.

Are you conflicted between calling phone companies "common carriers" and not? You seem to be more on the side of "not" in recent years, based on the almost complete deregulation of phone and internet service. But if they are in fact NOT common carriers then there's absolutely no reason why they should not be allowed to offer robocall blocking. The technology exists, and works. Given the option, of course, the phone companies will charge for it - probably more than they do for unlisted numbers (which don't work any more). The only reason I can think of for disallowing it is if they are in fact common carriers and must accept and transmit anything presented to them. If that's the case, though, why are they otherwise deregulated? Common carrier implies that they have an obligation not only to move the messages but also to deal fairly with their customers - which implies some level of regulation. Think about it.

Please block robocalls. I do not have caller ID on my phone, so I don't know when a call is not from a known number. I have had robocalls wake me when I am trying to sleep when I don't feel well; they disturb family time at dinner. They are basically intrusive. Please create a mechanism to stop them.

We receive 3 or more unwanted phone calls a day. We should have the right to block whichever calls that we do not want to receive. Selling, begging, bogus charities, etc... every single day, morning,noon,and night. Something needs to stop it as the do not call list certainly has not.

I am FED UP with constantly getting criminal robocalls. I say criminal because I am already on the Do Not Call list so any telemarketer who calls, robocal or not, is ALREADT breaking the law.

As far as I'm concerned, anyone operating a robocall machine and dialing numbers on the Do No Call list should be treated as common criminals and subject to jail time on the first offense, since it was a premeditated crime.

Michael Hirsch

Richard Friedman and Elizabeth Sanders

Robocalls are not only a nuisance, they are an invasion of my privacy. Furthermore, I have registered and re-registered many times with your do not call list, which is rubbish. It does nothing to protect me, the tax paying consumer, who is paying your salary. I have lodged complaints about violations of the DNC list, and you do nothing. Everything goes into a vortex, and never dealt with. Why don't you protect us from the continuous harassment? Why don't you enforce your rules? We have noticed a marked reduction in harassment with the blocking products. Please do not take them away. I will give up my home phone before I give up my blocking products.

It is time to take stronger action against the robocallers, who scoff at the unenforceable laws. Phone companies should be required to assist in a crackdown. We receive no fewer than 10 robot calls each day! One afternoon 45 calls in 2 hours. This is most frustrating. We do not buy anything via this type of marketing. Please allow all of us Americans the ability to block these annoying calls!!!!!!

Gig Harbor, WA

We are on the do not call list but these annoying calls get through by robocalls. I think we need to send a message Loud & Clear that we DO NOT WANT THOSE WHO ARE USING ROBOCALLS TO INVADE OUR PRIVACY & PESTER US DAY IN & DAY OUT. I have never and will never buy any product or service from a telemarketer. If I want it, I WILL CALL THEM . I am now telling local & state callers that are not covered by the do not call registry, that if they call again I am going to report them to the state of Illinios Attorney Generals office.

West Dundee, IL.

Please keep nomorobo operational!!! I have been using it for a few months and it's great. I was so FED UP with those bothersome calls. I would NEVER, EVER buy anything from a telemarketer anyway, ever!! It waists my time as well as theirs.

Litchfield,NH

We need to have more control on our phone. In which I mean our own control of who we want to call us. No salesman, charity, or politician should have an automatic right to call us at any time. We should have a say of who we want to talk to, no matter who it is. These calls are getting out of hand. From 8am to 9pm, 75% of our calls are unwanted. We are on the do not call list, a blocking service through our phone carrier and Nomorobo. Still, they find away around most blocking services. This should be considered a form of harassment and not be tolerated.

anthony & Linda Borrello

robocalls come even before 9am and after 8pm -

the do not call list program is a joke - companies/scammers always find a new way to call - whether it be on cell or landline

I consider robocalls an invasion of privacy and misuse of my phone lines. Who is the government to think I don't have the right to block unwanted calls. Are you people being paid by tax payer money or money from big companies who want to do whatever they wish? Get on the ball and allow blocking. It's the right thing to do.

I personally have contacted the FCC many times because we are constantly disturbed by UNWANTED phone calls at all hours from 7:00 A.M. to as late as 9:15 P.M.! This happens each and every day and there needs to be a law to stop this. This is definitely an invasion of our privacy. We are in our home and feel it is the same as having a home invasion or break-in. No one should be allowed to do this to us.

We have many times kept a count of the calls in one day. Recently we had 16 telemarketing calls in one day! This is the most disturbing thing in our everyday life. We have had enough!! PLEASE DO SOMETHING!!!! Stop this harassment. I told one caller that we are on the Do Not Call list and we should not be called. He kept calling all day long to annoy us and we finally had to disconnect the phone. You are allowing these people to "enter" our home by not putting a stop to this.

Most sincerely,

Eugene & Joyce Johnston

Please allow homeowners to block robocalls. They are so annoying!

American Fork UT

It is extremely annoying to be interrupted by robocalls throughout the day. Half the time when you pick up the phone there is no one on the line. It should also be illegal to use fake IDs when calling. Finally these people pretend they have never heard of the Do Not Call Registry. Please put an end to this scourge.

Please stop robo calls, there is nothing more annoying then coming home from a hard day at work, wanting to spend time with your family and the phone wont stop ringing. I pay monthly for phone service so my friends and can contact me, not to listen to unsolicited robo calls.

I think we should have robocall blocking. I get tired of getting these phone calls from some one trying to tell me about my credit and what i can do about it. My credit is my bussnes and nobody elses.

I would love to block all unwanted calls -- the do not call list is a joke! Nomorobo takes care of some of them and I would not want to be without it. Caller ID helps a little, but when it says "private caller", it also is of no use. I only wish something could take care of all unwanted calls.

Allendale, NJ

I am very much in favor of permitting services such as Nomorobo assist consumers in blocking robo calls.

Please continue to allow such services to serve the public.

Honestly this is the best thing I have found to block annoying calls that come in at all times, it is good in the way that if a recorded call comes from the dr etc that comes through. I don't know how people could be against something so excellent.

Pat Hynes
Pompano Beach FL

Even though we am on the do not call list and use nomorobo, some calls do get through. We do not answer calls from numbers we don't recognize on our Caller ID but every now and then we slip up and do answer. We want more regulations to control these callers, most of which turn out to be scams. Something needs to be done to stop this scourge.

Commack NY

It is time to allow the implementation of robocall blocking products. I do not want to have to deal with robocalls. I have registered my phone with the do not call registry but it does no good. I am inundated with calls from telemarketers anyway and have no way to stop them. Almost all of them are robocalls and they are repeated day after day after day. I need to be able to stop them.

Please allow us to block unwanted calls.,it's our right!

Nomorobo has been fantastic at blocking most, but not all, unsolicited and annoying calls. While these calls are an annoyance to me, they are down right dangerous to the elderly and any other naïve and trusting souls. Help protect your citizens from these highly organized scam artists!

Please, please, please block those annoying robo calls. Do anything to stop them, they are driving me insane! Telephone calls should be for a designated purpose, these are not...just trying to scam you, take your money or get you on their lists so they can bother you some more. I do not like dropping everything to run to answer the phone when it is some idiot overseas trying to get my business....Please do what you can and work with NOMOROBO. Thank you!

No More Phone Calls! We don't answer the phone when you call.

It is our right to Block Phone Calls. I can only enter 12 phone numbers on Call Blocking. We do not want or like Robo calls.

we very much appreciate being able to have robo calls blocked. These calls interfered with our everyday living and interrupted several meals as well. I don't like picking up the phone to hear a recording about things I neither want or need. If I wanted any of that I would purchase it myself.

Cameron Park, CA

Robocalls are intrusive, annoying, unnecessary, and illegal. My number is on the Do Not Call registry, yet I get numerous robocalls daily, starting as early as 8am. I can't even tell them to stop calling me because if I actually get a person, they just hang up. Why should this be legal?

Baltimore, MD

The FCC do not call list does NOT work. Telemarketing companies get around it and it is costing taxpayers money to have you keep this useless list. We want to be able to block our calls.

Robert di dio

Robocalls and other unwanted junk calls have become an obtrusive fact of daily life. They interfere with people's privacy and signify a general disrespect for law and for civility. Technology exists to allow persons to block such calls. It should be within the power of every telephone customer to block all unwanted and unsolicited calls. I URGE you to implement this power as soon as possible. Please--do not heed the protestations of telephone companies--this issue is a matter of fundamental standards of civil order and of personal privacy!

Daniel Waitzman

I strongly believe that it is a violation my constitutional right to privacy whenever my personal mobile device or home telephone is invaded by unauthorized robocalls from ANY organization, including public and private businesses, charities, research agencies, AND political candidates and their supporting organizations.

I pay for these services out of my own pocket, and therefore should have the right to decide who may or may not contact me by way of those services. Just as people do not have the right to walk into my home without being invited to do so, they also should not have the right to invade my privacy by means of electronic devices or telephones. This is particularly true during election times, when I often feel as if I am being harassed and under constant attack from the barrage of unwanted robocalls.

Because many robocallers use spoofing technology to display a fake company name and number, or to conceal their identities entirely, the standard methods of blocking unknown or unwanted callers do not serve as safeguards. Even if blocking the calls was possible, I also should not have to waste my time or money putting measures in place to avoid these unwanted invasions on my own telephone or mobile device.

The FCC needs to take action against robocalls so that the American people can exercise their right to privacy without fearing unwanted interruption from companies and organizations they have no interest in speaking with.

I have signed up for Robo call for the past year and it does stop the 800 calls part of the time. I am ill with cancer and I get at least 3 solitation calls per day. I need my rest. Why aren't you using the Do Not Call List? We should have rights. I need a listed number but they should be fined when they ignore the law. Or is there a law?

I would like to be able to block robo calls. They are a waste of time and used by scam artist. Blocking them would save them from wasting peoples' time and reduce people being scammed as they target older people a lot of whom have trouble protecting themselves. Protect the public and my privacy by allowing us to block these calls. By protecting them, the FCC is protecting a lot of criminals and it is very bad public policy.

I find the robo calls very annoying and invading my privacy.

Why is this even up for debate. We should be able to block anyone who calls our house, especially unwelcome callers. Telemarketers are supposed to be charged a fine when they robocall to solicit business. No one enforces it. The "Do Not Call" registry was to protect us from callers like this but it has turned out to be a joke! Now you want to take the last tool we have to defend ourselves from these companies.

America is supposed to be the land of the free. Guess that doesn't mean free from telemarketers.

Why not cut out all the wrong things wrong in DC these days and do the right thing and stop these annoying robo calls. After all, you work for us the taxpayer, not special interest groups. I would love to hear your reasoning for why not!

We are tired of receiving unwanted sales calls at all times of the day and night. A lot of these calls do not even have a caller at the other end or they are a computer voice. We are retired and angry that our golden years are disrupted by rude people who ignore the law and continue to call back when asked not to, or say that they spoke to us last year and were told to call back later. I know the phone companies and government can stop these calls. Also by stopping these calls fraud against seniors would also drop.

Americans should be allowed to enjoy their homes free of unwanted and undesired phone calls. As an American, I should be allowed to enjoy my home free of unwanted and undesired phone calls. My telephone should ring when there is a legitimate emergency in my family, when a friend calls to wish me a happy birthday, when my doctor needs to give me test results, or when my gas company is contacting me about changes to my service. I do not need my phone lines cluttered up with sales calls, political advertisements, or other robotic phone calls. I'm a human being, and I should be called by a human being. Until the computers are running the show, keep them off my phone lines.

I love NOMOROBO. One ring and it's over - I don't even have time to get upset. I'm 72 and I don't pay for phone service to have some worthless individual call my house repeatedly and not have the decency to leave a message on my machine. If I don't answer the first time or two these inconsiderate companies call, wouldn't you think these brainless people would get the idea I DON'T WANT TO TALK TO THEM. Also, if I was to answer why would I want to do business with someone who is so inconsiderate. PLEASE don't take this service away. It has made my life so much more pleasant It also feels good to feel I have some control over my privacy!!!! Thanks for your interest.

Linda Miller
Escondido, CA

Although telemarketers may have the right to free speech, as a consumer I have the right to privacy on my own phone. If I want to prevent robocallers from calling, then that's my business, and I should be able to do so freely.

I prevent door-to-door solicitors from ringing my doorbell by putting up a "No Solicitors" sign, as they do not have a right to disturb me if I do not desire it. Technology to prevent robocalls is the equivalent of the "No Solicitors" sign.

Finally the NOMOROBO solution tor blocking unwanted robo calls has proven to be the most viable solution out there. It has virtually eliminated those nuisance and unwanted calls, something that I couldn't get with the federally sponsored no call list. It would be a tragedy to not allow NOMOROBO to provide this valuable service to the public.

I believe I have the right to block any call or caller from phoning me. It is just maddening to be driven crazy by all the solicitations and political calls. Why can't we press a button to block them from calling again? We are the ones paying for the phone!

I absolutely, positively LOATHE robocalls!!! It is an invasion of my privacy! I want them GONE! First of all, if you want my attention, PAY someone to get it! Secondly, I don't want your attention in the first place. We used to pay an additional fee to have a recording tell solicitors to please hang up; that doesn't even work with robocalls. ABOLISH THEM!!!

I can't stress enough how strongly I feel about having the right to block unwanted robocalls. We have an average of seven or eight unwanted marketing calls per day, and three or four of them are robocalls blocked by the Nomorobo service. We have been using Nomorobo for about 1 year now and it is truly a blessing. Instead of the phone ringing and ringing and ringing which is annoying, but not as annoying as answering the robocall, the phone rings once and that is all! We have been informing everyone in my neighborhood about robocall blocking by way of our local newsletter and several residents have taken the time to thank us for cluing them in. Robocall blocking is terrific for us, and is no worse for the "caller" since IF we ever answered the phone, we would be hanging up at our first opportunity anyway.

Robocalls have really become a nuisance in my home for my wife and me, both over 70 years old. Please do something to eliminate robocalls. Nomorobo.com has helped a lot by reducing the number of calls, but still the phone rings and I have to pause what I'm doing and see if it rings only once, meaning robocall.com has intercepted it before I go to the phone. And there are still many robocalls that don't get intercepted by robocall.com. Please put a stop to robocallers.

Jim Sims

Please have workable solution to deal with telemarketers.

1. The "DoNotCall" registry does not work at all. Telemarketers are now rude and bold in their means to reach consumer eg., faking their caller Name/caller ID. They call anytime any day whenever they want, they are rude.

2. Spending money each month on telephone company so your number is not list, is just another scam. It does not stop the calls.

3. Asking telemarketers to remove your number, they would hang up on you while you were taling and the calls still keep coming.

4. I run out of blocked numbers very quickly as the same telemarketer just fake their number when they call

Nomorobo is the only most efficient way to stop most of them. Until there is a new law to deal with these telemarketers (scammers also use similar tactics to reach innocent and vulnurable consumers), we need product/service like NoMorobo to help protect us.

i am so tired of being interuppted by these calls. R they just checking to see if any one is home so they can disrupt my time later in the day or wanting to break into my home. most times there is no one there so i hang up ...then later on another call comes thu...i dislike these intrusions

I am a subscriber to the National Do Not Call list!

I am absolutely appalled that robot calls and unwanted calls are still occurring. I subscribed to norobo on my home phone to stop all the criminals that continuously continue to not follow the letter and the intent of the law. The same should be true for wireless devices where people pay for the air time by the minute. The Federal Trade Commission sponsored the contest that gave rise to nomorobo. Does the FCC work for another group of people who do not recognize the United States Government.. Funny I thought you were funded by the US Taxpayer. DO I need to contact my Representative to remove your funding because you ignore the wishes of the majority of the electorate? I don't want these calls and want them blocked on my wireless phone It should not matter what the transmission mode is we should have the right of law from all government agencies

I read the New York Times every day and I've seen no explanation of why the FCC won't require or at least lean on the telephone companies to block robocalls at customer request, nor can I think of any reasonable one. The Federal Do Not Call Register is a joke. Is the FCC's failure support robocall blocking a case of regulatory capture by the industry it's supposed to regulate?

I was getting more than 20 robocalls per day before I started using Nomorobo. Now it is down to about 3. This is still unacceptable. I don't understand why the phone companies won't implement a robocall blocking solution. Effectively, I can't use my landline for incoming calls. I have to use caller id to try to determine if I should answer. This causes me to miss possibly important calls from my bank, credit card company and doctors. Also from family and friends who have private numbers. The construction industry is the absolute worst for ignoring the Do Not Call Registry. Please do something to solve the problem. Other than the fact that I need a phone for my job, I probably wouldn't even bother having one, since I have to pay to be abused. Robocallers are stealing my money and time.

We want to control to robocalls that come to our phone. We get 4-6 of these every single day. One day I counted 12 of them! The telephone s/b for purposeful situations, NOT unsolicited fund raising, telemarketing and the like. I've been a subscriber to the brilliant software called, Nomorobo. Plainly state, it works, if my phone doesn't ring 2nd time, I don't pick up. I also use Vonage voip; it works seamlessly, no hassles. My request, along with the others included, is to allow full access to Nomorobo and other like products. Being disturbed in your office/home, or other place of quiet is outrageous!! satisfies a great need. We should all be able to have robocall blocking products.

How could anyone NOT want these obnoxious, insufferable telemarketing companies destroyed? God Bless the individual who initiated the nomorobo calls site. While we are still receiving these hateful calls, the number has been decreased.

These calls are an invasion of the people's privacy, are unsolicited and a form of harrassment and should be treated as a federal crime and be forced to close down at the very least. The FCC has the power to enact legislation and create laws prohibiting these companies to exist and failure to do so should result in prosecution under federal law.

I wonder what the elderly, infirm and incapacitated must go through waiting for a telephone call from a doctor, family member, or some important call only to struggle to a phone and learn it is a robocall? Heartbreaking to think about.

I urge the FCC to pass strong laws prohibiting the abuse of the communications systems and the harrassment of the helpless public.

We pay a high price to purchase our telephones and the services from the providers. We should be able to block annoying telephone calls (robocalls).j There is no legitimate reason not to allow us to block these calls.

i cannot believe that given the advances in technology any company would find difficulty in designing the program that would allow blocking robocalls.

Please allow me the ability to block unwanted phone calls. I receive WAY too many unwanted calls. Fortunately I'm able to use NOMOROBO on my home phone service, but not on my cell with AT&T. My parents too would like to block those calls but they cannot. Many calls are disturbing, unwanted, annoying, and bordering on harassment. PLEASE allow the blocking of unwanted calls.

West Hills, CA

As it is now we NEVER EVER answer are phone and will be canceling our land line soon. Even with various call blocking efforts we still get crap calls daily. Hasn't the pandering to business, rather than serving citizens, gone on long enough.

All large phone companies can easily identify an outbreak of robocalls within minutes and could then stop them from reaching the phones of citizens if we choose to block them. If people love their robocalls then they would not have to opt out. Do this for the citizens of the nation. Comcast will be losing one more customer soon so that sleazy robocallers can proceed. We will lose the easy ability to conference call to talk with family in a group. Why?

Mike Little
West Linn, Oregon

We subscribe to NOMOROBO and it has been a MAJOR relief for me and my family. Our anxiety and downright anger has dramatically diminished over all of these incessant robo calls we receive on an almost hourly basis. We actually say out loud and with a big smile "thank you NOMOROBO" each time the phone rings and it clicks off to disconnect the offending robocaller. We no longer have to jump up or rush in from whatever we were doing (oftentimes interrupting very important family, household or business activities) each time the phone rings only to find it's some JERK disrupting our lives, and our demeanor, trying to RUDELY sell us something we DO NOT WANT. We are on the DO NOT CALL list however apparently it's meaningless to these disreputable vipers. Please keep robocall blocking products legal. The honest hardworking citizens deserve this PROTECTION, PEACE AND PRIVACY.

I own my home, own my phone, I should have the right to block whoever or whatever I want from calling me. If these robot callers want to call me I should be able to charge THEM for it! It's intrusive, annoying, and deceptive in that I cannot call them back half the time to tell them I am on the DO NOT CALL list. (Which rarely deters anyone anyway). It got so bad for me a few months ago I had to change my phone number. Evidently they got my number from the covered California insurance exchange and drove me crazy. Over 25 calls in one day! Keep NOMOROBO!!!!

You should allow robocall blocking products to exist because robocalls are annoying and disruptive to peoples lives. People are sleeping and being annoyed by robocalls . If I want something I will look for it at the stores or on the web. I would like to have a right not to get robocalls.

Mel Simpelo

We receive twenty to twenty-five robocalls a day despite having signed up for the federal no call list. Either let us have good robocall blocking products or institute really severe penalties for robocalls, telemarketers and other telephone solicitors.

Richard Shaner

please stop robo calls

I find robocalls intrusive and annoying. Provide tools that will allow me to block them.

Fairfax, Va

How could anyone NOT want these obnoxious, insufferable telemarketing companies destroyed? God Bless the individual who initiated the nomorobo calls site. While we are still receiving these hateful calls, the number has been decreased.

These calls are an invasion of the people's privacy, are unsolicited and a form of harrassment and should be treated as a federal crime and be forced to close down at the very least. The FCC has the power to enact legislation and create laws prohibiting these companies to exist and failure to do so should result in prosecution under federal law.

I wonder what the elderly, infirm and incapacitated must go through waiting for a telephone call from a doctor, family member, or some important call only to struggle to a phone and learn it is a robocall? Heartbreaking to think about.

I urge the FCC to pass strong laws prohibiting the abuse of the communications systems and the harrassment of the helpless public.

Nomorobo is providing a valuable service to old men like me -- (73) who are sick and tired of computer generated calls from crooks in India, the USA and Gods knows elsewhere. Their scams run from "your computer is infected with a virus -- we can fix this problem if you allow a screen sharing..." to -- "There has been a warrant issued for your arrest..." This came from someone with a thick East Indian accent. The only time they get through is if I answer the call before NoMoRobo has identified them as a "computer generated," call and cancels when there is no "caller ID.

I can't ell you how grateful I am for their free service. It saves me talking to -- so many rude hucksters that insult my intelligence and cause me to swear at them "F-OFF!!!"

Michael Cronin

We should be able to block robocalls on our own phones!

Robo calls are not only annoying and disruptive, but have no redeeming value except to the robo-er.

David Kato
Fountain Valley, CA

I hate getting sales calls and annoying other calls that keep trying to get in touch with me when I don't want to be bothered. I have DO NOT CALL and still get many, many annoying calls that I don't want to get.

Yes, it's my phone and I should have some control to block calls from Companies I don't want to deal with so I hope the FCC will give the people the right to have robocall blocking products or robocalls for free. I am a senior, retired woman who doesn't like to be bothered day and night by stupid calls. Mostly I don't answer the phone unless I see a caller I know and want to talk to and then I answer the phone. Please FCC help the general public to have some relief. I have to shut my phone off at night so I can sleep in as I don't have to get up early. I think right now the law is calls can be made by 9:00 AM and until 9PM.

Nancy Dowd
Hamilton, NJ

I understand some telephone carriers are claiming the law prohibits them from blocking any calls. Please say it isn't so. In any case, no one's actually asking them to block calls, just to allow the NomoRobo service to do so at the customer's request.

My own carrier, Comcast, has placed some ridiculous requirements on being able to use NomoRobo, which make it unavailable to most of their subscribers. Please make it clear that they must make this capability available to all their customers.

Ted Ruegsegger

Please allow me to block calls at will. I should be in control of what calls I want to go through. Thanks!

I am sick and tired of receiving at least 20 unsolicited calls a week. Let robocall help to block them OR do your job!!!

Arthur Vrecenak

Please allow us to keep the blocking of robocalls. I receive approximately two to three times a day sometimes more.

Stockton CA

These calls are SO annoying. There are many callers who I don't want to be rude to, but that becomes difficult at times (dinner time, getting ready for work, trying to nap). I don't have enough money to py them. We're on limited income.

East Nantmeal, PA

I hate robocalls! I think there should be a way to block them especially because being registered on the "do not call list" is no longer effective. Nomorobo has been able intercept some of these calls and we appreciate the service that they provide.

Rita and Richard Sands
Dallas, Tx

Please let these robocall blocking products a fair shot. I still get call even though I am on the DO NOT CALL List

Consumers must be allowed to block annoying spam calls. I am so glad I found out about nomorobo. Before I installed it on my phone, I was repeatedly interrupted throughout my day (I work from home) by spam calls and telemarketers. I would not answer the phone, as I could see via caller ID that it was someone trying to sell me something. However, it would still interrupt my work, and it was annoying to listen to the ringing phone, followed by the hangup tone when the caller got my answering machine. Now that I have nomorobo, I don't stop what I am doing to see who is calling. If it is spam or a telemarketer, the phone rings once and stops. Peace and quiet!

Sherry Heller
Palo alto, CA

I am sick to death of having to pay for Robo calls. It is ridiculous that someone can do that and get away with it. Now here's a really bad situation: Two days ago I got a call from someone telling me I had not paid my power bill and I had 45 minutes to pay it!!! It was, of course, a scam. Luckily, I didn't fall for it. But someone did, I'm sure, and they're out a great deal of money. We need to stop all of this nonsense.

Sebelle Deese

I receive robo calls at least 3X a day. Usually 6-7 times

Sometimes no one is on the phone. Many calls want to fix my credit which is excellent or want me to buy a senior alert system.

the calls start at 8:00 am and come as late as 10:00 pm.

Please give me some peace from these intrusions in my life

I get 15 robo calls a week. Not having a robo blocker would be a negative for me.

Joe Flack
Columbia, MD

I don't want to receive unwanted calls on my home and cell phones. I don't want to answer calls from telemarketers calling me at all hours of the day or night. Nomorobo is the only defense I have to prevent these calls.

Constant robo calls are an invasion of privacy and have become a form of harrassment. Subjecting the consumer to this type of unwarranted treatment in our use of communication equipment that we pay dearly for is unjust and needs to be stopped.

Northport, Al

The number of times the phone rings with robocalls is extremely disturbing. The caller ID is either an 800 number, "unavailable" or "unknown." It disturbs my peace and quiet. I am a senior citizen and don't want to be bothered with these calls. I don't usually even answer them, but when I do nobody is there anyway, or they try to sell something I don't want. Please allow these calls to be blocked.

Indio, CA

Giving consumers the ability to block Robocalls with blocking devices is a solution that is long overdue!
Won't somebody in the FCC dare to do the right thing??? Or will it require a restitution of Communications via Indian Smoke Signals to be free of those pesky telemarketers who violate our peace and privacy?

You must validate my right to block unwanted telephone solicitation calls. Why you are even questioning this right is beyond reason.

Robert Martinez
White Plains, NY

Please make these robocalls to stop. I am a semi invalid and it's painful for me to get up to answer the phone only to be bothered with a telemarketing message. That goes not only for robocalls, but also human telemarketers. Even though I am on the Do Not Call list, they don't pay attention.

Day and night our phone rings with robo calls and telemarketers. We can't even take a nap during the day or early evening. What ever happened to the "Do Not Call List". Nothing is being enforced, the telemarketers are having a field day laughing their butts off at the so called laws.

I am entitled to my privacy. Do the people have to sue Congress to get this law enforced?

And to add insult to injury, all telephone providers charge up to $4.00 a month to not publish our number, this is simple robbery, where is a law for this?

Mark Greenberg
Cherry Valley, CA

Our phone carrier only allows us to block up to 20 calls at a time. However, we receive multiple spam and robocalls trying to steal our identity and banking information on a regular basis. The use of a robcalling blocking option is a great help as this limits the number of spam and unsolicited calls that come in, even though we are on the National do not call list. Please make robblocking a mandatory option with our local and long-distance phone carriers for both land lines and cell phones.

Thank you!

I hate robocalls.

I am surprised that the FCC wants to hear from the public and in fact I am not sure they really want to hear. They already receive thousands and thousands of complaints and now they are saying they want to hear from us. I highly doubt it. It is just the FCC going through the motions.

And of course the phone companies are fighting it. Telemarketers pay big money to the phone companies to call millions of people. No surprise there.... I will believe it when I see it FCC. Give us a way to block the calls we don't want PLEASE

I hate unsolicited phone calls of any kind. They're a nuisance to the family and degrade quality of life. Unless you can ban robocalls, at least give us the right to use services like nomorobo.

Blocking unwanted calls using a tool like NoMoRobo is very important to me. Standard do not call lists are ineffective. Without Nomorobo, I am inundated by annoying and unwanted calls. I urge you to allow Nomorobo to continue to provide its service to users like me.

Robocalls should be illegal or else let us be able to block them. If it's legal for them to call us, then we should be able to block them

Joyce Rhodes
Lancaster, OH

The ability to block robocalls is an essential consumer right that must be preserved. People must be able, in their own home, to determine what calls they do and do not wish to take. Robocall blocking performs essentially the same function as caller ID -- it just takes it to a higher level. The telephone companies, of course, do not want robocall blocking to become widely available, because it will adversely affect part of their client base, the robocalling firms; the residential telephone customer is of no importance to them in this regard.

Andrew Smith
Arlington VA

I receive robocalls on a pretty much continuous basis. They routinely use spoofing. Why? because they know they will not be prosecuted. I recently received a call that my Caller ID identified as coming from my own phone. That's how blatant they have become. So:

1. It should be illegal to spoof Caller ID without a court order.
2. The penalties for spoofing should be large enough ($1000 per call) to actually discourage spoofing.
3. The penalties for robocalls also need to be similarly high.
4. There need to be much larger penalties for phone companies that aid and abbet these activities.
5. It should be possible to block ALL international calls.

Pat Russell

Robocalls are a nuisance. If I want to block them, I should be able to do that. Actually, they should be outlawed, but I will accept blocking as an alternative.

ITS MY PHONE STOP THE ROBO CALLS.....I'M SURE YOU DON'T GET THEM.....enough!!!!!!

Stop robocalls.

Nomorobo has been a godsend. I was PLAGUED by robocalls before I used this service. They sometimes catch as many as SIX a day! Please protect me from robocalls. They were RUINING my life, and that of my Alzheimer inflicted wife.

David Popenoe

I get up to twenty robocalls everyday. Although I can block only twelve numbers' it is my experience that telemarketers change the originating phone number. Even with caller ID telemarketers use false IDs to lure the homeowner to answer the call. I am sick and tired of having to screen all my calls.

Carliss Such

Unfortunately, there are too many unscrupulous businesses that do not comply with the Do Not Call registry. Therefore, robocall blocking is essential, and should be made available to anyone who wishes the service.

I have been able to block robot calls and misleading spam calls utilizing nomorobo. Do not pass any regulations that prevent me from blocking these calls.

Maurice Hickey
Annapolis, MD

I pay the bill on my phone. I want a phone for emergencies, but the telemarketers have hijacked it. I get several sales calls a day. They call me, but I their numbers won't allow me to call them back. It makes no sense whatsoever. I can only assume politicians have been paid off. If you insist on catering to telemarketers, why not have two kinds of phone numbers to offer citizens? How about phone numbers which are paid by individuals and are off limits to telemarketers. And phone numbers which are free to citizens, but are paid by telemarketers. Telemarketers would be allowed to call the latter as much as they want. Require all FCC employees, politicians, and telemarketers to have the free numbers as their home number. This is the best way to insure the telemarketers have not been denied their rights.

Mark Werner

Its annoying and its my choice if i dont want robocalls

Simi valley, CA

Our homes and cell phones should not be bombarded by robocalls. What should be permitted is the service of robocall blockers. Help stop robocallers.

Corpus Christi, Texas

Even with so called do not call registration, I keep getting these unwanted calls. Please fix that problem!
I also want you to make it easier to block robocalls which are driving us crazy.

I can't believe that you would allow robocalls of any kind!! Even political calls. I get 5-8 calls in the morning between 8am to 10am. Then in the afternoon at least 5 calls from 3pm to 5pm. I quit answering them hoping they would stop but they don't. HELP me and stop them. I do have robocall on my land line and it helps a lot. But they are using my area codes in Oklahoma. Then robocall does not stop them.

Kevin Derrick
Edmond, OK

Robo calls are ridiculous. My time is precious! There is no reason on earth that my privacy should be invaded through such nastiness, over the phone no less, right into my personal space. NO WAY!

Chapel Hill, NC

It is infuriating to be interrupted by a recording. I am registered with "nomorobo" call and am spared many telemarketing calls except during political campaigns.

Telephone "trees" are an invasion of privacy and should be banned!

I have been using the NOMOROBO service for over one year and couldn't be happier. Before I started using the service we received robo calls on a daily basis several on may days. These were computer generated calls with no person on the other end just scams 99% of the time. Trying to stop the calls was impossible, the "opt out" never worked. These type calls are supposed to be illegal according to FCC regulations but continue unabated. Since we began using NOMOROBO the phone rings only once when it is a robo call. On average we still get several such calls every week but we know only calls we wish to receive actually get through.

Allowing the phone companies to decide which calls I receive is beyond ridiculous. I pay the phone company for service, I should decide which calls I answer not them. If the FCC thinks services such as NOMOROBO should be eliminated then let me route all of the unsolicited calls to your offices and you can answer them for me.

The FCC was the organization that initiated the contest to develop the technology to eliminate robo calls in the first place. Why is it now an issue that is even considered for elimination?

Edward Chamberlain

Robocalls are EXTREMELY annoying. We as telephone customers should be able to block robocall numbers.

BRIAN HARL

Please do something to stop these ceaseless robocalls, dunning me to change my credit card, buy Viagra, borrow money I don't need, and just hanging up without even speaking.

Richard Forman

My father has mild dementia and I am his primary caregiver. We both receive these annoying calls, some before 9am. When he is alone and gets one of these calls, he feels the need to call me to tell me the credit card company called, but cannot remember in regards to what. Or, that someone called to let him know that someone had broken into a house on his street (security company stating break-in statistics trying to sell security system). We have even received calls that bypass our caller ID by sending our own phone number to it so we don't know who is calling! We are on the Do Not Call Registry, but technology has passed it by. We should be able to decide who is allowed to call our homes on equipment that we pay for - equipment that is for our convenience - not companies with computers programmed to call thousands of households throughout the day and evening, for surveys, politics, or selling services or products we don't want or need. I think ALL phone carriers - landline or wireless - should allow us to opt-in to this if we want.

Janet Moore

Robocall has been a great service. Unwanted phone calls were terrible. We would have to get up and answer and when your old have to get out of bed to answer, you then try to avoid calls and miss important ones.

Get this service for wireless because I pay by minutes and its not fair to spend my money for their ads.

Ted Lesinski

I feel I am being constantly harassed. There is no peace and quiet in my home. When I tell them to take my name off their list, they usually hang up and call back within the hour. robo calls have been a terrible nuisance for us...we are seniors and have been called early and late and all day long. Nomorobo has provided great relief.

San Dimas CA

I want to be in control of my phone!! Since using nomorobo.com to block unwanted robo calls (despite being on the National Do Not Call List), my peace and quiet in my home has been restored. Please make ALL phone companies provide access to a robo blocking service.

I am glad that Robocalls can be blocked. I think that any kind of call that is a solicitation not requested is a serious invasion of privacy. Unsolicited postal mail and emails are also a huge waste of time and energy, but at least they can be handled as and when convenient. Getting up and walking to a phone to get an unwanted sales call should be completely banned. Robocall blocking is at least one step in the right direction. I see no reason for these types of calls to be protected and any restriction to prevent as much blocking as possible would be a disservice to all.

My mother, age 89, and father, age 90, live with us. Please make it easier, not more difficult, to block these annoying calls in our homes!!!!

Jim and Becky Dunlap

Robo calls are out of control , they need to be able to block !

Telemarketing calls disrupt my life and I don't want them. The robocalls are especially annoying. These callers take no time of their own, yet expect me to listen to their drivel, and I can't even interrupt them to get on their do not call list.

Anything that reduces my exposure to telemarketers, especially robocallers, is a huge plus. It's my phone and I don't want it used by commercial interests. I will NEVER buy anything offered over the phone, so there's no point. Nmorobo is a godsend. I use it. My friends use it and thank me for telling them about it. Commercial interests have no right to use a service I'm paying for to disrupt my life.

Please make robocalls illegal in general so I won't need a service, and please get aggressive about enforcing the national do not call list requirements.

Joe Melhado

Let me block robo calls to my phones.

I don't know if I could survive without Nomorobo. I get so annoyed with all the unsolicited calls. I sound like I should be put in the nut house after about 5 of those aggravating calls. Maryanne Cluff

I absolutely HATE robocalls !! They are totally obnoxious. And I absolutely object to how companies can use the robocalls to see if it is a working number because I have answered the phone - MY PHONE - and because they determined it is, they then sell my number to whomever !!! I would appreciate being able to block robocalls permanently. Thanks.

Raleigh, NC

Robot dialers and telemarketers intrude on our phone every day, despite our number being listed on the Do-Not-Call list.

When the phone rings, we want it to be a real person, not a scammer. After all, we're paying for the phone service, so we should have some say.

The phone companies haven't been on our side for as long as we've had phones. There's no reason to expect them to suddenly start looking out for our interests: after-the-ring filtering is the only way to keep them honest.

Ed
Poughkeepsie, NY

Fed up with the "intrusion" telemarketers have in our home and even at my place of business.

At home they are calling as early as 7:30 in the morning and my husband works nights and this is waking up. I now have to take our phone off the hook before I leave for work so that he is able to get his sleep to be ready for his next day at work. But if any emergency happens or I need to reach him cannot do because we are revolving our life around on how to avoid these people. The call into the evening, they call on weekends. Always the same thing of "energy saving offers" we ask to be removed, advise them we are on the "do not call" list. But we still get the calls. We are told there are several of these companies so we can talk til we are blue in the face it is never with the same company. Than the rudeness that come from them when you tell them you are not interested and to be removed in deplorable. Than some more fun starts of crank calling. Phone ringing and they hang up when you answer at all hours...we know it is them. Their number does not show up on caller id. You can not *69 to return a call. And if you try to ask for a supervisor, they just hang up. We have no information as to who they are, we have gotten their names and numbers and registered them but again to many so it becomes a full time job for what.....for us to simply not to be called and bothered? We have no informatin on them, but they have a very important piece of information on us that they can be very vindictive with and make our lives a LIVING HELL! And they do.

I remember when 900 numbers came out in the 80's and kids were calling it racking up huge phone bills for their parents not realizing what they were all about. The phone company was offering for people to "pay" for a blocking feature on their phone so that these numbers would not be able to be called from their numbers. I always felt that why should we pay for something that we never solicited for to begin with. But if we wanted the "luxury" of being able to call those 900 #'s you can pay to put it on your phone to BE able to call those numbers. Let's do the same for the solicitors, if you want to here from them, pay the phone company and allow it.

But if you want to try to stop these intrusions, you can pay the phone company $8.00 here and $8.00 there and rack your bill up to get some peace and quiet, but remember you may still get a ring or two on your phone before the number is determined by the phone company that it is a telemarketer calling, therefore waking you up in the house at that 7:30 in the morning when they call and that is suppose to make us happy and feel like we got the upper hand on stopping them. There is no stopping them because they have more power than any of us because they have our number but we don't have theirs.

So what do we have to do to get our peace back and not fret every time our own phone rings? If it will stop this at home and work I WILL DO IT. I'm already jumping through hoops trying to avoid them and stop them from calling....but if you can do something I will jump through your hoops.

I get very tired of these robo calls, I get an average of 6 per day. It has gotten to the point that I don't answer the phone most of the time. It is getting ridiculous. Please block these calls. We are bombarded with robocalls on a daily basis at all times of the day and night. Our telephone won't allow anymore blocked numbers and the calls keep coming.

You need to allow us to have a recourse against these annoying irritating phone calls that interrupt our activities of daily living. My elderly parents are frightened by the number of phone calls they are receiving.

Susan Franzoia

Every phone company AT&T, Optimum, Charter, Verizon allows you to block calls on their network. The federal no call list does not stop annoying calls. Nomorobo is a service I elect to use to block calls that cost me time & money. I have a right to the pursuit of happiness which means avoiding intrusive, unstoppable interruptions that I elect not to receive. Please do not stop nomorobo from providing me with a tech solution to a problem the FCC is not able to stop (incessant un welcomed computer generated calling. No matter how much we request they stop, they don't!

Mark Kurs

Dear FCC, I support the idea of allowing citizens to be able to block these incessant robocalls. Those sending them seem to have a special talent for sending them just when you are sitting down to or eating dinner. And I also dislike their talent for anonymity.

Kenneth Shewmaker
Hanover, NH

I think it is ridiculous that political and other organizations have found a "legal loop hole" in the National Do Not Call Registry. What I find more disturbing is that the FCC and other Government Agencies feel that it's appropriate to allow such a loop hole to continue existence. I do not want to receive calls from unknown parties, that's why my number is unlisted. Yet you allow my unlisted number to be shared with whomever wants it.

It's time you made unsolicited, unwanted, unwarranted and cold calling illegal. Why does my privacy have to be invaded when I am trying to restrict calls as such.

I am on the do not call list and still the telemarketers have found a way to get around this. Robocalls should also be on the list of consumers do not call. Nomorobocalls has blocked a lot of calls on my phone and made my life a whole lot nicer. Please do not prevent us from blocking these calls. They have no concept of time and before nomorobocalls would call at all times of early morning and very late night.

I pay for my telephone equipment and service for MY use, not for someone else to use to harrass me. If companies are using something I pay for without my permission, is it not theft? (Not to speak of the annoyance.) I am a very senior citizen. I am supposedly on a no-call list which turns out to be a fantasy. I resent paying to provide people with the means to disturb me. I want the privilege of blocking my telephone number from robo calls--ALL robo calls. This shouldn't be asking too much.

Dorothy Unruh

Now that I am retired, the problem of unwanted phone calls is even more vexing. Ideally some technology will be developed that will enable law enforcement to catch these scammers and put their unconscionable activities to an end. Until then, I support whatever practical (and legal) measures that can be used to block such calls.

Thank you for your consideration of my comments.

The people I have talked to agree with me that the US Government in Washington does not care about how we feel about all the calls you get day and night. How long has this been going...well to long. I served my country for 35 years proudly and I hate to see things crumble, Please consider this change because since I have had Nomorobo things work like they should..being able to decide what and what not to receive on my telephone since I pay for my service.

I am retired and work on my own projects at home. Until I signed up with Nomorobo.com about a year ago, I was disturbed several times a week, often more than once a day, by "Rachel" offering to lower my interest rate, and other scam artists of her ilk. Since I joined Robocall, I have had a very peaceful year and accomplished a lot. No robo calls.

I DO NOT want to go back to the bad old days of constant calls from Rachel or the guy saying I've won a life-alert system.

Continue to allow us to easily block unwanted calls, at zero cost to the consumer. For some reason, these companies think they can consume our time and money with frivolous, often fraudulent phone calls/offers.

The past 1+ year I've been using NomoRobo has made a dramatic difference in decreasing our daily/nightly 'interruptions'. No more pushy, rude sales people trying to make me feel guilty for not listening to their spiel.

I hate robo calls.

Nomorobo has restored some peace, and removed the constant agravation robo calls cause.

Telling robo callers to stop calling never works.

I keep getting calls from an Indian speaking man claiming to represent the IRS. When I give that info to the gov. He just uses a different number from a different state I don't know how he got my number in the. first place!!The robot calls are an annoyance in the first place because they are trying to sell something or get info.

For my money, robocalls are a nuisance and constant distraction. My wife teaches music in our home and robocalls disturb the teaching sessions. I have had robocall blocking for several months, now and it is a godsend. Robocalls generate 1 ring and no more. That is not enough to disturb a music lesson. Robocall blocking should be available to the entire nation. We consumers pay for the convenience of a landline and should be able to block nuisance calls, Robocall blocking still lets through a lot of calls from charities, political calling and small commercial operations. Those are enough.

Sincerely, Bill McFarland

I am so irritated with robocalls that I'd like to scream and cuss (not my usual demeanor). The Do Not Call List is nothing but a joke, so thank God for services such as Nomorobo. It is able to stop 8-10 calls a day and I wish it could stop others that somehow manage to get through. There is no way for me to individually block these calls, because the same company is able to change their numbers on a regular basis. A company from California can even make it look like it is a local call.

Please, please make it easy for the ordinary consumer to block robocalls.

Thank you.

Please allow those of us who are tired of receiving repeated robocalls the ability to block these calls. I never listen to them anyways, so it is a completely ineffective system. I should not have to be interrupted several times each night with calls I do not want, calls I did not request and calls that have no use in my life.

Gloria and Larry Larson

Nomorobo is needed, 5-7 calls every day is extremely annoying. I have recently signed up for nomorobo and the calls are reduced. One ring and then gone it's great. Everyone should be able to have it.

I wonder if you have an 88 year old parent with Alzheimer's that you care for 24/7/365. I do, so when a robocaller ringing my phone multiple times in the morning wakes her up before I wake her up after a late night dealing with her, it is pretty aggravating. So far today, she has been awakened from two nap sessions by the phone. Guess who was calling? I beg you, allow me to have a telephone so I can call 911 when my mother requires help, while still having control over who calls my telephone. Please allow me to totally block robocallers without having to jump through multiple hoops to do so. How does their right to use the phone line I pay for supersede my right to manage the phone line for which I pay? I just don't get why their rights are more important than mine, and those of my mother. If they want to advertise, they can pay for a newspaper or internet ad, but they need to stop dialing MY phone.

Sincerely,

Nancy Keithley

I appreciate the ability to block robocalls; it makes my day a lot calmer. Do not "mess up" a good thing.

Few things are as annoying as robocalls and I have to put up with 3 on average every day. I hate to think what it would be like if blockers were no longer permitted. Usually there is no one on the line when I answer (I receive legitimate calls that need answering). Please do not make it difficult for robocall blocker to serve their valuable function.

George B

Is there anything more annoying than robocalls? I wonder how many people have died because they compulsively answer while driving? We are already inundated with advertising . Is there no place left to hide?

I don't like to turn the cell off since I sometimes get important calls.

I would like to see all robocalling illegal with very expensive ($100,000)

Fines for first offenders and prison for repeaters.

In the last two months I have been subjected to approximately 100 plus calls from phone numbers I do not know and have never done business with. Specifically, one number stands out. That is:

Bossy Dave at number 646-389-6932. Never leaves a message and I do not recognize this name or number. Calls were received on:

12/16 8:00 AM
12/17 9:32AM
12/18 8:02AM
12/19 1:10PM
12/20 8:02 AM
12/21 11:47AM
12/22. 8:37AM
12/23 11:43AM
12/26 11:19AM
12/27. 11:23AM
12/28. 3:21PM
12/29 8:37AM
12/30 9:57AM
1/2/15 10:54AM
1/3/15 11:36AM
1/5/15 8:00M

Other calls have come from:

855-284-4824
855-284-3980
855-285-4869
855-284-4823
202-599-8715
360-633-9072

Often times some of these are multiple calls each and every day.

The Do Not Call system is either broken or has no enforcement and is ineffective.

Don't you people have phones? Do you like being bothered at inconvenient times of day? Well, we don't!! You can tell the telcos that we are entitled to robocall blocking regardless of how much funding they get from the companies that use robocalling. The telcos may own the wires and towers, but we own the phones and should be able to block calls or not at our discretion.

Lastly, you work for the people of the country and regulate the industry.. not the other way around.

I am fed up with getting 4-6 ron ovals a day. I own and use my telephone to stay in touch with older parents and every unrecognized call make me anxious.

Please make it stop!

The constant annoyance of robocalls have forced many of us to become call monitors in our own homes. The same companies may call up to 4 or 5 times per day, and at very inconvenient times. Chances are, if you leave me a message on my answering machine, and I don't call you back, then I don't wish to speak to you. Day after day, the same calls come in. Fortunately I have the capability to block a limited number of calls, which may be the only reason I still have some sanity.

Please allow these calls to be blocked. Thank you.

They are so annoying. Further more, even when I pick up, there is usually no one there! They are an annoyance, a mennis, and such a waste of time because I have to check in case I need to answer the phone!

Richmond, VA

Anonymous and noname calls drive me crazy and even the call blocking feature on my phone is insufficient because I have to listen to it ring once before the call is blocked. It's a form of harassment, plain and simple. I don't want a "free" cruise or a "free" alarm system or a "free" anything. I just need some peace and quiet throughout my day in my home.

One of simplest joys in life is hearing my phone ring once, and once only -- then silence! Oh joy; yet another un-asked for, totally un-wanted, time-wasting Robo-call assigned to the garbage pile.

The Government Do Not Call list was (and is) wonderful, but it did not do the whole job; "No More Robo Calls" finishes the job.

Please do not allow the phone companies to take away my peaceful home environment just to satisfy their perpetual greed.

I think robocalls are very very annoying. They even use my own number (spoof call) to call me, I think that is so wrong here. I did file complaint about it to the FCC before, but they couldn't do anything about the problem. I'm sick of all this problems(telemarketers, spoof calls, robocalls) now a days, even the phone companies can't do anything about it. Then finally I found out about this robocall blocking site. Let me tell you it works like a charm. It even helps block out most of spoof calls. I like robocall blocking very much.

I have been assaulted with two and three calls a day from various companies I don't know and don't care to know. MANY do not identify themselves on caller ID "Unavailable 1" is a common caller ID. Please allow consumers the right to block robocallers. Thank you.

My phone rings constantly from the craziest looking phone numbers. If i answer its either somebody trying to sell me something or a bill collector looking for a family member who doesn't live here. And if I call the number back I get a recording that says the call can not be completed. Why do I have to constantly be harrassed like this. I'm 79 years old and live alone and I dont feel that its fair that I have to put up with this harassment. Please stop help me stop this. Please please please.

Please block the junk calls. I'm 80 and don't need the unwanted calls

The government promised to protect us from telemarketers with the "Do not call list." That did not take care of the problem. With nomorobo, at least we have a fighting chance not to be bothered with solicitors. Why should we be subjected to this.

Shari

Allan Johns
Huntington, NY

Robocalls should be available to be blocked by the phone customer.

Fully 80 percent of the calls I get on my home phone are some form of robocall. Many - or really most - of them are not identifiable as to the source or even the real number that the call was made from. This factor, as well as the camouflage caller IDs, demonstrate blatant deception and disregard for the public. We need an effective way to stop them.

So far, Nomorobo is the closest thing to a solution that I've found. My iPhone blocks specified numbers. It should be that simple with a home phone. But that would require the FCC to prevent the range of deceptions used to disguise robocalling numbers.

My wife and I are retired senior citizens. We just can't express how irritating robo calls are to us. We are on the do not call list and use our att uverse call blocking feature but the calls persist. We try to answer every call as it may be important only to hear a recorded message or blabber! We have tried this nomorobo and we now only answer on a second ring. It works some of the time most of the time. Please give me a way to stop these irritating calls that occur all day and night. I am tired of all these robo calls anytime of day or evening, I get at least 3 a day, and it usually is early in the morning, or at dinner time. I work different hours, so they always wake me up. And if I answer and tell them to stop calling , they still call. THIS HAS TO STOP!!!!

Since I'm paying for my phone, I should not be harassed by people calling me from 8 A.M. to 10 P.M. to sell me something. I am on the don't call list but it doesn't work. I had 12 calls yesterday and 8 calls the day before that were RoboCalls. I only had 3 calls that were really for me. I have to have a phone for safety and I have family that are sick but I should not feel like I'm being held hostage just because I need a phone.

Ann Spalding

I'm a phone customer that pays my bills but have to put up with calls I didn't ask for and don't want I have put my name and number on the no call list but this does not work. I get over 20 calls a day and out of those I would say only 2-3 are for us the rest have no business calling me. It has gotten so bad that I don't answer the phone unless I know who it is. Most days the same number calls 3-4 times a day and everyday including the weekend.

I pay my taxes and have for many years and I expect you to get behind this and solve this problem that we are having to live with. As far as I can see you are sitting on you butts and doing nothing for use but supporting these robo calls that never seem to stop.

None of these calls ever leave a message so I know its not a real person.

At this point I don't think the FCC is worth 2 cents.

I am weary of all the robo calls that come into my phone every day every month. I have found some solutions to this some work some don't. During the last election the political calls were the worst offenders. The politicians have conveniently exempted themselves from being affected by the Do Not Call list. And the Do Not Call list means absolutely nothing to the Robo scam calls that I get all the time. These criminals could care less. We were very tired of the endless robo phone calls that start at 8 am and continued until 9 PM or later. On a few occasions over the years, we were on a limited plan of 60 calls a month and some months we had to pay extra because of the nonstop calls. About a year ago we began using NOMOROBO with our Verizon digital phone service. Nomorobo solved this annoying, disruptive and intrusive problem immediately. Please do not take this away from us. If you do, we will be forced to disconnect our phone service. Thank you for considering our concerns.

I want to have control of blocking unwanted calls. I am in my 70's and it is very disturbing receiving these calls. They call at all times of the day and half the time no one answers when you do pick up. They then call back 5 minutes later. I have had as many as 9 calls a day from the same number with no one answering. I have rushed out of the bathroom, hurried up the cellar stairs and actually fell once to get to a robocall. A lot of the calls are trying to scam me. Telling me I have won an ALERT system, or airline tickets. It is a good thing that I can still think clearly. I feel sorry for the elderly that fall for these scams. I have had peace of mind since I got nomorobo. It has reduced these calls by about 80%. Please don't deny me my rights. My only other solution would be to keep my phone off the hook and THAT'S JUST NOT RIGHT.

We hate robocalls and we currently have a robocall blocking product installed on our phone system. I would like to continue being able to block robocalls and going forward I would like to see all restrictions on robocall blocking lifted. Robocalls are an invasion to my privacy and my rights should be protected. As far as I'm concerned, robocalls are violation of my constitution rights. I am sick and tired of getting these calls which take up my time. If we don't answer the phone, they keep on calling, and calling, and calling; they just don't stop. To go one step further, I believe that all political calls should not be allowed as well. Even though we have signed up with the gov. to be off of robo calling lists we continue to get several a day including some on our cell phones. It's very annoying and unproductive. Even though we may talk to someone and ask to be taken off their calling list we continue to hear from these same callers. Many are local and others are farther away. Please let's do something about this invasive practice.

Los Altos, CA

As a self-employed writer who works from home, I require quiet and the lack of intrusion of unwanted, unsolicited calls, yet want an open phone line for calls from people with whom I need to speak. Turning my phone off is not an option. In addition, robo-calls that come in during mealtimes, into the evening and on weekends have become nuisances and outright offensive intrusions.

Without the privacy once afforded citizens prior to the internet and a common telephone presence in the home, there was a sense of personal privacy respected and even coveted from the government. Over time, that respect has disappeared and been replaced by tacit acceptance on the part of the government and law enforcement of the erosion of personal rights and dignity. What is now coveted is the rights of commercial concerns and I want this to stop!

Please give us the right to say 'NO!' to unwanted and offensive intrusions into our homes and lives by robocallers and commercial concerns.

I would love to block robocalls. Everyday for the past three months I have received a call about lowering my credit card rates. At first I just hung up and promptly received the same call again. I started tracking the phone number but after two or three days the number changed even though the call was the same. Then I started pressing three (3) to stop receiving the calls. They still came twice a day. Then I did a call back and when I asked about which credit card they were calling about I was hung up on. That same call came from a car dealer no longer in business according to my caller ID. I even did a call back and got a message that the number was no longer in service. This same call has come from at least 9 different numbers according to my caller ID. I couldn't call about harassing calls because the number changed frequently. Every time I got two calls--the second immediately following my hang up with the first. I eventually decided not to answer the phone. Then I had to listen to the message on the answering machine. Because the calls were a recorded message they always went to the answering machine. What a waste of my time. I wasn't interested day 1 and am still not interested day 63

Robocalls are intrusions into my privacy. Even though I am on a Do Not Call list, I continued to get unwanted calls up to 10 times a day. I work at home and it was interfering with my livelihood. My husband and I are retired and get 6-8 robocalls a day. Its driving us crazy. As soon as it is available for our Comcast phone service we are getting NoMoRobo. We answered phone calls all day long at our jobs -- please let us have some peace in our retirement!

I abhorre robocalls. Invading and disruptive. Stop them.

burbank, california

This is kind of a joke. I signed up robocall blocking just a few months back. It seemed a little better for a few days, and then it started up again. Only worse. Give paying customers a break and put a stop to these tele-marketing jerks. I'm marking this communication anonymous, because about 30% of the robocalls show up on my caller ID as anonymous, Robocalls are annoying. They have increased to the level where I get multiple calls per day. This is unacceptable. I do not want to waste my time listening to a scripted telemarketing pitch for something that I do not need or want.

I'm being inundated inundated daily with robocalls, despite having listed my phone numbers as "DO NOT CALL" with Federal website. HELP!!

Peter A. Morrison
Nantucket, MA

Apparently, being on the "do not call" list means nothing in the world of robocalls. I get at least one and sometimes as many as six a day. NONE of them are for anything I want. I would not buy from someone calling me out of the blue anyway.

The calls drive me nuts, especially when I make an effort to get to them from another room. They are not good for my blood pressure. I have tried ringing through and asking to be taken off their lists. I have clicked on the # they give to be taken off their list. It does no good. I continue to get calls from these jerks.

If you can block them, you have an obligation to do so. These people are stealing our time and, in the case of our mobile phones, are using up our minutes. Please remove this scourge from the people of the U.S.

Sincerely,

Susan Swope
Redwood City, CA

I would like to be able to monitor and control the types of phone calls I receive in the privacy of my own home. Working from home, it is not only my personal life that telemarketers and robocalls are infringing upon, but my work environment as well. In today's age of technology, if I want something (a product, a service, or to make a donation), I am willing and capable adult, and I can surely do that on my own without a robot prompting me to do so by calling.

Summerville, SC

I get robocalls regularly from all over the country and I am sick of it! I am 76 and it takes real effort to go to the phone, only to hear a robocall. I always hope it is a relative or old friend who is reaching out to me. PLEASE, please stop these nuisance calls.

Dave & Betty Core

I receive at least 5 calls a day on my cell phone and land line. They are interruptive. We need your help in protecting us. Please support phone blocking.

The grand notion that opt our of unwanted, unsolicited calls legislation clearly has not worked. I get dozens of hangup calls, partial messages from companies and cloned numbers and it's time for us to action. I pay for the phone and should be able to have the option to block nuisance calls and anyone else I'm not interested in hearing from.

Verizon only lets me block 10 numbers and I want the option to expand that option and shut down crooks trolling for any information that can get to destroy my financial well being. Time for action.

Eileen
Reisterstown, MD

Robocalls and any marketing call without my consent is an invasion of privacy of the worst kind. They are entering my domain by simply having equipment that randomly call numbers until they get a hit. There is a huge difference between a consensual conversation and that of being attacked in the middle of dinner or EVERY single afternoon. If you then listen to what they have to sell, there is absolutely nothing on offer but more often than not scams from some random call center. No strategy, no special product, nothing but scams. On this basis, the phone line should be free, like listening to radio or watching free tv by ploughing through the adverts.

The phone line should have the option of opting out of listening to garbage, or have a way by which to block. TWC does, but only up to 30 numbers.

BTW, you should also know that apparently when you switch carriers, like we did from Verizon (after 10 years) and port your number, they (Verizon) then sell your details to third parties. That is the most ridiculous business model ever and is truly a stab in the back. The bad and frequent calls began about one month after porting my number to TWC. It is criminal.

I know that this model has existed for decades in marketing but it is nevertheless criminal and an invasion of my privacy.

I know that when porting one should also do a re-registration of ones number at the FCC. I have done this before and after; to no avail. The call centers don't care, but you end up answering phones from scammers. This is not what I pay to a service company. Do you pay to your electric company only to receive constant brown-outs or constant electricity??? Phone companies are a utility, nothing more. Not a company that should be allowed to sell my private contact details, if that is what they are doing. Nor should they open up the service line to people I do not wish to hear from. While there is this argument that marketing calls are OK and is a right for companies to engage in. With consent yes, but in the absence of consent absolutely no way. The choice should be mine and not theirs. If I am the buyer, which I am, I should have the choice.

On a separate note, while TWC allows for some blocking, some callers use digits that are xxx-1xx-xxxx. The number one one the prefix is not allowed for blocking purposes so you end up with the same thing. You have to become a technician to protect yourself from the onslaught of BS.

Phone companies don't provide a service, but rather a complication which is why people are switching to just mobile phones.

Good Luck.

Robo calls are a nuisance & a waste of time. I hate running to the phone to have a computer give me a message that I care nothing about, or worse yet hang up when I answer. Also, the calls made from calling lists where an actual person starts talking & won't even let you get a word in edgewise about being on a no call list & when you do tell them they try to argue with you. My phone is for my use & I give my number to people I want to have it. I don't appreciate companies that buy calling lists to solicit my business.

Services like NOMOROBO should be encouraged and appreciated. Any attempt to thwart a service like NOMOROBO, that reduces telemarketer calls, as well as scam calls and robot autodialers, is WRONG.

Please rule in favor of technologies, that consumers can access, which allow us to control and minimize intrusive phone calls, as well as scammers, law breakers and autodialers.

This is especially needed by consumers, since the "do not call" law, and it's current implementation, is a failure.

Averaging nearly 4 robocalls per day. Even blocking those numbers doesn't stop them as I receive the same calls from another different number the next time they call. They must have banks of numbers to originate their nuisance calls.

The robo calls we have experienced have ranged from the regular telemarketing stuff, which is bad enough, to illegal scams and phishing exhibitions from outside the US. I have received multiple calls almost daily(sometimes 2 or 3 in one day) for two or three weeks from the infamous "Windows Support" scammers and also the recorded messages from "The IRS" telling me to call a foreign number because I am being sued. They stop for awhile and then start all over again. Are we just supposed to put up with this?

I have been on the Do Not Call registry for many years and I still receive at least 4 unsolicited calls per day! I do not want robocalls to my personal phone lines. I pay for a phone line and I should be able to control the usage of it. DO NOT CALL means DO NOT CALL!

I strongly urge you to require all phone companies to make robocall blocking easily available and effective. Robocalls are a nuisance to every phone line subscriber and both land and cell line subscribers are negatively impacted by these calls. Even if your line is on the do not call list, you receive the aggravation of these anonymous and harassing calls. We pay for our phones and we should be able to decide if there are calls that we do not want to receive. Your assistance in making this happen is imperative. An option that you may also consider is making robocalls illegal. Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Robocalls are a bane. I am retired, and the phone rings from early in the morning until early evening with these pests. This is a fantastic service. The robocalls are completely out of hand and an extreme invasion of privacy. I was so happy when this became available and have let everyone I know about it. It is terrible to have to get up and answer a phone when you are ill, elderly or just a shift worker. Whoever is behind this robocall stuff should be prosecuted and serve time in prison just for making millions of people miserable. Probably not even enough cells to hold these creeps.

Robo calls are out of control. If you don't answer they just keep calling back multiple times per day. Verizon has not provided tools to solve the problem. we should have the right to block marketing calls with other tools than the donotcall.gov website, companies violate this list all the time. I was receiving over 15 robocalls every night. These usually came during dinner hours or later at night. I have an unlisted number and never gave anyone permission to call me. I am on the Federal do not call list which, quite frankly, is a joke it stops nobody. I also tried blocking specific numbers. My phone provider allows me to block 25 callers. Peace has returned to our home since we signed up with NOMOROBO.com.

Finally, these annoying calls from mostly foreign sounding people have stopped, people that claim that something is wrong with our computer, that I owe money to the IRS, imitating police and telling me that an arrest warrant is out for me, advising me that my wheelchair is ready to be shipped and all kinds of other unwanted solicitations. Even though we are on the "do not call" list. It makes my wife and me so angry that the phone company and the government cannot or does not want to do anything about it. Please, please, please make RoboCalling unlawful. On Christmas Day, I received a RoboCall from the Home Owner's Association at 10 am wishing me and my family a Happy and Joyous Holiday.

What a joke! The last people I want to hear from on Christmas Day is the Home Owner's Association. I live in Albuquerque and the community is called Vista De La Luz managed by Canyon Gate.

During the pre-election period, I would receive at least 3-5 RoboCalls per day sometimes from the party that I am not affiliated. One call left a return number and I spoke directly with the organizer of the event and advised him that not only was I not a Republican, but that I was on the Federal Do Not Call Register. I requested for them to Cease and Desist from calling me in the future and requested that my name and number be removed from their call list.

The RoboCalling must be made unlawful and illegal. It is a form of harassment.

Nomorobo has allowed us to lead a more restful life. We were getting 150-180 unsolicited calls per month. We now think that Nomorobo has had a training effect on all those companies offering free groceries, life alerts, cleaning services, etc. Please do not take away our right to reject calls from companies that violate the government's own Do Not Call list, which is pretty toothless without the assistance of Nomorobo.

The home phone in our house is used rather rarely. It is mostly as an emergency point of contact and as a secondary phone for my three teenagers who have a tendency to lose/break/fail to charge their cell phones. But the phone rings a dozen times a day or more. These calls are unsolicited telemarketing and charity companies using robocalling techniques to make a living. Although I don't begrudge them a living, they do not allow me to tell them I have no interest in their calls. And there is no way to tell them to leave us alone - even answering seems to cause more calls. Since these overzealous and unscrupulous sales companies don't seem to care about the government no call list or have found loopholes to get around the prohibitions, I should have the right to use a service that will block these calls. I have considered canceling my land line service but realize that if enough land lines are cancelled, cell phones will be the next target. If local regulations in many parts of our country prohibit door to door solicitation, why can't we expect the same level of privacy on our home phone service.

I am sick and tired of the endless ROBOCALLS from telemarketers, poll takers and political candidates. It is an invasion of personal privacy and I want it stopped.....NOW!

Vance Grazio
Haverhill, MA

Robocalls are already illegal to a cell phone, they should be illegal to land lines as well. Yes there is a right to free speech but also to privacy. I dont believe the laws are there to protect faceless machines, so I don't think the free speech applies. I should not be invaded in my own home without the ability to block these annoying calls.

Unwanted calls for solicitation "robocalls" of any kind is wrong, inconsiderate and NOT WANTED!! It is MY phone, MY phone number and I pay the BILL! I mean really, "hello you have just won....." and I hang up, well, now nomorobo hangs up for me, and I am fine with that.

Carl Frady
Yorktown, VA

I am so tired of all the robocalls received every day. If I want to talk to someone, I will get their phone number and call them or send them an email. I do not want unsolicited calls, just like I do not like unsolicited people coming to my door. As I said, if I want or need a service, I will get a phone number or email address and request to talk to them.

Lawrenceville, Ga.

I hate robocalls and would never buy from a company that marketed that way. Please help us block them. The no call list does not work, Nomorerobo does work so please just let them do their job.

Darlene Rains

Until I got nomorobo (robot call blocker), I had to unplug my phone to take a nap. I get 12 or more unsolicited phone calls per day. You can hear that the majority of these are robot calls.

Robocalls are abusive. Please dont take way our ability to protect ourselves from this abuse.

Leave my NOMOROBO alone. Robocalls are the bane of the phone industry and NOMOROBO is the only line of defense we have.

John & Carlene Fraughton

Every other day I receive a robo call from credit card services, wanting me to lower my credit card interest. Or I can qualify for a " free" medical device.

On the positive side, doctors offices have a recorded message reminding me of appointments.

Columbia, MD

I receive probably 1-3 robocalls per day, nearly every day. I am able to use blocking for my home phone, for now at least, but cannot do anything about the robocalls that I receive on both my personal and work cellular phones. Robocalls have gotten extremely out of hand & anything and EVERYTHING that is available to stop these (especially the scam calls that the FTC and others are always "investigating" but never solving/stopping) should be not only available, but mandatorily available for use by anyone who wishes to use it.

Lawrence L. Heidenberg, MPH
Newark, DE

Robo calls are a serious inconvenience for myself and my family. They disrupt the precious time that we try to spend together. Before Nomorobo we experienced 5 or 6 robo calls per day. No company should have the right to interrupt our family's time, especially that often! Please help save the American Family by allowing us to block these annoying and unwanted calls. I also request assistance in eliminating these calls altogether.

Ron and Kay Head

I pay for the phone, so allow me to choose.

Seriously ... PLEASE let us block these calls!! We receive upwards of ten of these calls (between two phone lines) EVERY DAY! What an incredible waste of time! Sometimes when you hang up - they call right back. I don't know why businesses do this ... it can't be profitable for them with everyone hanging up all of the time.

June Bachman
Redmond, WA

I should have the right to decide if I want to opt out of receiving those pestering, annoying, unsolicited robocalls. These calls are never from any business I would want to do business with. By receiving unsolicited calls, I would never do business with a company contacting me in this manner.

I have been very pleased to get relief from these annoying calls since I subscribed to Nomorobo

Robert Chamberlain
Plymouth, MA

I am tired of the robo calls I receive. The majority of these calls are allegedly from Microsoft telling me I have a virus on my computer. I repeatedly tell them I do not and not to call again. Within an hour I get another call from another "Microsoft" caller. It does not matter how many times I tell them not to call, they inevitably do. I do not want solicitors, politicians, or robo calls invading my privacy. Do you appreciate your family time, dinner time, or work time interrupted by these nuisance calls? Well, neither do I. Stop these robo calls.

i use the robocall blocker and love it. I find robocalls totally intrusive and can not see any reason to allow them.

Sid Pollk

I receive tons of calls that run the gamete from money lending companies to audiologists and everything else in between. They come from all over the U.S.. Even though I placed my phone number on the "Do Not Call List" these businesses have chosen to ignore it. Some calls come through telling me that they are calling with the information I requested. I acquired Nomorobo to help cut off some of these calls and they do a great job. They have made the supper hour and weekends a lot less aggravating. The phone companies have no right to tell people that they can't eliminate these annoying calls. Life, in general, is crazy enough and we should at least have control over own phone.

New York

AT 75, do i really need to be annoyed at all hours with these nonsense calls especially when there is NO ONE ON THE OTHER END.....I no longer answer calls from strange states with unknown area codes but we still are be harassed by them at all hours and its really not fair.....our phone bill is not free why should we be continually called by people we do not know or want to talk to by some machine that maybe is set up to talk or to just register that a call was made....

Mr Mrs A. Petrello

I used to have this feature when I had a land line and loved it. Please allow me to block robo calls on my ATT wireless phones. The ability to block unwanted calls is my right and I should be able to do it.

Why let the public believe that they can block unwanted calls without blocking robo calls from telemarketers. And, whi you're at it, remove political campaigners from exempt status on the unwanted call list.

Most are scams, shame on the phone companies.

Edward Michalowski

I pay for my phone service, both cellular and land line. I am fed up with receiving unsolicited phone calls (5 to 6 per day) on lowering my credit card interest rate, etc. Nomorobo gives us the ability to block these calls since, obviously, the do not call list does not seem to phase these people.

Dave and Melissa Potter
Wilmington, de

Please stop the robocalls!!! They are annoying and I do not want them. For telemarketers we have the do not call option. We can't tell robocalls this as we do not even talk to a human. Most of the time it is for something that I have no interest in. They interrupt at the worst times. Please allow us to take control of the service that we pay for. We do NOT want these calls.

Bonnie Merton

Definitely opposed to robocalls. We get trash phone calls everyday frequently at inconvenient times. These people seem to think we have nothing else to do. A definite invasion of privacy!

JRAlexander

All these robocalls are ridiculous and annoying! I wish you would do something to stop them. I use AT&T U-Verse for my home phone and I am given the capability of blocking only 20 numbers, meaning a number must be unblocked before a new one can be added. I'm getting many more than 20 different numbers ringing my home phone. And, I get at least one new number a day on my cell phone that hasn't already been blocked. This has to stop NOW!

Elizabeth Gerber

I grew up in a time when the phone rang for one of two reasons: it was someone you knew, or (rarely) someone had dialed a wrong number.

No more robocalls - why would you think otherwise about eliminating a disease like this that everyone and anyone wants to avoid and STOP! The cure is in your hands. Eradicate this plague NOW!

Stop it now!

Dreyfus Canine

It seems like there is not a day that goes by that we don't receive at least one if not more robocalls. They are annoying and serve no useful purpose, at least from the consumers standpoint.

I should have every right to block unwanted calls, whatever their source. I am the one paying for my phone service so I should be the one to decide how I use it not some big business or advertising firm! Along those lines, I should be able to use the software/program of my choice to block those types of calls.

Jon Engebretsen

Even though I'm on your "Do Not Call List", I get many calls during the day from solicitors. Since the federal government is not doing anything about these harassing calls, you should let private enterprises provide solutions to consumers.

Jim Moore

The report violations website you have is a joke. My home and cell numbers are both on the donotcall.gov lists, yet I can't tell you how many times weekly I am robocalled by "rachel from cardmember services" to "inform me that my card debt (blah blah blah)". You obviously are feckless bureaucrats unable to enforce OUR laws, so please empower private companies to do that which our useless guvmint seems unable to do. BLOCK ROBOCalls

Laura Vogel

This is ridiculous to outlaw robo call blocking! It seems to be more about money than good sense! The advertisers have a right to free speech but we, the consumer public, have the right not to listen. Stopping robo calls through my ability to block them is and should be a core issue of my freedoms.

Terrill and Ann Coffin

I believe that each and every individual who has a landline or cell phone should be able to block telemarketers from calling them. I receive numerous phone calls each week soliciting etc and they never remove your number as stated plus if you do block a number they call back on another extension. I don't know how they get our numbers or info but they do and when I try I can't get it so go figure. One company and person from Fla went so far as to curse me out, others simply hang up when they call because they have other calls going and the first to answer but when they find out that you don't want the item or not interested they don't even bother to say sorry or goodbye which says that they should have no rights and if you're on the do not call list it is to no avail as that doesn't stop them or the list does nothing to stop them because I have reported them there also.

For years our evenings at home have been disturbed by robocalls. Our phone carrier was unable to offer a solution, and our only option was to block the latest unsolicited call on our phone system but which is limited to 20 phone numbers and this quickly filled up. Nomorobo is the only product I have been able to find that works and has restored the peace in our home from unwanted phone calls.

Please allow the public to block robo calls. They are annoying and obnoxious. They interrupt my dinner and private time.

By blocking robocalls, which come to my home phone 4 to 6 times a day, I gain a sense of security. As a senior citizen, I'm targeted with all sorts of phone scams and nuisance sales calls for products and services I cannot afford and do not need. Make this service available to everyone! Help stop the scams.

Rob calling is intrusive, the sources are usually untraceable and unresponsive to requests to not call again, and are sometimes crooks. The federal Do Not Call registry is ignored by the Rob calling scofflaws. Its basically Spam from unscrupulous vendors.

Blocking services such as NoMoRobo must not be suppressed.

W Articola

Robocall blocking products actually make my telephone useful again. Never once in my life have I accepted a solicitation by telephone. Frankly, unsolicited calls are a nuisance and a form of harassment and welcome these products.

The telephone companies are public utilities, regulated by your agency, and they enable scam artists to make these illegal robocalls. The phone companies have equipment which allows them to monitor their customers' usage and identify robocallers. Please require them to forego a small amount of profit and simply pull the plug on these criminals who annoy me an average of 3 or 4 times per day, every day.

I have had a completely different life since I signed up for Nomorobo several months ago. I have had back surgery and needed rest and sleep I was constantly being disturbed by unwanted calls. They were from time share agencies - we have no time shares, insurance companies that we don't use, credit card companies to Lower our interest rate when we don't use the card. We are retired and home during the day. It has been heaven without all the interruptions. Please do not stop Nomorobo. From helping people out. It is such a gift.

We currently can block robocalls on our land line but not on our cell phones. Robocall blocking should be available to all consumers through all carriers. Who's paying for my phones?

I am.

What am I paying for?

MY phones.

I bought them, I own them, they are MINE.

AND I pay for the services for each of them.

You do none of the above.

Let's just say that a man's home is his castle, his phone is a little access door to his castle, and he doesn't have to let unwanted people/parties into that castle, physically nor electronically, nor virtually.

Nor do I have to answer the door (i.e., the phone) to every person/party/corporately-employed whatever that knocks/rings/texts thereupon.

If that's too complex for you, try this:

DON'T RESTRICT MY RIGHT TO BLOCK ROBOT-CALLS.

It is ridiculous how many times Consumer Services calls my telephone number. Sometimes 2 and 3 times a day usually everyday. The telemarketer uses at least 25 different numbers. If I block one number they use a different number next time. My phone plan allows a fixed amount of time at a flat rate for me to use incoming and outgoing calls. I have to pay extra for over limit usage. Why allow telemarketers to spend my money. I have not found a way to stop this unsolicited activity

Ed Sylak
Perrysburg Ohio

Up until about three months ago, I received about 20 unsolicited, robo/telemarketer calls per week. My number is unlisted and I am on the Do Not Call Registry for a reason ... I do not want unsolicited, robo/telemarketer calls. After picking up the calls and politely declining services offered, callers would become more aggressive and occasionally hostile. Even asking them to remove my name from their call list went ignored because I kept receiving calls from the same company. These people are unethical and unrelenting. My name on the Do Not Call Registry is meaningless to these people. I finally resorted to letting all unrecognized caller numbers go to my answering machine for screening. nomorobo has provided me with peace of mind by eliminating at least 80% of these calls. It is a free, welcomed service that looks out for consumers. If telephone companies were truly concerned about our welfare, they would welcome this kind of service.

Robocalls are an intrusion to our right to privacy within our home. The "do not call list" only works with "good" companies. The congress and the phone companies appear to have neither the will or capacity to stop the "bad" company robocalls. Thr FCC actually addressed the problem. NomoRobo stops the bad guys. As they say in the movies , "follow the money". Guessing this latest move leads to lobbists and commercial special interest groups that have the "bad" politicians in their pocket.

I am tired of robocalls and want the ability to block them. All of my phones are on the do not call list. However, I now receive more unwanted calls than I did before putting them on the list. No matter how many times I ask them to not call me and tell them I am on the do not call list, it does no good. They hang up on me and continue to call back. I believe they just switch to call me from a new number, because the number is different but the messages are all the same. They are using the do not call list to actually get numbers to call.

Please stop these robocalls, by supplying robocall blocking products. Please enforce the laws against calling people on the do no call list.

Stop the madness! They call constantly, often don't leave messages or even valid numbers to return calls. When you DO answer, they are dead air. If there's a number on CID and you call to get a live person, you tell them to remove your number, and they don't. Or, they tell you to press a number to "be removed from our list" and they STILL keep calling! We need protection, especially when we're on the DO NOT CALL list. I live alone and I receive telemarketing calls that hang up after I answer and then usually call back again and again, It is unnerving for a senior citizen to be stalked like this- how do I know that there is not someone collecting information on my schedule or outside my home checking to see if the house is empty? I'm sick and tired of getting calls from the same telemarketers every day and night even after I've asked the to stop calling. I don't need their services!

Apple Valley CA

Every evening around 5:00, I get one or two phone calls from companies either trying to buy my timeshares or sell me more. I mean EVERY evening.

Roseville, California

I have been on Federal and State "do not call" lists for a few years - not that it does any good.

Robocalls are an entirely unwelcome and almost unstoppable intrusion into my life. Some of these callers call many times a day, I have one at present, RCI who call around 25 times a week.

Robocall blocking technology is my choice - it is generally effective, it allows me to concentrate and saves me losing my temper telling incessant callers to take me off their lists, not to call - all of which they ignore.

Robocalls are a menace and now it's starting on cellphones. The FCC needs to either do a better job of managing these callers - or allow RoboCall blocking technologies to be used.

As they should be, robo and telemarketing calls are supposed to be illegal. The problem is, companies and criminals alike, scoff at the law since it has no teeth. They continue to harass MILLIONS of people daily. They spoof called ID's to get through anonymous call blocking, and blatantly IGNORE the Do Not Call Registry. They continue to trespass into our homes, interrupting meal times or sleep with no regard for others. If I put a "NO SOLICITING" sign on my front door, people are obligated to obey that. Why should telephones be allowed to be any different? MY sign IS up, I am on the Do Not Call list, why do we continue to be subject to this harassment? Track down and CONVICT these people. If they showed up on my front porch after being told not to by a sign, they would be subject to arrest for trespassing.

I still have a cell phone plan that has a voice limit each month. It used to be that cell phones were off limits to telemarketers and robocallers but that was a thing of the past. These people call me all day long at times interrupting meetings and other important tasks frequently. Not to mention, sometimes they use my minutes if I'm expecting a call but don't recognize the number and end up answering. This ends up costing me money. You've already made it possible to put my number on the do not call list but that is ineffective these days as robocallers can't be found. Since there is no discovery mechanism to catch these robocallers then the consumer should be able to block them. Thank you for your time.

Bryan Smith

Right before I turned 65, I started received 10 to 15 phone calls a day from a host of very concerned phone banks regarding my Medicare selections. They would call from early in the morning until as close to 9 pm as possible. All these calls made me miserable. I discovered a way to block these calls - enrolling in the Federal NOCALL list - which helped a little; and by using Nomorobo which has helped a lot. Activating Nomorobo means that now I only have to listen to 1 ring at most from the majority of these pests before they are blocked by Nomorobo. It was my decision to reduce these annoying and totally unnecessary interruptions to my life just as I decide to use the television mute button to stop the similarly annoying television commercials on cable TV. I pay for both cable television and my telephone service and wish to exercise my right to use my services as I see fit with the minimum of invasive and unsolicited interruptions from robocalls. Imagine telling me that I can't use my mute button to block television commercials! Robocall blocking prevents these nuisances from disturbing the peace and harmony of my home and has the added benefit of helping maintain my blood pressure! Thank you.

I would like for the phone companies to make it easier to block Robocalls and unwanted solicitations from sales calls. i get several calls daily on my cell phone and home phone. They spoof their caller ID most of the time so I have no way to report their number. There has to be a solution to this problem.

I get 4 to 6 unsolicited calls per day. I tell them to not call, but they keep calling. Sometimes there is a person and sometimes a recording. In any event, I have now stopped answering calls and will only return calls if a message is left. I hate it!!!

I get enough robo calls on my hard line phone even with your so call "Do Not Call List". Please let me decide if I want to block robo calls on my own. Your "Do Not Call List" is only an active list of phone numbers for tele-marketers to call. IT DOES NOT WOK!!!

Please explain why, if I have an unlisted number, these calls still continue to come in. I never give out my home phone # specifically for this reason. We are constantly receiving calls from unwanted solicitors. I recently started using nomorobo and it has helped enormously to cut down on the robo calls. Now when I get robo calls the phone rings twice and stops. I don't have to deal with unwanted solicitors. The same unwanted solicitors that I tell each time to take me off of their call list. They always ignore my request and I continue to receive the unwanted calls.

Please allow Robocall to block those annoying calls usually at dinner time. I don't want a free trip, cruise or anything else that they are soliciting for. Even the charities are getting annoying and increasing in number. How can a person tell what is a scam or legitimate call. It's about time there is a way to stop these calls which arrive at the most inappropriate times.

I have been enjoying the benefits of Nomorobo on my VoIP home phone for about a year. Unfortunately, my Verizon cell account in Maine does not support Nomorobo. I get at least 1 to 2 calls a day from robo-call telemarketers. Please tell Verizon that allowing robocalls is bad business and that they should permit Nomorobo to set up blocking for those calls.

I want you to insure I get to decide whether or not I want to block ANY call to my phone whether it's my cell phone or land line. It's your job to insure we all retain this ability. Not only are unsolicited calls annoying but my 21 years of Law Enforcement experience tell me that these dialer programs can be used to drop spyware onto your phone. With all the Goggle Pay, Apple Pay and banking applications on our smart phones they can be turned into broadcast platforms for our most sensitive financial information. Each of us will benefit from the ability to block unwanted or unsolicited calls. Don't make me turn my smart phone into a dumb phone just so I can protect myself.

Please allow robocall blocking. Unwanted phone calls are annoying. We seniors (over 80 years old) need our rest and these unwanted calls sometimes come while we are asleep or napping. Some of us have difficulty getting around to answer annoying calls. Please be fair and let these unwanted calls be blocked

Because I have a phone should not mean that salespeople can call me at will as they do now, especially at the dinner hour. Our phone can ring up to 4-5 robocalls a day - especially during elections, and around this time of year when every charity on God's green earth wants you to support their causes. And why does the robocall always come at the worst possible time - nap time, dinner time, middle of a favorite TV show or movie, just as company arrives or bedtime. Please give us a break - a break from all of the annoying. Even though my husband is very much alive, I have started telling the person on the other end of the line that he has expired and is not interested in a cruise or a time share. So far, that has not gotten his name off of any list.

Over the last month nomorobo has successfully blocked 16 robocalls to our home phone. We haven't had to answer "Rachel from card services" since we've set up nomorobo. I love what nomorobo does and only hope this service can be expanded to cover everyone instead of just those of us with VOIP service.

There have been no instances of a real phone number being accidentally blocked and I only wish I could figure out a way to block politicians using this very useful service.

Until the FCC can actually figure out a way to stop these annoying and infuriating robocalls nomorobo is the answer...I wonder how much cash telecoms bleed off of the services the scammers are using? it's the only reason I can think of why they would want to stop people from blocking robocalls.

Harry Jung

The robocallers are shameless! While the company that tells people they are calling about their cards was defending itself in court, they were still calling people. Since I have no credit cards, I know they're calling and harassing everyone.

Why are they allowed to disturb us while we're busy? I applauded when the law regulated sales calls, but I know this kind of thing would happen.

I quit a market research job when they tried to make us use these tactics-nobody should be allowed to.

I think the Nomorobo product is better than the Do Not Call Registry ever was. Before using Nomorobo and being registered and reregistered again and again on the Do Not Call Registry, I was inundated with daily phone calls that were scams and robocalls. I began to feel that the registry was taken down and not effective. I then found Nomorobo and implemented it. It works and I think that it is effective and should be allowed to exist.

I feel strongly that with the price I pay for my telephone service I should be able to block anyone that I do not want to talk to. I feel that robo-calls particularly are an intrusion into my house. They are uninvited and an invasion of my privacy.

Please consider allowing me to block any calls that I wish.

Amarillo, Texas

I receive four to five robocalls a day. I report these faithfully, since I have been on the National "No Call" list since its inception. Many of these are simply hangups (prospecting for "live" numbers?). Others offer Medicare scams, "Free" alarm systems, and the like.

Since I carry a common name, I'm frequently called about my "college loans." Good luck with that. I graduated in 1964! I also paid cash! I get these calls despite using both hardware and software call blockers. It is past time that all telephone customers have access to these tools. And those who use technology to send incorrect caller ID information should be prosecuted for fraud.

I am sick and tired of getting robo spam calls. I am on the Do not Call list and it only makes legitimate companies stop. But the spam callers are only interested in scamming and making money.

I use a robocall blocking software to minimize phone interruption. It works when a caller calls with a number I don't recognize and I check the number on the web and if it is a known scammer, it will block the call. Of course scammers will spoof the number to a different one and the process repeats.

It should be illegal for any average joe to spoof caller ID. It makes it impossible to track down these criminals. There is no teeth with the Do Not Call list violators.

Something has to be done to stop the robocalls!

Thank you.

Computer dialed calls (robocalls) are huge invasion of privacy. They are an unwarranted and unwanted intrusion. Private citizens must have the right to control access to their own phone. The phone represents an entry point into my home and I should have the ability to manage who has the right of access. The ability to identify and block robocalls has been a relief and a blessing and it must be my right to use such a product if desired. Others should have right to not block if they don't want to. The choice should be under my control.

For the past four years, I've been dealing with at least one robocall from scammers every single day. The month before elections, I will get four or five robocalls from politicians running for reelection. The calls come any time, day or night. It got so bad that during the last election I told the republican candidate that I would vote for whoever called my house the least. The scammers have used our number and my relatives phone numbers to spoof call us. We have had a our phone company block about twenty-four of the numbers the scammers have used, but that only gives us a few days of peace and quiet at the most. The scammers just turn around and used another fake phone number. Please FCC, do something about those robocalls. I can't imagine how much money these con artists have gotten off of people. What they're doing is harassment and possibly fraud.

I do not want you to remove my robocalls It is my phone and I should have the right to say who I want to call me.

Cary,NC

I am against ALL non-paid robocalls and yes that does include political calls and political fund raising calls and every sheriff's benevolent association know to mankind.

Now, paid robocalls are a different story. It those that make the robocalls are willing to pay say $3.00 to the holder of every number they call, then put it in the law. If you call my number and you are not on my white list, you contribute $3.00 towards my AT&T phone bill. Any amount over the normal bill goes into my pocket.

The bottom line: I pay for the use of my phone to be able to call those that I have a bonified personal reason to call. Other than that, I have zero use for any robo/politico/fund-raising call. Period.

Please require all of the phone companies to allow the blocking of robocalls. The Federal and State "do not call" registrations are not working as advertised. Presently, I can block robocalls with my AT&T provider; however, I also have Verizon as a provider which does not support blocking robo calls. I want robo calls blocked. I urge you to consider my strong opinion that robocall and similar call blocking products continue to be made available to the public.

For months my family endured the continuous bombardment of these automated calls. I put our line on a do-not-call list but it did not help. Please help to eliminate RoboCalls as the first real step to get rid of all the unsolicited calls that we all receive on a daily basis. We have been battling cancer and there are other important events that make it important for us to answer unknown calls just in case it is important. Often we have to stop important chores to answer junk calls or at the very least check the Caller ID only to find nobody on the line or a recording trying to sell us what we don't need. The Do Not Call List is a joke and does not help one bit. This more than just a pet peeve, it is an encroachment into our rights and sets back modern advancements... it is an annoyance and hinders the completion of actual important matters. Why should we have to put up with unsolicited annoyances? We should have the right to eliminated unwanted calls and receive only the calls that we want or that mean something to us. These people call multiple times and most times don't even have the decency to respond to those that stop what they are doing to answer in hopes it is a call that is important or wanted. You have it in your power to eliminate these... please grab the bull by the horns and help your constituents. Thank you in advance for your assistance.

I am retired and home a great deal. Having the ability to block robocall shas greatly enhanced my life. So many of the unwanted phone calls I received before getting nomorobo were time consuming and certainly unwanted. I was on a do-not-call list, but that didn't seem to help at all. Robo calls have become an increasing daily annoyance. Even though I'm on the federal do not call registry, unscrupulous telemarketers flout the law and pester me with calls. You need to understand that we don't want to be bothered by people who calling us all day a long and trying to sell us something that is not needed. Its very annoying and does not serve us any good. My family does not want to receive these annoying Calls. we are not interested xyz scamming company trying to lower out credit card bills... No European countey faces this. USA is stupid to allow this happen. Someone is getting a hefty kick back. Brining consumers grifs. Stop this none sense and why in gods name you support this ?

Please allow me to use products to block robocalls. Even with these products annoying robocalls get through. I screen all of my calls now even with these products through my call answering device. Even so, these companies continue to bother me and to a high degree. I have a right to my privacy in my own home. Please allow me to exercise this right.

I would like your office to support blocking all robots calls and calls from anonymous sources..

I believe we need to take any and all action to stop these types of calls.

I shall appreciate your attention this request.

Robocalls are a total invasion of privacy. We have caller ID and do not answer a call if the number is not familiar to us; however, I would much prefer that the calls did not come through at all. Having the phone ring with a robocall when we are sleeping, in the shower etc. is extremely angering.

West Springfield, MA

Robocalls are really frustrating especially to those of us who are full time caregivers or anyone who needs quiet unless there's a real need to call me. Some robocallers call multiple times in the same day and several times a week. The most annoying are the "reduce your credit card rate" that call over and over and over. And so many robocallers now use FAKE caller ID's to try to get us to pick up the phone.

We DESPERATELY need to get them blocked on our cell phones since some of us do not have unlimited plans.

Kathy Jarvis
Greensboro NC

My rings incessantly with sales calls. "Do not call" list is useless! I spent 3 hours trying to set up Nomorobocall through Comcast. Totally futile, frustrating and unsuccessful. Why can't it be easier??????

Larry Keefer

Personally I think robocalls should be outlawed completely. But, if we can't outlaw them at least give us the opportunity to block them! I appreciate Nomorobo. The amount of robocalls I receive has been greatly reduced thanks to them. I only wish I could do the same on my cell phone. If you pass regulations it will make it possible. Thank you.

I am sick and tired of getting robot calls on my home phone, usually requiring me to drop what I am doing to answer the phone.

Please allow those who can help block these calls to do so. I have contacted NOMOROBODCALLS for this service. They tell me the phone companies will not allow them to block robocalls. This must be changed immediately.

James and Gail Van Valkenburg

I am so sick of robotic calls that I changed my phone number after 28 years; it cost me $25 to change it and $2 every month to be unlisted! We also used the FCC Do Not Call Registry and it helped very little; we renewed it after 4 years but the callers ignore it. We reported the violations on the FCC website to no avail. We went to our phone provider and blocked some of the numbers, but the solicitors just change one digit and keep calling.

With NoMoRobo our evenings are now peacefully quiet, except for the occasional "one ring" that we verify is always a call that we do not want.

B Curley

I believe in "freedom of speech" but think it is an invasion of privacy when telemarketers & solicitors call the telephone at my residence.

I have used Nomorobo for a large number of months and find it is a very effective tool to block unwanted inbound calls.

The unwanted calls that come over and over, night and day and on week-ends are one of the most annoying things I deal with. Please do something about it.

We all need private time. When we're home we should be able to unwind, relax and not be invaded by phone calls trying to sell us things. If we had wanted it in the first place we would have already checked into it. Not only are there calls trying to sell us things, there are calls of all kinds from so called PC issues, political, charities, ect. Enough is enough. Our homes should be our sanctuary where we should be able to go to keep the big bad world out.

Judy Coons

We should be able to block unwanted calls. Afterall, someone calls us on our cell phone, WE PAY FOR THE CALL! Besides, we might be in a meeting or doing something important when the unwanted call comes in. It's an invasion of privacy.

PLEASE STOP THESE ROBOCALLS!!! The No Call list is being ignored and the various thieves are again harassing anyone/everyone with a phone. Force the various phone systems/companies to provide system wide blocking of the abusive calls using some kind of central database. I average 5 -10 calls per week for everything from drugs to medical alerts and alarm systems. STOP these people at the TELCOs!

I am SO grateful to have Robo Call Blocking!!! What a nightmare it was before I got it!!! I am a widow and EVERYBODY out there wants all my money and they used to call me everyday, multiple calls each day, to ask for it! PLEASE make it easier for everyone to have robo call blocking!!! American citizens should not be at the mercy of robo calls and the torture they dish out day after day incessantly!! I'm begging!! Please allow everyone to be able to stop these annoying, harrassing calls!!! Thank you!!

My wife and I are retirees over 65 and Nomorobo has been a real blessing. It is extremely annoying to get up out of the chair to answer a call and find that it is a robocall connecting you to a recording or a sales rep feeding you a sales pitch you have no interest in. Usually, these callers also ignore the Do Not Call list.

I am tired of receiving robocalls 5 out of 7 evenings when I am eating dinner. I also get them during the rest of the day. It is to the point that I let the phone ring and allow my answering machine pick-up. I then call my friends and business acquaintances back.

James Petzold

We are absolutely sick of all the robocalls!! Aren't you??

Do you want robocalls constantly disturb you during your family dinner on a daily basis??

We firmly believe robocall blocking products are good for consumers, since FCC is not doing much to curb annoying robocalls.

Clarksburg, MD

It's about time that this robo call stuff ended. You're in charge of the situation, so I'd wish the FCC would finally get off it's ass and do it already.

We are sick and tired of the "DO NOT CALL LIST" that doesn't do anything.

It's my phone, I pay the bills for it and I don't want solicitors using my phone.

Enough already.

Please permit robocall blocking products as there are too many companies who blatantly disregard the do not call list. Tools like NoMoreRobo permits me to prioritize my incoming calls so I do not waste time hanging up on a computer. It's hard to fathom why telecom companies want programs such as NoMoreRobo out of business unless they are profiting from all of the telemarketing.

Please let us preserve our family time and our wallets. It is essential that we are able to defend our homes and our time against companies who can dial thousands of numbers in an instant.

Sincerely,

Please listen.. Robo calls are a significant problem. Besides being annoying, the are fostering an age of rudeness. People are simply losing patience. Soe of these characters even attemp intimidation by impersonating a federal agency. Sometimes they threaten legal action - I admit I swore about that guy and questioned his mother's morals. Stop this if you have the nerve. I sadly suspect that nerve is lacking.

Robot calls are out of control. Easily more than half the time our phone rings it is a robocall. The FCC should do all that it can to force the phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers.

Robert Osaki

I got a phone line so that I could make and receive calls with friends and family. Instead almost 99% of all incoming calls are from annoying and unwelcome robocalls. I'm not a masochist so why should pay for a service that gives nameless and obnoxious entities the means to continuously harass me? Robocall blocking is the only solution to maintaining my sanity against the onslaught of all the unwanted robocalls I receive. Thank you.

Robocalls are offensive and annoying. I currently have a robocall blocking program that I love. Nomorobo blocks all spam phone calls. The phone will ring once, which I'm okay with, and then the call is blocked. It blocks at least half a dozen per day. I would consider getting rid of my land line phone if these services were not available. It should not be legal for these calls to be placed when they are not wanted.

My wife and I are retired so we're home most of the day and the constant ringing of the phone is very irritating. I use to donate to certain charities but once you give they never stop calling wanting more. Please, help us to eliminate these pesky callers. Thank you

Robo calls now outnumber calls from people I know. They are a huge nuisance. But if you are human, you already know as they call you as well.

I have tried many ways to block their calls to little or no success. I use the Do not call list but they just ignore that. Because they are un-identifiable I cannot contact them or file a complaint against them.

Allow me to block them and enforce some method to reduce anonymous phone calls. Give us some way to defend ourselves.

Ron Griffin

I have had my phone number registered in the "Do Not Call" website since it was started. What a waste. Before I started using Nomorobo, I was receiving 2 to 3 calls per day from telemarketers. Most of these calls were from contractors selling home remodeling and solar power. I don't need remodeling and I already have solar. I have now started having the same problem with my cell phone.

John Crews
Eastvale, California

I'm a busy mother of a 2 and 4 year old, and also work from home. My household had been receiving up to twenty, yes twenty, solicitation calls a day, mostly from solar energy companies. You can imagine the time spent dealing with this, not to mention the stress of my phone ringing all day long. Since installing Nomorobo, these calls have been blocked and it has improved my quality of life tremendously. No one should have to endure unwelcome intruders in their home.

We use nomorobo through Time Warner Cable to block robocalls. But, as good as nomorobo is, we still have some robocalls that slip through to our home phone everyday. The volume had been anywhere from 1 to 10 robocalls everyday. So, we bought a blackbox that connects before our phone and we can program up to 1,000 phone numbers to be disconnected after the first ring. This technique has been very powerful at reducing robocalls that slip through to now 1 to 3 a day. TWC also allows us to selectively block up to 30 phone numbers before they get to our home. This limit is too low, it should be several hundred. Because it is limited to 30 phone numbers, we use the TWC selective blocking strictly for robocalls that come over and over again. So, if you got my message, we are using three (3) resources to block robocalls and yet we still get a dew new robocalls everyday. The FFC must do something more serious this time around to kill robocalls, and that system has to be easy for consumers to use. In case you are not aware, the government's "donotcall.gov" program is totally ineffective. Callers from businesses don't care, and criminals calling certain careless even more so.

Love it---wish it had been around a long time ago. Too many calls from telemarketers...I hate it but LOVE Robocall. Very very aggravating to say the least. Robocalls need to stay!

We NEED robocalls and blocking products. It's sad to think we cannot sit down for a meal without an interruption! The calls are almost always rude and inconsiderate. It happens most anytime of the day and frequently the same numbers constantly calling. Yes, we ask them to remove us from the calling list or say not interested. But we are ignored! Please, please make phone companies provide robocall blocking solutions available for us poor beleaguered consumers. These unwanted calls are constant from morning to night, 7 days a week. We got them on Christmas! Our phone provider does provide access to robocall blocking, but only if we sign up for a level of service that we don't want or need. I am extremely annoyed with all the bogus phone calls, hang-ups, robocalls and scams that seem to reach my phone several times each and every day even though I'm on the Do Not Call List. From Rachel and Card Services who want to lower my credit card rate to Free LifeAlert systems that cost money to Home Renovation to Home Alarm systems to a Microsoft Partner who wants to clear my computer of viruses - who all just disconnect as soon as I start to utter DO NOT CALL and always call again!!!!!!

I am tired of automated dialers and either missing or forged (spoofed) callerID. I do not understand why that isn't illegal. Also, there should be a person on the line at the time I pickup..not up to 10secs later when the system either realizes I answered and/or an operator freed up. Predictive systems make many mistakes.

We are already able to block anonymous and private-callerID calls so why shouldn't we be allowed to block robotic calls?

There is NO technical reason robotic calls cannot be blocked. If the phone companies claim this, its false.

My next step will be to disconnect my land line. Currently my cell phone ONLY allows callers that are in my directory list. If they are not, they are diverted to voicemail. This way if a call is legit, fine. If it's a robot call, there is never a message left. Amazing.

Please give us a way to stop the annoying robocalls. I don't even answer my telephone (home or cell) any longer unless I recognize the number. I should not have to do this. What if it is a friend or family member using someone else's phone to call me because it is an emergency, and I don't answer.

I can sympathize with people who are just trying to make a living. We own our own business, but I certainly am not going to force myself on someone who does not want my business. I expect the same thing from telemarketers. It is my phone & I don't want them calling it. Please respect my privacy & I will respect yours in return.

Although we have repeatedly signed up for every Do No Call list (State and Federal -- on home and cell phones), We continue to receive calls. If you ask why they call when we have signed up for Do Not Call lists, the call is disconnected. It is also very annoying when you answer the phone and there is a delay and then you realize that the call was automatically dialed. We have made every effort to notify all parties that we do not want to receive calls -- not for political purposes, research, or for any type of advertising. Our phones are private and for personal use. We recently signed up for No More Robocalls and have been thrilled with the service. We used to receive at least 3 calls a day, sometimes 5, and during political campaigns 10. Now we only hear the phone ring once and are very happy when it doesn't ring a second time. Our time is valuable and constant interruptions are very annoying. Robocalls should not be permitted.

We have had Nomorobo for some time now, but still receive some unwanted calls at all times of the day and evening. We do not want these calls! Nomorobo has been a God send. Please, please, please expand the use of robocall blocking products to cell phones, etc. The law prohibiting robocalls is completely ineffective, and I personally receive an average of four robocalls per day.

Don Asperger

I own my home and have a "NO SOLICITORS" sign at the entrance. It works, because my community, county, and state allow it.

But my phone, for which I pay exorbitant rates per month seems to have become a tool for inscrutable telemarketers. Fully 85 percent of the calls I receive are either robocalls or telemarketers violating the FTC's Do-Not-Call-List procedures. THEY DON'T CARE.

Please allow the public to avail themselves of the appropriate blocking equipment. And, make it incumbent upon all Telecommunication Companies to assist the public in getting the equipment to block and rid the world of the low-life Telemarketers.

Allowing unsolicited calls on personal & business lines is intrusive. Just as communities prevent solicitation in their neighborhoods, we should be able to prevent random people from calling and disturbing us.

Further, the greatest amount of fraud, scams, and con artists targeting the elderly come through the phone lines. Allowing these people to profit by conning the elderly or uninformed, is embarrassing for a nation such as ours.

Lastly, leaving loopholes and avenues for other entities is unacceptable - to include political and charity groups. If an individual wishes to "opt in" then that should be recognized but as the exception rather than the rule.

Social media entities such as Facebook and Google are routinely criticised and even chastised but Congress for publishing private info by default... Why do we allow our own government to do so?

Regards and best wishes in your endeavors Aaron,

I use Nomorobo on my home phone to block nuisance calls. It's a very effective method. Using it I'd estimate that it successfully blocks 2/3 to 3/4 of the calls that I don't want to receive.

Please let us block the mindless robo calls we get from telemarketers. Even though we have our numbers listed on the national do not call registry, we were still getting multiple robo calls per day. NoMoRobo is a tool in preventing unsolicited sales calls, and picks up where the federal program has failed to prevent unwanted sales calls! If the federal do not call lists are not going to stop unwanted sales calls, you must allow consumers other options in blocking unwanted phone calls.

Doug Kern
The Woodlands, TX

Tell the phone companies to start charging for excessive calls from a phone number and these robo and scam calls will go away. It use to be that you were allowed so many calls per day for a certain fee. More that the max per day cost you more. These folks that make thousand of call a day will have to pay and they will loss money. Technology is out there to eliminate the VOIP calls as well. Get on it!

I should not have to pay for endless, mindless, unwanted interruptions to my personal phone. I worry about things like - what if I need to dial 911 and some idiot computer is hogging my line? This is fundamental - my phone is for my use, not the phone company.

The "Do-Not-Call" list does not work. Companies and individuals still continue to call my un-published number that is on the do not call list. There needs to be more effort placed in prosecuting the violators, and there needs to be a better way for consumers to block robocalls.

Robocalls are disruptive and invasive. I want to use my phone on my terms. I do not want to be subjected to unwanted, unsolicited calls from anyone, especially after they have been told to stop calling.

I appreciate the services of companies who provide robocall blocking.

Robocalls are one of the most irritating aspects of our phone service. I pay for the phone service...why should robocalls even be allowed. There should be no question as to whether services to block robocalls should be allowed: give the consumer a break for a change and help block all robocalls!

ken roberts
auburn, CA

This is a very simple decision...I the callers pay for my phone service then they have the right to call me. At this time I pay for my phone service and I do not want anyone to call me that is not a friend or someone I have requested to call me by giving them my number personally. I have found not one honest anonymous caller. By honest I mean someone not tainted with profit as their motive for calling me...and robo calling is the ultimate impersonal insult.

I am sure none of the commissioners like getting robo calls so they should treat the rest of the citizenry with the same respect.

I joined Noborobo several months ago and I love it! No more intrusive calls into my house at the most inconvenient times. I no longer rush to the phone just to find out that it is no one I really wish to talk to anyway. The phone rings once or twice and then stops, therefore no need to jump up from the dinner table to see who is calling. If anyone really wants to talk to me, they will leave a message and I will call them back. These other people do not leave messages anyway.

Willoughby Hills, OH

My family is tired of receiving phone calls in excess of several hundred calls since March 2014. These are totally unsolicited and unwanted. A majority of these calls are during the dinner hours of 5-7:30 p.m. at night. When I have attempted to request some of the the callers' supervisors, I have been emphatically told "No." I have been treated with disrespect. I can't understand some of the English that some callers are using. And, most of these calls are on "burner cells;" and, there is no return number available on some calls. Or, when you try to return the call, the message is that the number has expired, been disconnected, etc. The "Do Not Call" function is useless (and a joke). Please give us the information that we need to stop this invasion of our privacy. Not tomorrow, but today.

The robocalls are a very big problem. They tie up your phone, & the calls are at the most annoying times. Robocall blocking products are doing the job that I thought that the do not call register would do.

Please block Robo calls, thank you.

Elizabeth Eukavina
Los Angeles, CA

The right to be left unannoyed by the kinds of calls that the Nomorobo product "defeats" is fundamental to anyone's right of privacy and it is unconscionable that you would even consider an argument that allows these kinds of unsolicited interruptions. Speaking from personal experience, the joy of watching numerous "junk" callers disappear from my phone thanks to Nomorobo is nearly indescribable. Do NOT allow the carriers to avoid doing their job which is to serve their customers by providing these kinds of solutions.

These robo calls are driving us crazy, start at 830AM thru 9PM with no letup. We need our peace and quite! Please help!!

Bill and Jo Ann Morrison

Thank goodness for a service like nomorobo! We used to get 3 to 4 of these calls per day even after registering on the stop calls web site. Now we only get local political and charity calls, vi would like to stop them also.

I would dearly love to be able to block these annoying calls!! The people who make these calls apparently have no sense of decency or propriety and no compunction about constantly disturbing us with their incessant calls. It's a form of harassment and should be stopped. And it should include political calls along with ALL the others.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Wanchisn

I currently receive almost all my land line calls from telemarketers. It's abusive and until Nomorobo, I was planning to give up my two landlines and just use cell phones.

Nomorobo is doing something that the government and certainly our carriers, eg Time Warner should be doing. Time Warner only allows me to block 30 numbers. I get more than 30 unwanted robo calls a week.

Please keep Nomorobo operating and help them do the job that they are doing.

Thanks to Nomorobo, our home phone now receives no annoyance calls from solicitors and other robot call users. Every time I here the one ring followed by silence I know another call has been canceled.

The pity of it is that what should be stopped is the robot calls not the solution to eliminating them. That the FCC even allows annoying robot calls is appalling. The FCC should work for the greater good, allowing any robot calls is not for the greater good, but rather giving in to special interest groups that probably have a lot of money for supporting politicians. America at it's best. Don't you just love it.

I don't think robocalls should be allowed. We are elderly and these calls are very annoying. We pay for phone service but that does not give them the right to call at anytime they choose. If we try to tell them to take us off their call list they just hang up. Something needs to be done to stop this.

Please stop the Robocalls. I am even getting them with my own telephone number showing up on my ID caller. This is totally wrong! I have called the telephone company to complain and they tell me they are try to correct this that was last winter and I'm still getting these calls!!! WRONG WRONG WRONG! I have signed up with the FCC to no have these calls also.

I'm on the telemarketing list, which you have to place yourself on every somany days. This service does not work. I get at least 50 phone calls that I do not ask for by companies I do not know. Nomorerobo helps by stoping theses call and if one sneaks in you can add that number and have it stoped. My life is less stressful having nomorerobo on my phone.

Patricia Balla

My 91 year old dad gets up to answer these unwanted and sometimes rude and invasive companies.

He says no not interested and they call 2-3 week. I will kill these bastards if he falls!!!

I receive more than 10 junk, robocalls, on average every single day. Services like Nomorobo are invaluable since they block these often bogus nuisance calls. Telephone marketers and others who utilize robocalls simply ignore the government's Do Not Call List. ALL my phone lines are registered with Do Not Call, and yet the robocalls only increased over the years. Nomorobo is one of the few services that offers some respite. I find it reprehensible that I can only utilize the service on one of my four phone lines. Please do your job! Protect the consumer, not the phone companies who oppose this service. I can only surmise that their opposition to this is because they receive revenue for every robocall that goes through.

Robocalls are extremely annoying and should be blocked.

Nomorobo is a helpful product and should definitely be allowed to continue and expand.

Robocalls are a complete nuisance. Firms have no regard as to the hour they call and continue to call on a repeated basis. Nomorobo is a great feature that should be available to everyone that has a telephone.

If I want to buy something I will initiate the process. I do not need a Firm contacting me to sell me a timeshare, cruise, vacation, etc. Please respect my privacy.

I greatly appreciate the service by Nomorobo! We have caller ID and therefore would simply not answer calls that weren't from family and friends. That worked except our answering machine was getting filled up each evening. We wouldn't even listen to the messages. We would just cycle through and delete them. Now we get just get a few messages left per week. The service is wonderful! We just discovered the service a few months ago. Please don't take it away. If people don't want it they can forego it but I can't help but think there is a far greater number of people who want the service but can't get it or don't know about it. I'm sure the list of numbers on the national Do Not Call list is several times longer than the list of subscribers of robocall blocking products.

Nomorobo is the best for seniors and others that has come along in decades. I do not ordinarily take a stand but this is important.

We get somewhere around 5 to 10 computer generated calls per day. Thank God for Caller ID on the TV and for voice Caller ID on our phone. It's still very annoying, but at least we don't need to get up and answer the phone. It's the electronic version of salesmen coming to our door, and I feel like it is invading the peace and quiet of my home.

It's time that we who pay for our phone service have some rights! Why are we "victims"?

I detest ROBOCALLS! You should enact legislation banning them. I have been a salesman for about 60 years. I adhered to the no-call list when it was enacted. I never used automated calling. I always did my own phoning, and I still do. If you are too lazy to phone personally, find another line of work!

Incidentally, as soon as I know that it's a robocall, I hang up, but I'd like to see them banned totally. Charitable Organizations included! Oh yes, and Political calls too!

Charles Mervis

I love having the nomorobo service...every time the phone rings and I see that they have handled the call I am just smiling. I feel I have the right to not take any calls I don't want. These calls cause me to run to the phone only to have someone try to sell me something...NOOOOOO!

The government needs to protect the public not these calls that interrupt or lives. When the phone rings I immediately think that something has happened to someone in my family...but its a telemarketer...I ve been frightened for no reason..I don't want these calls

Glendale, Ca.

My phone rings day and night with solicitations that is outright an invasion of ones privacy. Taking a nap is never allowed with the phone ringing at all hours of the day. It must stop.

N.J.

On a DAILY basis, I get at least 8 calls that are unsolicited. Every day, at all hours from 6 am until 9 pm. I find this to be an infringement on my personal telephone use. If I wanted their services, I would be researching them myself ON THE COMPUTER. I want to be able to block these unsolicited telemarketing calls.

Examples: Home Repair, Financial Services, and many that are "name unavailable".

I'm tired of receiving RoboCalls! Mostly they are complete scams. I've been called 10 times in the past month by "Officer Julie Smith of the US Treasury", who turns out to be a man trying to steal money from old people. I also get one every month from "Mike Smith" about placing me on top of Google. Both are Fraud, please allow me to block them!

I would like you to know that because of robocalls I have had to turn my home phone to mute. I get repeated calls from the same company 3-4 times a night, as late as 10 pm. I work shift work. Can you imagine being up for 24 hours only to be awakened by a robocall when you finally are able to rest. Please let it be my choice not your greediness which dictates whether I receive robocalls.

Catherine Stornelli
Neptune , NJ

What would possibly motivate anyone to think owners of a phone would want to receive endless robocalls. Well, perhaps the phone company can only charge a robot caller if the targets phone rings more than once. Aw, what a shame the poor phone company is losing money when robocalls are blocked after one ring. Perhaps I really would appreciate receiving 5-10 or more per day of pointless annoying distracting irritating sales calls for useless overpriced services and junk that I don't need or want. But then who wouldn't enjoy having their day distracted by such calls?

I should not have 3-4 robocalls every day if I don't want them.

Last month, when my wife was home recuperating from major surgery, the phone rang numerous times each day, almost every one was a robocall. Not only could she not get needed rest, she never knew if it a family member calling to see if she needed anything.

People who want robocalls should be able to get them. However, people who don't want robocalls should be able to block them.

Robocall is terrible please stop

Ma.

The Do Not Call List has been rendered absolutely and totally useless for some time now. I was getting up to 4-8 calls many days of the week---some as early as 7:30 a.m., some up until 10 p.m.--- until I started blocking. They still come in unless I track the number and block it----PLEASE give us some relief, some way to prevent this abuse of the phone network and this terrible invasion of privacy. We are your constituents, we are the people of "of the people, for the people". PLEASE.

We have already lost so many of our freedoms. Please, Please, do not do anything to stop or block NOMOROBO, which gives me peace of mind. Please authorize NOMOROBO completely in every way.

Robocalls are a major annoyance. They call at hours of the day & night.

I work the night shift so the robocalls keep me awake during the day. These unsolicited calls also tie up my phone line.

Please stop robocalls. As a phone customer I should be the one to decide if I want these calls not the phone company. I DO NOT WANT ROBOCALLS. Please make them stop.

I have been getting robo call every day and it is despicable that these companies can have these calls interrupt my life. Please reconsider your decision to allow these calls because they are disruptive and have no place in the privacy I am entitled to have.

I would appreciate you changing your decision in this serious issue so all of us can block Robocalls.

My phone numbers means just that, they belong to me and paid by me and not established for anyone else's convenience but mine and mine alone. I give out my numbers only to those that are allowed to call me.

We receive from 4 to 10 robocalls PER DAY, and we never purchase products or services over the phone. It is extremely disruptive to our daily life. We immediately need robocall blocking products to stop this invasion of our private lives. Since they will not provide this vital blocking service now, the phone companies must be made to provide or allow other companies to provide this service. This makes our life miserable. HELP!

I absolutely HATE! HATE these calls. They are not any calls I would Make myself and why do they seem to come around dinner time? Very annoying. I am retired. I mention this because I am around the house a good part of the day. Over the last few weeks there have been times when I got 4-5 robocalls a day. Many times I would answer the phone, but they would not respond. I even had one that was trying to get my banking info out of me because I was deserving money from the govt. When I led him on I guess I upset him and he said he was going to have sex with my wife and daughter. But that wasn't the way he said it! PLEASE! make them stop despite what phone companies may lead you to believe, the average person does not like to be harassed by unwanted calls. If a business is legitimate, they have to state their business and respect our request to be removed from their call list. Robocallers generally don't state their intentions(if they do, they are usually nefarious in nature-aka "Credit Card Services" scam) and make it nearly impossible to get off their calling lists. Increasingly businesses have been able to use their money to tune out the voices of real people. Please turn the tide and make it easier for us to stop these unwanted calls.

Dayton, Oh

I am tired of the numerous phone calls about my credit card balance and I need to talk to an adviser or another one is that someone recommended me for my free wheel chair and it is now available and this kind of phone call can happen several times a week. They are very annoying because I am in nearly perfect health, I run 5 k races and go the gym at least three times a week.

You try to call them and the phone is not in service to give them a piece of my mind but the phone is not in service. To me this is clearly harassment and using my phone in order to do it.

It's a scam through and through and everyone should to have the availability to block them!

Robocalls have become so frequent in recent years that our home telephone is almost useless. We don't answer most calls, and so sometimes miss legitimate and important calls. NoMoRoBo has helped SO much, but the problem still exists. Please help!

We've been on the "do not call list" for years , and continue to report annoying calls.....all to no avail.
Something needs to be done to stop these calls, at times, 5-6 times a day!!!!

Surely we as a member of the public can have input about whether or not we want these annoying calls. We currently visually screen every call and do not accept callers we do not recognize. Otherwise we are letting other people make decisions about when or what we want to devote our energy and time to. It is not unusual for the same number to call several times a day. Many seem to be from other countries. Please help find a way to stop the calls and then work on electronic communications.

As a Senior citizen, I am sick to DEATH of robocalls, that ring at all hours, often when I'm resting.

They have NO shame, and even though I have an answering machine, they don't have the decency to leave a message a lot of the time. This can be frightening, as I wonder if these are crooks casing my home, or what they want.

At the end of our lives, haven't we earned the right to be left in peace, especially when I AM PAYING the BILL for my phone service?

Despite placing my phone number on every do-not-call list available, I still receive several calls a day from unidentified and apparently criminal businesses who use bogus phone numbers. Their aim, of course, is to bilk people out of their money. I pity people with dementia who get these calls and may inadvertently lose their life savings unwittingly. Even those of us who know better are harassed throughout the day with a ringing phone wasting valuable time and disturbing our peace by using a device we pay for to have for our convenience. Anything that can be done to prevent this criminal harassment should be done. Thank you for caring enough to read this.

I am sick and tired of having my phone ring consistantly and no one being there . Although I have Caller I.D. , I like for you to try and call back the number on Caller I.D., and get a message saying "The number you have reached is no longer in service !!!! How in the world can they do this when you call them back whithin a minute or two ? I think it's about time for the FCC to issue "HEFTY" fines for these scammers !!!!! Maybe print their names and the company names and how high of a fine was levied !!!! Set a "LAW" requiring Phone Companies to quit allowing these scammers to get a "Block" of numbers to "hide" behind. Make them give a correct Name & Number, so that they can be properly identified !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

I think the consumer should have the right to block robocalls and any calls they don't want receive. Also they should have the option to use anything on their personal phone that blocks robocalls and any other unwanted calls. Most of these companies have no boundaries they call over and over day and night and something needs to be done. That's my thought on this subject that needs attention.

Peabody, Ma.

We want to have the capability to block unwanted/unprompted calls. This should be a right we have. I pay for my phone line as well as companies who pester me, so I should be able to control who calls me.

I don't like the fact that on any given day, I am taken away from my other activities to answer the phone, and it's a call from a computer somewhere in the USA (?). This is not only annoying, but it's an invasion of my privacy when this occurs continually throughout the day and into the evening hours. Sometimes it's the same number that calls several times! The charities and politicians shouldn't be exempt from this either! I could care less about their "town meetings!" It's my phone and it's my time! I don't wish to be interrupted by people wanting money all the time!

St. Marys, Ohio

Nomorobo calls was the best thing to add to my phone number. Instead of continuous (several a day) calls from multiple companies who leave a blank message. My answering machine has 3 calls and there is not a word spoken. Really irritating. I had even turned off my answering service because I was fed up.

One call passed me to a person - I planned to ask them to stop calling. He began with "Do you own a computer? What kind?" Seriously?? I expressed my irritation with these robo-calls with "I'm fed up with these calls." He said "so you are frustrated." I said, "Yes, fed up means I'm frustrated." He replied: "You need more sex." Do I have to put up with this from strangers who are trying to sell something.

These calls are violating my home and wasting my time. Many are scams and take advantage of people. If the telephone companies are against stopping robo-calls, who do they think pays them for the service? So they are supporting these thieves and scam artists instead of their customers? It is my phone, my home and I pay to have the phone activated for my convenience - not to receive calls that are total BS. If you don't agree, let me have your home phone number and let me call you with a great deal.

Support Nomorobo call service.

I feel robocall blocking would be a great advantage. We (my wife and I) are receiving on average 3 calls daily from credit monitoring sales people that is really bothersome. I signed up with NOROBO several months ago because I was getting way to many unwanted calls from various vendors. Previously I had registered my phone with DONOTCALL and that did not work. I loged unwanted cals from March 2013 to August 2014. I submitted many complaints to DONOTCALL without any responce or help. I even sent a copy of this log to the FCC again without any action.

I pay for phone service and I have every right to stop unwanted calls and only NOROBO has been successfull. My phone is not a marketing tool and is not open to every Tom Dick & Harry.

Your robocall laws aren't working. I get three to four a day despite being on the "do not call" list. They are not from companies that I have done business with and so I use a software to block them. I should be allowed to control the telephone calls that are disturbing my peace and quiet. I pay a LOT of money to AT&T for their services, but I am not paying to answer calls I did NOT solicit. Robocall clocking products are essential for me to conduct business and to have some peace of mine.

Nomorobo saves me so much time and annoyance. I'm able to enjoy meals without interruptions. There is no reason to discontinue, the do not call list is ineffective, this give me a tool to fight back against robo calls.

Please do not block nomorobo.

Are you kidding me? I am so tired of robo callers and callers that are able to scam with fake phone numbers calling all times of day and night including weekends. Get you act together and allow us to block calls that have no legitimate phone numbers or are able to use bogus phone numbers.

Whatever happen to a citizen's right to privacy? I pay for services on my phone every month. What gives the government the right to open up my privacy to everyone on the universe just because they request it? The harassment I get daily from these robocalls is mind boggling and to the degree that I don't even answer my phone if I don't recognize the number. They come 7 days a week often up to 10:00 at night. Why should I be subject to this type of harassment?

Southfield, Mi.

It is important that you allow us to do everything necessary and possible to stop robocalls. It is having a negative effect on our quality of life. The phone rings and often no one is there at the time due to making multiple calls all at once. However, they keep calling. This invasion of our homes and time should not be allowed.

Please Please block these annoying Robocall which mainly are used for sales pitches AND if you are slow to answer nobody is on the other side. You answered a call from nobody, VERY VERY disturbing especial during dinner time.

We're tired in receiving these call early in the morning and in the late night and even wen I answer the call they hang up.

We're paying the phone company for unlisted number, and still seem like everybody has your number to bother you with sells...

So FCC, or who ever work under the FCC, please stop these robocall.

We hate the robocalls we get. They are intrusive and annoying. Our phone company only allows us to block 10 phone numbers. That does begin to cover how many phone numbers make robocalls. Most are computers calls so there is no telling them you are on the Federal Do Not Call List. Even the calls with people making them do not care if you are on the Federal Do Not Call List. They blatantly break the law and do not care.

During the last year or two the number of robocalls has skyrocketed. The calls are annoying and have stopped us from answering call we needed to take because we didn't recognize the phone number calling.

We now use nomorobo.com and it has helped so very much with us no longer getting calls we do not want.

The people responsible for robocalls are demented! We sometimes get 4 or 5 of these calls a day and the worst of them, Consumer Services aka Cardholder Services, calls 3 or 4 times a week I have reported them multiple times, but they keep changing numbers and many of them now call from unlisted numbers. They should be totally BANNED!!. It is an invasion of privacy! You will earn the thanks of millions of people if you do something to put an end to these pests!

Robocalls for emergency notification, or explicitly opted-in services (prescription readiness etc) are fine; unsolicited, charitable, and political robocalls are not. We have been driven from our home phone - we never answer it, to let the answering machine do the filtering; this is not only an annoyance on every call (the multiple rings, etc) but it also impacts our ability to receive calls from friends and family. Stop the robocalls - with financial disincentives!

I believe the "non soliciting" organizations should also be able to be blocked as well. Why should they have a say as to when they can call me and I don't!

The efforts made by the Do Not Call program are admirable but do not work. The robocallers are far smarter than the enforcers, changing their tactics like a virus against an antibiotic! If the law can interpret that robotic calls cannot be blocked, then the law is faulty and must be changed. It is extremely annoying to be interrupted on a daily basis by robocalls, not once but several times a day. I am a senior citizen and it isn't always easy to get to the phone. People shouldn't be allowed to call your number if you don't want. I wish I could return the calls to them, especially while they're in the shower, bathroom or setting down to lunch or dinner. No orozco has been a godsend. Before I got non probe, I had been bothered by ten or more junk calls per day. Most of them were illegal scam trying to separate unsuspecting victims from there money. Junk and scam phone calls make it so bad for consumers that without technology like nomorobo I would have to cancel my land line or go to an unlisted number. With this technology I can keep connected to friends and businesses with I want to communicate and avoid scammers and unwanted intrusive callers. Thank you

I just cannot believe that in this wonderful country that we are continually abused and harassed and bullied by the repeated phone calls that are done by telemarketers. I am trying to recover from stage 4 cancer, and I also take care of my 90 year old mother and my 83 year old aunt. I cannot begin to tell you how annoying it is to run to the phone while I am asleep or waking up my aunt or mother while they are trying to rest, only to find that it is , once again, a telemarketer. For over 2 weeks, I kept receiving phone calls from the same number and NoMoRobo blocked them. That number called every single day and on a few occasions called up to 4 times in one day. In researching that number online, I found people that answered the call and it was someone foreign telling them that their computer was infected with a virus. They wanted access to the computer. Before I signed up with NoMoRobo, I had answered similar calls and told them to stop calling me and to remove my number. They were always very rude and would stop for a while then start up again. I'm on the National Do-Not-Call list but because they never give their company name, reporting them didn't do any good. NoMoRobo helped by continually hanging up on this person. Robot calls are ridiculous ... you answer the phone, there is no one there or you have to wait 30 seconds before someone picks up on the calling end. That is stupid. If the call is important, let the person "hand dial" the number ... and let it be a legit call and not a telemarketer who pays no attention to the National Do-Not-Call list.

West Chester, PA

I get 3 or 4 calls a day and there is usually no one on the other end. Their phone numbers on caller ID are spoofed which leads me to believe they are fraudulent in nature and preying on us senior citizens.

I THINK ROBOCALLS BLOCKING PRODUCTS ARE PERFECTLY WONDERFUL. THEY HAVE SAVED MY SANITY, AND GOOD HEALTH.

BEFORE HEARING ABOUT ROBOCALL BLOCKING, I WAS AT THE END OF MY ROPE, NOT KNOWING HOW TO STOP THE ENNOYING

ROBOCALLS CALLING MY TELEPHONE AT ALL HOURS OF THE DAY, AND EARLY MORNINGS, LATE EVENINGS. I DID NOT KNOW HOW TO STOP THEM FROM CALLING MY TELEPHONE.

I GOOGLED ON HOW TO STOP MOST OF THESE CALLS, AND FOUND ROBOCALL BLOCKING, SINCE THEN 90% OF THE CALLS HAD STOPPED.

IT IS NOT FAIR THAT WE HAVE TO SUFFER IN SUCH A WAY, TO HAVING THESE ROBOTIC CALLS RINGING OUR PHONE, FOR THINGS THAT WE HAVE NEVER HAD ANY INTEREST IN, NOR DID I EVER ASK THEM TO CALL ME.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, WHAT IS EVEN WORST, IS NOW THEY ARE CALLING MY CELLPHONE, AND USING MY MINUTES ON THESE ROBOTIC CALLS THAT I RECEIVE. THIS IS NOT FAIR

AND A BURDEN TO PEOPLE'S SANITY.

THANK YOU AND GOOD LUCK

Please tell me why all digital-age forms of communication are enabled with fully developed filtering/blocking capabilities except my phone? Why can I easily block any email, skype caller, text messenger, IM user, even my xbox easily blocks unwanted chat callers.

Is the FCC so archaic that your response will be to cite outdated, ignored anti-telemarket laws and circa 1950 donotcall registries? Its easier for us to probably cut the cord on our landlines than to expect a meaningful response from the FCC if you haven't acted by now. Please force carriers to implement real call blocking features like the rest of technology did years ago. Thank you Ed Leonard

Since I have started using NOMOROBO to block unwanted calls, I have seen a dramatic drop in the number of unwanted calls. Since telemarketers seem to ignore the national do not call list, this is the only solution that I have seen work so far.

Since the phone companies refuse to help block these calls, like only allowing me to block 10 numbers at a time, and telemarketers "spoof" names and numbers, I have little recourse in stopping these calls, other than NOMOROBO.

Richard Franke

I am a disabled Army veteran. Before getting Nomorobo, I would have to try to get to the phone as many as 20 times per day, only to find I was responding to an illegal call. I am registered with the Federal and Florida Do No Call lists, but that does not slow these callers. Besides these people that should not be calling me, many of the times, I would find the call to be a recording, which violates Florida law and, I believe, also federal law. Nothing stopped this waste of my time and often painful attempt to reach the phone. I connected with Nomorobo and now have to respond only once or twice to calls that do not get filtered out. Why can my phone company (Verizon) not block these unwanted and, in fact, illegal calls? I should add that for a while, I paid Verizon to block "caller ID blocked calls", but the service was completely ineffective.

Joseph W. McCormick
Tampa, Florida

I don't want to receive any robocalls. They are the biggest nuisance and totally unsolicited. Once they get their hooks into you, they continue to harass you. Although they give you the option to not receive these calls by pressing a designated number, this never works. I think they state this option (knowing that they're not really giving you this option) to protect themselves in the event of a lawsuit. I should not have to be bothered with any unsolicited calls. Give us the power to control what phone calls we want to receive. After all, it is our phone.

Rhonda Bridgeforth
Como, MS

It is of the utmost importance to stop and block all robocalls. I am the primary caretaker to my Mother and when the phone is constantly ringing, at least 6-10 times a day if not more, it upsets and disturbs her. As well as I have to divert my attention away from her to see if it is an important phone call from a doctor, lab, nurse, hospital, family member, etc. The calls come from early in the morning....beginning at 8 AM and have even pushed past the time of 9 PM.

The callers on the other end don't take 'no' for an answer, whether I hang up on them, don't answer, or whatever the case may be. None of them are bill collectors or anything of sort, I have never received that type of call....because I was raised to live within your means. In other words, if you owe people money my father would say, whatever you have does not belong to you. So these calls are simply nuisance calls to waste time. Robocalls in general have tied up our phone lines by continuously playing when I have needed to desperately reach a doctor/ambulance for my Mom and robocall blocking is something that should be recognized as an inherent way to make life less difficult...when it is such an easy fix.

We have an unpublished and private number and this is still going on, so whatever steps you are able to do to help enforce the robocalls and blocking would be most appreciated. It literally boils down to quality of life...and that is something that is of extreme importance to all of us.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Robocalls are the bane of our existence. They are terribly disruptive and a complete waste of time. We should have every right to block these calls. Please don't stand in the way.

I live in Connecticut. Recently my phone company (AT&T) sold their landline service to another company. (Frontier) I am no longer able to use NoMoRobo or control which phone numbers I wish to block. I miss this service a lot. I am now getting annoying robo calls which usually don't show a number or business name on my caller I.D. I let the answering machine take the calls, but they never leave a message or state their business. These calls ring my phone every day at all hours, and it is really annoying. If robo calls are not outlawed they at least should be blocked.

Robocalls suck! They are annoying and seem to come all day. I am home much of the day and constantly bombarded with these stupid anonymous calls, usually asking for money for one product or pseudo charity or another. I feel like a prisoner -- either answer the phone and put up with their verbal scams, or ignore the calls, and possibly miss a real phone call to me. Some days I would receive 8 to 12 phone calls from computer derived phone calls, I would say "hello" and there would be a several second wait before someone would answer my hello. We wanted to keep our landline, but robocalls were so persistent, constant, and aggravating that we were ready to disconnect it. Instead we installed the NoMoRobo call blocker, and it has enabled us to still receive our essential calls - including those from preferred vendors and organizations - and totally block nuisance calls.

Personally, blocking only robocalls isn't going far enough. Almost every day we get at least one call and have even gotten as many as 5 or 6 calls in one day. I can't be sure they're all robocalls, because I don't answer many of these calls anymore when I don't recognize the numbers. I do from time to time, Google the phone numbers and often see many other complaints regarding the same numbers.

I think these blocking products are needed so we don't have to waste our time bothering with these calls. There used to be a time when getting a phone call was a big deal. Now, us telephone consumers, feel hostage to these robocalls and scammers all the time. It's gotten to the point where we don't even answer many of the calls and let them leave messages, which they often don't, with the answering machine. I've even contemplated dropping our landline phone number because of the number of bogus calls we get.

A few years ago, I was so upset, I bought a landline phone that had blocking capabilities. It was capable of blocking 30 numbers. It worked great, but unfortunately I filled those 30 numbers within several weeks and wish I would've bought another phone that blocks out 250 numbers. I have a feeling I could've filled at least half of those numbers.

The do-not-call list was a noble concept, but has failed miserably. Many of us have no means to block the endless list of phone numbers and phone calls we get. Don't stop there as many of these scam artists are often one step ahead technologically. The FCC should consider banning "spoofing" as well. I've even had someone spoof my cell phone number to our landline phone, trying to get someone to think it was me calling. It's getting out of hand and it needs to stop.

If you don't believe us, check out the website 800notes.com. There are plenty of fed up people on there that share their experiences with particular bogus phone numbers. It's one tool I use to find out who calls us. In fact we got one today from Norfolk, VA, a scam no doubt. Please help us phone users avoid robocalls and all other scamming numbers in any way possible. At this point, I'm willing to try any blocking products that work.

Every day I receive robocalls. Rather than receiving calls that I want from legitimate vendors, these calls are usually the drivers of fraud. Fraud by companies that are using illegal methods to solicit me--I am on the Do Not Call list--and usually trying to part me from my money through illegal activities.

Others use robocallers for legal--but unwanted--purposes. During elections, the relentless calls from robocallers is not only annoying, they are intrusive and unrelenting.

Robocall blocking is one of the best things to have happened in the communications field. We have had this service (no charge to the consumer) for over two years and love it. We average 8-10 calls per week blocked; calls that we have no interest in receiving. Most of these calls are not identified as to the caller, i.e. say "unavailable" or some random numbers. This makes it difficult to ignore the call if we didn't have robocall blocking. Please do not interfere with this vital consumer protection.

I am so tired of robocalls, we are on the Do Not call list but that does not stop computer generated or robocalls. When they have the ability to use the same area code as ours one has no way of knowing. During elections we received 15 calls in one day that were all robocalls.

Please understand how extremely annoying ,frustrating, and downright angry it makes me to be in the middle of something important and have the phone ring, drop all and find the call is by some machine over and over and over again. These calls go on and on from the same people who are either trying to sell me a security system, an alarm, or a new credit system. You cannot ask them to stop nor subscribe to the no call list(which is worthless) or do anything to stop them from bothering you every day. I feel that it is extremely important that we are able to control who gets through to us on our telephones. Robocalls are not just a nuisance, they intrude on our quality of life. I have been very disappointed in the ineffectiveness of the Do Not Call Registry who, it appears, does nothing to prevent the robocallers from getting and using our phone number. Nomorobo has been very, very helpful in blocking robocalls and it has made our life much more peaceful. We are grateful for this service and we strongly suggest that you support robocall blocking products.

Please tell the phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions. Although I am registered on the "do not call list", I continue to receive too many intrusive and annoying robocalls.

I want the robo calls to stop. I have enough going on in my life that I have to get called for. I don't need some lame telemarketing call. I think we should have the option to stop them from coming to our phones. We are paying for our phones and service. STOP the robo calks now.

Please, please encourage rather than hinder the development of products tat block robocalls. The calls are more than an annoyance, especially for those of us who are seniors and have trouble getting to the phone. invariably the calls are useless and often scams. Why would anyone be against stopping them?

Robo calls need to be stopped! There are enough loop holes in the Do Not Call list registry to continue the disruption in every home. We have personally had one corporation call our number over 120 times in a three week period regarding student loans. Neither my wife have ever had student loans, yet the calls continued. Third party robo call blockers actually achieve what The Do Not Call registry failed to do, restore a certain level of peace back to the home.

As a senior living in a senior only community it is not only annoying to receive machine dialed calls, but any telemarketing calls. The residents in the community need their lines available for 911 emergencies, receiving return calls from health care providers, arrangements for traveling because of not being able to drive and deferring scams on seniors. Then there is the problem of the impaired getting anxious when they cannot get to a phone before the hang up. Many have severe handicaps from missing limbs to very poor internal organs and loss of sight and hearing. These telemarketing calls may cause a possible life threatening situation for some.

Fred Milgram

We get 4-7 robocalls daily from a company that apparently buys old bad debts. My husband has a very common name, and we live in one of the 10 largest cities, so it would be easy to make a mistake on names, which we explained to them, when they started calling, SEVEN YEARS ago. They never leave a message, and usually do not have a human on the line. We need to be able to stop this harassment.

Thank you.

BJ Matthews

Despite attempts to stop the ever increasing number of robo calls they continue. Some company's go so far as to use blocks of 100 numbers, as fast as you block one another pops up (ie: Source In News), I have now blocked 35 numbers from this same company and the calls continue! If it wasn't for companies like Nomorobo and the 200 number blocking feature of my phone system these calls would never stop. It's time for you to ACT! I am subscribed to the Federal and my State's Do Not Call Lists, but these seem a big waste of time. Put some teeth into these laws.

I used to be frequently disturbed by robo calls every day. Since I've been using a blocking product, I feel much more in control of my privacy. In addition, my irritation level has gone down since I'm not constantly taking the calls or deleting numerous robocall hangups on my voice mail.

Among my friends and family, I know of no one who appreciates receiving robocalls. Companies' commercial interests should not come before individuals' rights to privacy.

I subscribe to a voice communications provider for the service of making and receiving voice communications of my choosing. I maintain that it is my right to block any incoming call I choose. I would like the option to use this service to block unwanted, computer-generated calls. Before this service, our phone rang continuously which was frustrating and bothersome. When we do answer, most of the time there is no one on the other end. It interrupts important projects as well as mealtimes. Being on the national do not call list was not helping. Please reconsider legislation that would limit or eliminate services that prevent computer-generated calls.

Thank you for your consideration.

I have robocalls blocking and it is such a savior for my peace of mind. My husband and I are seniors and have enough to worry with age and health issues without calls coming in at all hours.

My mother-in-law is 93 and fell over her walker trying to get up to answer her phone and broke her hip. She was in nursing home care for six weeks. She now must have 24 hr care. She is inundated with calls and AT&T doesn't provide or allow robocall. This is criminal invasion of privacy. Who would purchase anything from a telemarketer? They are usually scams.

I received a phone call from MY phone number. I answered it and it was an AUTOMATED phone call using my phone number! I spoke with my phone provider. They told me there was nothing they could do about it; their systems could not keep up with the problem.

I have found nomorobo to be a valuable tool in stopping the frequent robo calls. Since we have been using this service the number of calls that get through has been reduced significantly, If the government can not enforce the "Do Not Call" list, this has been a salvation. Taking this away only benefits the SPAM callers.

I want to have the ability to control my own phone. I not only pay for phone service but also lots of taxes and surcharges. I would not even mind paying $1 a month to block robo calls although I should not have to.

I do not like to receive robocalls! Robo call blocking stops these unwanted calls. Yesterday we had at least 10 calls from 803-589-4864 within a 2 hour span that robocall blocking handled. These nuisance calls must be stopped one way or another, and robocall blocking is a very good way to do so. I'm also on the do not call listing and it doesn't do the job!

You need to support robocall blocking for the consumer and insist it be made available to all phone customers!

More than half the calls I get are unsolicited calls to my phone. I don't answer unless I know who is calling me. It's a nuisance to have to go check to see who is calling and it feels like an invasion of privacy. A number of years ago I signed a registry to have unknown calls blocked but somehow that must have ceased being available.

The telephone company already has a way for me to block unwanted calls. I am using their system and pay to block 20 phone numbers. In addition I have a telephone that will block up to 30 calls. I have 50 phone numbers blocked and there are days when I receive 15 or more calls a day.

We pay for our phone, we pay not to have our number listed, and we pay to have phone insurance. Why can't we have a better option so we don't have to deal with constant ROBO calls?

I've been using NOMOROBO approximately one month. My wife and I are over 70 years old and cancer survivors. Since we began blocking robocalls, we are able to take uninterrupted naps, study, read, etc...

The calls used to begin in the early morning and continue well into the evening from all over the world. Thanks to NOMOROBO, our lives have returned to a semblance of normalcy.

I only hope that Congress would legislate that AT&T be required to provide a blocking service that would be free of charge for those other scammers that ignore the do not call lists and the FCC.

The telecom companies don't want robocall blocking products because they make money if the calls are answered and when scammers purchase the toll-free numbers. Don't allow them to do this; they are already gouging us with local, state, and federal fees and surcharges that they can't/won't explain in plain English.

We need Congress to protect us and not allow telecoms to beat us down.

I should be able to use robocalls blocking.

Nathaniel Davis Jr

Stop the incredible invasion of our personal space. Solicitation calls are totally out of control and it is time to put a stop to it. Being able to stop some Robocalls has been an absolute blessing to us. I'm 74 and don't want to get up to answer a phone call every 20 minutes. Being able to stop a few of these telemarketers has been such a relief. I still get plenty of telemarketing calls from companies who have found a way around or a way to ignore the "do not call" list, but please DO SOMETHING. Maybe government people aren't bothered by these predators and so don't care, but it would be nice if you could help us "regular" folks out once in a while. This is such an invasion of our privacy.

I signed up for the national do not call registry when it first became available. Unfortunately, it didn't block the unwanted calls. Nomorobo is a terrific solution. I would prefer to not have my phone ring at all when an unwanted call comes in, but it is a small price to pay for blocking all the unwanted calls it blocks.

Yorba Linda, CA

We need robocall blocking to prevent incursions into our lives, especially when enjoying our rest or enjoying dinner with our family. Since we pay for our phone service we should have the right to determine which calls to receive. I have used it for about a year and would not want to be without it.

The fact that some companies or even individuals use automated robocalls to our home is astounding and a very real nuisance. This method is used to contact our family only for a high pressure sales pitch on items we neither want or desire.

Some of these robocallers even redial immediately again we disconnect from the call.

The usual salesperson can understand and respect our wishes when we request to be removed from their telephone call list. Unfortunately, this is not the case for the automated calling systems. The phone can ring for an extended period and is disrupting for any family environment.

Thanks for your consideration on this issue.

I am a 68 year old caretaker. I take care of my disabled 42 yr old son, who lives with me (24/7) and my 3 yr old grandson, who comes to my house Mon-Fri. My telephone rings almost every hour with robo calls. My son and my grandson TRY to nap every day, but these calls are constantly waking them up. If I'm in the basement doing laundry I run up stairs when the phone rings, only to find that most times it's a robo call. The calls begin early in the day and have been as late as 9:pm. PLEASE stop these phone calls that are forced upon me and my family and are nothing more than harassment.

Loretta Makrancy

Robocalls should be blocked, period! They tend to come at odd hours and I consider them an invasion of privacy. If a party chooses to call me there should at least be a live person on the other end. Otherwise, if it's not important enough for that, it's not important enough for me to answer and waste my time. I NEVER listen to a message from a robocall. They are most irritating and I suggest they be prohibited entirely.

Olin and Rosa Stephens

Robocalls are annoying, but even worse, they cost me money. I work at home, and the robocalls I receive every day disrupt my work and clutter up my phone with unsolicited garbage. After I installed a robocall blocker, my work productivity increased, and our dinners stopped getting interrupted by robocalls. The blocker is great, and consumers should have the freedom to employ them if desired.

Countless times our family privacy and time has been intruded upon without our permission by Robocalls. I request that FCC please give the individual consumers, of which many of us are families, options to delete and block the unwanted commercialized communications traffic that occur on daily and even hourly. This also occurs without consideration to times, and remind the FCC we also care for our elderly of whom we need to sacrifice times to take these calls despite our need to supervise, or special needs populations.

I am in favor of robo blocking and hope that the FCC works towards stopping these unsolicited calls and the problems these calls cause. Repeated calls during week hours interfere with productivity, these calls disrupt important family time and these calls often wake people from their sleep. They are a nuisance and no matter how many times a call is ignored and not answered, the calls still persist.

Wendy Belanger

I think you must live in an alternate universe where you are not constantly interrupted by telemarketers when you are trying to sleep, eat or have some "quality" time with your spouse. There isn't a day that goes by where I don't wish I could get rid of my phone once and for all. Too bad I need to use it for important things. Please give us a break here. Rob calls are a huge nuisance that the phone companies and the Federal Government cannot control. As a consumer I should have the absolute ability to block these kind of garbage calls and I think that it is very wrong for the phone companies to try and prevent consumers from blocking rob calls. I hope that the FCC will allow consumers to control the service that we pay for.

Louis Marcus

Please allow the continued use of robocall blocking products. It should be the consumers choice to enable them if they want to block calls.

these calls are intrusive. they are a form of harrassment. most times the caller id says unavailable. sometimes you don't answer and have to return a call if a message is left. usually the unavailables don't leave a message--they hang up. then there are the companies who's staff lawyers send a form letter saying they were contacted by you. they can call three times a day. there are the contest scams that you find by googling reverse numbers and read complaints. starts at eight in the morning. there are the numerous calls from so called charities or the we'll be in your neighborhood and they sell your donations rather than disburse them to needy folks. btw, if i need a pickup, can contact the place. most recent is person--no company ID who'd like to see my house.

I am happy to have the option to block unsolicited calls from companies trying to sell me something. This also applies to many political calls made during campaign periods. These calls are a nuisance.

We should all be able to effectively block robocalls. It is intolerable to keep getting these unwanted calls, and I consider it an invasion of our privacy. Something NEEDS to be done so we can get robocall blocking products that actually work. Enough is enough with these darn calls.

Stamford, CT

Since I signed up for Nomorobo the number of robocalls I receive has dropped about 90%. The FCC needs to do everything possible to drive robocallers out of business. We don't need this pond scum disturbing our peace and quiet.

Alan Ratner
Clarksville, MD

The do not call list was a great idea, but is largely ignored by violators because they know their profit from violating its protection exceeds the risk of consumers taking the time, effort, and expense, to sue them for violating the law. Regulations should be adopted that impose fines and penalties for failing to include sufficient accurate caller id information on all telemarketing calls (including robocalls) for the person receiving the call to identify the caller and seek legal redress for violations of the do not call list, and any rules the FCC adopts allowing people to choose to block or not to receive robocalls.

Robocalling is an intrusion on citizens' privacy and many robocalls also violate the do not call list. If it would be easier to block robocalls closer to their originating source, all providers of phone service (copper wire, voip, cable, etc.) should be required by the FCC to electronically "tag" all robocalls to make it simpler for consumers to choose whether or not to allow robocalls to ring their phone. People should not be forced to have their privacy, peace and quiet disturbed by robocalls. Blocking robocalls should be a no charge phone service feature and robocall blocking products should be available to all at nominal or no cost and the phone service providers should be required to facilitate the accurate use of such devices at no cost to consumers with electronic tagging of robocalls. Any such costs should be charged to the robocallers.

We received a dozen or more robo calls and sales calls every day. We asked nicely for these companies to put us on their internal "Do Not Call" list. The calls continue. We signed up for the National Do Not Call list. The calls continued. We blocked each individual number up to the 20 allowed by our telephone provider, and then erased those and started again when we used up all 20 spots. The calls continued. We signed up for NoMoRobo and immediately only one or two calls A WEEK got through. We report those numbers and now it's rare to get an unwanted sales or robo call. I do not understand why the National Do Not Call List is a joke. I do not understand why the phone companies can not prevent harassment by spam calls as their computers can clearly track who is making these calls. Unless it's because the phone companies are making money selling harassment services to spam businesses.

Please stop the annoying robo calls. We continually get bombarded from companies trying to sell us credit card protection, mortgage refinancing, lower electric rates, window replacement and more.

The phone rings and there is that silence when you answer it... electronic system waiting to connect you with a sales person.

It is not like the phone is next to me. You have to stop what you are doing, walk to the phone only to become totally pissed off that some jerk has called to sell something.

They totally disregard the fact that I am registered on the DO NOT CALL list... Lot of good that does. If there was a way that I could send an electronic signal through to burn a hole through their phone, I would do that.

Stop the pestering, unwanted calls.

We are so very pleased to have Nomorobo.com block so many of the calls that are sales pitches, recordings or other wastes of our time. We average about three such calls a day. We simply listen for a second ring, then answer. When there is only one ring, we remain at the tasks we are doing and do not have to interrupt whatever that may be.

Please allow, even help improve we consumers' options for stopping useless phone calls.

Prior to subscribing to Nomorobo I was getting bombarded with ROBO calls all hours of the day seven days a week. I used what features are available from my carrier, they are inept and the tools didn't work well.

It is MY phone, and I PAY for it - no one has the RIGHT to call me all hours of the day seven days a week to try to sell me goods or services I don't want. If I am interested in a companies goods or services - I will call them.

As a university professor (Fordham University in the Bronx, New York City), I spend considerable time at home. The nearly constant barrage of unsolicited telephone calls (and this in spite of my registration on the federal and state "Do Not Call" lists) is a considerable drain upon my time and distracts from the work I owe to my students and the academic community. Anything that can be done to permit telephone companies to limit such so-called "robocalls" and other unwanted telephone calls will be greatly appreciated. Thank you for your consideration of this plea.

Robo calls are a bigger nuisance than junk mail in the mailbox. Furthermore, crooks use that method to get people to call them back and provide personal information. We need an advocate like to stop these calls. It makes me want to just do away with a phone altogether. I pay my phone bill, and I should decide who can call me instead of being subjected to the nuisance and risk of robo calls.

Do something, please!

These robocalls must be stopped!

The charities are out of control. One particular charity called us (no exaggeration) 100 times. Nomorobo blocked the calls but we could see the phone number on our TV screen or the phone screen and knew it was the same charity every time. They would even call us early in the morning or late at night when we were sleeping. The charity then, just recently, sent us a large package with cover letter saying that since they could not reach us by phone, they are sending us a full canvassing package "assuming" we would want to contact all our neighbors for contributions to their charity. They wasted a lot of time, postage, and paper and forever lost a yearly contributor in the process. Very annoying on many levels!

I would like to block all robocalls, it is a nightmare having robocalls made to my home phone almost every hour, mornings, afternoons and evenings. I have requested to stop the annoying calls several times but they have continue to do so, now is even worse, they use phone numbers that do not exist so I can not even request to stop. Please the only hope I have is your help or let someone to help to create blocking products. Thank you.

I have small kids. I have an unlisted number. No way I should get ANY robocalls. I should have the right to opt out 100%, and I mean EVERYTHING if I dont want to have ANY calls, be it political, tax exempt. The bang on my door, I dont have to answer it, but if they call and the phone is ringing while my kid is sleeping...I have to do something. So let me block those assholes.

We need more call blocking solutions like NoMoRoBo. I am tired of my residence being called by one telemarketer/scammer after another. I tried blocking the numbers but I ran out of numbers due to the phone company limits. The callers just changed their number through spoofing devices and kept calling. I changed my home phone number and unlisted it to defeat them, but they keep coming.

I truly believe that the phone companies could easily put an end to this madness working with today's technology, like NoMoRoBo. Why doesn't the FCC push the companies to do something about this.

About 80% of my phone calls are robocalls trying to sell me stuff I don't need and am not interested in. I'm sick of it. I'm getting old, and it's hard to keep getting up and down to the phone to see who's calling. Asking to opt out, or be put on the seller's 'do not call' list doesn't work at all. Neither does being on the National Do Not Call list - sellers/computers just ignore it. Comcast won't let me use NoMoRobo. I don't understand why. Are they getting kickbacks? Please help!

Benicia, CA

Please do more to stop robocalls. Services like nomorobo are great - but should be backed up by more aggressive enforcement of current laws by the FCC.

Robot and unwanted calls come through every day. Callers violate the do not call list with impunity. I have never seen a call stop because of the do not call list and there is no risk to the violators.

It would be shameful to disable the one service that actually helps with this problem.

I am very pleased with the NOMOROBO service. Prior to subscribing to the service we received solicitation calls at all times of the day and night, especially at dinner time. Please do not legislate it out of existence based on lobbyists paid for by those that benefit financially from ROBO calls.

Nomorobo has preserved my sanity. As a senior, I get many unwanted robocalls every day. Now I can ignore them, although some very unscrupulous scammers have figured out how to bypass the system. There really has to be a law AGAINST these invasions of our peace and privacy.

Although my husband and I got on the Do Not Call List the very first day of its existence, we are constantly bombarded by Robocalls at all times of the day and evening. I tired blocking the numbers through my Time Warner Cable, but I can only block 30, and right now I can't even access it to change the numbers. So we are now unplugging our phone for many hours of the day and evening, because even if we don't answer it, my phone recorder starts beeping and we have to get up and shut it off. WE are paying for our phone but seem powerless to control it. STOP Robocalls!!!!!! They are a total plague and invade our privacy abd peace of mind!! We HATE hem!!

Nomorobo is a valuable service to the telephone system consumer. I should be able to keep solicitation calls from continually calling to the point of harassment. These predators target the elderly and use subversive tactics and fear to make sales. Someone needs to stop this! Put the power of use in the hands that pay for the service. Please enable the ability to block these calls once and for all.

Thank you.

Ventura, Ca.

This should be a right. A right to limit or block any and all calls that I choose. I am the one paying for this telephone service so why shouldn't I be able to establish under what terms I wish to receive this service?

B Humphreys
Houston, TX.

I want Nomorobo to not only continue to exist and do its good work, but be allowed to do more - like have it work on every phone (wired, wireless, satellite, etc.). Without this service, I would continue to be HARASSED by the CDC / their Office in Chicago calling to get immunization information. Not giving it and thanks to Nomorobo I no longer get 2-3 calls PER DAY from an agency of the federal government. Really, that many calls. And the service works like a charm.

Use tax payer money to expand this service, help Nomorobo to fund the development of more tools to fight the robo calls and to therefore allow US taxpayers to control who calls and who does not call their phones. It would be more effective and efficient than anything the FCC has or will ever be able to do.

By the way, I have an unlisted, unpublished phone number on my landline (where these calls are mostly occurring), I am on the Do Not Call registry, and I STILL get calls. When the call says "Unknowns" and has no number, Nomorobo is the ONLY means to stop the calls. It is likely the calls are from out of country and thus the telephone hoodlums are not subject to any 'rules'. Nomorobo stops them dead in their tracks.

Please do something constructive, for once. Expand the use of Nomorobo to every type of telephone service. And do it quickly, please, not over 17 years like with HDTV signals.

Thank you.

Robo calls should be outlawed. What value is a call placed by a computer. I was plagued with robo calls until I took steps to stop them using Nomorobo. I need you to force the phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to me the consumer.

The amount of robo calls with forged caller id and fake, invalid phone numbers at all times of day, seven days a week is unbearable.

The scammers, robo callers, cycle through fake numbers very quickly.

Please allow companies like Nomorobo to block unwanted calls. I was getting 5-6 a day and that's not even in election season when I would get as many as 15 a day! I asks them to remove me from their list and they ignore me and illegally call. I LOVE NOMOROBO, they have given me my sanity back!!!

Robocalls are a nuisance! I installed nomorobo to block many on my landline and repeatedly report them via the FTC Complaint Assistant and nomorobo, however with spoofing, many continue to get through. Our number is registered on DNC, but this appears to be ineffective. These nuisance callers must be stopped, particularly when they call outside of the legal calling hours! Mobile phones numbers also need to be included in protection against these relentless, annoying businesses who refuse to take "no" for an answer!

Robocalls/telemarketing calls are not just a nuisance, but a real time waster for my family even having to answer them every evening. I have never even considered accepting an offer and have been on the do not call list for years. No real caller ID source usually available either.

My purchase of a product or service, gives me the right to determine quantity, size, when and where it will be used etc.

My phone service isn't an exception. I determine if it will be local and/or long distance/international rates, calling features etc. Therefore, I've decided to use a robocall blocking service on both my home and mobile phone lines.

Be advised, I'm also registered on the FCC's "Don't Call List". Nonetheless I'm constantly pestered by a variety of telemarketers 7 days/week. Obviously the FCC doesn't have the resources to enforce those who violate and continue to contact persons registered on the list.

The consumer bears the cost with no benefits if robocall blocking isn't available. Don't insult the consumer further due to lack of enforcement of Don't Call List violations.

Your time and attention in this matter is appreciated.

I would absolutely like to block robo calls. Please know that most of them are actually fraud and wants to pay them money. With whatever power you have, please ask the telephone companies to block all robo calls coming to me. They are so disrupting that I almost avoid using my phone. Why , I ask, I have to go backward in time and not use my phone. Do not call program is laughable because it could not stop unwanted phone calls as the callers simply close their shop and open a new one. As an agency to serve the public (and not the scammers), I do hope you can do something to stop the robo calls.

Robo calls have completely ruined my life. They invade my home through my phone daily. There is no let up. It is frustrating and time consuming.

I have to screen calls all day, some times screening out important calls that are valid, but I can't figure out who the number belongs to.

As a consumer and taxpayer why do I have to endure this? Please let the phone company block robo calls for me. I am using ROBONOMO now and it helps the problem.

Robotic computer-driven automated calls to my home land line or my cell phone drive me nuts. It is the height of personal disturbance to a household to be forced by FCC and FTC mandates to be subjected to these calls several times every day when the calls are NOT wanted. Household and cell telephones are something we have to rely on for our family and our workplace to call us in emergencies and otherwise. We USED TO have that right honored in this country. What could have gone so wrong that you disregard the publics rights to not be disturbed like this. This is significant.

Every time one of these ignoramus calls come in, I have to look to guess if it might be one that I should not ignore. THAT IS A PROBLEM. It is very disturbing to be forced into guessing rather than just answering every call only to find a robot on the other end of the line.

Every single time this happens, I curse the FCC and all of the US government that chooses to ignore the privacy of the American public because of these officials enjoy from these massive corporations in order to be reelected to their government positions. Each of these calls is direct proof that the American government system is right now horribly corrupt. People around the world think it's a pity that the Average American has fewer rights every day. America no longer is respected because of this corruption.

I listened to the Congressional hearings explaining exactly how these calls are made. That the FCC actively chooses to not protect the American people from these assaults means that you completely fail at your mandate to protect the public. I do not personally believe for a second that you sincerely solicit opinions from the public on this subject.

1. First of all, I am forced to buy caller ID, purely out of self defense against robocalls.
2. There is basically no way for me as an individual household to be taken off these lists. Believe me, I have tried and tried and tried. It's not possible.
3. Robocalls ignore all DO NOT CALL REGISTRATIONS. So that service is worthless.

I'm am really tired of having to complain once again to the FCC about this matter. This has gone on now for many years and the corporations love your incapacity to act on behalf of the public.

Nancy Groves

Could you (The FCC) explain to the public the rationale in preventing robocall products from being used. Everyday we receive at least 5 robocalls a day. Why is this allowed to happen. As far as I know, and I have never been told otherwise, my cell phone number has never been published. And I'd like to keep it that way.

In the same vane, since I choose not to publish my cell phone number (or any of my family's cell phone numbers) I do not wish to get any unwanted phone calls, especially those dialed by a machine in a mass function in the hopes of getting me to answer my phone so I can be sold something.

I pay for my cell phone service, but not so I can receive unsolicited and unwanted advertisements.

Similarly, I do not wish to be bombarded with "robocalls" while at home. While I do publish my home phone number in the "white pages", it is not for the purpose of soliciting unwanted telemarketing calls. Instead I publish my home phone number so friends and family can find me if they do not remember my home phone number.

Moreover, I find it repugnant that companies can resort to unmanned robotic calling techniques just to skim through the arduous task of dialing thousands of numbers. If it's important enough to call me, then pay someone to do so, but obviously it's not important enough to put someone to work to accomplish the task.

Further, if "robomarketers" cannot find enough people to make these calls, then perhaps that is a telling message that should be acknowledged and respected.

Enough already! I receive enough solicitations daily that I do not want or need armies of anonymous machines calling me at any of my phones, ever. Don't we get enough solicitations through all of our media outlets already?

If you are concerned about the average citizen, then let's put a stop to this insidious abuse of my phone and of technology.

Arthur Kupferman

I am sick of the robo calls I get daily. Why is it ok for these sales calls, however, it is not ok for me a Realtor* to just call to prospect for clients business? I have to check the "no call" list and be sure I don't call anyone on it.

If these robo calls are allowed then I want to be able to call random people asking for business too.

I beg the FCC to put a stop to rob calls immediately.

Elaine Frost

I have the right to block unsolicited phone calls.

I'm so tired of robocalls that I pay extra to have a phone number with no actual phone connected, which I use solely to give out to places that want a phone number for marketing purposes. Since it's simple to block them, I'd rather the phone company provide the solution instead of me having to pay for an unused line.

Mark Grubbs
Austin, TX

Nomorobo blocks an average of 4 calls to my house per day, usually during mealtime. Without this ability, my phone will cease being a utility because I will simply turn it off most of the time.

I would suggest that you empower the phone companies to charge 10 cents per call coming into my number and give me a fixed number, say 100, of phones that can call me for free. You can split proceeds with the phone company and 3 parties will feel good. Of course, I would like to ability to double or triple the charge for political calls.

I am disgusted with the number of calls I was receiving every day at all times of night until I heard about robocall blocking. These people were calling on Sunday evening which is very important to my family. I wake up at 0330 every morning to go to work. These calls were a horrible nuisance!!

William Woodrich

We are a retired couple. Almost every day we have to get up to answer the phone. It's almost always a robocaller that wants to sell us a medical cream that our doctor ordered (which he didn't authorize), or a pain brace for seniors, so forth and so on. We are tired of it!! They are obviously targeting seniors in the apparent hope that we are too senile to tell a scam when we see one. We also get the phony IRS scammers and the crooks claiming to be from Microsoft that can help remove the virus on our computer that they are seeing. We, and other seniors, have paid our dues and should not be forced to put up with this anymore. The current DNC is no longer enforced and now means nothing to these scammers. I have even had them tell me so!!

The national "Do not call" list seems to be ineffective. Consumers need to have easily accessible methods to block unwanted telemarketers, donation seekers, political and general surveys, etc. This should be available to land lines, cell phones, and VOIP lines. This seems like it should be something that can be blocked by the individual or through access to nationally developed lists of nuisance calls (such as developed by nomorobo calls) and probably some other efficiently developed systems that I'm not aware exist.

Walter G. Staab

This is an amazing feature. It is terribly frustrating to pick up the phone to dead silence and then a human gets on to chew your ear off. That is not why I have a phone and NOMOROBO is a great service to have. Do not stop it. I also am on the Do Not Call list but that does not help for all the calls.

Valley Stream, NY

Since having NOMOROBO installed on our fone, a land line, spam or solicitor calls have been reduce considerably. The program is geared to calls made by remote calling machines, not individual callers. Verizon also has a program that lets customers delete up to 12 phone numbers they would like to block. So between the two, we have reduced our spam / solicitor calls significantly. NOMOROBO is good program, keep it going.

The Do Not Call List is a joke! I think as soon as people sign up, the government sells the number to telemarketers. As soon as I signed up, my robo calls skyrocketed! My answering machine is clogged and my missed call list only shows "unknown name; unknown number".

Nomorobo has cut the offensive, aggravating, nuisance calls 90%. the phone rings once and stops. That saves me from interrupting my life and going to answer the phone, only to hear some hoey like, "Congratulations! You've just won...whatever!"

If the government doesn't allow consumers (not to mention taxpayers!) to handle their own phone line, there we definitely need a change. Not just Washington, but in the FCC!

I hope all you guys aren't on the phone company's payroll.

I think robocalls should be blocked. I was constantly getting those types of calls until I signed up with a blocking service. I hate to think of what will happen if robocall blocking is not allowed.

Lucille Gallagher
Wading River, NY

I am SO sick of robocalls. Sick of answering the phone only to find dead air at the other end, and then, a few moments later, hearing an automated voice start up. There's even one now that greets you and asks how you are, so you THINK you're talking to a person, and after you say "Fine," it goes, "This is a recorded call...blah, blah, etc. etc."

It's outrageous that people should be able to waste my time (and the time of all their other victims) like this. Caller i.d. helps some, but not always. SOMETIMES you can tell you're being called by telemarketers, but more often than not, it just shows a number with no other info. If it says "number not available," I don't answer. Ever. But if there's a number that I don't happen to recognize, I have to weigh whether to not pick up and take a chance on missing something important.

I just don't see any reason why ROBOTS should be allowed to call me, at all, ever. If someone wants to talk to me, even if it's just to try to get my money, they need to be adults and TALK to me.

GET RID OF ROBOCALLS. Free speech does not apply; robots don't have rights.

My cell phone is for emergency use - I don't pay for time so some company can call with canned offers that I could care less about!!

My home phone is for MY use and the use of friends and family. Racing to answer what turns out to be a 'junk mail' robo call is just plain maddening!

I feel that consumers have the right to block robocalls. They are invasive,a nuisance and not welcome in my home. I have been blocking

I have been using Nomorobo for over a year now and I don't know what I would do without it! The numerous daily robo calls I received every day were a constant source of aggravation. Nomorobo has been a Godsend because I no longer have to stop what I'm doing to answer the phone only to find out that it's another annoying robo call! Please, please let us continue to have the ability to block these annoying robo calls.

Cathy Jackson

I am tired of getting robo calls on my home phone and can't believe that I am now also getting them on my cell phone.

The last one was a scam from the IRS. I thankfully had piece of mind to call my tax accountant to confirm that this robocall was a scam.

stockton ca

The robcalls are intrusive and abusive. I received one recently from "the Internal Revenue Services". I am on the national and state Do Not Call lists yet I receive multiple calls per day. Each is a scam praying upon the gullible. I should have the ability to block any and all calls like this, not just the 10 numbers my carrier allows.

I abhor robocalls. If I want whatever they may be offering I will institute the call. Please do what you can to stop this invasion of my home.

Please force the phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers like me. Living in Colorado, a swing state, the political campaigns are relentless and there is no easy way to opt out from annoying phone calls throughout the week. In addition, additional measures should be considered to increase the efficacy of the Federal do-not-call list for telemarketers. Many companies are now somehow successfully ignoring this list. All complaints I have issued to the FCC are always ignored.

I want to be able to use nomorobo to block calls. I am so tired of getting robocalls while trying to work from home. I filed the phone numbers serveral times on the do not call list but it did not work. Phone companies have no right to say which calls I can block. Let nomorobo do it's job!!!

Joan and Allen Strug

I receive about at least 10 to 15 calls a day from people that block their phone numbers, numbers that don't exist. I would like to see this stop.

Please stop robo calling, my phone is for my use. I pay for it and I should be able to decide how it should be used, not someone else. We should not be harassed in our own home.

I get 3-4 calls some days--always at the most inconvenient times. It is so annoying! I have signed up to make it stop but it doesn't last. We are 72 and 76 and it is too much!!

I work at home and my land line, needed for our home security system, rings constantly, causing me to stop my work to check the ID to see if it's important. It's very unproductive to keep doing this and i can't just turn off the ringer in case my elderly mother calls or is ill. You must allow people to block unwanted calls easily, effectively, and affordably! It's bad enough the robo call law is a total joke. You've screwed that up. Imagine not being able to block spam emails. Its the SAME THING!!!

Arlington, VA

Please allow us to block robo calls on our cell phones. They are our phones and phone lines.

It's time to stop the robo calls and all the other miscellaneous crap calls being permitted by the loopholes in 'do not call'.

Our family has been on 'do not call' since early on and we still receive an average of 25 unwanted calls per month. These calls consist of robo calls, charities, political campaigns, surveys, and companies claiming to be offering free home security systems, free medical alerts, and so forth.

After signing up on nomorobo.com, our calls dropped to 10 for the month of December 1014.

It's time to stop robo calls and time to fix 'do not call' to mean exactly that, DO NOT CALL for any reason, from anyone, at any time.

We pay for a phone service, to have a number that's for our personal use. Why should we be subjected to any call, any time, if we don't want them.

Companies and organizations are abusing the right to call. Even after being told not to call, they still do. ADT home security and these medical alert companies are very guilty of that. If it's an automated system and you 'opt out', you still get called. If you talk to a person and tell them to remove you from their contact list they just hang up. Guess they believe if they hang up being told to be removed from their contact list doesn't count.

And sometimes they just call from a different number and/or state, so I guess they believe that is permitted since they weren't told not to call from that number before.

Fix the 'do not call' loopholes and don't allow charities, surveys, so-called free offers, political calls, or any calls to be permitted if on the 'do not call'. Do not call means just that, DO NOT CALL.

If I want to give to a charity, I will do so on my own. If I want home security or a medical alert, I will contact someone. I don't want surveys at all, and I definitely don't want political calls soliciting for my vote or donations. Good way to loss my vote.

I don't call you at home, why should anyone be able to call me. These calls are nothing but harassment.

It's time to protect the public. It's my choice to have privacy, not their choice to ignore..

Do your job and stop this madness once and for all.

I hate Robo Calls! They cost me time which is Money ... and they cost me Minutes which is Money. Money STOLEN from me and there is nothing available for me to protect myself.

If you allow Robo Calls - we need to have products to BLOCK them.

Venice, Florida

We are so tired of having our days and nights disrupted by unwanted robocalls. At all hours, we receive calls about carpet cleaning, credit card services, and all sorts of people fishing for our money. If the telephone companies were required to offer a service whereby these calls could be blocked, I am sure everyone would want to sign up for the service. I know we would! Please do what you can to make this type of service as readily available to telephone consumers as are services such as call waiting or caller id, which the phone companies are happy to provide.

Enough! The robo calls come through, especially during family meals, interrupting core quality time.

The other concern is related to emergencies. Some times, the robo s don't disconnect. If a little old lady with osteoporosis runs for the phone and falls, and the phone does not disconnect after she hangs up, she cannot call for help. I have experienced several times that I cannot use my phone because even after I hang up, the robo call is still on the line.

Enough!

We are tired of getting calls from different areas and even private (anonymous) numbers. These include calls reputedly from Microsoft (but aren't), credit card services, and even political calls. Take us off the lists!

I have registered my phone with the National Do Not Call Database and I still get robocalls, even from companies that I have never done business with. They are invasive and annoying. There needs to be a better way to avoid having them.

Mary Belinsky
Los Altos, CA

I have nomorobo on my home phone. It is wonderful. Now that I am retired and at home, I can't believe how many calls I was getting in a day. I purchased a Tracphone which does not support nomorobo and in the first month I received about 15 calls a day. They were from Payday loan type places saying I had been approved. I have never requested a loan and they had my name incorrect. At first I answered the phone. They all had Indian accents and were very rude. Now I have to constantly delete the messages. They also send voice mails which uses up my minutes. Please let us to be able to block these scams.

I'm sick of these robocalls. I have 2 landlines and 2 mobile phone lines. The NoMoRoBo is installed on my Voip line but not on my landline. I have all 4 of my phone lines signed up on the do not call lists and I continue to get at least 1 call per day between all 4 lines. Any help to stop or prevent these calls would be greatly appreciated.

We get between 6 to 10 of these damn calls a day. They start at 7:30 am and end about 9:30pm. We try not to get up until 10am as we are retired. We have blocked these idiots but they just get more #'s. We want COMPLETE BLOCKING from these people we do not know and do not care to know.

For years telemarketers have been a constant frustration for everyday people. Robocallers have taken this to an entirely new level. I am very close to pulling my phone service out. My phone rings many times a day, all hours of day or night. I am on the Do Not Call list but it doesn't matter. I often get numerous calls per day from the same number - even though I am on DNC AND have reported these calls on the DNC website. It is joke. There is no respect for people and I don't understand what right have to invade my personal space on a daily basis and there is absolutely nothing I can do about it. And on your end there is NO enforcement. A protection has been put in place for consumers but they do not follow the policy and you do not enforce it.

Robocalls serve no function an are very annoying. I feel very strongly that I should have access to robocall blocking products. If the phone companies don't want tp provide the service then any private company should be allowed !!!!!!!

You must now take any available action to stop the robocallers. I am a senior citizen, and do have the technical ability to use the Nomorobo call system, and it has Changed My Life in a very positive way. We, as the elderly must have the phone available to receive calls. We cannot block all calls, as they may be for our medical needs, in particular.

However my best friends, cannot figure out how to utilize this service, so it is time, actually it is well over time, that the government steps in to regulate this intrusion into our lives. My friend who is in his 70's receives up to 20 calls per day. He must monitor all incoming calls on his answering machine, to later delete the robocalls. Do something now to stop this extreme invasion on our citizen's privacy, a fundamental right that is being violated by non-regulation of this sinister industry.

The constant Robo calls are extremely annoying, especially at 7:30 am. (They woke me up). They call for Viagra, medical prescriptions, and credit card interest lowering, which I have NO interest in. When I ask them to take me off the list they immediately hang up. And then they call me again and again the days, weeks, months on end. I've even asked to speak to their supervisor and they rudely hang up on me. I receive four to six calls a day. Last week I spoke with a robo caller regarding a credit card lowering interest reform program. She asked the balance on my credit cards and when I told her ZERO she immediately hung up on me. I have been able to block as many numbers as allowed per my telephone provider but they continue to call using another #. They need to be STOPPED!

Do not like these types of calls. People cannot speak English , so you cannot understand them. They are intrusive and make calls at all hours of the day and night. They need to get some education, speech therapy and history lessons. They also need to stop making calls pretending to be your relative.

McMinnville, Oregon

85% of the robocalls are from somewhere outside the us..the rest are political...it seems like a home invasion to me. I pay for my phone why do I have to put up with this? Scams..plain & simple scams...

The FCC is supposed to be the agency that protects the public? I have listed all of my phone numbers on the "Do Not Call" registry and I continue to get increasing numbers of calls from solicitors and polite requests to have them not call again are ignored. Again, the FCC has not not done its job. Trying to make a complaint is a waste of time. THE FCC DOES NOTHING FOR THE CONSUMER — it does however, cater to the whims and wishes of the likes of Comcast, Time-Warner, and other "business" interests. The FCC MUST STOP ROBOCALLS AND ENFORCE THE "DO NOT CALL" REGISTRY AND BRING LEGAL AND REGULATORY ACTIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CONSUMER TO STOP ROBOCALLS AND ALLOW THE CONSUMER TO EFFECTIVELY USE ANTI-ROBOCALLING PRODUCTS.

It's my phone and I want the right to block the calls that are annoying to me. Let them call you.

Clark NJ

I'm in total agreement with Nomorobo supporters. I've been using their service for around two years. Their service has kept the aggravating and rude telemarketers calls to a minimum. I have never had a telemarket call that was beneficial for me, only a waste of my time. I,ve always believed that I had enough intelligence to know my needs without the advice of telemarketers. Yes, if phone companies can provide the blocking of those annoying telemarket calls, I believe they should do so.

Ron Birdwell

I feel robocall blocking products are the best invention since the telephone. I feel robocalls and other annoyance calls (whether or not 'do-not-call' works/allows them or not) should be banned outright, especially from 5 PM - 10 AM and all weekends and holidays. At least make the telephone companies allow the blocking.

I need my voice mail and answering machine space back, not cluttered up with robo messages and undesired sales, charity and campaigning pitches... Thank you Robocall blocking products aren't just a convenience - they have become a necessity. For a phone company to assert that for some reason that they cannot stop robocalls is completely ludicrous. people do not want to be annoyed by calls from whatever cause, political candidates or whatever. Robocalling has become obnoxiously pervasive. I get more robocalls than personal calls on my Robo-blocked home phone. In fact, I get more robocalls than door-to-door solicitations. We love our Robo blocked line. It's answered automatically and doesn't interrupt our dinner, discussions and home entertainment. We are NEVER interested in what they are selling. If we were, we'd go get it ourselves !

Please let us have our personal communication back by stopping time - consuming, worthless robocalls.

Jairo Contreras
Ridgefield, CT

Robocalls have become one of my biggest issues in running a sole proprietor business. The calls are uninvited interruptions to my focus on my work (editing video). Do Not Call doesn't make any difference; part of the time, there is no-one actually on the calling end; other times they can hide their identity and call using a different number the next time. If I had any interest in anything at all being offered, I would initiate a call.

It may seem like a momentary interruption, but when you must focus on what you are doing and may be on a creative surge, it's damaging to have this waste of time.

I applaud what NoMoRobo has been able to stop, and hope that there will be better such products/services available in the future.

Even though we are on the Do Not Call List, we get robo calls every day on our home phone as well as cell phones. This is an invasion of my privacy and a genuine nuisance. Phone companies should allow us to block calls that we do not want and have asked these companies not to call.

Robo calls should be totally against the law! They are an uninvited invasion of privacy!!! We had as many as 15 per day before before we enrolled in Nomorerobo. 95% of the calls I get at my house are robocalls. Please allow me to block these calls. I've been using Nomorobo for the last year and it has been a godsend. I use NoMoRobo to great advantage. On our home phone, we get an average of 3 calls a day that NoMoRobo STOPS.

And now, they have started to call our cell phones. The unwanted calls cost us cell phone user lots of money per year. I want to be in charge of my phones, not some weasel that annoys, interrupts and is certainly an unneeded expense. I urge you to do the right thing for us consumers. Even worse is when someone is there and they want us to stand and listen to their speech that we don't care about. Because of our zipcode we receive a large number of unauthorized robocalls, even though we are on the national "do not call" list.

Having activated "NoMoreRobocalls," we only hear the first ring or two of the 15 or so robocalls we get each day. It's great!

The ability to block robo calls should be a supported service that phone customers do not have to pay for. If a phone company wants to profit from robocallers, they should share some of those profits in the form of a service that allows customers to block those calls if wanted. At the minimum, subsidize and provide features that allow services like Nomorobo to operate.

We've had Nomorono for almost a year and love it. Robo calls were occurring s frequently that we were seriously considering canceling our landline. With Nomorobo we get one ring and silence. Then we both laugh. I pay for my phone service and I should be able to block robo calls if I want to.

Although I have listed my phone numbers, both home and cell, with the National No Call Centers, the robocalls have continued. It is very annoying to get the calls all hours of the day and night. The amount of robocalls is out of control. We should have the option to block these calls. I probably get 2 to 3 calls from solar solicitors every day. I easily get 10 to 15 robocalls per day. My wife and I are senior citizens. It's not right for us to be harassed sometimes as much as 10 times a day by annoying robocalls.

Many of them are trying to sell products like emergency call buttons, "the I've fallen and can't get up variety". Many are informing us that it's our lucky day and we have been selected for a cruise, vacation, etc. and to get our vouchers we just have to money order or wire the $200 transfer fee.

It's actually forced us to screen most of our calls with caller ID. These robocalls usually show up as "private numbers", unlisted numbers" or "not available" numbers.

When numbers are listed and you try to call them, you discover that the number does not take calls or that they are disconnected or not listed numbers.

I don't think freedom of speech entitles you to telephone people at odd hours of the day and night, interrupt, disturb and harass them.

I've complained to our telephone carrier, the police and Commonwealth of Massachusetts Attorney General's office and was told there was nothing they could do about it.

Months ago I frequently called the FCC's complaint number. I'm totally unaware of anything being done with those complaint calls. I've given up on that, because I noticed my complaints even lead to more calls.

It's only fair and just that something be done by our government whether local, state or national to put an end to this.

Y'know what? Even being on the Do Not Call lists, we STILL get tons of unsolicited phone calls -- 2-5 per DAY. We tell them to remove our number, threaten to have them traced and report them to you guys and to state authorities, but they just laugh.

It's OUR PHONE, and we should have the right (and capacity) to block such calls; so PLEASE allow citizens the ability to block such garbage, in spite of the whining from the telecom giants. All they care about is building revenue, not their customers' privacy.

Robo calling is a nightmare. Before we signed up with NOMOROBO we were getting 8 to 10 calls a day. These calls started as early as 8:00am and as late as 9:00pm.

Robocalls are a nightmare. Cannot tell you how many we get, you pick up the call, and nothing. If you wait long enough, you can hear the so many workers in the background calling others. Please stop this.

I receive several robocalls each week even though I put my number on your Federal Do Not Call list. It makes no difference! And neither, it seems, does asking them to take you off their call list. It goes past annoying. Please, let me block robocalls. Please.

You suck !!!

We have Verizon FIOS as our home phone system. We signed up for NOMOROBO when it was first introduced. The service is blocking at least 1 robocall per day (sometimes more from the same source) based on review of my Verizon Call Log. A few still get through though they can usually be traced to MajicJack customers and MajicJack will disconnect them once a complaint is made. It would be great if my mother and daughter (not Verizon customers) could have NOMOROBO on their phones- they can't they have standard phone service from CenturyLink.

The robo calls always come at an inopportune time and disrupt us without our permission. We never listen to the complete message and cannot get a number to report to the government. I think we should be given a way to stop all such messages unless we give permission. Please give us a tool to let us do this.

I have enjoyed being on the "Do Not Call" list for a number of years, but in the last 2-3 years I have received a huge number of "robo calls" from sources which range from businesses I have no relationship with to those which do not reveal their source. I would like the FCC to allow telephone users such as myself an option to block receipt of "robo calls" and would encourage you to provide household consumers the choice to not receive unsolicited calls.

Thank you.

I am sick of the multitude of robo calls that interrupt and disturb our home at all times of the day. I feel like it is an invasion of our home privacy. Surely there must be something that your agency can do to stop these telemarketers and sometimes scammers from harassing people in their own home. Please consider some options to stop this.

Robocalls are a nuisance. I should have the right to block them.

As I am sure, this is not the first you are hearing of this. Robocalls are intrusive and disrespectful. Especially during elections. All candidates call repeatedly and they say the same thing over and over. I get the message, so stop. Further, there is no way to hang up to stop these intrusive messages. My phone is tied up for the duration. Quite frankly, I don't even pay attention to what they say, just white annoying background noise. Stop these calls, if I want you, I'll call you. Otherwise, leave me alone!

In the absence of meaningful enforcement of the "Do Not Call" law, and by meaningful I mean something that provides a real disincentive to the violators without making the population jump through a myriad of hoops to report violations, features such as Nomorobo are essential. If the phone companies don't want to support Nomorobo, let's make them responsible for enforcing the "Do Not Call" law by mandating that after a third violation that they totally cut off service to firms that violate the law rather than just make them pay minor fines. Or maybe have the phone companies generate 1,000 robo calls a day to the personal phone numbers of violating company executives. Allowing companies to violate laws and cause grave aggravation to citizens to provide revenue for the phone companies is not tolerable!

I am an 84 year old woman who has never owned a credit card and never will, but I have received as many as 20 unsolicited robocalls a month trying to offer me all kinds of credit card services. Imagine my distress when my naps, meals, baths, news programs, morning coffee breaks and sleep are interrupted by these annoying, invasive and unwanted calls. I beg you to do something about this. Make the phone companies give us a means to block these calls. The technology exists, so why wouldn't they offer it to us?

Robocalls were coming to our house over a dozen times per day before NoMoRoBo. This blocking technology has calmed the incessant ringing and allowed only wanted calls me through. Receive these annoying robocalls starting at 7:00AM in the morning until after 9:00PM at night 7 days a week. As a senior citizen that has to make a great effort to get to the phone every time it rings I do not appreciate the number being one just listing the city and state. I get at least five of these robocalls per day and the interruption irritates me especially when I have to take my nap as most elder people do. You can curtail this if you want to so take the effort to help us prevent these useless and sometimes fraudulent calls for our money. Thank You.

Forbes Larry

Robocall blocking products, such as Nomorobo, has saved my sanity. Prior to signing up for their service, I was receiving multiple robocalls a day, ranging from 6:00am to 11:00pm. Without a doubt, the vast majority of these calls were fraudulent in nature, likely with the intent of stealing money or identity. Ignoring the phone calls did not prove to be an effective solution and answering the telephone often lead to inappropriate language and vulgarity on the part of the caller because I would not cooperate with their demands.

These robocalling thieves have utter disregard for the FCC and continue to violate your rules because they know they cannot be reprimanded. These illegal calls are offensive and I am outraged that the FCC would allow them to continue to harass and steal from those you are supposedly there to protect. The only way to protect ourselves at this present time is by using a robocall blocking product, which only blocks illegal calls. There is no rational reason for banning robocall blocking products.

I work at home. I'm a writer. Concentration is important to me, but I get five or six robocalls a day - many of which tell me it is my last chance to do something or other. Yet, every day, I get another set of robocalls - many of which tell me, well, you get the idea. I can't shut off the phone while I write, because my wife lives here, too. I can't block the robocalls because, they just show up again with other numbers. I don't, on a daily basis, want to check my credit, invest, or hear about some product I just can't live without. Honest. Why can't we stop them from calling?

I am a retired senior and am so grateful for Nomorobo. My phone rings night day, often many times from the same caller. At least with Nomorobo the call is disconnected after the first ring. If vendors can contact me, unsolicited, with no labor involved on their part, I should be permitted to have those calls disconnected with no labor on my part. Now I wish there was a way to stop the other unsolicited sales calls.

I now only answer calls where the caller is personally identified by a name I know on my caller ID. I pay for phone service for my personal convenience.

Prior to our subscribing with free NOMOROBO we were pestered with calls, with some, we think, coming from the Bahamas. We have had threatening calls as a result of my questioning the caller. The FCC should be extremely proactive in promoting solutions aimed at stopping robocalls. They have taken over the phone lines. It is no longer sensible to pick up the phone without knowing who is calling. The calls can be very irritating as they can come several times per day. Recently I had a series of 36 calls in one day from the same source!

Princeton NJ

I do not want to lose ability to block those annoying robocalls. I think blocking products should be available to all consumers. I got tired of being awakened every morning, my dinnertime interrupted and my evening relaxation time disrupted by annoying and unsolicited phone calls. If I want to contribute to a charity I will do so on my own, I do not want to be hounded for contributions. If I want to purchase a service or product I don't need someone trying to force me to buy when I am not ready. Robocalls are also scammers too, and no one should be scammed out of their hard earned money.

Woodbridge, VA

The constant barrage of phone calls I receive is irritating. Using Nomorobo limits some of the robo calls to just one ring, but even that one ring can disturb me. It is irritating to try and get to the phone and then there is nothing but dead air. Robo calls should be forbidden completely.

People should have the right to block the annoying and illegally operating companies that are wasting our time and money paid for our phone services. They often operate using cloned or hiding the numbers they call from. We should not have to be subjected to this and robocall blocking would be a help. In the past I became totally frustrated with unwanted marketing calls and tried reporting those calls to the "Do not call list" which I have been registered on. It didn't result in ANY help and I discovered that was because the phone numbers on my Caller ID were BOGUS!!! Wondering why the FCC could do NOTHING about that I was totally most thankful when I discovered Nomorobo! It has made our life so much easier since we can now identify those calls and not have to GET UP and run to the phone only to find it's another UNWANTED MARKETER! We dislike robocalls (political and otherwise) and do not feel they should be allowed. These calls invade my privacy, take up my time, even call cell phone number and, while caring for a handicapped spouse are a nuisance and a danger. Furthermore, English is my only language and many of these calls have dialects I cannot comprehend. STOP!!

NOMOROBO is one of the best things to have happened to me lately because I was literally inundated with unsolicited calls every day. Since I work from home this was very disruptive to my business as well as my daily life. NOMOROBO has solved this problem and I no longer have to spend a large portion of my day answering calls from telemarketers and other unsolicited businesses. You can tell the phone companies that I was very close to switching off my home phone service (meaning they would lose my monthly service fees) until I found NOMOROBO. No more NOMOROBO will mean no more home phone service for me. In addition, I don't understand why it's possible for me to block an unlimited number of callers on my cell phone but not on my home phone. Obviously the technology and/or knowhow exists. It should be available for home phone service as well.

Robert Thompson

Please continue to make robocall blocking products available to us consumers, as well as step up your campaign against robocalls, in general. Nomorobo has been a welcome godsend for my household, and it's free and available to anyone, as it should be. We've definitely noticed a reduction in unwanted robocalls/telemarketers making a telephone connection as a result of signing up with Nomorobo service. I wish there were more such companies out there, and more effective government intervention, so that robocalls and incessant, unwanted telemarketing eventually become a thing of the past. Please listen to Aaron Foss - he speaks for all of us consumers.

Since your organization has completely failed to stop any significant volume of robocalls, at least allow me - the victim, along with so very many others, the tools and opportunity to cease robocalling upon my numbers. I own them, not you; I deserve more control, you have not used yours.

We have used Nomorerobo for about a year and it has been a Godsend. Prior to Nomorerobo we received at least 10 sales calls a day, starting in the morning and especially during the dinner hour. We would just not answer the phone but still had to listen to hang ups or long winded messages left on the answering machine. Now, we just get the occassional local sales call which is managable. Robo calls have to STOP. I get an average of 6-10 calls a day at all hours.

Most seem to be test calls as they just hang up or not connected to anyone.

This is an invasion of my privacy. Unsolicited garbage, scams, offers I don't want to hear it. You bother me on the phone because it cost you nothing but it costs me my peace and quiet.

This must stop, I want control of what I'm paying for on my phone. I don't need scammers selling me anything. If I need something I'll make the call.

Robo blocking products are the best alternative to solving this illegal invasion of my privacy. I should be able to not allow any unsolicited call of any nature. Don't call me I'll call you.

Robocalls are one of the most annoying things about modern life. In my entire life, I have never had one robocall that I was please to receive, and I'll bet that few people have.

Robocalls are particularly bothersome for cell phone users, who get pestered as they drive, work, attend church, or have meetings.

Since the technology is available, There is no reason on earth to not block robocalls. Junky spammers ignore the DoNotCall phone lists. They change numbers frequently do avoid being shut down or fined.

They do not deserve the right to stop real people from using available technology to block them.

Please support human beings, not robots for unethical spammers who use every measure they can to flaunt all rules of business and human ethics.

Please do not let the spammers influence legislation to disallow robocall blocking products.

We are sick and tired of getting numerous "robocalls" which are usually people trying to sell something, scam you, or whatever. Thanks to caller ID we do not answer most of these calls. But...Verizon will not let us block calls -- WHY? It does no good reporting to the FCC as the calls just keep on coming and these people simply change the number or the number has been "discontinued". If the FCC doesn't know by now that people are fed up with robocalls, then they have been living in the dark ages.

Please allow robo call blocking on all phones. I am tired of getting calls all day long from sellers that are supposed to be on my "Do Not Call List". This is the only way I have to block them.

Thank you.

I should not have to pay for any service that is using a product I pay for to receive unwanted advertisements. The phone should not ever ring from a sales, political, non-profit, or other unwanted intrusive caller.

I have a mail box. Non-profits, commercial, or self serving institutions should use the mail, at full rate, if it wants to contact me. It would help the US Postal Service balance it's books, and allow me time to gather information about issues/items offered so I can make an informed choice. It would also give me some peace and quiet at home. If my home is my castle, I should be able to defend myself from intruders be they verbal or physical. You need to protect the rights of the citizens to not be assaulted in their own homes.

First, I want to take a moment to say what a wonderful product NOMOROBO is. It is the only product i have found to help end the abuse of my time and MY MONEY. The idea of the FCC taking action that would prohibit robocall blocking products is totally ridiculous. For the past three years we have been thrilled that the 5-6 and sometimes many more robo calls that come in each day are blocked. We know there are that many because the phone rings just once or, if we are not home, we have the "missed call" message on our phone. Such calls are an insult to consumers and without the blocking product, we would have no capacity to stop them since businesses that make such calls ignore our please to discontinue those calls. Do not do anything to restrict robocall blocking products.

The telemarketers was driving me crazy, my grandson helped me get nomorobo. Its a lot better, but some calls slip thru. I've got one call from a medical supply company has called me for 5 years.They still get thru, I can't stop them, they even get mad at me for telling them to quit calling.I like my nomorobo because it rings once and then stops. Unwanted incoming phone calls from people wanting to scam you are the most annoying and yes at times threatening, activity to hit our phone system in the last decade. At times it feels like you are at war with these scam artists, they do not take "No" for an answer they repeatedly call you, even after asking them not you and then cuss at you for "wasting their time" by having to hear you complain. The "Do Not Call Registry" is a joke. It is sad when our government can put so much effort into listening to our calls by the NSA but cannot (or won't) put any effort into stopping these calls. We need the FCC to be much more pro-active in fixing this issue, they need to request the phone companies to provide the necessary tools to do this. Just as they can ask for recordings of our calls from the phone companies tjhey can ask them to stoop these unwanted calls.

I want to be able to stop robocalls to my phones. They are annoying and inconvenient, especially when they come early in the day or late at night. If I am interested in buying something I will look into what is available and initiate the call.

We really need robo-call blocking like that provided by NOMOROBO. The Do Not Call list has turned out to be a joke and is completely ignored. Now robo-calls have been steadily increasing. When I signed up to NOMOROBO the calls significantly decreased plus I also blocks calls locally on my phone system and through Verizon FIOS services. Yet I still get several robo-calls per day. Please do not take any steps to reduce call blocking services and devices.

Robocalls are more than annoying, they are an intrusion into our home and private lives. Please do not miss an opportunity to do something about it.

Please make it easier for consumers to block unwanted calls! This includes robo calls and many (several per day) calls from people selling things in violation of the do not call registry. I am so tired on answering the phone all day to these intrusions. Thank you for whatever you can do about these calls.

We should be able to continue using the robocall blocking products.

I was getting unwanted marketers and robocalls every day and after I started using this great service the number of call went drastically down to almost none. Furthermore, I think local phone companies including wireless companies should offer this product as a future in their plan packages.

Part of our Freedom of Speech is to not have to listen to people we don't want to hear. It is an invasion of my privacy, and being able to block my calls is my personal freedom and choice. I don't call them and I don't want them to call me. If I want something, let me initiate the action, not some person sitting in a room that has no personal interest in my well-being, but a quota. I have asked to be put on a no-call list, but it NEVER works. Let me enjoy my peace and QUIET.

Robocalls drive me nuts! It is an invasion of privacy to have "boiler room" phone calls coming through to our phone, let alone robocalls! Robocalls are out of control, and are making a mockery of the privacy and sanctity of our homes. Forget regulating the internet. Every week I receive more "junk" phone calls than I get from friends and family.

I've been on the "Do Not Call" List for years. That stopped working a long time ago.

I don't have time to retrieve and delete all of the crap that comes through my phone line to my (ATT) Answering Machine.

For the past several years, I have been harassed (yes, I consider it harassment) by up to 10 or more robocalls PER DAY, even on weekends, and EVEN WHEN THERE IS NO ELECTION THAT IS IMMINENT (we all know that political calls are among the worst offenders at this game of harassment.) I do NOT get calls from bill collectors. These are all illegal telemarketing calls. (I check the numbers online to find out who they are, because I have caller ID. That is how I know they are telemarketers who have no legitimate reason to call me. For peace of mind, I have learned not to answer ANY call unless I see that it is legitimate. That does not stop the calls from coming in and disturbing me. I am begging you to require the telecommunications companies to allow customers to block as many callers as we wish. That is the least they can do to try to make up for the years of harassment we have all been forced to endure.

Please stop the madness! Robocalls are annoying and useless. Virtually everyone hangs up as soon as they figure out it's a robocall, so why let them call in the first place? Finding out about Nomorobo was a Godsend, and I have enjoyed using the service since the very start. If you used NomoRobo in your home, you'd already know its value and importance.

I get an average of 6 calls per day caught by this service. That's 1/2 dozen times per day that I don't have to answer my phone for a nuisance or robotic call in the privacy of my own home, at all hours of the day.

The NomoRobo service is more valuable to me than any other service the phone company could ever offer. I would rather give up call waiting or any other standard feature before giving up the service nomorobo provides. I have peace and quiet now, and no more aggravating calls.

Please insist that telephone companies provide automatic robocall blocking and/or enable consumers' use of third-party products such as Nomorobo -- on all landlines and cellular telephones.

I have landline service from Verizon, and cannot use Nomorobo because Verizon does not provide "simultaneous ring" on this service.

William Rabkin
Framingham, MA

The "do not call list" does not work. Companies are relentless with robocalls every day of the week and every time of the day. The robocall blocking products are a huge step in fighting these calls. Unfortunately, the phone must still ring once before the call can be blocked. You the government should be fixing this problem. This shouldn't be a hard decision to finally get these calls to stop.

There needs to be accountability with cell phones too. I am paying my cell phone company every time these robocalls come to my cell. I do not give my phone number out to anyone but friends and family, absolutely no one. The robocalls keep coming through and I have to pay for them. It's no different then someone stealing money out of my purse.

Rochester, NY

We are inundated with robo calls both on our land-line and cells. The Federal Do Not Call list is USELESS. ATT only allows is to block 20 calls. That covers one or two days then it starts over again. We don't answer out land line ever but need it for access to the internet. We are wasting money to have a phone we cannot answer..

Paul Palowitch

I have decided to block robot calls due to the constant interruption of unsolicited callers. The nomorobo application has helped me keep unwanted calls away, and I find that the application is a product that has helped the public.

Gerald Newton

Robocalls are a nuisance to family time. Many telemarketing companies use robocalls, do not respect the Do Not Call Registry and call at the least desirable times. They do not respect requests to remove one's phone number from their calling lists, provide false caller id information and numbers which cannot be easily traced back and many times are selling useless products and/or services, or just plainly try to scam people, especially the elderly.

I have personally received calls trying to get into my computer, people impersonating bank officers and more, but since I started using nomorobo, a robocall blocking service through my Xfinity phone service, the number of those calls have diminished greatly.

We let nomorobo pick up the calls and if the phone rings more than once it means it does not match the known robocallers. When we pick up the phone, it is usually a call that we want or need to take. Once in a while a call comes through which we hope nomorobo would have caught. It is a very unpleasant feeling having to deal with those few telemarketers/robocallers that actually get through.

Robocalls from unscrupulous telemarketing companies is a problem which has a solution: robocall blocking services such as nomorobo.

I hope that you will not let phone companies deny consumers access to robocall blocker products and instead require that phone companies must provide access to such products/services.

Nomorobo has provided a very useful service for my family. Please do not let phone companies take it away.

My parents are in their 80's. My mother has Rheumatoid Arthritis and my father has a heart condition. They are so burdened with Robo-calls that they don't answer their phone if they are unsure of the number calling. They often miss important calls from their doctor's office and friends/relatives that do not often call. It is a hardship on them to receive up to 20 calls per day that end up being complete and utter nonsense. They do not deserve this. They have been good citizens and good people. They pay taxes, they pay all their bills on time, and are not bothering anyone.

Valerie Merkes
Lake Tapps, WA

To many Robo Calls. They must be stopped. How about a law suite aganist the phone companies. I have paid for a unlisted and non published number for over 40 years. They have not had a problem taking around $4.95 per month for this service. Enough is enough. In the last 3 weeks I have spent time putting a block on over 20 numbers that came into my home. Is this my job with an unlisred number. It's about time to start a class action suite to get back the over 40 years paying for this service. That they gave me nothing for.

Please, please allow us to decide if we want to take unsolicited calls!! Before I had robo calls blocked, I would get 8 - 10 unsolicited calls a day. They come up on the caller id as "toll-free" or "unknown" callers. In this day and age, I am not interested in talking with persons I don't know.

Please allow us to choose if we want our family time interrupted by companies offering services we did not request. I am not opposed to receiving mail solicitations instead.

I don't want robo calls. It's an invasion of my privacy! I should have the right to determine who can and cannot call me. Stop listening to big business instead of the regular people government is SUPPOSED to represent

Dianne Barba

My home is my sanctuary. If I can't avoid solicitations coming into my home (that I'm paying for) on my phone (that I'm paying for), what am I to do? Telephone solicitations invade my privacy. My home is my castle—or it used to be before telemarketing.

I want to be able to block robocalls. I'm on the Do Not Call Registry but I still get so many telemarketing calls. I want to block them and any of the calls that are allowed (such as charities or political calls) if they use robocalls. It's my phone, I'm paying for it, and I don't want anyone else using my phone to solicit anything from me.

I don't want my work interrupted by robocalls. I work at home for an employer and get paid based on my accuracy and volume of work. I have an answering machine but I don't want to hear the phone ring until it picks up, and I shouldn't have to! I'm not going to turn off my answering machine because I could receive an emergency call from a family member and I want to have the option to pick up the phone if I hear their voice.

I don't want my private time interrupted by robocalls. I have my phone so I can call my family and friends and vice versa and make calls for personal business matters. When I'm at home relaxing or taking care of chores, I don't want to answer the phone only to find it's a robocall and someone is trying to sell me something (that I probably don't want) or otherwise waste my time. It's a violation of the refuge of my private residence. Just because someone else doesn't mind interrupting whatever I'm doing does not mean it's OK.

When someone calls and I can see on the caller ID on my cable TV that it says "Anonymous," "Private" or similar, I'd like to be able to stop the ringing immediately rather than listen to it until my answering machine picks up. I want to be Anonymous or Private, too, and have them leave me alone in my own home.

Nomorobo is great! We need to keep it and add more products that will let private citizens enjoy the privacy of their own homes. Like Quasimodo the hunchback of Notre Dame, I want my "Sanctuary! Sanctuary!"

I think blocking robocalls is absolutely wonderful. Everyday we were receiving those very annoying robocalls. When we ask to be taken off their lists, they just hang up. Please allow consumers and telephone and cellphone companies to prevent and block robo-calls. These are costly to cell phone users, annoying, disruptive, and intrusive. Nomorobo has been a very valuable tool in reducing the number of robo calls and marketing calls that disrupt our daily lives. We need to expand the capabilities to all cell carriers, especially those like Verizon who don't participate. Telemarketers don't obey the time restrictions and I am tired of being awakened at all hours of the night by them. And they constantly interrupt valuable family time at dinner time. Please expand the tools of robo all blocking products to the consumers and give us some of lives and privacy back.

Nomorobo is the best thing since sliced bread when it comes to blocking annoying robocalls. I used to get 5-10 of these annoying calls a day. I signed up for Nomorobo in August 2014 and the calls came but only rang once and got blocked. The robocalls gradually declined to where I am lucky if I get 5 a week. Nomorobo is a godsend ! Robo calls are a constant invasion of my privacy and peace within my home and recently include my cell phone. There are products available to stop this intrusion which should be required for all carriers at no charge to customers wanting this service. I had a storage business line used to take messages which I had to have disconnected and expensive signage changed due to messages left from unwanted callers and robo calls rendering the line useless. We are bombarded every day with unwanted robocalls, some starting at 8 in the morning. We often get more than a dozen per day. When we tried to sign up to block those calls we discovered that Verizon wouldn't allow it unless we signed up for some high price level of service that we don't need. The bottom line is that we won't get back our freedom from unwanted calls unless we pay Verizon a ransom. This is outrageous and must be stopped.

I PAY for the use of my own phone. I PAY dearly for the peaceful enjoyment of my home. Everyone I know is infuriated that this country allows robocalls. The robocall problem is huge, and hugely annoying. It is clearly in the public interest to bring about a solution to this situation, which wastes so much time and money every single day.

You have the power to do this - now! You don't need action by Congress, you can do it under the current statutes. All it takes is determination and will power. Those haven't always been the Commission's strong suits, but now is your chance to demonstrate you really care about this issue.

A solution to this problem is way overdue. Please make it happen before the August break.

Since I pay for phone services, I should have the option to block any and all callers that I deem as a nuisance, and this includes robocalls. I was recently on a very important call with an aging parent, who was frantic with some health concerns, and during that call, a robocaller kept trying to beep through. And not just one company, but 2!

I understand that some of these companies rely on their calls, and I unblock those that I do not mind getting calls from--particularly the thrift stores that rely on donations. But others that say they represent the police or the annoying political calls only hurt their cause as far as I am concerned--getting these calls insures that I will NOT support whomever they represent.

Robocalls are the reason so many homeowners have discontinued their landline services.

The greater majority of phone calls to our land line for a number of years have been violations of the "Do Not Call" list. The greater majority of these were robocalls, almost all from spoofed numbers. Credit Card Services, free this and free that, solar energy, electric supply, bogus charities, etc., etc..

Registering with NOMOROBO has added a degree of tranquility. When the phone rings but once we continue with any activity. More than one ring and caller ID is checked, answering only numbers we recognize.

I am not aware of any legitimate robocall (eg several doctor's offices with app't confirmations) which has been "rejected".

I was very disappointed to find our cellphone carrier is not able to handle this service. Rare is the week several robocalls are not received on each of our cellphones.

I have nomorerobo it has stopped the many annoying calls I was getting at all times of the day. I am on the federal do not call list and even have made a complaint about certain nusense calls I was receiving without the calls stopping. I tried recalling the numbers and auto deleting my number from that calling site but having the same company called from another number. I have tried to redial and gotten a busy signal or the number you have dialed can not be connected as dialed. nomorerobo has been a solution to these numerous annoying calls. To me, robocalls are like an invasion of my privacy. I want to be able to block robocalls.

Ajice Price
West Islip, NY

I pay for my phone service, I should be able to control most aspects of receiving calls from someone, based on caller ID

R Adams
Centreville, VA

My telephone line is like a "virtual" entrance to my home. I have a right to control who enters my home- whether they attempt to enter by the front door or by the telephone.

Also, the telephone company does not provide me with telephones- I have to buy those myself, in addition to paying the phone company for monthly service. Therefore, I am paying for not only the ongoing/recurring cost of access to a telephone network, but the telephone devices as well. Thus, I own (or lease) every facet of my telephone service. For a phone company to claim that I do not have the right to control what is conveyed into my home over telephones that I purchased and lines/bandwidth that I am leasing monthly is absurd.

After years of telephone companies claiming that they did not have the ability to block robocalls, and/or charging customers additional fees to block more than a paltry 15 or 20 numbers when we get 200-300 illegal and scamming robocalls every year, along comes NomoRobo and does it.

Now, apparently, those same lying phone companies want you to prevent Nomorobo from giving us privacy and freedom from criminal scammers in our own homes. Clearly, the phone companies have an agenda here, and they are willing to tell whatever lie suits their whim. As circumstances change, their lies and excuses change to match. Any thinking person can plainly see that the phone companies simply have no credibility on this issue.

Please remember to engage your BS filter when you hear from the telephone companies with their self-serving claims of inability to provide customers with the privacy to which we have an inherent right. Their unwillingness and/or recalcitrance for undisclosed reasons must not be confused with inability.

I am sick and tired of fielding robocalls at home and my cellular device. I support any tools that can stop and report those who continue to call numbers on the do not call registry.

Robocalling is identical to Junk mail. Something unwanted and I believe illegal.

I do not EVER want to receive another robo call. I've invested money buying spam software to stop JUNK mail. Please find a way to stop ROBO- CALLS AND JUNK MAIL!!!!!!

I want to stop robo calls, especially election calls. I don't want them or need them. The only thing that I hate more than Robo calls is Comcast.

I am especially burned by robocalls, particularly those that are scams. I believe that any robocalls by companies are either to scam you or are by companies too cheap to use live people. Any company that can prevent robocalls should be allowed to do so.

I am tired of robocalls. They interrupt my day, my evening, my meals and time with my family.

We need to be able to block these calls and eventually eliminate them altogether.

This service is the best thing since sliced bread. If I want what these people who call are selling I'll CALL THEM. WHEN I WANT TO. And what a blessing during election time. No more listening to your ROBO calls asking for my vote. I can read. If I want to vote for you I will or I won't. Your annoying call will NOT change my mind. Peoples privacy should be respected.

Rich M
Albany, NY

The profusion of these robo calls has gotten totally out of proportion. I can't think of anything more obnoxious and intrusive as the phone ringing off the hook 5 to 10 times a day with someone trying to sell you something you have no need for nor any intention to ever want or buy. In addition to the totally unwanted sales calls are the equally invasive political calls before, during and after any elections.

Our telephones are our property to do with as we please and to provide us the communication service we pay for, nothing else. These robo calls are nothing more than a gross invasion of our right to privacy, along with peace and quiet when we're not using our phones for their intended purpose. Robo calls need to be STOPPED NOW! Let's get off your butts there in Washington and finally do something "for the people" and stop catering to your special interest groups. ENOUGH is ENOUGH!!!!

I want to be able to block all robocalls. This is an annoyance that the FCC should be able to prevent.

I've had Nomorobo since February 2014. There are no more countless dinner time calls, no more unsolicited garbage calls. I have advised so people about this service, it's fantastic. What the FCC should be doing is cracking down on the many violators of the "Do not call" list. A more aggressive approach would be appreciated on that issue. Please leave decisions on how I manage my communications to me !

I have health issues and find it very difficult to answer the telephone when it rings. I don't want unnecessary calls to my verizon provider telephone number. Please allow robo calls to be blocked.

Millburn, Nj

We are tired of robocalls coming to our phones. We avoid most of them by only saying hello once, the robot waits for a second hello. Those that do get through are all sales calls of one kind or another. We want to be able to block them altogether.

William and Susan Nance

Evidently you have some minion to handle all the RIDICULOUS, UNWELCOMED, UNSOLICITED CALLS that come to your home and office. The vast majority of the American public does not have this advantage. We must halt what we are doing to answer these ANNOYING, PESTERING, IRRELEVANT ROBOT DIALED CALLS, which 9 times out of 10 have no human person on the line waiting for some very hard working person to take the time to respond. This is America. We should have the right to not be disturbed by neither irresponsible companies nor delinquent individuals that randomly call the telephone numbers of general public they do not know. Let us get on with our lives without the interruption of these inane calls.

I have registered my phones on the "do not call" list and calls keep coming. It is annoying and actually has caused me health problems. Please allow us to stop robocalls. The freedom others have to speak does not mean we are obligated to listen.

Dr. Raul Vazquez

Stop the Robocalls!! Make it easy for me to stop them. Make the penalties for robocall expensive ($10,000) per call.

On any future rules make me have to "opt in" instead of me having to "opt out". I should have to decide if I want something instead of automatically giving it to me and then me having to take action to "opt out".

STOP RPBPCALLS. Most are scam artists; others are unwanted "businesses" with whom you don't deal. The same calls come over and over again many times a day, many days a week. This is WORSE than what we had before the Do Not Call List because they have all found out how to get around it. Worse than ever. STOP IT NOW.

MD

Robocalls should be blockable by the phone subscriber. The no-call list is not enforced and therefore become useless. The only practical option is for the user to block those calls he is pestered with at all times of day and night.

I wholly support the requirement that phone companies provide blocking software for use by the subscriber.

W Wirth

It is time to make it optional for people to stop robo calls, including or most especially those of politicians seeking office. It is intrusive and I would contend that, especially in the case of political candidates, a quality study would show them to be counter productive. The prevailing view that robo calling is a free speech protected right should not over-ride one's right to privacy..

Robocalls are a big nuisance to me and my family, especially during mealtimes and family times, which is why my family and I appreciate the service Nomorobo has provided in blocking these calls. I just wish that I can get this service from my cell phone provider, Sprint, so robocalls to my cell phone are blocked. I signed up for the Do Not Call Registry, but nuisance calls still go through. Nomorobo has put a stop to most of the robocalls.

I receive at least 5 robo calls per day, mostly in the evening. I do not want to even answer the phone when I don't recognize the caller, but the robo calls just keep coming. I am an American citizen, a veteran, a senior citizen, a registered voter, a proud volunteer in many of my township organizations. I am a good and loyal US citizen. However, I still get annoying phone calls at all hours, on a phone that has supposedly had the US government "do not call" ban placed upon it! I also have paid and installed for a "stop the robocalls machine but it has never worked. I am now asking the FCC to step in and actually create a positive plan that will stop this constant harassment to me and my family as we try to live peacefully in our home.

Since when does the FCC have the right to tell the paying public how to get rid of the annoying robo calls that constantly are using the internet to send their crap to people that don't want to receive their calls.

If the calls were wanted, NOMOROBO would not be necessary !!!

Enough said.

I pay for my phone services, and don't feel that the FCC has the right to tell me how I have to receive calls.

Illegal robocalls from spoofed fake caller-ID's are taking up much of our day. Ring, ring, ring, ring, ring, all day, every day. Rachel from Cardholder Services, and all her little criminal friends, all trying to steal our identities and ruin our lives. Ring, ring, ring, ring, ring. We need to keep our phone number because it is "out there" in too many vital places, like medical providers and financial institutions. We have to either answer the constant ringing in order to make things quiet and prevent our answering machine and voice mail from saturation by 11 am, and it is more than a nuisance. It is ridiculous. I have asked our phone carrier, Verizon, multiple times to assist us in preventing these robot-using criminals from hijacking our phone service that we pay for as they try to steal our money and identities. Verizon claims they do not have the technical expertise to do anything (I would be embarrassed to admit that). They can forever, for a price, change our phone number (as if that would do any good), or sell us a service that will allow us to block each caller one by one. Oh so tedious, and expensive -- and useless, because the criminal callers just change their spoofed fake caller ID as soon as the old one gets blocked. NOMOROBO.COM has been a Godsend. There is no reason the phone companies could not do this themselves! In the very, very rare event that a legitimate robo-caller gets blocked, we can report that number to NOMOROBO and have it taken off the block list. No problem for anybody.

PLEASE, FCC, WE BEG YOU TO GIVE US BACK OUR OWN PHONE SERVICE THAT WE PAY FOR, by assisting every effort to physically block illegal robocalls (and find and prosecute the criminals).

Lynne Bernier

I'm so very tired of receiving computer calls every day of the week. This is very annoying to me since I have to answer the phone every time it rings which is throughout the day. I'm surprised in this day and age of computers an easy digital blocking mechanism can't be accomplished by the FCC. Please, please fix these annoying calls!!!

San Gabriel, CA

Robotcalls are an invasion of privacy. My wife and I have fighting the flu for the past week. Thankfully, our phone calls were screened, perhaps ten per day.

What an inconvenience! I have never purchased anything over the phone nor had my opinion swayed by someone I don't know.

These robo calls should not be allowed. I am elderly and slower than in the past. I can't get my work done for answering so many of these calls. I want to be able to block robo calls as they are very annoying. The people doing robo calls are using the to get around the do not call registry.

Computer dialed calls have always been a nuisance but the better word is disturbance. If I require goods or services I will establish contact to the outfit of my choosing. I honestly couldn't decipher if my joining the donotcall.gov list when it was formed had any impact whatsoever (If it did it surely isn't working now)! If my family hadn't had the same landline telephone number for thirtyfive years we would have long gotten rid of it solely because of these unwelcome calls. Thanks to our joining of nomorobo.com for about one year now we are still plagued daily by these ridiculous calls but Nomorobo solely stops these calls at the first ring which we can live with!

Until we learned of and contacted NOMOROBO we put up with a multitude of robo calls every day, all day, weekends and Sundays included. It was an unconscionable annoyance. I do not believe that the robo callers have an unfettered right to do what they do.

Doug Leathem

Robocalls are the most annoying things ever invented. They are invasive and usually call when they know most people are having dinner. My phone is for my convenience, not for unwanted commercial calls. I demand the ability to control my own communications.

Sacramento, CA

What happened to my rights as a consumer who does not want the constant barrage of unwanted annoying calls? It is the calls which have nothing to do with me. I have excellent credit. I don't need help. It is the mindless incessant calls which I have to pay my phone company to block.

Then there are the cell phone calls! They occur more often than the land line calls. My cell phone is for my emergency use only. It is not a 'smart' phone. I have a very limited number of free minutes since I am a single income senior and cannot afford to waste my hard earned money. It's not fair that I have to put up with unlawful people who wish to most likely scam me.

Nomorobo is a great FREE service and it has made a small impact on the unsolicited calls to my home, but I still receive a minimum of 5 calls a day from the same or similar numbers which do not even allow me to speak to a person. Some of them have the nerve to put ME on hold until one of their bottom feeder employees get on the line. Then they are rude and disconnect when I ask a question. It's wrong!

L Westbrook
Houston, TX

Why should I be forced to allow robocalls on my phone? Nuisance sales calls come in EVERY DAY. I have NOMOROBO on my phone, but many calls still get through. By contacting the FCC I should have the option to BLOCK ALL ROBOCALLS, without having to block specific call numbers. NOMOROBO works effectively, but if the FCC would give its approval, it would be much more effective. FCC should be effective for citizens, not for the monied lobbyists who are against blocking these calls. Please give the public the opportunity to block these ever increasing annoying, inconsiderate calls.

Barbara Woodin
West Chester PA

Words cannot tell you how disgusted I am regarding robo calls. Some days I get 7-9 calls per day from people selling stuff. I have repeatedly told them I am not interested and remove my name, but they still call. I have dealt with a company call Card Holder services for the past 7-8 years calling wanting to reduce my credit card interest rates. This is a recording and I have to press a number to speak with someone. When I do and ask them to stop calling me, they hang up. I have considered disconnecting my phone to stop this harassment. Why can't something be done with them. I'm tired of this.

I'm very tired of getting robo calls. What right do you have to stop people from using nomorobo!

I am sick of telemarketers.

We receive from 3-8 calls daily that are made robotically. This is a callous invasion of my privacy and peace of mind. Many of these callers call in disregard to the National Do Not Call Registration. Being able to block these calls is of tremendous value. The public is already under siege from marketers without giving them the ability to invade my home's peace at their will. It costs them nothing to make these calls but greatly disrupts our lives.

Please do not prevent us from utilizing technology to block their intrusive use of their own technology.

I loathe, hate, and despise robocalls.

Even though I am on the "Do Not Call Lists," and In spite my use of a robocall blocking product, I constantly receive calls which I never, ever, ever, ever want.

Robocalls are extremely offensive to me: further, I consider telemarketing calls of any nature to be an invasion of my privacy.

Please, outlaw all robocalling, and enforce that with severe, harsh punishment.

robo calls should have been stopped years ago. Please make the ability to block Robo calls more readily available to consumers. There should be a way to prevent the telemarketers from calling you at any time of the day, any day of the week, and try to sell you something. It's disruptive (eating dinner, phone rings - infant finally got to sleep, phone wakes up infant - the list goes on and on).

Thanks to NoMoRobo, the number of calls coming through have drastically reduced (only caller ID blocked ones come through now - something I'll fix shortly by blocking called ID blocked calls entirely).

Given the chance, I would love to go one step further and make a device available that plugs into the phone jack which gets updates from the internet on phone numbers which are known telemarketers and block the call right there on the spot. This would allow ANY consumer to block the annoying calls.

With NoMoRobo, it's great because I can 'dual ring' and NoMoRobo intercepts the calls. But not every consumer has access to 'dual ring' capabilities with their phone service.

Stanley Quon
Oxnard, CA

I pay for phone service and deserve not to be harrassed in my own home. I pay for caller ID, and deserve not to have intrusions by people hiding their identity from me. NoMoRobo (and any other service like it) allows me to retain some control over who invades my home. Telemarketing must be a successful tactic since there is so much of it, but I deserve to exercise my right not to participate. And the scammers who call and prey on vulnerable people are even more important to block. I want my elderly parents not to receive those calls. And call blocking helps. How can any government curtail access to a service that protects the people from harrassment and victimization?

Both my home and cell numbers have been on the state and national Do Not Call Lists since their inception yet I get at least ten unsolicited calls per week, sometimes as many as five or more a day. Companies making these calls have blantly ignored checking these lists and have no fear of any retribution from any government agencies. Therefore, it is imperative that we as consumers have some way to protect ourselves from these unwanted and unsolicited intrusions into our privacies by being able to block these robocalls.

Maurice F. Eason

I find robo calls an serious invasion of my home sanctuary. Machines are calling me to sell me/scam me things I don't want/would never, ever buy over the phone. Nomorobo has improved the quality of my life by giving me peace at home. If I can be on on the "do not call list" why can't I block machines from calling me? Why do machines not respect the "do not call list"?

I had Nomorobo with Verizon and it worked beautifully.

I have since changed to Comcast and they restrict its use. You must use "voice to go" app which is for androids and whatever but not your regular phone.

I have compiled a list of hundreds of phone numbers that are used to try and scam me but without using a separate personally purchased call blocker, I'm up the creek trying to prevent these daily calls. I have to block complete area codes to try and minimize such calls.

Nomorobo won a award to prevent such calls but providers only care about revenue. Lets do something that helps stop the millions of daily calls that are trying to separate us from our money.

I'm sick and tired of robocalls. And I should have to spend my time trying to figure out how to block them. In a 3 day period, I received numerous calls from "rachel" wanting to increase my credit limit & lower my interest rate. I blocked all three different numbers. The fourth call made by "rachel" my caller ID showed MY HOME PHONE NUMBER so I couldn't block it. I have done some research and found that blocks of phone numbers in the thousands, are available to robocall companies. These calls are an invasion of my privacy and as I get older, a danger to me if I hurry to answer a call that really isn't a call I want to answer. STOP THE ROBO CALLS

I run a small business from my home. In spite of placing my name on every no call list I can find, I continue to receive from 4-6 robo calls a day. I often place a customer on hold while I answer another call -- only to find a robot on the line.

I pay for my phone to communicate with customers, friends and family. Robo calling allows unwanted solicitors to hijack my phone at very little cost to them. Please end robo calling.

Enough! It's bad enough the so called "no call" list has turned into a joke. Don't let the telecommunications companies dictate what we can and can not do to stop these abusing telemarketing idiots from entering our home. If they are allowed to block a service like nomorobo, the only step left is to drop my land line completely. And I don't have a cell phone, so that leaves me with no service. Thanks big business! Please FCC do not allow them to push us around!

Seal Beach, CA

I use Robocall blocking now. I can't tell you what a help it is. I am 73 years old and was constantly getting up to answer calls from people violating the "do not call" list I am on. Now the phone rings once and stops right there - brings a smile to my face every time.

Please DO NOT STOP robocall blocking.

Unsolicited computer generated calls are the biggest nuisance facing private telephone owners. These nuisance calls are incessant and timed to disturb you at the most inconvenient times, bed time, meal times, and weekends.

ojai, california

It seems everyone has my phone number and they think that entitles them to my money, too. More than 50% of the calls I get are from UNKNOWN or 800 SERVICE or area codes 800, 866, debt collectors looking for someone else (I am the only one who has ever had this phone number) or from various and sundry parties unknown to me. The DO NOT CALL list is routinely ignored. I pay for the phone service, not these electronic pests, and I shouldn't be forced to confront these unwelcome intruders several times each day. I am tired of telling people not to call - the calls seem to increase exponentially. Robocall blocking is the only tool I have to avoid some of these pests. NOMOROBO is the best thing to come along since telemarketing calls began, and I hope it can expand to work on all phone systems.

There is nothing more annoying than telemarketers interrupting my meals, chores, and sleep. If I want something, I'll research it. If I want to contribute to a charity, I'll decide. I NEVER DO ANYTHING prompted by a phone call.

I am in favor of NOMOROBO. I find robo calls very irritating most come at the time of our evening meal, when we are sitting down to relax. I find it very rude of someone to call and waste my time but not take the time themselves to at least have the courtesy to give some of their time to discuss whatever it is they think is important enough to waste some of mine.

I fully support the availability of call-blocking products like nomorobo. Unsolicited robocalls are intrusive and detrimental to my family's quality of life. With call-blocking, we have some control over life's interruptions. We don't need what these people are pushing. We want to keep our time peaceful. We're fully capable of staying informed and making our own choices.

They are a pain in the neck and definitely not wanted

It is unbelievable to me that the FCC would consider revising rules to weaken existing restrictions on unsolicited marketing phone calls to a phone line I pay for, such as allowing marketers to call cell phones, or restricting a customer's choice to block such calls by a service such as NoMoRobo. These companies and entities have no right to invade my hard won peace and quiet on my small yet MY piece of the planet. I also have the right, but not the ability to completely disconnect my land line (It's our emergency line only known to our family) - We live in a spotty cell area and our cell phones do not always ring. Before NoMoRobo, even though we were on the national do not call list, we would receive dozens of robo calls a day. Many of those from well known scams. Ironic that we only used the line for family calls once or twice a month.

I have an idea for a great new rule, the marketers can call me all they want, if they pay for our phone line. Deal?

I think that robocall blocking products are needed. I get at least 10 a day of these calls. I will not answer and it's frustrating to get these people to listen that I am on the DO NOT CALL list. They don't care! We need this kind of system so that they will get the message!

We have a landline, mostly for family, friends and business. We each also have a cell for traveling, arrangements and emergencies.

We have been plagued by robocalls on our landline. They are always obnoxious. I have been targeted by one robo company for taunts and salacious comments. As far as I am concerned, the whole industry is tainted and it is a blight on our already too crowded communication lines.

It's time to ban robocalls but failing a perfect solution, the least the government can do is let phone customers to effectively opt out.

Robocalls are more than just an invasion of privacy --- often they disturb sleep, dinner conversations, and ill people, and tie up phones needed for important calls and emergencies, and they should not be allowed to invade our homes, our refuge from an increasingly noisy and intrusive world, at will.

Robos: put your message on a postcard and leave me my constitutional right to respond or not.

Congress created many loopholes and exceptions in the Do Not Call law and there is little money for vigorous enforcement, even when fraud and scams are involved. Now it seems like every robocall is a "survey" or "opinion poll." Robocall blocking products are extremely effective and "crowdsourcing" keeps the blocking list current. Once again I have gained control of both my landline and cell phone. Please keep and expand this option to all consumers.

I am tired of getting all the phone calls at different times of the day and night. None of these calls have anything to do with us. They are annoying and sometimes the live people get down right nasty when you tell them not to call any more. We should have the right to control who calls and who doesn't call our home or cells. We don't need to spend the time talking or arguing with these companies. Some of the calls are hang ups. A lot of them are from foreign countries, but with American numbers. Us being able to block these numbers have given us peace during the day and night. We should be able to block these kind of calls on our cell phones also. We should be able to find out who is selling our numbers to these companies or people. Please let us have this choice.

Robocalls need to stop. They are constant, ongoing, and annoying that disrupts the family environment from morning to night. And they are getting worse, more then ever. Even if you are on the no call list. They don't care. Each person should have the right to block nuisance calls. Since there is no legal enforcement to block harassing calls, we should have the ability to take matters into our own hands. Aside from constant harassment, there are a lot of elderly people who are being taken advantage of.

I was sick and tired of receiving these Robo calls, the lame call blocking feature that my internet phone service provider supplied was useless! Every time I blocked a call a new number would call, all hours of the day! I was even considering getting rid of the land line phone!

I think it is absolutely essential that individuals have the freedom to block robocalls should they desire to do so. It is not enough to be on the national Do Not Call list, as many telephone solicitors ignore this law. They would rather seek forgiveness than obey the law up front. I support robocalling blocking programs, and hope you will allow them to stand and even make it easier to gain access to them.

Dear FCC,

I have called and used your useless website to stop these people from calling me and I feel that my tax dollars that are paying you is just paying you and you are not doing anything to stop these people who call me all the time. It is always the same recording and the same kind of services that bug me. You never sent me a letter back that you did anything and in the past you told me to sue them personally. It is your job to stop this, not my job to sue people I can't find any info on to sue. Please stop these Robo calls by making it illegal for all salesman to stop calling me and put them in jail for harassment.

For several months now we have been fortunate to take advantage of the automated call blocking features of nomorobo. This company provides an exceptional service to American citizens, leading the way in preventing unwanted and intrusive robo calls. There is simply no comparable service by telephone company providers as we are aware from direct experience. The FCC should act in the interest of citizens and ensure that telephone companies are mandated to work with nomorobo; the loss or reduction of this service is clearly contrary to the interest of the American public.

It is annoying beyond description, wasteful and intrusive. My phone rings on average 8 times between 5pm and 9pm (i averaged over a 3 week period). For the three weeks, only 5 calls were not solicitation. It was 162 times that were solicitors in 3 weeks. I have two toddlers that i am trying to feed, bathe, put to bed and generally raise as a family during those hours and these calls are a complete intrusion and distraction. But i need to have the phone to keep the cable bill lower, its a catch-22... Stop the nonsense and allow robocall blockers like nomorobo.

Having the option NOT to receive robo calls is a god send! My family can enjoy an uninterrupted meal together, I can work from home knowing that the important calls can get through, I can receive important calls from friends, family and work, not uninvited-sales-political-promotional-disruptive- calls. What a blessing to hear the ring once... and then the spam calls go away.

Leave 'No Robo Call' in place and active. It's popular for a reason! It's good for me and my family. I can't imaging why the phone company finds it threatening. I'm sure that they want the best possible services for their customers, not just for their bottom line.

I am sick and tired of getting multiple calls from companies I have never had business with every day, multiple times a day and who have, on occasion used curse words at me, and my family, when I informed them I was on the DO NOT CALL list.

How would you like your 83 year old mother to have to listen to a man say "F*UCK YOU BITCH" when she asked to have our phone number removed from a call list? These robo-calls with the recorded messages, the click..click...click and then some guy from Vegas reading a script about time share opportunities? Yeah. That's a great start to your day.

I get many calls a day from "CUSTOMER SVCS" a credit card scam and when I try to call them back the number is a non working number.

So, try listening to the people at the other end of the phone instead of the phone companies who love the revenue from these criminal callers.

The Federal Do Not Call list is a joke no one pays attention to it and not we have to PAY the phone companies to BLOCK those callers who flood our land lines. Oh yeah, and the ones that call my cell phone, using my minutes? They are pretty nice people too... the "F-Word" seems to be a pretty standard response when one asks to have their number removed from a call list.

People calling me at home to sell me stuff or try and defraud me has gotten way out of hand. It is intolerable that this is legal. Why should other people have the right to make my phone ring 24 hours a day seven days a week and 365 days a year, with annoying messages I don't want. I do not want to from politicians, non-profits begging for money I don't have, and a long list of landscapers, roofers, and real estate agents who want to sell my house.

It should be illegal to have a fake phone number on caller-id -

I should be able to identify the exact machine that sent me a phone call and block that machine -

People that robocall should be castrated and then executed.

Robocalls used to interrupt my family time with the most annoying sales calls. When I watched news programs about nomorerobo, I jumped on it and it's great. No more interruptions. My phone, I pay to have a private service and not have unwelcome and uninvited calls.

Robocalls are awful! They interrupt dinner and bed time. We have finally gotten to the point where we just don't answer our home phone anymore. The next step will be to cancel the phone service altogether.

We urge you to expand the use of robocall blocking products and make them easy to use.

Robocalls need to be outlawed and robocall blocking products should be made readily available. The Do Not Call Registry is a joke. There is no enforcement and no repercussions for violators. My phone number is registered with the Do Not Call Registry, yet I still get 15-20 robocalls per day. Please enforce the Do Not Call Registry and punish violators and enable robocall blocking.

Thank you!

Please help us get rid of these terrible people that generate computer calls. I get as many as 3 to 5 per day!!!! It is usually a recording that says this is the last time they will give a chance to lower my credit card rate. They call themselves Credit Card Services. That doesn't exist as far as I can find. They also steal phone numbers to call me with. I can not tell who they are by my caller ID phone as the telephone number is always different and when you try to call back to complain the operator reports: This telephone number is no longer in service. It is so bad that I looked at my caller ID machine and it was showing my home phone number calling me. When I called back after the spammer finished his recording I got the same thing. This number is no longer in service and it WAS MY PHONE NUMBER!!! Please help stop these computer-generated spammers that rob me of my privacy. I am 76 years old and do NOT need this aggravation. My congress should be there to protect ME not the SPAMMERS. Why has the FCC refused to help. I have applied to all DO NOT CALL list you provide and none stops this. When I reported it to Better Business Bureau of Seattle they said they knew these calls and could not help but know of hundreds of thousands of people like me calling to complain or and get help!! Please do your job. My cable company does provide Robocall service but not for my phones because I need a second phone with Android and I have Windows. They tell me they can not help this OS so I can't use what others can. They should not have to provide anything. FCC should be able to find out who these people are and shut them down. Please Shut Them Down!!!!

Despite having registered with the Do Not Call list, I repeatedly get solicitations, especially from a "credit card interest lowered" that seems to be targeted on seniors, like me. This is very annoying - it happens at least 5-6 times/week.

Margurite Rosenthal

Despite the existing laws and rules against spam calls including Federal and state "Do Not Call", regular and harassing nuisance calls continue. Most recently these include solar scams, roofing, credit "protection", and others. The only effective tool to combat these annoyances has been the "Nomorobo" service.

Please do NOT enact any laws, rules, regulations or restrictions on the ability to use this service!!!

I'm sick of getting robocalls, gotten more than 10 in a day on several occasions and I can't stand it anymore. We have a land line. So do many other baby boomers. We rely on using it for calls from our family and friends, and business transactions that we choose to initiate. Although we have signed up for the Do Not Call lists and nomorobo, we still get several calls a week from toll free numbers, free cruises, customer service, "grandma? I need help", reduce your credit card debt, etc,

These calls are annoying and very inconvenient. Why are they allowed to continue?

I think it's time that robocalls are put to an end. If it means that any devices that dial numbers automatically stopped for real and companies who spoof numbers also be fined for any unauthorized calls.

This has gone on for too long something should have been done a long time ago.

Please take the necessary steps to allow Nomorobo to continue to protect us from robo calls. This is a very valuable service to the public. I cannot tell you how many times a day the phone rings once, and Nomorobo disconnects the robo calls. I care for my disabled husband and 7 month old granddaughter each day. I am in full support of being able to have robo calls blocked. I have been enjoying not getting those unwanted bothersome calls. The phone companies should not be able to decide who I get calls from. As a matter of fact I would like to be able to block ALL solicitation calls from the telemarketers. They are annoying and disruptive. Please keep the robo call blocking in place.

Everyone should have the privacy of not receiving these annoying calls all the time. Sometyhing should be done and if Robocall is the answer I am all fot it!!! Please help us!!!

Thank you nomorobo. I am weary of daily calls from machines that sputter incomprehensible messages. Most of the calls hang up before any comment can be made. When I google the phone number, I read about the unsavory behavior and description of the service. The calls are disruptive. Besides that, many people are giving up their landlines and using only cell phones. End telemarketing calls. Amazon and eBay satisfy my shopping needs.

STOP THE MISERABLE ROBO CALLS

L E MEACHAM
COCOA, FL

My telephone numbers are on the National Do Not Call List. I still get two or three robot-calls per day. These nuisances waste my time, interfere with work and social occasions, and many of them are scams. We NEED to fight this problem that degrades the quality of our national telephone communications network.

I've used NoMoRobo. It works, and works very well, unless I happen to be passing a telephone when somebody's machine dials my number and I pick up the phone out of reflex. This happens often enough that I can assure you that the Do Not Call List needs to be supplemented by NoMoRobo.

The telephone companies have a statistical interest in maximizing their call traffic. They don't want anything that filters or limits the number of calls they handle. The public needs the FCC to remind the telephone companies that they exist as businesses to serve the public's interest, and not simply to exist as businesses. This is not an issue beyond the FCC's remit.

Please use your regulatory power to protect the public interest. This would be so much better than getting the legislative branch involved.

I am a senior citizen and therefore vulnerable to scams. I do not want anybody soliciting me by phone. If I want something I will contact them. That's the only way to be sure you are working with a real company. Please don't allow Robocalls the freedom to call me.

I was very lucky because my phone company, Vonage, allowed me to use a robocall blocking product, nomorobo. This fine app reduced the number of solicitor calls to zero. Now I only received calls that I want to answer.

The robocalls are so annoying they call every day for stuff they say my Dr. and heath ins. co said I need. I don't need any pain reliever or a life alert kind of bracelet. When it says press 5 to let your Dr know you are declining the offer the line goes dead and it calls back the next day. I have even stayed on the line and told the the person to take my number off the list and they told me ok, but then they call back again. Why did I sign up on the do not call list if I am still getting annoying calls?

Helen Blake
Fitchburg, MA

The federal do not call list does not work. Tonic allying has reached record levels. We receive robocalls from the same number or business as many as 3 times a night and can't get them to stop. The rules should include opting out of political calls and local contractors. Robocalls should be illegal on any scale.

Thousand Oaks California

We have been using Nomorobo for about three months and have recommended it to many of our friends and family. It's probably not the only program available but works very well for us. My wife is 67 and I am 70 years old. The last thing we want to have to deal with is the return of all of those bothersome robo calls. Please stick to your guns on this. Whatever the phone companies want by eliminating these programs is certainly money driven and has nothing to do with improving their service to the citizen.

I do not want robocalls. They are a nuisance and I would like to keep my time personal. I would like to be able to not be bothered. I am usually busy doing something important when I receive a call that I have no interest in. I do not know who is on the end of the line. They maybe legitimate or they may not be legitimate. If they ask for personal information I will not answer those types of questions. Telephone fraud is an example. If they are legitimate they can send me their information and I can decide if it is necessary for me to use their product or services.

Turlock, CA

I am a senior who is fortunately still of sound mind. I am incensed by the telemarketing calls which keep coming my way; they are a time-consuming nuisance I have been fighting off for years. Nomorobo and a call blocking phone I purchased lately have helped me tremendously because my long years of complaining to the FCC fell into a "black hole" and led nowhere. For years on end I listed my numbers on the Do not Call list, reported calls to the FCC and paid the phone company so as not to have my phone number listed; unfortunately I discovered these precautionary measures offered absolutely no protection from unsolicited calls. It seems any operator or vendor who gets access to your information can sell it to these telemarketers with little regard for your privacy.

These telemarketers are more often than not predators who are eager to hoodwink seniors and trick them into giving away their precious private information. I venture to say most if not all of the calls are really scams, not merchandise offers. Why call them "telemarketers" when they more often than not peddle services that are "shady" at best? Scammers is the right term for them.

It is easy for a senior who is often alone and eager to talk to someone to fall victim to these telemarketers. I am extremely concerned about protecting seniors in particular and I definitely think the ability to block these callers is an absolute necessity.

Regarding robocalls and calls in violation of the DO NOT CALL list, you should require a centralized web-based search tool in which all phone companies that issue phone numbers are required to list the phone number, their phone company name, the number that you can call the phone company and/or the phone company website to which you can complain. Then, based on complaints to the phone company, you should require the phone company to contact the robocaller and ask them to cease and desist THEN if people continue to complain to that phone company, then authorize the phone company to disconnect the phone number.

Craig Forman

Residents should have the ability to block robocalls. We can post a "No Solicitors" sign for physical visitors, we need the same right for phone calls. We get hammered over and over and over by calls that are at best annoying and at worst are scams with fake Caller ID and other intentionally incorrect info, obviously we want to block such unsavory people from contacting us. If you disagree, please give me YOUR home phone number and I will be happy to see your reaction to a flood of annoying and misleading calls, many as scams. I love nomorerobo. I want it to always be an integral part of my telephone service.

The peace of mind to NOT have to answer telemarketers is the best!

The telemarketers need to bug off and nomorerobo is an extremely effective way to eliminate the nuisance calls.

If I want to purchase something, I know how to do that. I do not need harassment from telemarketers.
Thank you.

No More Robo has restored to my private home line the privacy it once had. I tried other methods of minimizing robocalls and eventually used all the allotted numbers that I could block through my phone provider. I have tried blocking numbers on the "Do Not Call" registry which unfortunately did not work. Thank goodness for No More Robo as it has re-established the privacy that I once had.

Unsolicited phone calls is one of the most annoying things. We are constantly getting bombarded with sales calls. Please allow the private citizen the opportunity, on their home land line and on their cell phones to be able to block unwanted sales calls. Thank you Nomorobo is effective in blocking mass annoying calling, They need to remain at what they are doing. Lobbying by advertisers should not overweigh the individuals rights. Unless the FCC can come up with a better way of blocking such calls than the "Do Not Call List" which as I understand doesn't apply to in state calls let it remain in place.

I don't like robocalls or the companies that use them to scam the public. They is no way those robocall companies are going to obey the US laws against robocalls. The FCC can't stop them, never even slowed them down. There are only a pitiful few companies that are ever charged with a crime, so basically, they don't worry about prosecution. They don't care if they are breaking the law. They don't care to show their true caller id, instead they universally spoof bogus phone numbers.

The only program that works is nomorobo. If the robocaller companies have their way, they will pay somebody off to get legislation passed to bar nomorobo blocking programs. I hope that doesn't happen, but there is just too much money to be made from helpless individuals bombarded by robocalls at all hours.

FCC, please force telephone companies to block robocalls. Currently, they offer free blocking for a few numbers, but since robocallers spoof caller id, the robocaller just uses a different spoofed number. The phone companies probably make money off the robocalls, so have no interest in changing the status quo. Besides, it would cost them money to implement any change. If forced to block robocalls, phone companies will just pass the cost on to phone users, which is OK with me, because the phone is worthless to me without a robocaller blocker.

We are going to get rid of our land-line phone after 40 years because of these disgusting phone calls. They call all hours; this morning at 7:15, during meals, having company, waiting on doctor calls (we are seniors) and after 9:00 at night. We have begged, threatened, blown whistles and not answered. They want to remodel our own, put in solar, and/or nothing at all but to harrass and several have even threatened us with bodily harm. If we could block them perhaps they would quit calling and take our number off their sucker lists. PLEASE let us block these horrible people.

It has come to my attention that you are interested in feedback from people about robocalls and robocall blocking products. My experience with the Do Not Call (DNC) list has shown that instrument to be largely ineffective and unable to serve individuals as a protection against nuisance calls. I have used Nomorobo for quite some time and find it far more effective than the DNC list, and I prefer it as an effective, direct block against unwanted calls as opposed to the essentially voluntary-compliance DNC program. I think any attempt by phone companies to dilute or prevent the use of innovative solutions like Nomorobo would be contrary to the best interests of citizens of the United States, and I think these attempts should be prevented by regulatory action.

Please allow and strongly encourage phone companies - as well as independent firms like NoMoRobo - to do everything they possibly can to end the scourge of robocalls that are plaguing citizens such as myself. We would like the FCC to allow consumers to be able to block robocalls. We are paying for our phone and phone service through Verizon. Robo callers should not be able to call us any time day or night with their messages or hang ups. I understand that the the National Association of Attorneys General has written to you and asked the FCC to make robocall blocking solutions "more easily accessible to consumers." As part of the "Baby Boomer's" we grew up in a time where people answered there phone in person. There was no one calling and then hanging up (unless it was a prank call) AND certainly there wasn't an automated recording that you were totally defenseless against to be able to get your name removed from a call list. In our homes we should have the right to answer the phone calls that we want to, OR have the ability to tell a real person that we no longer want to hear from their company. Robo call blocking services seem to be the only alternative to this unnerving problem.

Its so annoying,,

DEAR FCC,

LEARN FROM "NOMOROBO"

They figured it out before you even gave it a thought to "US" your people...

I guess you biggys have your own blocking system that

We were getting inundated with robo/telemarketing calls every day and night and even Sunday evenings that was destroying our family time together. Since we have subscribed to nomorobo this has nearly stopped except for cell phone companies like AT&T that refuse to allow us to use this service.

Even with Time Warner, our home land line phone provider, we had to tell them how to switch our service to technology that would allow us to use it.

Please allow this service to continue and also make it a requirement of all phone services to allow users to opt for this if they want.

Mr Ivor HUnt
Fountain Valley, CA.

I would like to see all robo calls to be blocked from phones there should be no need for these people to be contacting you when you did not ask them to do so, Lets send these calls back to where they belong not on our phones!!!!!!!!!!

california

Please continue the robocall blocking practice.. It has virtually stop robocalls bothering me all times of the day. We see the blocking is very effective since we see the phone only ring once continually throughout the day and night.. By removing the blocking it would be violating my personal privacy. We're paying the carriers for telephone service and not having solicitation interfering with our private lives.

We already are nickel and dime by all the carriers and can see another marketing ploy to sell our personal information to all the robocall companies. I also feel that robocall blocking should also include all all wireless carriers...

Robocalls were becoming so annoying...some days I was receiving 5-10 robocalls! If I want to block these disruptive calls, i should have every right to....Nomorobo has been a godsend!

I am tired of receiving unsolicited and unwanted robo-calls. kindly pass legislation permitting the blocking of such calls. It is my phone and I feel that I have a constitutional right to privacy, of which I believe this to be a basic right.

Why do the solicitors and vendors have the right to invade my space, yet, I do not have the right do basic peace and privacy.

we get robocalls almost daily. we have reported the offending numbers to DoNotCall.gov and asked the callwers to remove us from their call list, but they don't.

Verizon makes us pay for blocking numbers made to our landline, so we just don't answer the phone unless we recognize the number or caller. it is still very annoying to have the phone ringing all day and evenong, even on weekends.

PLEASE, PLEASE, MAKE THE LAND-LINE AND THE WIRELESS TELEPHONE COMPANIES DO EVERYTHING THEY CAN TO HELP STOP THOSE MISERABLE ROBOCALLS FROM VENDORS TRYING TO SCREW AMERICANS OUT OF WHATEVER THEY CAN FOR PHONY DRUGS, WEIRD CREDIT CARDS, AND THE LIKE. THEY WON'T LET UP!!!

I have a right to privacy!! These calls are harassing and invasive and a huge security risk. It is YOUR job to make sure that we are safe and you are not doing a very good job!! It is MY right to say NO to robocalls and harassing people along with those who steal using these techniques. OUR taxes pay for this protection so if you take MY money protect MY privacy!!!

Access to phone numbers is being seriously abused by innumerable parties which ignore the "do not call" regulations. Clearly the existing "do not call" regulations do not work and I feel that pursuing the violators is a waste of time. It would appear that the only way to really stop them is to be provided the means to block their calls. Please require phone carriers to provide consumers with the ability to block robocallers. I feel that the cost and effort to provide this technology would be returned many times over in a reduction of scams brought about on consumers.

Miles Smith, Jr.

The constant ringing of robocallers is disrupting the lives of most Americans. Most are a scam & occur at inopportune times like the dinner hour. Computer spam or junk mails are one thing but the obtrusive nature of robo calls is quite another. Consumers DEMAND the right for those they've elected to do the right thing & curtail this obnoxious & often criminal undertaking.

Give the consumers a break.... stop catering to TPC "The Phone Companies". They may have and give you money but we have the votes and the monthly fees. It's my phone (I PAY FOR THE SERVICE, YOU DON'T) why shouldn't I control it's functions. If this blocking bill fails to pass I'll just cancel my service with Verizon and not have any telephone service at all. 98% of our incoming calls are from Robo Callers the other 2% can send us a post card. What a great Win-Win situation!!!! TPC gets the bill it wants and I can save $30 per month by not having to pay for marketing calls from..... well, you know where.

Nick Alexander

We have laws to prevent harrassment in the workplace...in public...well, I want them for my home as well. I not longer wish to have to scan my Caller ID before I answer my phone...it's usually blocked by the robocallers anyway. Consumers have rights too...protect us!

Stop the robocalls

Please stop the unwanted intrusions of ALL robocalls, including political robocalls. The intrusions are extremely disturbing because of the illness of a family member living in the home. We cannot turn off the ringer because of another child who lives in a different city. This makes the situation with robocalls untenable.

Suzanne Franka

Our phone is a private service we pay for and we should therefore be able to decide what calls are accepted and which ones are rejected. We pay for a private number and yet lists containing our private number is sold without our permission. I am tired of greed and deceptive business practices overriding the rights of consumers. Our home, phone and time should be off limits to unsolicited, un-welcomed and intrusive calls/callers.

I get many unwanted robocalls a day on most days -- most of them from one vendor who has been calling me repeatedly for over a year. They are a very distracting waste of time, whether I answer them or they end up filling up my inbox. And since my phone service includes a limited number of minutes for incoming calls, those unwanted calls eat up precious minutes that I don't want to use that way.

I have asked the vendor multiple times to take me off their call list, but they will not do that.

I am registered on the Do Not Call list, but they just hang up whenever I ask for this. Please allow me to continue to block these calls. AND PLEASE ENFORCE THE LAW THAT PROHIBITS THEM FROM CALLING ME.

Scott Plakun
San Francisco, CA

Robocalls are a waste of time and energy. At least, make a requirement to have an accurate caller id. Your agency is answerable to the taxpaying public and not some special interest.

I work from home. I receive at least 2 Robocalls a day. Their options to be taken off their lists do not work. They can hide behind local numbers too, always making me wonder if one of my children is in trouble and the school or someone is calling. It is NOT right. 99% are major scams. It is not acceptable. Let's block those calls now.

I want to stop robocalling and have control of my phone.

Jodi

I am 80 yrs. old & it is disturbing to get to the phone to get a robocall. They keep calling back if you don't answer the phone & they never leave a message if I don't get to the phone in time. I signed up for the Do Not Call list, but it does not help.

I should be able to talk to who I would like to. Not all calls are welcome and the fact that they cost me money I don't like talking to people that I have no interest in speaking to.

Please stop allowing robocalls unless individuals specifically sign up to receive them. And also, please stop letting banks and other companies call as early as 8AM to try and sell something.

We are bombarded with robocalls every mealtime, early (5:00 a.m. one day), late at night and at any time during the day. We must have the ability to prevent such calls from invading our lives without giving up the use of our personal home phone altogether by unplugging it.

We have a telephone in our home for our use, not for the convenience of some market-teeer trying to sell me something or con me out of something.

Please make this stop now!

We believe that people or businesses that we do not know should NOT be allowed to call us to solicit their products or attempt to scam us out of our money or our identity. You have the power to do something about this. You are implored to take action to protect the American people from this harassment. Companies like Nomorobo and those who can provide call blocking products and services should be rewarded for their efforts not restricted! Stand up for America! Do your job to serve the public and support the blocking of robocalls!

Donald Pulliam

I work from home frequently and Nomorobo has been a godsend. Robocalls are very disruptive since I work in a support roll and must be available for handle client calls. If I cannot distinguish the legitimate calls I'm forced to respond to all.

The robocallers are brazenly ignoring the Do Not Call list, and many are getting aggressive on the calls. I have an elderly parent who I fear may become susceptible to one of these scams unless something is done, but unfortunately there isn't a product available for a normal landline. Please - something must be done by the FCC to control this.

Thank you.

Anne Goldman

I am an AT&T telephone customer and have been so for over 19 years. For those 19 years, I have kept the same landline telephone number out of convenience for myself and those with whom I have chosen to share the number. My number is unlisted and I am on the national Do Not Call list.

Having a telephone in my home allows me to contact the outside world for pleasure and/or necessity, and for those with whom I have given the number to contact me. It shouldn't be a device for intrusion into an individual's private domain by computers or companies generating sales calls. I, therefore, strongly support my right to have and use any legitimate product available to block these calls.

Please do not allow ANYONE to force me to allow robocalls to get through to me.

Telemarketing calls (and especially robocalls) have been restricted for several years by means of the "do not call" list. I have been on this list for a long time, but I continue to receive these annoying calls. The simple reason is that the government (not sure if it's FTC or FCC) doesn't enforce the law, and companies continue to make these calls with impunity. THIS SHOULD NOT BE THE CASE!!.

Fortunately for the public, Nomorobo has been created to reduce or eliminate the plague of unwanted calls. The developers and operators of Nomorobo should be thanked rather than be restricted by the government. They are providing a necessary service to fill the gap created by the government's lack of enforcement.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

I'm a senior citizen and need to block these robocalls for my own safety and protection against fraud.....Nomorobo has given me peace of mind and finally made me confident enough to answer my own phone without being scammed or tricked into giving out personal information.

My wife and I pay for the use of our telephones, personal and cell phone. This allows me to determine who may or may not contact me. I choose to allow family, friends and workmates to call me on my phones. I do not choose to allow any person who has an agenda to use my telephone to harass, annoy or bother me. I do not pay my phone bill to allow any company to conduct a survey. I do not pay my phone bill to allow a political party to try and persuade me to vote for them as I am capable and intelligent enough to be able to make my own decisions. I do not pay my phone bill to allow any individual or entity to fulfill their personal agenda or make money on my dime.

I was getting robocalls at the rate of two or three every couple of days. It was almost to the point that I was going to cut off my land-line. When I found out that robocall blocking was available, I signed up immediately. For the first couple of weeks, I received many single ring calls signifying a robocall. After that time they dwindled to almost none. Now I get less than one a month. Nomorobo has made my time at home much more relaxing.

Please stop all the robocalls they keep calling I am on the do-not call list but the calls keep coming. And at times the caller ID tell me that I am calling myself. Also force all company to list the Name and a correct phone number that we can call back. Please stop a robocalls.

Also have the company have a person on the line. When I pickup the phone and have to say Hello 4 to 6 times before a recorder tells me to hold to the next person.

Dennis Brassard

Robocalls are very annoying and need to be stopped. Some of them cannot be picked up and asked to be removed from the call list. When I answer, no one is there. My phone may ring 10 to 15 times in a single day.

If there is someone to talk to, they are rude when asked to be removed from their list. Nomorobo is a help, but even this still rings one time. There needs to be something done to stop these calls. If I am interested in something, I will call them.

NOMOROBO is wonderful. I pay for my phone and I should be the one in control of it. Before I signed up with NOMOROBO we could not watch TV or enjoy an evening at home without the constant ringing of the telephone. With nomorobo the phone rings one time and that is it. I get so tired on telemarketers calling me. I had one number call me 4 times in one day, and they kept calling me everyday for weeks. I pay for the phone and for the use of it, BY ME, not for them to drive me crazy. I'm 70 years old and have to live on SS, so I don't have the money to buy anything from them anyway. If I don't call them back wouldn't you think they would get the message that I don't want to talk to them or buy what their trying to sell me, and stop calling. And that "no call list" is a joke, they don't even look at it.

I got many many robocalls all day every day. I work from home and it was very distracting but there was no way to stop them. At first I answered and asked to be taken off their lists but that's when they'd hang up. One jerk even said "No, that's never gonna happen." They spoof numbers, now I even get calls that say they are from me. I need the phone so my home office can reach me during work hours so it was a guessing game to decide if an incoming call was legit or not. I found Nomorobo and that all stopped. Everyone should be able to block the scam calls, the robo political calls and yes, even the calls from charities with help from their phone company. A lot of people work from home these days and we should have a legitimate way to block any call(s) we don't want instead of being at the mercy of scam artists with robot dialers, we pay for the phone service but the crooks have all the rights. We need Nomorobo abilities for ANY phone with any carrier.

I had used the do no call mechanism provided by the government but I still was receiving numerous junk calls each day. Many of the calls were automated and came from outside the US. Since I started using "NoMoRobo", the calls have dropped to almost zero, and the ones that do get through, once I report the number to "NoMoRobo", that number no longer gets through. The telemarketers, as well as those who pretend to be IRS agents threatening to arrest me, have become more and more aggressive, and without a mechanism to stop these callers, we would be forced to drop our phone line.

Peter L. Gordon
Foothill Ranch, CA

My wife & I have been retired for nearly seven years. In the first few years of retirement we would get at least 5 nuisance calls per day and one or two scam calls per week. It was ridiculous. We would have to drop what we were doing to check caller ID to see if we wanted to pick up and we had to waste time erasing unwanted messages. NoMorerobocalls has saved me a great deal of aggravation and time by eliminating most of these unwanted calls. I think I have as much right or even more right to block these unwanted calls to my home and the callers have no right to harass me! Do not listen to the phone companies that are only concerned with their profits and not my peace of mind.

Stop with the robocalls. Please send a message to these interlopers of privacy that their calls aren't welcome. These are simply fast-buck predators trying to take advantage of anyone they happen to catch at a weak moment to sell their unmitigated crap.

This country would be better off without these jerks intruding in our lives. What really upsets me is the fact that telephone companies support them. These telcoms must be making a fortune to support such a slimy, industry.

Where is the commonsense ins allowing these unwelcome and intrusive idiots to call our homes at any hour and several times a day in some cases? Where is the concern for OUR privacy? Where is the outrage over this band of scam artists who are allowed to function without regulatory limits and no disregard for the word "NO!" ?

Please do the right thing. Allow greater use of robocall blocking products. We need robocall blocking systems to leash the unleashed.

Tom Rizzo

Robot calls are very annoying. They call at almost any time. I am a senior with bad hearing and if push the wrong button I get more calls.

Try to control them.

I am a senior Citizen and I was getting many robo calls daily.I had just stopped anwsering my phone altogether. A young friend told me about NOMOROBO and I signed up with them in early 2014. It is so wonderful to my phone back and not have it ringing all day with unsolicited calls. I have recommended the service to my friends also. Please allow us to continue using this service. So many people and businesses prey on those of us who have grown in age and try to take advantage of us. This service has been a god-send. Most of the incoming phone calls at my house are robocalls. Pick it up, wait and then someone wants to sell me something or in some way, transfer money from me to them. This is ridiculous. Maybe the phone companies get extra revenue for this activity but we hate it. The highest rate of calls occur around dinnertime.

Please let us continue blocking their calls. It is completely frustrating. We are on the do not call list which does pretty much nothing.

I am harrassed on a daily basis by telemarketers and resent that I am powerless to stop them. We were getting between 10 to 15 telephone calls a day from all types of call centers attempting to force their products, services or whatever. These calls were a nuisance. I called them " garbage calls". The calls started were anywhere between 7:00am and 9:00pm, mostly Monday thru Friday. The call were extremely irritating. At first I used the "call block" on my phone to reduce the volume. This ment I needed to program each number into the phone system in order to block each call. I could only block 30 numbers at a time and soon was out of space. Using Nomorobo solved my problem. Now I only get one ring to let me know a call was blocked. This is a great service to have available. I believe that older people are targeted. My sons & daughter do not receive the volume my wife and I receive.

Robocalls were wreaking havoc with my phone and my answering machine was tied up with robotic or alarming messages regarding credit card offers, overdue taxes or "missed opportunities" . Many of these calls came during the hectic hour before, during, or after meal times. Even though I am registered with and have reported these callers to the Not Call Registry, these types of calls continued to get through.

Now with a robocall blocking product like nomorobo, these calls are blocked. This service blocks the call after one ring. Just in the first week of using this service, the number of robocalls dropped dramatically, from six or more a day to about 2 or less a day.

This service is especially needed for the senior members of our family since some of them have been victims of the so called "services".

To who it may concern,

Robo calls violate our privacy,they interrupt our quiet enjoyment of our home. We are old enough to know what we want to purchase and that right is being violated by continued robo calls offering items or services we have no use for, or just plain Not Interested in. Robo calls have become an atrocious nuisance to our household. Worst, there seems precious little compliance or enforcement of "do not call" laws already on the books.

I'm tired of calls that spoof a local number or worse say "Caller Unknown" only to be some robocall that just wants to sell me something or take a "survey". I am on the national "Do Not Call List" and it does no good. I thought I could opt out of these calls. Maybe it would be a good idea to force the telemarketers give an option to opt out like we can on the internet. I myself am a salesman and I wouldn't call people and bother them as the robocallers do.

Tim Harper

We as consumers should be able to determine what calls we do not want to receive. Since people engaging in robocalls do not consider the people who pays the phone bill - I believe we as consumers should be able to employ any means possible to stop this intrusion.

Block Robocalls, and ALL directly unsolicited calls, including political advertising.

If a phone customer wants to block robocalls, they should be allowed to request that, and the phone company should comply. And it should be a simple process to make this request.

Portland, OR

I hate robocalls and I want a good robocall blocking product. Invariably these calls interrupt a meal, wake up an invalid in our home or generally irk the life out of me. They disregard the DNC list and do not honor your request to put you on their list. This is my home and they are not invited into it by telephone or any other method.

In addition, my 81 year old aunt was scammed out of $2000 by one of these calls at her home. She was totally unaware of how these work and wired them $2000. They told her not to call and tell anyone or they couldn't send her the million dollars she had won. When they called her asking for more she called me because they said they were sending someone to her to take her to the bank to get more money. I called the police and went to her home immediately. She lives on Social Security and could not afford this. It is criminal. Now she lives in fear every time her phone rings because she doesn't know if she should answer it.

Please do any and everything you can do to help this kind of swindling and scamming be eliminated. I would be the first to purchase any thing or work at trying to help others eliminate them.

Robocalls are an intrusion on your privacy and peace of mind!! They should be illegal. We used to get contractors calling at dinnertime almost daily until we found out about Nomorobo. What a blessing!

It is very frustrating to receive calls from robotic and telemarketers. They NEVER leave a message if we don't answer the phone and they DO NOT identify themselves as callers. We feel very happy that someone has finally come up with a method of circumventing this type of nuisance caller. We ask that the FCC please change whatever laws that need changing to request that ALL telephone companies sign up for this type of call blocking in the near future. However we do understand that if some kinds of medical calls, etc., reminding you of an appointment, are really necessary and cannot be blocked.

When I was in the hospital in June of 2014, my wife came home to some 44 robocalls one evening. Fortunately we got signed up with Nomorobo and the calls were intersepted after one ring. Wow were we thrilled. Blocking all or at least most of the unwanted calls has been a blessing.

My wife and I are in our eighties and invalid. The number of robocalls is ridiculous. These calls are not wanted and are an invasion of our privacy. The majority of them are "scams" and deserve to be eliminated. Since they are of no value and are a nuisance, it is respectfully requested that the FCC implement restrictions that will cause their elimination. We have requested Comcast to block these calls and the number has decreased but some calls still occur. This is one case where Government intervention would serve the public good.

Harold Thomas

Not only are robocalls a major nuisance but they are time consuming to routinely ID and delete them. And on top of that, they get charged to MY minutes when they are received! Please help to alleviate the problem.

Since we started using nomorobo, our family can finally have some peace and quiet in our home. The constant bombardment of robocalls that we receive is ridiculous and the blocking feature allows us to avoid being disturbed. We are on Missouri's "no call " list, but it still doesn't stop the constant solicitations. Nomorobo has been wonderful, and we do not want to see it become unavailable to us.

Randy

Not only do we need the tools to stop the robocalls, but when you go through the motions of tell these companies to remove you from their list they continue to keep calling you, even though I am on the "Do Not Call" database list. They also will hang up on you when you tell them that you are on the "Do Not Call" and that it is illegal for them to call your number. Also, when I try to put a phone block on the number that is call a message come on that I can not block that number. They also have gone to the extent that they will spoof you with your own number as well as non-working numbers when you get the caller ID.

I am writing to request the FCC allow robocalls blocking technology.

I have been getting robocalls from Jamaica for the last year and a half. Sometimes I receive 2 or 3 a day telling me that I have won a million dollars and a new Mercedes. When they first started calling and asking for my wife I told them that my wife (of 47 years) had just died from Cancer. I was told that I could claim her prize. after about six months I started blocking their calls with NoMoRobo.com. That worked for a short time. Then they started to use new phone numbers. I have lost track of how many phone numbers I have blocked in the past 1 1/2 years but they keep on calling. Please help us stop this abuse. I am on the "Do Not Call List" but since they are out of the US it doesn't affect them.

Michael Garozzo

I do not want robocalls coming in to my phone. The people making these call do not have any thing I want and I do not wish to talk with them or listen to them share their information with me. It is my phone and I pay to use it according to my needs not theirs.

Stephen Stanko

I use Nomrobo since Comcast started offering simultaneous ringing on their local system. The "junk" calls have dropped by about 90% since using it.

I find the telemarketing calls invasive, and impact my ability to pursue my constitutionally guaranteed right to happiness.

Please make services like this available to all telephone services (wireline, mobile and VoIP).

I want the FCC to force the phone companies to let me block unwanted calls or robocalls. I'm sick and tired of the total waste of my time having to answer calls about some product or service I care nothing about. If I need one of these products or services I can look for them in a phone number directory or online. I sure don't need these unwanted calls four or five times every day interrupting my personal time.

Please allow robocall blocking. Robocalls are a nuisance and a distraction. We should be allowed to opt out of receiving robocalls if we so desire. Why should companies be allowed to harass people through robocalls and we not be allowed to stop them if we desire? I should have the option to stop my phone from ringing with unwanted robocalls.

Michele Zupa

I do not want to receive robocalls from businesses, charities and political people. I pay for my phone and I should be allowed to decide if I do not want someone or a particular group calling/harassing me. I do not want to talk or do business with these companies/groups - I don't want to buy what they are selling.

I am senior citizen who has been receiving many robo calls daily for months...some of the same ones come in many times over each day.

I resent this intrusion on my privacy. Asking them to stop calling and to take my number off of their list doesn't work. I am on the no call list. Obviously this is not working Please take action to make these calls illegal. It's also annoying to have the calls who are scams in an attempt to take over my computer and get into my private information by telling me they are Microsoft employees and that my computer needs to be repaired is annoying, fraudulent and illegal. Again please take action to stop these calls.

Susan Joyce

I really dislike having someone call me three to five times a week telling me that there is nothing wrong with my credit card account but their company thinks they could offer me a lower rate, and then give me an option of opting out by pressing 2 which doesn't do a thing. They are calling me again in just days. I really dislike having robo calls using my paid for minutes on my cell phone. I really dislike having companies sell my cellphone number to advertising agencies. If I want to purchase something I'll Google it and then make a decision. Do not call my phone any more. I have not and will not buy because you called me to advertise something.

Make the ability to block these calls EASY. Comcast provides the service but requires an Engineering degree to follow their instructions.

I love the ability to be able to block the nuisance calls that occur at the most aggravating times of the day. They don't allow you the ability to say NO, LEAVE ME ALONE. I demand the right to stop any type of call from my phones. I can't even call the number, (If I get one,) back to have them stop. I have tried and the system tells me that the number is not in service or it does not exist. At its very base allowing these types of calls is JUST WRONG. I know I didn't sign up for this when I got service from BELL years ago. No one has the right to interrupt my private time and life with garbage calls. Please do not take that right away from US.

Robocalls are destroying the peace and quiet in my home. My wife was recently sick at home in bed, trying to sleep and rest. we had to unplug the land line because of the several Robo calls we were receiving. During an election season, we were routinely receiving 10 robocalls each day for 2 months. we are seriously considering eliminating our land line. We have been on the federal "no call list" for several years and it really doesn't stop the robocalls at all. For seniors like me who can't jump up to the phone easily, this is also a health risk. Enough is enough!

We had been tortured by two to five "robocals" daily. We don't care to "reduce our credit card debt", "enjoy a free visit to the Bahamas", "Hello seniors..." et al. We don't care to be reminded that we are 84 and 89 - nor no longer able to travel!

NOMOROBO has been a godsend - we get around 3 robocalls per week - now. No perfect but bearable.

Until a more effective way is found to stop these calls please put nothing in the way of the spread of NOMOROBO and do all possible to extend its adoption.

If adoption increases enough it may reach a tipping point where robocalls will prove uneconomical and cease.

Private telephone customers should not be subjected to telemarketers and robo calls.

Riverdale,Ga

I get about 5 robocalls per day starting at 10 AM and concluding during dinner. I think that I should have an option from the phone company to block them.

In addition think that the procedure to complain to the donotcall registry should be streamlined.

Finally, I think that presenting an inaccurate caller id should be a prosecutable crime.

Bill and Sandie Ehrman

If you think robocalls are a good idea, please provide your phone number to one of these companies and see how long it takes for you to start getting dozens of calls per day from them trying to sell you something or to complete a survey. Telling them to put you on their do no call list DOES NOT WORK.

The individual consumer should be able to choose robocall blocking products and services.

Stuart Benson

I would seriously vote for President the person who could stop unwanted calls from coming into my house. It would be the number one priority on my list. I hate having my privacy invaded. I hate having the same people calling my house over and over again. It doesn't matter if I answer or don't answer. It doesn't matter that I ask them to take me off of their calling list. It doesn't matter that they say they will because they don't and they keep calling. It's my house, I should be able to say who comes in whether by the door or by the phone. Nomorobo has added a great deal to my life by blocking calls. I should be able to block all calls I don't want to receive. I feel the phone company should offer free call blocking and not just for 20 phone numbers. Meanwhile, my list of 20 is full and the telemarketers are calling from different numbers. This is a huge annoyance for me and I don't understand why there isn't something that the phone companies can do to help stop this practice. Thank God for Nomorobo, but I need even more control of who is calling me.

Gloria Jandora

I am using NOMOROBO because I am sick to death of getting robocalls. My phone rings at least 5 times a day, every day, from people trying to sell me something. MOMOBO blocks at least 3 of them. I love them for this. The FCC needs to do more to get rid of these unwanted calls.

Please let me, not the telco's, decide who I will talk to. I absolutely hate answering a 'robocall' because it shows me that the 'company' calling me doesn't care about me OR my time. Do not allow the telco's to take away MY rights as a paying customer. I control my life, I control who can call me, and a 'machine' is not on that list.

The constant robocalls we get - up to 10 a day is nothing! - has made it necessary for us to not answer our telephone. BUT we still have to listen to them to see if could really be someone we want/need to talk to.

The overwhelming majority of callers hang up when they find out that they are talking to an answering machine. It does not make them stop though, they just keep on calling, and calling, and calling from the same phone number and hanging up time and again, I guess in the hope that a live person may actually answer the phone by accident and then buy their product/service. THAT WILL NEVER HAPPEN AT OUR HOUSE.

In addition it seems these callers are making money on selling phone numbers or we would never get this many unwanted calls.

Robocalls are an ongoing annoyance and there really is no reason for this except that this harassment of the public is allowed by you. PLEASE MAKE IT A PRIORITY TO PUT A STOP TO ROBOCALLS - and don't make any yourself. Political robocalls are no more wanted than those of folks who want make money off us to .

Robo calls are an invasion of my privacy! I recently tried to have NoMoRobo connected to AT&T but unless I sign up for U-Verse I wouldn't be able to get call blocking. Please allow us to block robo calls and to stop unwanted telemarketing calls. Since using nomorerobo my junk calls have decreased significantly. these companies do not abide by the no call list and the ftc doesn't sappear to be able to stop them from ignoring it. I hate robocalls and I love nomorobo because it blocks calls that I don't want, don't need and don't want to waste time answering the phone. It's my phone, my peace of mind and reduces the likelihood of getting hoodwinked into some kind of scam. I'm on the do not call list and the do not email me or send me credit card offers. If the FCC had any sense of responsibility to the individual at all, robocalls would be illegal, period. Since you don't and they're not, you should at least mandate the availability of robocall blocking mechanisms to all telephone subscribers.

And, of course, you are well aware that seeking public comment is pointless, since at least 99% of individuals obviously feel this way.

If anyone has ever been interrupted at breakfast , dinner, supper or anytime with these unwanted phone calls, its time for you people to become involved. They sometimes use the local area codes so one doesn't know that the call is coming from some foreign country. How does this happen ?

Aren't the telephone companies aware of this ?

The Do not call list has been useless in stopping calls . Robo calls have made Do not call list obsolete. The robo calls have a highway to my phone, all day and late at night. I am semi-retired and have a part-time on-call job. I am sick to death of running for the phone only to find some inane recorded voice offering me something I have no interest in. Sometimes these messages are blathering about the FBI and attempting to scare senior citizens. I loathe sales calls and do not want to receive them, NOT EVEN FROM COMPANIES I have purchased from. My time is precious and I do not want the intrusion of a robocall or ANY TELEMARKETING/SALES/DIRECT MARKETING call.

THIS IS AN INVASION OF MY PRIVACY and I consider it HARASSMENT.

Rose Shankman

On average I get 5 to 6 telemarketing and robo calls a week. Yes I am on the Do Not Call List. AT&T only allows their clients to block 20 calls. I have the max blocked. I purchased a new phone system for home because it allows me to block 200 calls. I have 80 blocked numbers on that phone. Since congress can't seem to enforce the Do Not Call List I should have the ability to block all these calls without having to purchase new equipment for my home or using the services of nomorobo. .

If it isn't important enough for an actual person to take the time to make a call it isn't important enough to disrupt my busy day.

We signed up for a Robocall blocking service, NomoRobo, a couple of years ago and it has been wonderful. It doesn't stop every solicitation but it does stop many of the frustrating calls that if you pick up have no one there for 10 seconds and then someone comes on who says "Hello Mr. ... uh... " and proceeds to mispronounce your last name.

The phone companies claim blocking robo calls can't be done, but NomoRobo demonstrates that not only can it be done it IS being done. I applaud them for saying phone companies should offer this service. It is not in their self interest, it is just true.

Joseph and Pearl Schachner

My husband and I are both disabled, and we can not stop these robocalls. They tie up our phone all day long and at night. In case of an emergency we would be unable to use our phones. Do you want it on your heads if we need 911 and can't use our phones because of these rebocalls?

David and Karen McKelvey

We are enrolled in the National Do Not Call web site and the calls still keep coming. Please do something to put a permanent stop to this insanity.

You (The FCC) work for US (The Consumer) -- you do NOT work for the phone companies. WE want to block the robocalls from any/all perpetrators, whether they be telemarketers, politicians, etc.

Now.....what is confusing, or unclear, about the above unambiguous statement?

If you have any questions about my statement, you should NOT be on the public payroll.

P.S. We should be able to block robocalls on our cell phones -- some/most of us who are retired and/or on Social Security cannot afford the minutes used by the offenders.

We must be allowed to block Robocalls. They come at all times of the day and evening. They are intrusive!

Daniel Tuerk MD
Palo Alto, CA

Telemarketing has gotten out of control. They call at all times of the day and evening, and some even call multiple times a day. As someone who telecommutes from home, it is not only irritating, but it costs me money in lost time and reduced productivity.

Even if I don't answer the calls, the incessant ringing breaks my concentration and makes me lose my train of thought. Answering and requesting they take me off their list is a waste of time. Most either don't honor the request, or they hang up just as I start asking them so they can claim they didn't hear me.

Also, your No Call List doesn't really work. Some telemarketers even laugh when I mention I am on the list.

Enter call blocking technology like Nomorobo. Thank all that is holy! While my phone still rings many times a day, it rings only once before the system hangs up on them. After a few months of having the service, it actually rings a bit less as SOME telemarketers have started to give up. At this point, if it wasn't for Nomorobo, I think I might have lost it.

If telemarketers are going to continue to flaunt the laws, and phone companies are going to continue to allow it, consumers must be allowed access to products that empower them to defend their privacy, serenity and sanity.

I should have the choice of who calls me. Why do robocallers have the right to call me but I don't have the right to block them? It should be an easy process to block robocallers. And it should be possible to block all numbers associated with a company, not the need to block individual numbers.

Everyone is disgusted with these invasive calls !

Robocalls and calls that are trying to sell something and won't take no for an answer are a real pain in the neck. My husband & I are elderly and have to get up to answer the land line. My husband is disabled and never makes it to the phone in time. As soon as our answering machine kicks whoever it is hangs up.

Grace and Bill Middleton

Robocall blocking is essential. Before using the block I was tortured all day with telemarketing calls. As I goggled numbers many were associated with scams. They call nonstop without regard to time of day. I had filled my caller ID limit of 30 and was still pestered by as many as 15-20 calls a day to my unlisted phone number when I found no more robo. I finally have peace. I pay for the phone and should have the right to then control its use. Eliminating this will not give these people more business as I will never buy from them. It will not increase business for the phone company as if this is prevented I will be forced to no longer keep a home phone. If you can't understand the torture of the American public who is the one paying for the phone purchase and use then consider how you would feel if we called you at home whenever we choose to in order to discuss this with you.

Please stop the harassment that we are subjected to in our own homes at all hours of the day and night by robocalls.

I have gotten 13 calls in one day. Really and I have to answer them and when I asked them to. Remove my number, the guy told me he knows where I live. He called me 4times that day. It's scary and I have to put up with it. Not fair

It is about time that you stop the robocalls and block them on all phones.

I am tired of people calling me and begging for money and anything else.

The incredibly rude intrusion that robocalls have become is so pervasive I am seriously considering eliminating my land line to avoid them. It is incomprehensible to me that in this country, I have no sensible, effective way to stop this invasion of my privacy and growing waste of my time. I pay a lot of money for the use of my phone! Why am I prevented from controlling who calls me?! It is my phone, my time and my right to prevent annoying, irrelevant and unwanted phone calls.

Wake up FCC!! Anyone who gets these ridiculous calls wants to stop them now.

John T. Oliver

As an American worker on the night shift you have no idea how annoying it is to be awakened by sales and political robo calls while I am trying to sleep. Just flip the switch and imagine someone calling you at 2:00 a.m. To sell you vitamins or vote for a local politician. It's my my and my service, I should be able to block any calls I choose!

Who are you to tell me that others have a right to come into my home uninvited via my phone line? I can lock my doors, I can lock my windows, I can lock my gate; but, you say, I can't lock my phone???

I put my name and number on the so-called DO NOT CALL list; a list that you don't even bother to enforce (I've made hundreds of complaints).

It seems to me that the "do not call" law was never meant to be enforced; it's only purpose: keep US LITTLE GUYS quiet!

You no longer look out for the public. As an example, take the proliferation of pornographic programs and advertisements on TV.

I would like to be the one to decide which phone call I receive . Every day I spend half the day answering my phone for calls that do not concern me at all ! I am now getting calls that the caller ID says is from my own phone number . Anyone knows you can not call your own phone number . The first few times I would pick it up and it would be from someone selling insurance to Senior Citizens saying it was from me .

I sometimes turn off my phones which makes me miss some very important calls . This is no longer as option for me . Since I am retired it makes for a crazy day and I would like to have my phone back as it was years ago .No more Rbocalls . PLEASE!!!!!!!

Mrs. Anne Corriher

Since installing Nomorobo, the nuisance robotic calls have gone down considerably and has given us some peace. Robo calls should be against the law because there is no way to report them when you are on the No Call list. Unethical companies use robo calls to bypass that law. It is past time that the FCC goes after nuisance and Robo calls and fine companies that use them to bypass the law that says they can't call people on the No Call list. Robo call blocking products are now our only way to get some peace in our homes.

Robocalls are an invasion to our privacy. Our telephone is paid by us for private use, not to some automated dialing service call our number for some marketing service trying to sell us a product we can not and do not want.

Our use of robocall blocker products lets us selective eliminate those distributing calls.

Ron M

It got to the point where 95% of the calls we received on our home phone line were from robocallers. The "do not call" registry is a complete waste of time, there are far too many unscrupulous people out there who simply ignore it. Nomorobo was a brilliant idea, I immediately signed up for it when I heard about it, and it had an immediate impact.

As great as an idea that it was though, it shouldn't even have been necessary for someone to have to do this, had phone companies been providing proper service to their customers. It should be up to me who calls me, and I urge the FCC to force phone companies to get their act together on this matter.

Yours faithfully,

Is there no logic in the world? I have a phone to contact people that I want to talk with. But I have to put up with call after call from solicitors and spoofed phone numbers. When they call my cell phone, I have to pay because I have a pay for use cell phone. Why can't we prevent hiding the number calling us? Why can't we block robocalls? I have received and reported to the FCC or was it the FTC many calls from a phony credit card scam.

We have used NoMoRobo on our land line and it has been very effective. Not only do we very much want to keep it, but we would like to have it on our cell phones. We are getting calls with fake numbers (and area codes) shown, when we answer, we hear the phone ringing for someone to try to sell us something we don't want - most likely trying to commit Medicare fraud. As soon as we hear the call TO us ringing, we immediately hang up. Also, no more Rachel on our land line, but still getting "her" on our cell phones. The FCC can and should help.

90 % of all household calls to our home are robocalls. You might think that's no problem. Just don't answer them. We tried that, but the calls don't stop, and the phone rings constantly, at times that are disruptive to our life. Most of these calls have been persistently ringing (we see the same name/numbers repeatedly) for over two to three years. We hate being home. I'm retired from a 35 year job and would like to enjoy my retirement, but that is near impossible. I can't even take a nap. The horrible irony is my funds are limited, and at this stage in my life I have no desire to purchase anything. That's what drives me crazy with these calls, we are being tortured. We are at the end of finding a single good reason not to cancel our land line.

Michael mariano
Dundee, IL

I believe that the public should have the option of being able to have the robo calls blocked. It is an intrusion into our lives. We have a family member in our home who is very ill and requires almost constant attention and care. These calls are quite frankly a nuisance and disruptive. If I am in need of a product or service, I can certainly make a phone call all by myself to obtain the necessary quantity. Please permit the robocall blocking products to continue.

I am continuously harassed by robocalls. The telephone numbers that show up on caller ID are spoofed and therefore there is no way to predict what is and is not a legitimate phone call. I have been on the no call list for years and to no avail. These calls are not from charities or other organizations permitted under the do not call list. They are rude, sometimes downright threatening and their frequency is increasing. We need to stop this practice as soon as possible.

Tim & Gloria Guilfoile
Edgewood, KY

I can tell you that things like Nomorobo are a godsend to people with hardline phones. While I consider myself fairly savvy, I am sure many of our seniors are being taken advantage of by companies using robocall methods. Many of these calls are masked with fake names and numbers (just like e-mail spam), therefore the do not call list is not effective anymore. Please do not take any action that will make me lose Nomorobo, as this will force me to cancel my hardline phone as the last resort.

Thank you.

My home phone service, AT&T, allowed me to sign up for Nomorobo. It has worked like magic to stop the robot callers and hang-ups I was receiving daily, and at all hours of the day! My cell phone provider (Sprint) doesn't allow robocall blocking services.

Nomorobo WORKS to stop the annoyance robot or hang-up calls that were coming through, despite my being on Indiana's NO CALL LIST. My parents receive no fewer than 6 calls a day and their service provider (Comcast) won't allow Nomorobo to stop these disruptions to their activities at home. PLEASE, please, force the phone companies to collaborate with the organizations that can block these illegal and extremely annoying phone calls. Most are scams. The legitimate businesses are operating illegally when they ignore the NO CALL LIST as they prospect for gullible buyers of their products or services.

Thank you for keeping consumers safe from harrassment, fraud and worse, by forcing them to allow robocall blockers if consumers request them.

PLEASE stop the Robo Calls! For this entire last yr,2014,I kept a log of these calls daily. I reported them daily to Nomorobo calls by phone and I emailed the information to Nomorobo.I was getting from 4 to 6 calls per day at the minium.If I had the chance I would opted out.That helped but others kept coming.We took to leaving the phone off most of the day for last yr. At 84 yrs. old its difficult to get to the phone and the calls never ended!If you need my number I will tell you and you can see for yourself;should be a record.My friends are just as upset are over all the marketing calls etc.I have even cut my phone rings down to 2 rings and then it goes to voice mail.I don't say a word if I do pick up the phone because then some auto calls disconnect,a voice must activate there robo.At this late stage in our lives we should be able to have some peace of mind and NOT have to deal with these unwanted marketers etc.PLEASE get that too stop. Why do I have to get these calls??? My household consists of 2 elderly women 90+ yrs. who will talk to and buy or contribute to anyone who asks they need to be monitored 24 hrs a day. This would be a god send!!

Robocalls are a big downer. They waste my time and reduce my phone's usefulness. I'm forced to ignore all callers that I do not know and those that don't identify themselves. Meanwhile, these robocallers tie up my line for wanted calls.

One time I was up on a ladder and scrambled down to answer my ringing phone, nearly falling - all for a much-ado-about-nothing robocall.

Robocalls are a real pain and there should be some way to block them. They call at all hours and won't take no for an answer. If you don't answer, they often keep calling many times a day but leave no message. If I don't recognize the name on caller ID, I don't answer the phone; if it is important they should leave a message which they don't. I have Nomorobo to try and block many calls but many still get through. Please do something to block these types of calls, since the 'do not call' list doesn't work as well as it should.

I can't believe you would prevent blocking of unwanted calls!! Why should you care who calls me? This is MY phone and I should be the person to decide who I will allow to call.

Please assist us in stopping the automated phone calls. We routinely receive 3-5 calls daily. Sometimes I ignore than ringing. Others times, I answer after repeated calls from the same number and tell them not to call anymore. The response is usually silence

I have registered with the "DO NOT CALL" service three times to no avail. The calls continue unabated. One telemarketer even exclaimed after I finally answered that I was harder to catch than a jackrabbit. Can you imagine? Because I do not want to be harassed by a telemarketer, I am compared to an animal. Hmm. How to make friends and influence people. Enough is enough.

CA

I get at least half a dozen robo calls daily. it's really annoying. though I registered on the Do Not Call list and also subscribe to norobocall, I still get these unsolicited intrusions into my day. i rely on my caller id to also help screen calls, but the bottom line is, if i wanted to engage a service, i would seek out a service provider - not go with someone who's called me. additionally, creditors calling unendingly are not going to compel me to pay my bill any faster than i can earn the money to do so. i want to be able to control who telephones me.

I am disabled and deal with an average of 3 to 4 robo calls a day. I have both of my phones on the do not call list. If I answer the line is disconnected. If I allow the call to go to voice mail, no message is left. No caller ID is available. I don't feel that I should have to pay in order to block these calls. I am on a fixed income and can't afford this.

To whom it may concern,

I pay for my phone for my use, not for companies to advertise to me!

I don't want to be called and disturbed by lawbreakers and the do not call list is NOT enforced. We NEED nomorobo or products like it to stop scofflaws who break the law! I should be able to choose whether or not I receive unsolicited calls to the phone that I pay for!

There is no legitimate reason to prohibit a consumer from disallowing robocalls -- that is, mass marketing calls.

As robocall companies do not contribute to consumers telephone service, there can be no sensible argument made that they have a right to use the consumers telephone line to present advertisements.

After years of fending off hundreds of annoying "robocalls," having a way to block them has been a huge relief to my household. I really appreciate Nomorobo blocking calls--I hope it continues to block scammers in the future. I'm tired of being pestered by scam calls even though I have a private number. Time Warner doesn't differentiate between advertisers and scammers and I live in a senior community. Several of my elderly neighbors have been scammed out of thousands of dollars. Nomorobo could have spared them. Nomorobo is sorely needed in the future and saves my neighbors and I from being scammed.

robocalls and those who do them are extremely offensive, annoying, and can create much confusion (who REALLY is calling me?!?). Please give the consumer the simple but effective power to stop this nonsense by allowing robocall blocking products and services. Not being able to deny robocalls is encroaching on my rights ... my right to sleep in the mornings without having a phone awaken me. My right to have a meal without being interrupted or watch a TV show without having to miss any portion of it. The biggest thing beyond the undeniably irritating phone calls (mostly from politicians or credit card companies) is that yes, they interrupt what I am doing, and they are also wasting their time. I refuse to listen to them. I hang up as soon as I realize I've been "robo-dialed!" The only way to avoid them is to put my phone on "do not disturb" thereby also blocking calls from my family and friends. I won't vote for the politician who wakes me up at 8:00 a.m. and I don't need to lower my interest rates ... and will not accept the "free" emergency alert button. I just want my PRIVACY and PEACE AND QUIET back!

Susan L.

The robocalls were so intrusive, I contracted with Time Warner to block all incoming calls with the exception of those who were identified and those I identified as acceptable. This was an unnecessary expense of time and money to bring my life back to homeostasis. If it were not for NOMOROBO, I would not have blocked as many calls as I attempted to with Time Warner.

Please, Americans lives are too precious to be spent dealing with those who do not honor the federal "Do Not Call" list. The fact that these individuals can illegally interrupt our lives with impunity reflects very negatively on the Congress of the United States.

Despite the do-not- call list, which we heartily support, we receive an unbelievable number of calls per day (on the order of 5+ per day) that are clearly unwanted spam - "Lower my interest rate," "Free trip to Disney," "Take my (spamming) survey," "Subscribe to XXX at a reduced rate," you name. We understand that government funding constraints do not allow prosecution of all these criminals. Until that magic day, please please please at least let us block these calls. I have a list of probably a dozen repeat offenders who have hounded us for months, nay, years - even with the same phone number! - that we'd kill to block permanently. HELP US!!!

I don't see why I can add my numbers to the Do Not Call lists but may be denied the right to block robocalls. These robocalls are more frequent and equally as annoying.

I should have the right to stop any entity that wants to auto-dial every single number in a given exchange and randomly annoy myself and every person in that exchange.

Nomorobo did not attach itself to my numbers on it's own, I was told of them by a friend who explained how it worked and I jumped at the chance to use their service.

That single ring I hear now followed by glorious silence has become music to my ears that tells me Nomorobo is active and protecting my sanity.

Donotcall.gov is the Federal Trade Commission website to stop robocalls. Why should I get numerous phone calls from the same phone #, but use a different title each time. Also the robocallers are able to show the phone # calling is "1" and not the area code and phone#. Before Nomorobo we would get as many as 10 calls a day. When I asked some of the people who called "if they looked at the do not call list" they all said "No". These robocalls are harassment and I shouldn't have to deal with them when I don't want or need them. Some have been very vulgar and many are from overseas. Please help us. Thank you.

I have been so disappointed in my government. I signed up on the Do Not Call List when it was first established. And in the beginning it worked. And then it began not to.

I thought there were laws preventing unwelcome callers, and so I dutifully reported each unwanted caller. But nothing happened. It became a demonstration of the ineffectiveness of the government, and particularly the FCC.

And then we found NoMoRobo.com. Finally, peace at home in our time. NoMoRobo has stopped over 90% of the robo-calls to our home. I know this because we still get one ring, and then it goes to NoMoRobo. The ratio of those one-rings to the telemarketers that still get through is more than 9:1. AND robo-calls that I DO WANT still get through, eg., the pharmacy notifying me that a prescription is ready. AND it's FREE.

All hail NoMoRobo.

But there is so much farther that this could go. While this works on my home Verizon FIOS system, my understanding is that ATT Wireless is keeping NoMoRobo from working, and whereas telemarketing calls on my wireless have previously been small, annoying they have begun to increase also.

It seems incredible to me that the FCC would even consider a proposal from the phone companies asking to stop companies that block robo-calls. REALLY!! The FCC cannot do it's own job with the Do Not Call List enforcement, and now they might consider stopping private companies from doing that by giving in to huge phone companies. Just exactly who is the FCC trying to represent??

NOMOROBO is the best thing that ever happened to the phone business. Your DO NOT CALL" list did not do the job. It failed because I could not block the numbers that I wanted to. So Stay out of my business and leave NOMOROBO along. They are doing exacting what the users want. Your organization needs to learn from them on how to block calls that come at 8 to 10 pm west coast time, They come through with titles as "anonymous with no number to trace. How good is that. As noted your Do NOT CALL cannot accommodate this through your feature. .

My wife and I are in our 70s and we get someplace between 5 and 12 robo calls a day. It's unfortunate that we would have to answer these calls before we saw a piece on the Atlanta news about nomorobo. Since then we are now at peace most of the time. We still receive a few calls, maybe 2 or 3 a day that we would like to filter out but thank goodness we smile and say 'thank you nomorobo everytime the phone rings only once'.

Don't ruin our new found peace by stopping a much needed service for consumers.

The do-not-call list simply doesn't work. I've filed hundreds of complaints over the past 10 years against the same scammers who keep calling me regarding credit card scams, PC virus removal schemes, Florida land sales, and a host of other schemes. And while I'm fighting these calls, and dutifully filling out complaint forms, the Government sits in their offices and eats donuts, rather than seek out and punish these scammers. The only thing that has worked is Nomoromo -- my calls have been reduced by over 95%, and the ones I still receive ring once and disappear. Now I hear that the FCC is considering making the blockage of these calls illegal. Well, that's simply BS. I'm not willing to go back and rely upon the Government's Do Not Call non-solution.

I still get way too many robocalls. Many I will ask to be put on the Do Not Call list and they hang up. I get at least one every few days with a recorded call telling me to speak to an agent because it is my last call to lower my credit card interest. I actually had an argument with one caller who wanted to help me get a lower mortgage rate. When I told him I don't have a mortgage, he told me that his records indicated I do have a mortgage. How can they be stopped.

Jane Lischewski

I've signed up for "do not call" registry and they still call. Even when my number was unlisted i couldn't keep people from calling and soliciting me. I should be able to restrict who can and cannot call me. Nomorobo has significantly reduced the bothersome calls the interrupt my evenings after a long day at work.

I am a senior citizen and have problems walking. The constant unwanted phone calls are a real burden. There must be a way to stop all these calls. My phone allows me to block 30 numbers but that is nowhere enough to stop the numerous calls every day that are unwanted.

As a retired senior citizen, nomorobo has been nothing short of a lifesaver. Imagine your phone ringing 10-15 (some days more) times a day with calls from scam artists and collections agencies looking for people you don't know. The callers never give up; when you ask them to stop calling they are often times extremely rude and will tell you there is nothing that can be done about the calls. Nomorobo has returned sanity to our days. No need to even bother with the phone unless and until it rings more than once. It's like have a private secretary screen your calls. Depending on your service provider, you may not be able to use nomorobo. Everyone deserves to have the right to peace of mind and privacy in their own home. Please consider legislation that would make many lives more peaceful.

Robocalls are irritating and a very high percentage of the ones I was getting were scammers like "Rachel from Cardholder Services". If you are not intimately familiar with this type of call (which the FCC has been completely unable to control, try Googling it.

Robocall blocking products are the only thing that has been able to deal with the illegal calls. Until the FCC is able to stop illegal robocalls, they should not even consider preventing me from having robocall blocking products available for me to use.

If the phone companies were serious about wanting to solve the problem, they could buy or develop the technology today, instead of complaining to you.

Gary Hull

When robo callers ignore the fact that my phone is on the DoNotCall list, and call anyhow, I should have full rights to use any technology that I choose to block such calls. Don't listen to phone companies that say the calls can't or shouldn't be blocked. Listen to subscribers; we should be in control of our own phones.

Anne Bloomenthal
Lawrenceville, NJ

I've installed a spam blocker on my cell phone but the calls still ring although marked as spam. Yeah, one can choose to ignore but at work it's annoying. At home when I had ATT Uverse one could block 20 numbers, not enough to cover the number of robocalls. When I converted to ATT regular home service after getting Charter for internet, it doesn't provide the ability to block numbers.

In my humble opinion every phone service should include the ability to block an unlimited number of numbers. I'd even pay a bit more for the service. That way people have a choice of which numbers to accept; those who want the services offered by robocall providers can get them and leave the rest of us in peace.

Please block robo calls from my cell phone. It is not only a nuisance, it causes other problems and for nothing but annoyances.

Spokane WA

I absolutely support robocall blocking products and feel that without it my privacy is disturbed by the telemarketers using robocalls.

We were constantly bombarded by annoying robocalls. I had signed us up on the Do Not Call registry, but still continually were harassed by these calls, soliciting for all kinds of products & contributions. We must have received multiple hundreds of calls that were our "last chance to lower your credit card interest rate". I only wished those were the last chance.

I would file complaints on these calls on the Registry's website several times a week. After getting a call that the caller ID stated was from MYSELF, i searched online to see how common that scam was. it was on that search that we heard of "Nomorobo". I wasted no time in signing up our phone on Nomorobo. What a blessed relief! Now we get virtually no more calls & only suffer through the 1 ring it takes before Nomorobo redirects the call to the cyber void. I only wish there was a way to make even that 1 ring go away. We heartily support services like Nomorobo!

It is imperative that citizens have the right to block known robocalls! In fact I wish that robocalls of ALL varieties were made illegal. I am sick and tired of Rachel from Card Services call to try to scam my credit card numbers when I am driving or at work. There is also no valid reason for robocalls of political nature to be allowed either, as it stands right now the national no call list is a joke with no enforcement. There needs to be a means for people's right to privacy to be protected. A few hundred telemarketers need to be made an example of!

Please help the good people of this great country stop the constant barrage of unwanted phone harassment by these vultures!

STOP ALL ROBOCALLS. When they call, I blow a basketball whistle in their ear. They force me to hear them and answer the phone. Turnabout is REQUIRED.

When I find your telephone number I am going to do the same to YOU !!

No mo robo calls...my 85 year old mother.in.law calls them phoney phone calls. She can't tell the difference between a real call and a phoney one any more! I have to check my caller ID every time before I answer the phone! I don't want all these rings for nothing! I have asked to be removed from their lists...but mostly it's just a machine with no way to contact the caller to tell them NO MORE!!! Comcast is my carrier and they seem to want me to purchase an added feature from them to block these calls. I already pay too much for phone service! PLease make them stop!!!

Eileen sniffen. Richard sniffen. Louise sniffen

Stop robo calls! Not only are they annoying, but they interfere with business. Most folks now let a call ring through and listen to the answering machine. If (like me) it's someone they know, then they pick up or call back. I sometimes have a difficult time reaching my customers (who want a call back) by phone because they don't pick up. This wastes valuable time when I must try again.

Action to stop robocalls must be a priority. During the last campaign we had to stop answering the phone due the almost certainty that any call was a robocall. Even between campaigns, organizations are using robocall systems to mislead seniors into purchasing a wide variety of services and equipment which is not needed. The robocall problem could actually result in missing an urgent call from a friend or family member because the only way to avoid them is to not answer the phone.

Nomorobo is the only system that is blocking the hundreds of telemarketers and scammers that I used to have calling my unpublished phone number. The "Do Not Call List" was pretty useless. Before Nomorobo I would register my phone number and the calls kept coming in. Nomorobo is the only system that took care of this problem. The robocalls stopped the MINUTE I activated it! I could not believe it! Please don't let a perfectly good system ruin thousands of happy consumers. Someone always has to ruin a good thing. Can simple Americans have some peace and quiet in this turbulent world???? Is that too much to ask for??? Especially for phone customers who already pay extra for our "unpublished" numbers. And that is a joke!

If it wasn't for Nomorobo we would have cancelled our landline phone service already. We were getting so many spam calls that we couldn't do anything around the house, let alone sit down to a meal, watch a full tv show, or go to sleep. They were calling from 7:30am until after 10pm. The more times I would tell them I'm on the "do not call list" the more they would call. Nomorobo has given us back a piece of our privacy. Nomorobo has dramatically decreased the number of nuisance calls my family and I receive at our home number. Services like Nomorobo enable us to retain our number and a public directory listing for critical communications in emergencies and from businesses and others who have a legitimate need to contact us when no other options are available. Unsolicited sales calls are a nuisance, and allowing them will deter us from retaining our publicly listed number. Please support our right to keep unwanted calls off of our critical phone line!

I keep trying to sign up for Nomorobo, only to find it doesn't work with Comcast internet telephone. Isn't Comcast the largest broadband company in the U.S.?

I report these calls to donotcall.gov, and I can assure you that government service is a joke. All one has to do is put the robo phone numbers into Google Search, and find all kinds of complaints about the calls. I've reported known consumer scam calls to donotcall, but they still keep rolling in.

Without NoMoRobo's blocking service I was interrupted twice a day with bull crap, now I have found some peace, finally.

Now it's down to 1 a week or so. Nothings perfect.

Since corporate America owns you & all the politicians, I'm sure you hate that idea, but I paid for my phones. I pay for the connection. I paid taxes on both. Wasn't that enough? Why should I be subjected to harassment? Is it because I'm a consumer? Maybe I should stop that!

THANK GOD for this service cause after 43 complaints about the government's useless "Do Not Call List" I found something that actually works, and it's not the one my tax dollars already went to. Surprise!

Robocalls are nothing short of harassment. I'm tired of being called constantly with no way to stop it. Some company called Consumer Services keeps calling me, sometimes several times a day telling me that there's nothing wrong with my credit card account but that I could save money using their service. This has been going on for years. They will not stop calling and they call from multiple numbers. This is just one example. I two or three unwanted calls per day, and most of them are robocalls.

I am 71 years old and get tons of Robocalls. And I am tired of it. Calls that come twice a day for weeks and never stop. Waiting for me to pick up and legitimize the number. No one answers when I do say hello.

I either try and block it. (only block up to 20 numbers) or use blocking software to let it ring once and then know it is a telemarketer or robocall.

Your Donotcall system is useless. The calls come from redirecting numbers. From ID names that are being used to get you to pick up. Or they claim they are exempt because they are a charity organization.

Robocalls are more than merely annoying, especially when they happen several times a day, even from the same company. I have pressed whatever number they say to press in order for them not to call me anymore, but they continue to call.

Why should companies be allowed to inconvenience consumers when they have computers set up to do the calling and aren't being inconvenienced at all? It's ridiculous. It's my phone and my time that's being wasted.

Not only that, but I am disabled. When I have to hurry to answer the phone, it's incredibly aggravating to answer it, only to be yakked at by a computer.

Robocalls need to be blocked for free and by the way unlisted phone numbers must be free and also lifeline discounts need to be applied to any method of phone delivery, not just by way of a traditional phone line. It is my phone on my property and my leased line and my wasted time and my potential accidents from answering such ridiculous nonsense. People deserve privacy in their homes from these annoying, irritating, and obnoxious robocalls.

I don't think robocalls should be permitted, whether they are from profit-seeking companies trying to drum up business, organizations conducting surveys, or politicians. Robocalls should be limited to organizations that indisputably serve the interests of those they are calling, e.g. schools making emergency announcements to families of the students. I feel very strongly about this issue - it should be a fundamental right that I can control what comes into my house or over my device(s). Please do the right thing.

How do you feel when you've just sat down to dinner, and your phone starts ringing? And then when you answer, a recording asks YOU to wait for THEM when THEY were the ones to interrupt you in the first place. Pretty annoying, right? Well, triple or quadruple your reaction, and you've got how my husband and I feel about it. It's absolutely ridiculous that we have a federal no-call list (which is also no longer working as it should, by the way), but we have no way to block those stupid, annoying "Please hold for a phone call you didn't even make and probably don't really want" calls. PLEASE, if there's anything that can be done about them, let's do it! I've been subscribed to the nomorobo service for a few months now, and I've been VERY happy that my phone is ringing a lot less. I will be very Unhappy if services like these get overridden by phone companies and vendors who don't even have the courtesy to put a live person on the phone when they try to call me.

We believe robocalls are an infringement on our peace and the right of our enjoyment of freedom within our home. They tend to target the dinner hour to interrupt us. There should be a way we can effectively and permanently block these calls.

My mother who lives at home with my father has dementia. They would get about 10 calls per day for solicitations and numerous calls for my mother that she won the lottery. At one point I had to have her calls forwarded to my phone to protect my mother against fraud and spending thousands of dollars that she couldn't afford on donations. Since we have implemented the block on robocalls, we have significantly reduced the number of calls.

I can't even tell you how many times a day I myself rushed to get the phone only to find it was a recording to reduce my debt. Last chance the recording said, but it continued for months. I asked to be taken off the list, but they were rude and said no guarantees. I will just have to answer the phone and hang up if not interested.

Please support the blocking of robocalls. The only other option is to get rid of our phone numbers that we have had for years and keep our wireless numbers unlisted.

Robocall blocking products are great. Nomorobo has allowed me to have some measure of control over when my phone rings, and it has been a blessing to me.

I have been using nomorobo for the past year and it has dramatically reduced the number of unwanted calls. I do not understand why you would not allow the nomorobo company to block unwanted calls. These are calls that I DO NOT WANT,

I do not like robocalls. There are very annoying. If I wanted to contact someone, I would call them myself. I don't need or want anyone calling me. I detest getting any type of robocall. Often these are from companies that seem legitimate but are not and will often change their phone number periodically if I attempt to block a specific phone number. It is MY phone number. I have paid for it. I expect to be allowed to manage who can call me. If that means that a service such as nomorobo is available to assist me in doing that, it should be my choice, not the phone companies or the other companies that are trying to sell me something or ask me to donate money.

I love Nomorerobo, they have helped restore some sanity to my life because they stop the auto calls. We need them and I need you to support them so that they can find ways to block companies that blatantly continue to disregard the "Do Not Call" list. I have been using the Nomorobo software on my home phone for several months now and it has helped stop many of the robocalls that frequently are dialed to my phone number. I had thought the do not call registry would have eliminated these annoying intrusions on my privacy. I'm hoping you will allow the service to continue since at least it is stopping some of these annoying calls from getting through to me.

Johnston, RI

Please stop robo calls! I pay for phone service for "my" convenience, not to be bombarded my nonsense. My payment should not be taken as an open invitation to badger, sell and annoy me and my family at all hours of the day and night. They try to make it sound like they know you personally, by "trying" to use your first name, as if that would get you to listen. Thank God the election is over!!! I was getting upwards of 5 robo calls a day to vote for that specific person running for office. When they really got to me I'd just click the phone on then off, just to make the ringing STOP. Please realize it is MY phone and should be used as I'd like to not for others purposes, just my own. I use nomorobo, and that's "MY RIGHT " to avoid unwanted robo calls.

Thank you, Toni Anne Potter

I think we should be aloud to block phone numbers. I am on the do not call list, but still get the annoying phone calls from solicitors and scammers. What good is the do not call list if the FCC and the Gov. isn't going to inforce it.

Robocalls are intrusive, unwelcome and disturbing. They are beyond inconsiderate. Please do everything you can to ensure that people are not forced to endure them. Please make sure that all options to prevent robocalls are easily and readily available to anyone.

Thanks very kindly.

My Verizon landline is awash with junk phone calls from telemarketers, organizations claiming to do good if only I'll send them money and politicians begging for money.

Soon I will have to abandon my land line.

Robocall call blocking products are a godsend. Whatever you do, don't restrict them. Do more to restrict unwelcome calls. Personal calls are the only ones I want to receive. The situation is getting ridiculous.

Robocalls are getting more frequent, even on my cellphone. They are really annoying. Please please would you give us more control over blocking robocalls? I would be very grateful.

I am tired of robo calls and all the telemarketing calls. I don't feel a company should have the right to call you to sell you something or sell your information to someone else just especially phone companies, banks etc. This should include non-profits. We get calls 7 days a week. Many calls will block their number so it shows up as a private caller. All this applies to both land and cell lines.

Stop all robocalls!! It is my phone number and I should be able to not take or be subjected to these useless acts of nonsense.....

David Edwards

Robocalls are incessant and are a huge pain. They call several times a day several days a week. Often coming from overseas trying to scam credit card numbers or gain access to computer systems (tech support scams). Please stop them. Nomorobo works, it blocks them from calling me. Problem is not every phone company supports Simultaneous Ring which is what allows Nomorobo to work. EVERY phone company and phone technology CAN support this, problem is most phone companies WILL NOT implement it unless they are forced to. Yes, POTS will support it and just about every other new feature that phone companies say is "unsupported" They just need to re-program their switches to allow it. Take a stand and stop robocalls. Stopping them will be a step toward stopping fraud and scams which is what most Robocalls are.

I DO NOT WANT ROBOCALLS TO ANY PHONES THAT I MAY HAVE

IT IS AN INVASION OF PRIVACY AND ANNOYING TO TAKE MY TIME AWAY FROM THE TASK AT HAND

Having Nomorobo has made the constant interruptions of robotic calls much less infuriating. We still get unwanted calls but it's much more bearable! Please don't take away our only line of defense against this pervasive problem!

Robo calls are a nightmare. I even get them late at night. Give us the ability to block these calls.

This program Nomorobo has given me peace of mind. No more am I continually being bombarded by telemarketing calls. If a call does manage to get through, I can request to have it added to the database. The do not call list is a waste. It only affects legitimate businesses, not the crooks who continually call. I love it and have recommended it to everyone I know. My brand of phone has a call block setting on it. It only can block 30 numbers and my Verizon phone service only does 5 numbers. Every month without Nomorobo, I was having to dump some numbers so I could block the new ones, only to have the old ones start calling again. This is MY phone line that I PAY for I should have a choice in how I want to use it. Please don't take this great program away.

Calls from telemarketers on my home phone and cell phone is getting out of hand. I've registered on the Do Not Call List and it does little good. I have had some success with using NOMOROBO and call blocking on my cell phone to limit the number of call I get everyday. But the telemarketers are too smart and spoof the phone numbers that appear which they keep changing. Telemarketers are invading my privacy and cause great inconvenience each time I answer the phone only to get no one on the other end. I feel a crime is being committed and the FCC is helpless in stopping it. How would you like to be called by a robo telemarketer 10 times a days at all hours? There has got to be something that the FCC can initiate to help resolve the problem (like force every phone carrier to have a process by which a phone subscriber can block all rebo calls and unsolicited telemarketers.

Please allow me to block robocalls. I consider robocalls to be an invasion of my privacy.

I work 12 hour shifts in the intensive care units and ER of Shands Jacksonville, a level one trauma center. Although I'm on state and national do not call lists, my nights and days are interrupted on a daily basis by unsolicited telemarketers. I find it an abomination that state and federal agencies, as well as telephone companies and politicians are impotent in addressing this nationwide problem.

Allowing invasion of privacy of this scale to be perpetrated on the citizens of the United States reflects total incompetence.

PLEASE do what is necessary to stop Robocalls! We pay for telephone service for OUR use, but most calls that come in are Robocalls. We use NoMoRobo and appreciate what it does for us. We also have blocked a number of callers on our phone. It is most annoying to have Robocalls come in - and can be confusing for some people who do not understand what the calls are. I know a number of Seniors who are upset when the calls come in and do not know how to deal with them.

Columbus, OH

These spam phone calls are totally out of control! Some days I get 4-5 calls, interrupting my day constantly. The phone company has no incentive to stop the calls because they are selling services to the spammers. I've complained to the FCC and to my congressman to no avail. Nomorobo has stopped many of them, but not all. I've even gotten phone calls where caller ID says it is from our own name and phone number - the same number I was answering the phone on!

ENOUGH—PLEASE DO SOMETHING TO STOP THEM!

This is a no-brainer, FCC. I should be able to block robocalls just as I can enroll on the no-call list (which needs to be improved, too!). I' tired of being besieged by unwanted, persistent calls from machines. Please expedite a way to allow consumers to block these calls easily and permanently.

Nomorerobo is a godsend! My husband and I feel like we've hit the lotto. Not being bothered by telemarketers is one of life's great pleasures. Please don't take away nomorobo but rather expand it to make it accessible to all consumers.

Debra Gaston

I signed up for robocall blocking last year before the elections. I was being bombarded by political calls. I am on a no-call list but that made no difference to the callers. After robocall all that stopped. Thank goodness!

Goodlettsville, Tn

Some days we receive up to five robocalls. Companies are trying to sell everything from personal alert systems to full house alarms, lawn services, new windows, window washing, credit cards, etc. This doesn't include the "legal" donation and political robocalls or the appointment verification robocalls. The phone rings off the wall and we haven't spoken to one real live person.

These phone calls are absolutely an invasion of privacy, and are completely unnecessary. Please allow phone customers easy access to robocall blocking products.

Thank you.

Lutz, FL

I am so sick of all the unwanted phone calls. The same people call day after day and sometimes three times a day. These are mostly just people trying to scam you. I am not interested in pain relief or debt relief. The only relief I want, is to not have my phone ringing all day long. There is not one day that goes by during the week that I don't have at least one unwanted phone call. I have caller ID and do not answer these calls, but it is still the ringing of the phone and the long messages on the answering machine that is annoying. I would like robocalls STOPPED!!!!!! Thank you.

Please act against the robo callers. They call multiple times each day, often waking us up. This happens even though we are on the Do Not Call list. Even picking up the phone and stating our wish to be spared further calls is to no avail.

Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:30 am and 12:00 pm my mother receives about 13 robocalls, that is only noon. Until 7 pm I am picking up the phone and hanging it up. I no longer respond to these calls at all. They are a true annoyance to home life. I can not even block these calls through the phone company. Do something to dismantle to this destructive behavior of these marketers. They are same numbers each day. Sometimes the same numbers will dial our home up to five time a day.

Detroit, Michigan

My husband had surgery and it is hard for him to get up to answer the phone when no one is home. Please keep people like him in mind when you decide if we can continue to have the calls blocked.

Fenton, MO

If it weren't for nomorobo, I would have had my phone disconnected. I'm paying for a phone only to let the phone company sell access to my private life to anyone that wants to sell something. I signed up for every Do Not Call list, but its apparent that there is no government backing for this program as everyone simply ignores it.

I called AT&T to demand they fix the unsolicited and was told the FCC did not allow that. I then asked them to disconnect my phone. I was finally transferred to an individual who said he understood and he told me about nomorobo. He said AT&T was working on something but since they are working both sides, it probably would not happen.

They use the FCC as an excuse not to provide a reasonable service. Now they are using the FCC to prevent other private companies from fixing their scams? Knock it off! I realize the big companies are paying lots of money to get their way, but the FCC is supposed to protect us all, not just the big corporations.

I firmly believe that robocalls are a violation of my privacy and should be against the law under all circumstances. I use a robocall blocker on my VOIP line, and think it is one of the greatest inventions since Alexander Graham Bell made the first call.

Absolutely, without question, robocall blockers are a necessity in this age where being on the "Do Not Call" list is virtually worthless. At the very least, I have cut down my carpet cleaning calls to one a day.

You have failed to give phone users (home and cell) the ability to stop unwanted and unsolicited phone calls. The DoNotCall registry is a joke. It's about time the government and FCC allow cell phone users to block robo calls with services such as Nomorobo.

My home and cell phones have been registered on the "Do Not Call" list since its' inception. Initially it seemed to reduce the incidence of unsolicited and robo (spam) calls. However, it has become increasingly LESS effective over time. It is not unusual to receive 2-3 calls per day. Since my conversion to IP based phone service (2011) I've received MANY one-ring calls with no actual connection, all of them displaying invalid or spoofed numbers. THIS IS UNACCEPTABLE. It should be disallowed by law and the penalties should be draconian for both the callers and the sponsors.

I get way too many calls from robos with a message saying press 1 to talk to a person. I think that when you passed the do not call laws , YOU did not take into consideration any ways that these companies could get around your law. ROBO calls is one of the ways these companies do this. They say WELL YOU PRESSED 1- YOU OBVIOUSLY WANTED TO TALK TO US!!!!

Enough of this crap!!!

Robocalls are a persistent and ever-increasing nuisance. I absolutely rely on nomorobo.com right now to keep most robocalls from interfering with my day and consuming my attention (and telephone time). I don't know why the phone companies shouldn't be offering this service directly to consumers. Oh, wait, they probably make money on the calls that advertisers place. Well, they also make money from me, and I want the robocalls to stop.

I have had a home based business for 20 years! I have a business phone, home phone and cell phone! Everytime I get a robo or even illegal solitation call I have to stop my work! I do NOT want to get any robo calls. Even though I have nomorobo on my phone I get at least 10 to 20 robo calls a day.

Obviously it is not working out at ALL !!!

Please stop the Robot calls. It interrupts our family life. In the last 3 weeks more than 45% of the calls I received were Robot Calls. Needless to say, we are on the do-not-call list. I filed several complaints to no avail. It's having an impact on our well being. I had to disable my answering machine and miss calls from my friends and family just to avoid Robot Calls.

Denville, New Jersey

Me, my family, friends and anyone else i speak with; think robocalls, also cold calls from charities, local merchants and politicians are extremely intrusive and detrimental to our personal rights and quality of life. Callers are almost always nasty, argumentative, or just hang up while you are asking them not to call again. also calls start in the AM. and continue into the late evening...(4-5-6) times a day.. sometimes more. My wife and I are senior citizens (70/75) with health issues. Lest we miss calls from our doctors/pharmacist we don't need to be answering or startled by the phone ringing almost every hour or every 10 to 15 minuets, in some cases. These calls should most certainly be blocked and prosecuted by law especially since the are using disconnected or computer generated phony numbers so that we cannot return the call and ask to be put on their do not call list... Some of us are on the government do not call registry but we still receive these unwanted calls.

sincerely,

Carmela

If you are there to regulate communications in the public interest, keep NOMOROBO working and insist that the phone companies make it easy to block any and all calls that we do not want! We pay for the service, and we have the FCC to look out for our interests. We want no more robocalls, so do your job! You do not work for the companies first. You work for the public first.

David Harrison

This is a no brainer of a topic. Robocalls and telemarketers are annoying and in many instances, scamming people of their money. NoMoRobo and other call blocking products are the only savior and weapons, we the people have to protect us.

The FCC and Congress must allow for such products, and also force phone companies to do more to stop these unwanted and unscrupulous calls.

I've been on the "do not call list" for a few years. I have to renew it every year. But these robo callers use every trick up their sleeve. Call waiting says Annomus, cell, charity, etc. I was floored on day when I answered the phone to a call with just the number showing. Well guess who it was....The News Journal, the daily newspaper that I subscribe to. I read the poor girl that spoke to the riot act. I just hope the call was monitored for quality assurance.

Sneaky sneaky sneaky!

Also, these callers are very bad for seniors.

Delaware

I think the reason is obvious. Enough already.

I have reported robo calls to my do not call list and yet they persist. The same number comes in sometimes 4 times a day with no name on the caller ID. I get so frustrated I want to pull my hair out! I pay for my phone out of my hard earned money and I certainly believe that I should be the one who controls what calls I want to block. Nomorobo has been a Godsend for me. Robo calls are annoying and I don't want to deal with them. If you want to speak to me, have the guts to call me personally; don't send a computer to do your dirty work. Robo calls are telemarketers and the choice to block should be mine.

The sheer number of unsolicited calls that continue to ring our home phone despite being on the no call list is staggering. Since signing up for nomorobo, we've finally been able to regain a little peace, especially in the hours after the kids are in bed. The unsolicited political advertising phone calls are particularly infuriating. I don't want them to call me, and prior to nomorobo, there was no way to prevent them aside from cancelling my home phone service.

Robocalls are intrusive and should be blocked. The Do Not Call Registry was created for a reason, however, many of robocallers do not adhere to its policy and continue their illegal practices anyway. This is precisely why individuals need to take control into their own hands anyway possible. If there is a system to block those who break the law, then any and all ways to block these intrusions should be available and implemented.

We are plagued by scam phone calls threatening us with FBI and IRS sanctions. We want to block these calls.

I pay good money for my phone services both land lines and wireless. Therefore, I darn well should be able to block calls I dont want calling my phones. They are MY phones, right? If robocalls have the right to call my phone every hour on a daily basis, I should have the right to block these calls. The problem with these types of calls, is that when I do answer the phone, the call hangs up. So, I cannot tell a person to stop calling me. If I let the phone ring, they call back every hour on the hour. I have no desire to speak with anybody calling me whom I do not know. I do not want to donate money over the phone, I will not purchase anything over the phone. And I do not want to take a survey over the telephone. It is a lose lose situation. I find this very frustrating. Please allow these types of calls to be blocked.if they have rights, then so should we.

Please put an end to those annoying robocalls, especially during political run-ups to elections. They violate my right to peace and quiet in my home. Nowadays when I get a call that I know is from some stupid machine, I answer and immediately hang back up. It infuriates me when the phone is ringing and I hurry to answer it only to find it is something invading my right to privacy.

I am a handicapped senior citizen which makes these calls even more annoying since I don't make a habit to carrying my phone around with me. I am concerned that hurrying to answer my phone will cause me to fall and break a hip someday. Want that's on your conscience or don't you care about the people who employ you?

A Do Not Call Registry was created to stop telemarketers from bothering people, so why don't robocalls deserve the same fate?

It is time to do the right thing and stop these calls from being allowed.

Just because you place your telephone number on the National "Do Not Call" registry or a similar state registry is no guarantee that you will not be called by robotic/automated recorded telephone callers or by live telemarketers. While I am on both the National and the Texas "Do Not Call" registries, I still sometimes get as many as ten (10) of these unwanted calls each day and also sometimes on the weekend as well.

Many of these calls are no more than scams or attempts to gain confidential information. Numerous times I have received a call from some guy (alleging to be with Microsoft) who has "noticed that there is a problem with my computer" that he can fix if I just let him have remote access to my hard drive. I know others have received calls alleged to be from the IRS that are scams. Likewise, I have received calls for unwanted products and/or services from the same company calling me time and time again notwithstanding that I advise the caller that I am on a "Do Not Call" registry.

I recently signed-up with Nomorobo to stop these calls. Now the phone rings one time, and if it is one of these robotic/automated recorded telephone callers, Nomorobo hangs up on them. At last, I can get some productive work done at the price of only having to hear the phone ring one time. It saves my time and keeps the phone line clear for calls that are important.

Providing customers a solution as simple as Nomorobo is something that the telephone companies should have done long ago. I pay the telephone company for a means to allow me to communicate easily with other individuals to whom I desire to speak. I do not pay the phone company for, nor did I ever intend to provide, an avenue for others to invade my home with unwanted promotions, advertisements, scams, and attempts to obtain private information. Peace of mind is too precious to have it destroyed by denying telephone customers the ability to stop these annoying calls.

I signed up with nomorobo a few months ago. I really enjoy not receiving those very annoying calls!

Now, if we could just add more teeth to the "do not call" registry, I would be a happy "phone" camper.

I want to be able to stop the repugnant, incessant, continuous, unwanted calls to my home telephone. I do not desire to be flooded with commercial calls for anything! Anything that I am interested in I will pursue on my own terms and time. Why is it possible for unwanted calls to continuously bombard my privacy? I don't understand how these calls are allowed. Where doe's privacy enter into the scheme of things? I'm also not interested in getting political calls during the voting seasons. No one on a phone call is going to convince me to vote for anyone or anything! The pestering of political calls is a turn off as far as I am concerned!

South Kingstown, RI

We pay enough to phone companies and to you in fees!!! It is something that we have no choice to do. We should not have to deal with telemarketers getting our numbers and constantly calling us with stupid offers and harassing phone calls multiple times a day. Our number is for business and these phone calls are disruptive and annoying. We signed up for robocalls and their products to help reduce these calls and also signed up on the National Do Not Call Registry for the same purpose, but that does not stop these telemarketers and other automated calls from still getting our number and calling. Enough is enough, STOP THE CALLS!!!! Don't allow ROBOCALLS to be interrupted! They have improved our days with less of these calls!!

I think it's important to take strong steps to block annoying and invasive robocalls. I believe that FCC should require phone companies to provide this service and should consider implementing substantial civil penalties for robocaller.

I am 72 years old male and my experience with the "Robocalls" has been nothing but a giant nuisance and headache. Most of the times these robocalls are received as early as 5:45A and as late as 10:00P seven days a week. There is no option(s) provided to be deleted from these robocalls calling list. These robocalls won't even provide their phone numbers on my Phone ID. Most Of these robocalls have foreign accent (made from other countries. FCC must force all Phone companies, domestic and foreign, to abide by the "Do Not Call Listing" and levy heavy fines on the phone companies who promote thes robocalls. The consumer definitely needs a solid plan/protection from thse horrible nuisance robocalls. FCC must provide strict punishment and heavy fines to make these robocall companies to respect the Privacy of consumers. In reality, I will NOT buy any product these robocalls are promoting thus they are wasting their time and mine.In summary, these robocalls must be ban completely and stop immediately.

It is my phone service, I pay for it. When you call my home it is the same as walking up to my front door , knocking, and asking to come in. I have the right to say NO and to tell you to leave and never return. I have the right to post my property to keep out door to door solicitors. My home phone service is the same, I should have the right to deny calls from ANYONE I choose for any reason. Current laws do not work. It is YOUR TAXPAYER PAID JOB to fix that.

I get so many robocalls for useless products and scams that I am forced to screen all my incoming calls. Even so, my phone rings all day long even though my phone number is on both the local and national do-not-call lists. Robocall operators can safely ignore the do-not-call lists because they originate their calls overseas where they are out of reach of US authorities. Nomorobo has brought peace and quiet to my home and less aggravation to my life because it works no matter where the calls originate. There is a need for more robocall blocking products and services, not less.

I'm terrified and horrified that phone companies have targeted services such as NoMoRobo. I am the victim of an avalanche of telemarketing calls, and I'm not just being dramatic. For the last 3 years or so, I've been logging telemarketing calls and robocalls on a spreadsheet. The spreadsheet confirms that I've received an average of TWO TELE- OR ROBO-CALLS PER DAY for the past 3 years.

At first, I signed up for the FTC's Do Not Call Registry, but the calls kept coming. Then I reported violations through the online complaint form, but the calls kept coming. I've asked violators to stop calling, also to no avail. (Now I just ignore them.)

The Do Not Call Registry has never even acknowledged my complaints, let alone actually taken measures to stop the calls.

Only when I signed up for NoMoRobo was the volume of offending calls reduced significantly - to an average of perhaps one every week or two. (And those are diligently reported to NoMoRobo to prevent future violations!)

If anyone tells you that services such as NoMoRobo are unnecessary, THEY ARE LYING!

If anyone tells you that services such as NoMoRobo don't work, THEY ARE LYING!

If anyone tells you that the Do Not Call Registry is effective, THEY ARE LYING!

If anyone tells you that all or most telemarketers comply with the spirit of the Do Not Call Registry, THEY ARE LYING (if my experience is any indication)!

Please dismiss any efforts by phone companies to block services such as NoMoRobo.... indeed, they should be REQUIRED to offer such services as a necessary benefit to their customers.

I feel that robocalls should be illegal. Why do I have to take the initiative to block them. Nomorobo helps but still a few get through. Now I only answer the phone if I know who is calling me, but I hope the call isn't important.

There are many reasons why robocalls are bad.

I am so tired of robo calling. I watch my infant grandchildren and the calls are almost non stop and wake them up. And sometimes they call back to back several times and all hours of the day. Robo calling must be stopped and being able to block them in a EASY manner would be appreciated. I have Comcast and they sequences they put you thru to block calls is absolutely stupid. But they are greedy to say the least. Please put a end to this and soon!

Whoever invented robocalls needs to be shot! The phone always rings at the most inconvenient time. My health has not been good lately and it seems every time I try to lay down and rest, the phone rings. I don't want to listen to a politician or any other person that I don't know. I pay my phone bill and it's my phone. If they want to pay me a salary to answer their ridiculous, my fee would be $500 a minute. Also these robocalls are scamming the elderly in a lot of cases. No calls should come through from another country where they are rude and ruthless. The Do Not Call list is a joke so at least stop the robocalls!!

An average of six unwanted phone calls a day that NOMOROBO successfully blocks. This is a great service. My brother in Michigan cannot get NOMOROBO- I told him I was sorry, but I am sure it will be available in the future. The Do Not Call registry is completely ignored, and is useless.

Robocalls should be eliminated. I see no reason that they shouldn't be considered a nuisance. please make it a law that the phone companies take the measures needed to end these calls.

Robocalls should be allowed to be blocked. They are very annoying and disruptive and if you try and call them back a recording usually says that number is not in service. What? It just called me? So you cant even get your number taken off the list.

Without call blocking, my phone would ring with junk calls half a dozen times a day. I know this because until recently that's what it did. Now I use two different call-blocking methods — one of which is Nomorobo. It's invaluable to me, as it greatly reduces incoming calls from robots. When a machine calls, there's no way to tell it never to call back again.

Without this technology, I would very likely get rid of my landline (which I keep mainly for safety and security reasons). Thanks for listening.

I am a firm believer that as a paying telephone customer, I should have a great say what kind of calls I can block. I strongly support robocall blocking products. My elderly mom lives with me and she gets all worked up when the phone rings. She always feels we need to answer the phone. I'm sure this is true of many elderly, who grew up before robocalls were invented. We get several calls a day, even though we are on the no call list. I even have to take tge phone out of my mom's bedroom at night, so sge won't be awakened by early morning calls. This is a gross invasion of our peace and quiet.

No one should be able to call me unless I want them to. Technology like Nomorobo allows me to chose which calls to pick up and which ones I want to ignore. Please make Verizon Wireless allow this technology on the cell phone network (I have it on my home "Vonage" phone line).

Herb Philpott

Robocalls and marketing phone calls are not welcome in my home. They disrespect our desire for peace and quiet, they ignore our right to privacy, they're disruptive to family life, they're distasteful, unfair and rude. It has been a huge disservice to the citizens of this great country that we are forced to tolerate any robo - marketing calling nonsense at all.

Robocall blockers, however, exist because the citizenry so dislikes Robotic calling and marketing calls. Disallowing technology, like Robocall blocking products to work for the good of the people would be an enormous mistake. Please require every phone provider to allow any and all call blocking products they desire.

Eric Anderson

Nomorobo actually works, and it works very good...but it is not enough!!!! I am on the 'do not call' list, but does it actually work? NO!!! Every day, I, plus thousands and thousands of other household, get too many telemarketing calls that we should not have to put up with. We need more of this kind of blocking (Nomorobo) of illegal, irritating telemarketing calls. There is no reason that telephone companies can NOT put a stop to this. It is like simple math. $1+1=2$, unless you don't want 2 to be the answer! But, and I have to say, but... if you don't WANT to stop something...you will never stop it!!! Thank you

It is beyond absurd that the FCC would even consider limiting a citizen's ability to block a small percentage of the unsolicited phone calls that intrude a person's home on a regular basis. The volume of robocalls seems to be ever increasing. The public needs a remedy. Nomorobo provides a great public service. Please don't take it away.

We are senior citizens and are receiving robocalls 7 days a week up to 3-4 per day up to 9:30PM. They are literally ruining our quality of life. We cannot even relax in our own home without the telephone ringing with an annoying robocol every few hours. We are entitled to our privacy and we should be able to block these constant every day very annoying and disturbing robocalls calls. We fully support robocall blocking products. We want the FCC to also support robocall blocking products and also to take more regulatory action against all those companies that are doing the robocalling. Robocalls are an invasion of privacy. Unscrupulous advertisers purchase private information and use it to bombard the public with unwanted advertising every day. It is one thing to have to sort through dozens of emails, but to have your privacy invaded by a live salesperson in your own home is going too far. These calls force otherwise civilized people to become rude when the callers won't relent to a polite "no thank you." Moreover, many people such as myself have pay-as-you-go cell phones-and a disproportionate number of those people are senior citizens and/or are economically challenged. Each robocall is charged to the cell phone owner. Unwanted advertising calls are not only stressful to these people-they are actually forced to pay to have their privacy invaded. Stop robocalls! Nomorobo should be commended as a public service, not regulated out of existence!

We receive about 3-5 calls daily from unidentified, misidentified and sneaky callers. I have blocked many by specific phone number but have used up my allotment for that approach. Nomorobo stocks about 1/2 of the calls. The remainders are the above mentioned cals.

Before Nomorobo I was badgered by unwanted calls all day long and on weekends. My voicemail would be filled with telemarketers and even threatening calls saying I was about to be arrested. The Do Not Call List does not work to stop these intrusions. Asking people not to call doesn't work and they sometimes become abusive. I would get rid of my landline but my internet is tied to it, and my cell phone has begun to get robocalls. Without Nomorobo, I feel I would risk losing my sanity, and that's not an exaggeration.

I am sick and tired of answering my phone to be bombarded by pitches from computers. It is bad enough to have to take calls from human interlopers who disregard the do-not-call list, but it is far worse to hear daily from Rachel from Cardholder Services, or the guy who says "Don't hang up - this is not a sales call!".

Robert Blizzard

My choosing NoMoRoBo call blocking is akin to my blocking unwanted calls.

It is MY choice to prevent waste of time, bandwidth, system use and money.

If phone spammers can use computers to megadial phone numbers then using computer software to block unwanted phone spam is appropriate

If the FCC exercises its authority to manage this problem area, it will have control of the problem. Therefore, other, as yet unforeseen, uses of computer/software accessing phones en mass will be controllable by the FCC 's regulatory power. It is conceivable that future attacks on the telephone infrastructure may be possible through cleverly programmed phone access gained using spoofed phone numbers and offshore computers. DOS, assaults on servers, etc may be tools employed to deny use of individual phones or the systems themselves.

It is assumed that phone companies will resist ANY regulation of service because of restrictions which would cost them money. A simple reason is that call spammers use up time on user's phone accounts. A few minutes each phone # across thousands of phones whose owners are paying by'the-minute charges is a boon to their income without effort on their part. Additionally, restrictions on robocalls will lead to restrictions on software phone companies preload into cell phones and deny user-control of which can force these phones to lengthen a call by a few seconds each call thereby increasing chargeable fees.

These are a few of the reasons I want the FCC to exercise strong restrictive regulations on phone call spammers. I want the FCC to allow software such as NOMOROBO to block unwanted phone accesses and to exercise regulation of the programs allowed to employ this function.

Before I was lucky enough to find this blocking service, I was receiving 5 to 6 calls PER DAY from contractors. They would call and LIE to me. Stop robo calls!!!!!!!!!!!!

DEAR GOD! 8 to 9 a day from 7:00 in the morning until 8:00 at night every day + weekends

I had to pay more money to buy AT & T's more expensive package to block calls, and even then, I can only block 20 numbers max.

Mr. & Mrs. McGiffid

You need to need to force phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers. It's only right. Please act on this.

Marge Teilhaber
Fort Lee, NJ

Verizon Wireless does not have the features needed for NOMOROBO call blocking. I do use the feature on my ATT home line, and it is working great. So many in-coming calls stop after 1 ring, being stopped by NOMOROBO. Please force the other phone companies to allow me to NOT have to listen to these unwanted robo calls on my cell. Thank you for taking this message.

Robocalls are invasion of privacy and annoying as hell. If I want someone's service I should be able to seek them out not bother the shit out of me with 3 to 4 calls a day from the same number or a dead number ,

Robert Louderback
Menifee Ca

We pay for our phone service. We do not pay for advertisements on our phone; yet, we cannot stop the robocalls. On our cell phones, if we answer an "unknown" caller, we pay for the time our phone is in use, whether we want to receive the call or not. We want to use our phones to make and receive important calls from people we know and trust. We feel insulted that we are being bombarded with calls from numbers that we cannot trace, nor can we return the calls to complain. The more you answer the calls, the more you receive. (You gotta love computers!)

I don't want to be subject to any Robocalls . I should NOT have to be disturbed in my own home with solicitations that I did not request. ROBO calls are annoying and unwanted.

Allow robocall blocking!!!

Robo calls are annoying and unwanted. I believe citizens should be able to use robo call blocking products.

Pass legislation that will help me block the incessant robocalls that call several times every day despite my phone number being listed on the Do Not Call Registry.

Richard

Robocalls should be stopped. The number of calls received in this household are excessive. I am on the "do not call list, yet I continue to receive multiple calls on a daily basis. I consider them an invasion of my right to privacy. In addition, I pay for telephone service (landline and cell). I should have the right to block unwanted telephone calls.

Ellen Weiss
Beltsville, MD

If someone REPEATEDLY, day in and day out, rang my door bell, could I not have them arrested for harassment? If so, then WHY must I allow someone to ring my phone again and again and again. What crazy logic would allow them to seek government assistance to stop me from blocking them? Has our government gotten THAT upside-down that the harassers have more rights than the harassed? I should be allowed to block ANYONE I wish. After all, they ARE MY PHONES. I pay for their use and should have some control over them. No other arguments matter.

Chuck Schardong

I am tired of unwanted and uninvited intrusions into my home via my telephone. If I can not block unwanted calls and all robo calls into my home I am going to eliminate my home phone. It is ridiculous that I can not have a phone line because it is constantly barraged by solicitations by phone marketers.

This is a big problem. You put your phone number on the National Do Not Call list yet these robo-callers continuously call over and over because they have technology that allows them to put your phone number in a database and continue to call OVER AND OVER AGAIN. The ones I have received most recently claim that "someone in your household owes money". They want you to call them so that they can phish for more information and then at the very least sell your information. We must put an end to the selling of data. This is one of the biggest reasons that there is identity theft in this country. I AM PERSONALLY SICK OF IT AND EXPECT THE GOVERNMENT TO TAKE CARE OF THESE MORONS. If you cant or wont do anything with them then the government is just as bad as they are. This is my phone number and I am tired of the invasion of my privacy.

Jack Bullard

I am so sick of my phone ringing from solicitors sometimes up to 3 times from the same caller that now I don't even pick up my phone but wait till the caller is identified! That is sad! Nomorerobo has made this problem a little easier and weeds out some to half of those annoying calls! Please allow nomorerob to continue and start stopping those solicitors that are instead sooo annoying!! PLEASE STOP THOSE SPAMMERS from bothering us and protect us!! Thanks!!!

I am plagued by robocalls. Please allow me to have a means to block these annoying calls. I am currently using NOMOTOBO, which helps, but is not perfect. These robocalls should be outlawed.

Oyster Bay, NY

I hope you will wholeheartedly support citizen-oriented initiatives and services like Nomorobo, which allows people to block robocalls. These calls are disruptive, irrelevant, and in some cases, dangerous-- interrupting people who are doing things like caring for small children, cooking, etc. I am thrilled to use the Nomorobo service, which has made life more peaceful at home. I just wish the "unavailable" or "private" numbers could be blocked, too.

Katherine Lawrence

Robo calls are intrusive and time consuming. And many of them are for gimmicks to take money from unsuspecting consumers (mostly old ones). It costs the perpetrators nothing to keep on calling until they find a sucker.

We should all be given the option of eliminating them!!!

I have a right to privacy and should be able to block any, all calls that I wish to. I pay the phone bill and I should be able to decide who I want to speak with and when!

I am plagued by phone calls from all kinds of people looking to sell me something or asking for donations. I get at least 6-10calls aday at all hours of the day including early morning and all the rest of the day including Sindays which is my sabbath. Stopping these calls would give my life some peace and quiet.

The robocalls come at the most inconvenient times ranging from 5 am to midnight. the same numbers come up over and over again. Do not call register does not block them. Please do not prevent us from doing what we can to stop these calls.

Karen Helt

I don't have time to be answering automated phone calls that don't concern my business or my family. You answer the phone and wait to hear someone on the other end that's extremely irritating. You're on a call and the phone clicks in for a solicitation. Leave people have control of something in their life if it's only who can and can not call them. It's to the point where it's 10 calls a day. Bit much wouldn't you agree! You're life wouldn't be happy with it.

Abner Kestler

With the advent of automated telephone calling (robo calls) over the years the barrage of calls interrupting our day has become so bad we would simply ignore any call ringing that had an unfamiliar (or no) caller ID. When I learned of the nomorobo service and set it up I found the difference to be amazing. Simply wait for the phone to ring twice and I nearly always get a legitimate phone call.

I'm disappointed that telephone companies are pushing to have this capability banned and wonder what their motivation could be.

Please rule to require all phone companies to offer the simultaneous ring ring feature that is essential to the nomorobo service and give the consumer more control over who can intercept their day. Thank you.

Edward DeMeulle
Huntington Beach, CA

What is the point of robocalls? I used to have to go pick up my phone only to have to hang it up again. The Nomorobo service gives me peace of mind; there is only one ring and the phone goes silent - another call I do not have to wait my time answering. Nomorobo is the best solution to date, the only better way would be for there to be no ring at all when a robo caller tries to call.

Enough! I have my name and numbers on the do not call list. It does NO GOOD. At least a service like Norumbo stops about 50% of the calls coming into my house and I can tell because it only rings once. I can tell exactly when my numbers have been sold because from that moment on I will get, and I have counted and can show you on my phone record, about 50-60 calls within a 5 day period of junk calls. I don't receive that many phone calls from people I know and I can no longer answer my phone!!!!!! People have to leave me messages and I call them back because I can't even tell anymore who is calling. I have almost injured myself trying to get to the phone only to see it is a call from some place that is a junk call. I had to block a call from New Orleans just today. They called me 8 times within 24 hours. Eight times! PLEASE do something to stop these calls and for goodness sake allow these services to continue to help us.

Robocalls are rampant, invasive and destructive. Nomorobo is a lifesaver in relieving my family of the horribly widespread annoyance that these callers have become. Since I can't personally stop the callers, I totally support Nomorobo and other robocall blocking products that help to rid my life of this annoyance. I urge the FCC to support this effort on behalf of those of us who pay for telephone services that are being abused by robocallers.

Richard Settar

I find it is an invasion of my freedom of privacy. I believe truly that only I have the option of having -Or Not Having- unsolicited 'spam calls'. Calls that I Do Not want, and Have Not asked for. if I want to give my opinion, or go on a trip or whatever the subject matter... I know how to find what I want when and if I want to.

Noah Brewer
Elm City, NC

Over half of all phone calls into our home now are false, fraudulent, robot calls that violate Federal law and the Do Not Call List. We get no enforcement help at all from the FCC or from any police agency. We are left to defend ourselves against this waste of our time and of the phone companies' plant and resources. NoMoRobo is our choice for this defense.

Please do NOT give in to those who shill for rules that would make us defenseless against this persistent and growing attack on our time and attention!

Thank you.

Steve Saunders

I get an average of 9 unwanted, maddening robocalls every week and have no recourse to stop them. My being on the Do Not Call List has not had any effect on them. My carrier cannot help. Calling numbers are continuously changed, so they cannot be anticipated and blocked. There is a proven robocall blocking service available, but it has not been approved by the FCC. I urge the FCC to approve and facilitate this service as soon as possible so these extremely annoying, unwanted and disruptive intrusions into untold thousands of homes every day can be brought to a halt. .

For gosh sakes, don't go overboard and allow robocalls to not be blocked. They are a tremendous infringement on our privacy, generally occurring at meal time. Robocall blocking products are great. Please support them and make them more widely available.

I respectfully request your assistance and support in alleviating to nearly constant stream of Robocalls, as well as Unsolicited Advertisers, Charity Solicitations and all forms of telemarketing affecting home-lines, business-lines and mobile-phone lines. This effort to restrict these telemarketers using Robocalls as well as the other aforementioned schemes can not be successfully reduced or eliminate without government intervention. Productivity in businesses large and small has been affected adversely due to these interruptions, which at times are relentless.

Robocall blocking products are the only thing that make it bearable to have landline phones in this day and age. These companies have no respect for privacy and constantly bombard people with these phone calls. Take away our right to have products to help us to deal with this and you'll be having to explain to the phone companies why they are losing more and more business. Be the government agency that you were created to be. Put the interests and concerns of People at the forefront... not the interests of big business. I'm so disappointed in the FCC for even considering taking away citizens' rights to put controls on telemarketers. I thought you could be depended upon to care about common people.

Rockville, MD

For several years, my home was bombarded with robocalls. Beginning in the early hours to the late evening, the intrusions grew more frequent. From credit solutions, to new windows, to telephone service pitches, to mortgage reductions, the calls kept coming and coming. They were all unsolicited, all unwanted, and all an interruption to my day and peace of mind. I steadfastly and frequently reported these calls to the Do Not Call Registry complaint site - for years - with no reply and no solutions. The calls never stopped. I finally stumbled across Nomorobo a few months ago - it has been the medicine to cure my ills. NO MORE ROBO CALLS! Finally, my problem has been solved by a bright, ingenious entrepreneur with a simple software solution. I love this product and hope other consumers who just don't want to be bothered by the "junk mail" of the phone lines can take advantage of its tremendous potential.

I use NOMOROBO block because there are far too many telemarketers who prey on poor people, call repeatedly, and often are rude and intimidating. It is my phone, my number and I did not give them permission to call me. They have my address, they can mail their offers to me; then I can peruse their material in my own time and at my convenience. Stop trying to take my rights away.

The FCC should not limit any services that a phone subscriber can use. If a caller can try to call to sell their wares, legal or illegal, shady or genuine, we should have the right to block such calls. And the DoNotCall list is ignored by callers!

We have been aware of, and used, nomorobo for some time, and it's the best technological tool to come along. I am surprised that no more people are aware of it. We (private citizens) need more ways to protect our privacy. Anything that can be done to block robo calls should be allowed. I wish there was some way to prohibit other telemarketing calls. We are on the "do not call" list, but telemarketers continue to bother us.

I dislike calls which interrupt my dinner, my evenings with family, and my sleep. Robo calls are annoying and disruptive. NOMOROBO has been a very valuable service to me.

I hate robocalls, and I want them blocked.

I get at least 3-4 calls a day from construction, or other sales company on my home phone. You can tell these are robot calls by the pauses before a person comes on the line. These calls interrupt my work, my cooking, my family life. I do not invite these solicitations and definitely do not want them.

They do not stop when asked. They are extremely irritating and invasive! We need to make them stop their harassment. Please allow norobocalls to block thwm and force those so called "public utilities" the phone companies to assist them.

Ellen Morgan

We HATE robocalls and see no reason for people who own telephones to be placed at the mercy of (often fraudulent) companies that use them to intrude on us aurally. Please mandate that blocking products be made readily accessible to consumers!

Jennifer Crohn and Robert Donald

I do not think that any robocalls should be legal at any time in America. It is our right to protect our privacy and to be able to use robocall blocking products if we so desire. I personally believe that no government organization should have the right at any time to make any person's phone numbers public or easily accessible in any way. There is way too many scams going on by telephone, email and other means. It is time to put a stop to all robocalls, telemarketing phone calls and spam.

I am tired of politicians being allowed to do robocalls and all other organizations. If I want to do business with a specific company on the phone, then I will initiate the contact myself. I am tired of unidentified caller id calls of all types and I do not agree with anyone being allowed to block their caller id for any reason.

Programs like Nomorobo give the average citizen the ability to do what government for the most part will not, and that is to help level the playing field and allow them the ability to defend themselves from corporate greed and avarice. I am tired of receiving solicitations on my home and mobile phone. Every time they leave a message it costs me money. Programs like Nomorobo help but there should be more options.

Owings Mills, MD

I am SOOOOO sick of getting this robo calls. Please give us some way to control them. When I finally pick up and remind them I'm on the Government Do Not Call lists, they argue with me, give me some kind of excuse, argue with me, tell me they don't know what that is or they do not have to look, and on and on. One even threatened me if I turned them in to FCC. I thought the 'Do Not Call' list would help but both my land line and cell phone still get jammed with the awful calls.

Betty L Porter
Moreno Valley, CA

First there was the Do Not Call list, and that worked for a good several years. Then the calls started again. Every day, all day. At 7 am and at 11pm and literally continuously all day long. We try very hard to protect our number. I would argue that we are actually quite savvy when it comes to preventing robocallers and telemarketers from having access to our number, yet it continues to get worse. We can literally get 3 and 4 calls in a span of 5 minutes...all junk. There absolutely had to be a way to block robocalls and frankly, unsolicited calls should be outlawed. They are a nuisance. If a solicitor continuously rang my doorbell, I could have them removed by the sheriff, but I have no way of stopping a solicitor from ringing my phone day and night. Please STOP ROBOCALLS!

Tamara and Arnold Sand

There is already a national "Do Not Call" registry. Yet, we still get unwanted, unsolicited, nuisance calls. Now, we are getting them from robotic devices. Please help the citizens of our country to put a stop to this. This will also help protect people from unscrupulous criminals and spammers, as well as conserve on wasted Obama phone minutes. Then the needy will have more minutes to call their crack dealers on the taxpayers dime. So they can spend the taxpayers dime. Can you help us please ? You can't do a darn thing to stop the nuisance of Obama. The least you could do is to stop robocalls.

Michael J. Cappello

Everyday Nomorobo blocks robotic telemarketer calls to my home phone and I am thankful. I am on the Do Not Call List but yet I still receive annoying non-robotic telemarketer calls everyday. I have the ability to block 50 calls by using my ATT software (blocks 20 calls) and my home phone (blocks 30 calls). I have reached my blocking limit and I want the ability to block an unlimited amount.

Do Not Call List doesn't work, Nomorobo works for robotic calls, please give me the ability to block any unwanted telemarketer phone call.

Michael Krajac

This is a Quality-Of-Life issue. An invasion of my privacy. An invasion of my home. And I pay for the service and should have the ability to block or stop annoying Robo Calls.

I want my phone to stop ringing with the same Robo Calls day-in and day-out! I have tried everything known to man to stop this annoying interruption that can happen almost at any time. It is my phone, I pay for the privilege to have the service, and should not be subject to such invasion of my life by these companies that can not take no for an answer.

I expect my Government to Protect Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The FCC as part of this government owes that to all Americans that pay for the use of a Telephone.

I recently had my "land line" disconnected because ALL the phone calls I received in a two month period were robocalls. Now I am getting more of them on my mobile phone. I feel it is my right not to have harassing phone calls coming into my home. I pay the phone bill, not them. The DO NOT CALL list are ignored by a vast majority of these companies and often it is the same calls over and over. These calls come into my home all times of the day, often when I am trying to sleep, not feeling well or busy with my life. I do not want any UN-solicited calls, robo, political, or sales. My phone is not for their use, it is for me, my family and friends. Often these calls are mis-leading and confusing to older people and they are getting scammed. By the way nomorobo was a hit at our local health facility, facebook and anywhere I could share it.

As a retiree robocalls were driving me crazy. I didn't retire to spend time stopping what I was doing to answer calls for roofing,siding, hearing aids, credit cards, carpet cleaning, utility rebates and more.

Peggy Kemp

I have subscribed to NOMOROBO and am very pleased with its ability to block unwanted calls. But it is not totally effective and I think it should be expanded, not curtailed. I have also been on the FCC and state "Do not call" lists, but these, too, are only partially effective, as I still receive unwanted (and presumably illegal) calls. The FCC and NOMOROBO should join forces to eliminate these scams and nuisance calls.

Please block robocalls which invade the privacy and peaceful environment of homes. You represent the citizens of this country please listen.

Greg golasews

Mobile companies already charge fees for many services, but do not provide a viable means to stop robocalls. As an owner of a mobile device it should be my right to purchase an app that will block such calls. Placing my mobile number in the do not call registry does not effectively block these types of calls. Please consider the request to allow robocalls blocking to be available for mobile devices.

When I don't have the ability to block robo calls my phone rings all day and night with these types of calls, about 35 calls a day. They don't respect my privacy or my request not to call. In fact if I tell them I don't want to hear from them they increase the call volume to the point I have to turn off the phones in order to get any peace or rest. What is the use of having a phone if it turned off most of the time? How can family or friends contact us in an emergency if our phones are turned off? Why should these illegal callers be allowed to harass us without a means to fight back? Reporting the calls to the Do Not Call complaint form accomplishes nothing, so we need call blocking technology.

I urge you to permit and encourage the blocking of unsolicited "robo calls". The notion that individuals and corporations can gain unwanted access to the inner sanctum of my home as a marketing strategy is outrageous - particularly when using a service for which I pay and on which we depend on for safety and emergencies. Robocall blocking has been a blessing. I have advanced metastatic melanoma and there are several projects I am trying to complete with whatever time I have. Jumping up to answer the phone, or even stopping what I'm doing to answer my desk phone, puts me back further than the few seconds or minutes that it takes. Please help us stop this intrusion on our lives.

Robocalls interupt my wife and I multiple time every day. Sometime they call early in the morning or late at night. This should be illegal or at the very least I should be able to opt out of receiving them. I know the lobbyists reward you handsomely, but we're asking you to please listern to the little guy.

I get between three and ten robocalls every day, despite my number being on the "Do Not Call" list.
Please help me stop them.

Robocalls invade my home. They are both a disturbance to my privacy and a waste of my time and energy.

A call from a salesperson is annoying but a call generated by computer is an outrage!

James Brandt
Napoleon, OH

With the constant barrage of robocalls, I cannot read a book, watch television, or eat my meals without interruption. There is a do not call list that is supposed to stop sales calls, but it apparently has no effect on robotic calling. Please do everything in your power to prevent these unsolicited calls. Some organizations like "Credit Card Services" call as often as once a day. I've tried responding to a call to ask to be removed from their calling list. The person I get just hangs up. These calls should be considered a violation of my first amendment rights. They certainly infringe on my right to liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

They should be blocked. They are a total invasion to privacy.

There are too many holes in the Do Not Call registry. I receive too many solicitations from companies that I am not a customer of. I also receive unwanted political and charitable calls. I feel it is my right to curtail this.

I hate robo calling! And, I like being able to block all the ones that I can through NOMOROBO. I am an elderly person, and it is totally annoying to get phone calls that are irrelevant to me. Especially when they interrupt my naps!!!!

I believe all robo calling should be banned and blocked....forever!

Robocalls are a severe irritant and disruptive to a peaceful household. They should be abandoned and the creators should be fined. We receive false calls, silent calls and obvious advertising from 0700 a. m. to 2100 p. m.

I believe robocalls are a serious invasion of my privacy and peace of mind. My phone is a private phone not public. Those I give my number to are allowed to access my number by dialing my supposedly unlisted number. By what right do these ROBOCALL companies have my number? If the phone companies don't want to block my number from the ROBOCALLERS then I suggest the FCC COME UP WITH A BONUS FEE per call for those receiving such robocalls. Something like 20/30 cents per.

Since Nov. my phone recorded almost 50 of them. The bonus will help me pay my phone bill.

Please do what is needed to allow me to stop all the unwanted calls I am getting. Even though I am on the DO NOT CALL LIST I continue to get in solicited calls. A lot of these calls are robo calls that do not get completed even when I answer the call, to tell them to stop calling!

David Plyler

I get at least six robo calls a day up to 8 at night. I can no longer answer my phone for legitimate calls. I called my phone provider and they have no remedy. They say the calls are from foreign countries. They change their caller id all the time. I deserve to have a way to block these callers without also blocking calls I want. It really is abusive.

Denis Clegg
Palo Alto, CA.

I am so tired of the endless phone calls soliciting me day and night from companies that I do not want phone calls from. Please help stop this intrusive, unnecessary onslaught. We have stopped leaving our cell phones on so that we can avoid these unwanted constant calls. We no longer answer our land line and only respond to messages because of these constant annoying and often bogus calls. I can say that our lives have been negatively effected by this phenomenon and we are not using our phones as much because of this situation. For a change, do something to help the average American. and interfere with the corporate greed for a change.

One of the prime aggravations of the political and commercial marketing process is the automation of telephone contacts that severely encroaches on the privacy of our home. The so-called "robocalls" invade the privacy of our home, interrupts the sanctity of our rights to choose our family, friends and neighbors, and defeats the basic purpose of interactive communication.

Please allow us to preserve our individual rights to personal communication by allowing us to choose blocking products.

John W. Matthews

please stop rob calls. most calls (and I get 5 to9 a day)I get no one is on the line by the time I get up walk to the phone these one on the line or hang up after I pick up the phone. I am on the "national do not call" list but that does no good I would be filing a complaint every day. Most calls are from the same company who use sets phone numbers to call from. When I reserve call the number it gives me the phone numbers in the block and say's they are telemarketers.

I use a blocking system called Nomorobo. After two years I can honestly tell you that it works, we eat dinner in peace and we have peace at last. these calls were becoming such a nuisance and the people calling were insufferable, arrogant, and very pushy.

To block systems like Nomorobo is a stupid move. Do not call lists don't work, these people call you anyway. They could care less about the law.

I also believe that this is my phone and what I do with it is nobody's business, especially the government's. I value my privacy and will continue to enforce my privacy, even if I have to pay for it. It is my responsibility for taking care of my home, my family, and what means I take to protect it. Thank you for your time and consideration.

I find that "Nomorobo" is an outstanding feature and I only wish more numbers were covered as there is an increasing number of annoying calls from 6:30 in the morning to 9:00 p.m. at night, seven days a week.

Stop these calls. Now they call and the caller id is my phone number. Do something about these annoying phone calls.

First of all....i have a private number and have always have one. Even that doesn't help. Many people consider robocalls to be intrusive and a harrassment. We pay the bill so we should decide on who calls us and who shouldn't. I got called as early as 6am to as late as 12:25 pm. Both times i have been woken out of a deep sleep and then not being able to fall back asleep. Even my friends and family have the intelligence NOT to call before or before/after a certain time unless it was for an emergency, and robocalls are NOT an emergency. Stop robocalls now!

Barbara Colao

I LOVE MY NOMOROBDCALL!!!! A LOT. DON'T CHANGE A THING. I would love a "block immediately" feature for incoming calls. I get way to many calls from bogus numbers. The "Do not call list" is great but it doesn't go far enough.

Nomorobo has literally changed my family's lives. It has silenced our phone from ringing off the hook all day long and during dinner time. At least we have some peace and quiet. I don't appreciate most, if not all, robocalls. Maybe some do. At my home they out number the actual calls I want by a factor of greater than 10 to 1!

Please allow me to do what I want with my phone and use robocall blocking products. I've been using nomorobo.com since the beginning of last November, and I can't tell you how nice it is, but the phrase "the best thing since sliced bread" comes to my mind.

I am fed up with robocalls and the fact that there is no consequence to the companies who implement them. They are intrusive, unproductive, and make me angry. They actually produce the opposite effect of what they intend, because I would never buy or use a product which came from one of these companies.

Robo calls are an I requested nuisance that intert my and everyone in my family's privacy.

Please let me know what purpose they provide, especially when my hone rings two to three times and there in no one on the other end of the phone.

Garden City, NY

Telemarketers are the bane of my existence. All of them are using spoofed numbers on my caller ID. Many are from out of the country. I've even had my own name and number pop up on my caller ID. I've had to resort to turning off my home phone ringers to stop the constant intrusion and irritation. And, I'm also starting to get these scam phone calls on my cell phone!!! I am paying for my phone services and I object to these scammers and thieves using the services for which I am paying. When I have asked them to stop calling, I've been called obscene names that I wouldn't dare even put into print here. My privacy is being intruded upon. I am being harassed. And there seems to be no way to stop it. IT'S TOTALLY OUT OF CONTROL!!!!!!!

Beth Holewinski

There is a huge problem in the United States. Our priorities are misaligned. We allow caller id spoofing and think it is ok not to be able to block robocalls. Our privacy are being invaded everyday allowing our adversaries to have every advantage. We need not only block robocalls, but also block caller id spoofing. Caller id spoofing allows names and numbers to be hijacked with out the assigned users permission. This is a concern that every american should be worried. If we let our security and privacy to be hijacked by other people, it is only time before all of America is hacked.

I am so tired of receiving robocalls. These days I don't answer the phone unless I know the number.
Please help!

We have fought for years even signing up for the Do NOT Call registry...what a joke. Nothing worked. Ringing and hanging up, calling at dinner, waking us up, being rude to us...and more. We even screen our calls with our phone messaging system that says "we are screening our calls because of telemarketers who won't take no for an answer."

Finally we used a free robocall blocking service and they decreased by probably 95%. Once in a while one gets through, but not often. It is great!

It is our home, our phone, our personal lives. We shouldn't have to put up with being harassed by these rude, obnoxious, superfluous, annoying calls.

So, support the robocall blocking products and do not allow our privacy, our home and lives to be under attack any longer by businesses that refuse to leave us alone.

Hartwick, NY

I was suffering many unwanted calls each day, both robotic and telemarketers even though I had signed up on the Do Not Call list. After years of suffering this I signed up for a private service NoMoRobo.com which has greatly reduced the number of those calls. So I know it is possible. It would have been nice if this service had been available directly from my phone service provider. So please approve the measure to require the phone companies to offer this service.

Richard Lange

ROBO calls are driving me nuts; we get at least half a dozen a day. The DO NOT CALL list is a joke; I think the scummy scammers use it as a source for new numbers! Robocall blocking products should continued to be allowed and its usage should be encouraged so that the general population can maintain its sanity.

Harbor City, CA

Robocalls are reaching epidemic proportions. I would be gone 365 days a year if I accepted every vacation scam. Then there is Rachael for lowering my interest rate, or Lisa or whoever. Also there are the alarm companies, the medic alert companies, the police scams, the IRS scam, the arrest of a relative scam and on and on ad infinitum. I am a senior citizen and the prime target of every scam that comes down the pike. Please help before I reach the age where I can no longer tell the difference between scam and legitimate calls.

I have thought many times of discontinuing my home phone, not because of the expense, but because 90% of the calls I get are solicitation of one type or another. How bad is that?

Rick & Tina Newcomb
Longmont, CO

Considering the number of unwanted daily/weekly scam calls, TOTAL inaction as far as the Do-Not-Call list is concerned, at least my ability to use NOMOROBO allows me to block a number of these calls which occur at all hours. I completely fail to understand any reason why I should not be able to block those calls. Presently, my carrier AT&T allows me to block a total number of 30 numbers. AT&T must surely be aware that phantom numbers are created constantly so that the 30 number total is quickly exhausted.

Blocking Robocalls provides privacy to the homeowner. Products that enable the consumer an option to prevent these calls is an advantage and should not be curtailed. Having a phone number should not be an opportunity for harassment by an unwanted caller.

Dennis Clanceyd

I urge the FCC to allow consumers to block calls that disrupt and are unsolicited. From what I understand many calls are originated out of the country to circumvent the laws that are not enforceable. I NEVER ever want a ROBO call from anyone unless it is a emergency announcement from local police. PERIOD.

I have grown very tired of all of the robocalls that keep coming to my home phone. I am very happy to have robocall blocking.

Robocalls have become a plague. Blocking products like Nomorobo aren't the whole solution, but at least it helps. I can't see any reason why they shouldn't be encouraged, at least until a more effective solution comes along.

Robocalls are a hazard, in so far as I have an elderly mother and do not give out my number to anyone that I do not want to talk to. So, when I gat a call, I go to extremes to answer it, thinking it might be about my mother, but it is often a robocall!

I believe that it is our right to restrict calls to our private telephones, and believe the FCC should allow an avenue on which to do this.

Nomorobo has been an unmatched resource, helping take back some measure of peace in our home. Robocallers coopt the phone line I pay for to their own purposes. This is a theft, allowed by legislature. The do not call list is a joke. Nomorobo works.

Robocalling is a horrible invasion of citizens' peace and tranquility, and should be banned completely!
Do not merely allow robocall blocking, but REQUIRE support for such from all Telco's and RBOCs!

Robert Blackledge
Colorado Springs, CO

I am physically unable to "run" to the phone to answer every time it rings. All too often, it's a survey taker, political solicitation, better interest rate offerings, to name a few. These are calls where a message isn't left. If I'm THAT important to them they should leave a message and if I'm interested, I'll call back. Too many scams. My phone allows me to block 10 numbers. I need to block more... I LOVE, LOVE, LOVE my robocall blocking program. If I haven't solicited the business, they're blocked and I don't need to speak or worry about them. This is my phone, my phone service and I solicited the business of nomorobo. They rock.

it's ridiculous that I have to be constantly harassed by robocalls. I pay for my phone service and ought to be able to have some say in how it is used. Just yesterday i had 14 calls from solicitors of some sort. It's gotten to the point where I have to screen calls to avoid being bothered. Junk mail through the postal service is bad enough, now we have to endure it at all hours of the day on our phones.

Consumers need all tools possible to stop Robocalls. These calls most often timed for when families return home from work and school are relentless and disruptive. The callers offer nothing but scamming, pushing, and selling. Not only extremely disruptive within the home these calls prey upon vulnerable people. At one time the phone was used as a method of communicating with legitimate businesses, families and friends, and emergency notifications. The ring of the phone used to be welcome. The FCC should step up and help consumers deal with this nightmare. Allow call blocking services and educate consumers on their availability ...".the only solution should not be unplugging the phone.

Please make it easier to block robocalls on my home phone and cell phones. They call my kids' cell phones, they call my house phone, they use locations that would be familiar to me. And if you do by chance answer one and get a live person, they become rude when you ask them to stop calling. Even to the point of using profane language. The Do Not Call list does not stop them.

There has to be a way for rude, obnoxious, lawbreaking companies to be blocked.

Phone solicitations have become ridiculous. They have now have Nomorobo to give me some quiet. It wastes my time to answer the phone and then hang up when I realize it's a robocalls. Productivity is being lost here and only NoMoRoBo is doing something about.

I have been called at midnight repeatedly from the same fax machine and the company that is sending the calls has not stopped despite at least six calls from me to ask them to desist. My machine allows me to block no more than ten numbers. We are called by pharmacies, medical supply companies, electric company sales, credit card offers, and politicians, to name a few. the National Do Not Call list is not working! Our family no longer answers the phone in the evening since we receive so many unwanted calls. We have signed up for the FCC "Do not call list", however this does not seem to make much of a difference. Why should our PRIVATE and UNLISTED phone line be inundated with telemarketing calls? WE DO NOT WANT ANY OF THESE TYPE CALLS--EVER.

Since enlisting Nomorobo, we now get much fewer unwanted calls. I support this service, especially since the FCC, of all entities, does not seem to be able to control this type of unwanted calls.

It is critical that I be able to block to ovals made to my phone numbers. Before I was able to block my calls, my answering machine would be filled with chatter from robocallers-- thereby making important callers that I needed to hear from unable to leave a message. We have Nomorobo on our land lines thru Uverse and it really works and saves us from unwanted calls especially in the early morning hours between midnight and 4 am, waking us up, and also around 5 to 6am.

However, AT&T refuses to let us block calls thru Nomorobo. Why? Do they have a financial interest in NOT letting us block robot calls on our own phones which we pay for? who is the fcc actually protecting? Consumers or the phone companies???

Marilyn Mendoza

Constantly receiving robocalls is very annoying. I paid extra money to have my phone number unlisted but I still get calls. I put my number on a "do not call" list and I still get those calls. These calls are a big issue for my elderly parents. My mom has dementia and wants to answer the phone and talk to the robo-callers! This is so dangerous to our elderly society, especially when they are experiencing diminished cognitive skills to get themselves out of being conned into spending their money needed for medicine and healthcare. Please allow a procedure to stop these calls!

Presently 3 out of every 4 calls I receive are robocalls - or scams from various people with "thick" accents. This has become intolerable. I have missed some important calls because I didn't recognize the number and thought it was a scam (doctor's appt).

PLEASE allow blocked robot calls! They are relentless! You can't get them to stop calling! I feel like it's a form of harassment that I should have some control over! One call keeps saying it's my last chance - please God if it were only my last chance! They have to be made to STOP! Before nomorobo I would get 10 to 12 of these nuisance calls a day. Now one ring and we're done. They have to be allowed to continue! A consumer should have the right to block what are unwanted and harassing calls!!! PLEASE!!!

No more annoying robocalls

I am 100% in favor of robo call blocking. I use NOMOROBO and love not having to worry about annoying telemarketing calls. Even though I am on the Do Not Call list, many telemarketers ignore this. Please reject the idea of eliminating robo call programs / applications.

David Walsworth

I get several robo calls every day even though my number has been on the "do not call" list for several years. Since I pay for my phone service I should be allowed to block unwanted robocalls. In fact, I believe that all robocalls should be blocked unless I specifically give my permission to the caller.

Forrest Jaggar

I hate robo calls and should have the right to block them if I choose!!!!

We have had NOROBCALL for a few years! It has saved us many many getups and time that would have been required to answer these calls that we did not want or need.

Robocalls are a BIG PAIN and I receive on average 3 per day and it's getting worse !! Blocking robocalls should be available from all phone companies with no additional charge !!

I currently use a robocall blocking product that 'shields' my home from annoying phone calls. I do not want to have that option taken from me by the FCC.

I appreciate the FCC allowing me the freedom of choice regarding the use of a robocall blocking product.

I think it is ridiculous for telemarketers to call someones cell. That is why so many people have gone to them so they get away from the junk calls. I do not want to be bothered by them.

I can't believe that I pay for my phone service, but I continue to receive unwanted robo calls. Will caller id I usually don't even pick up but I hate having the phone ringing or the beeping in while I'm on another call. I have medical issues which make moving around quickly and I can't tell you how often I've rushed to the phone only to see it is a robo call. Why are these calls allowed when they are so annoying, yet I am paying for my phone service? I've thought the Do Not Call registers. Was going to help eliminate unwanted calls, but I've verified that I'm on this list and I continue to get call and even if I answer and select the option to removed, I'm not, I would love to have robocall blocking, however I would want to make sure it is covered in basic phone service. I don't think I should have to pay extra for this type of product. I often wonder my phone number is gotten, I have no relationship with most of the calls that I have answered. A robo call saying they have news about my credit card is one that I receive often, if I wait for a representative and ask what card number they are calling about, they hang up. The recording is the same (voice and all) but different numbers so I can't even block them by number. I also get calls just about every day from a caller id of consumer services but with different numbers. This is very frustrating, I'm paying for a phone line but I have to screen calls even though I rarely give out my number

We get multiple unwanted telemarketing/spam calls every day, at all hours of the day and night. My wife works from home and cannot have interruptions with our phone line. We rely on a robocall blocking mechanism.

My life has gotten better since I have used a robocall blocker. The number of calls I get has decreased. It is nice not being interrupted during a meal (when most robocall occurs).

We have been bombarded with robocalls during last year's political campaigns, but my wife and I put up with it thinking it would cease after the election. Stop Robo calls. It is costing me money for something I didn't ask for or want.

As a consumer I believe whatever phone companies we give our business to should be obligated to provide us with the ability to block all robo (robotic) calls. In this time of advanced technology I am quite sure this would not be a difficult thing for the phone companies to do, especially with the rates that we are paying. Which should be put to use for their greatest asset -- the customer. Thank you for your consideration which will benefit many, many more than not.

Downers Grove, IL

I like the ability to block the Robocalls. I have an aged ailing parent who lives in an assisted living. I need my phone lines clear to receive his calls and calls from the facility. When I am not caring for him I sleep when I can and the robocalls are a constant annoyance, they do not respect the do not call list.

NOMorobo has given me relief from these calls.

I want to be able to block "robo" calls when ever and as often as I like. My telephone is not a public phone, it is a private telephone with a phone number assigned to me specifically and I want to control how I use it. My government has no right to interfere with my right to privacy and I resent your potential attempt to block that right.

Jeffrey J. Inwood

Please let me block these annoying calls. I opened my internet a few minutes ago and found 115 calls - 97 of which were unsolicited robocalls.

Palm Springs CA

Why do you tolerate this total abuse of the Do Not Call system? These jerks call daily, and often I get several calls in one day from a single source, Card Services. It is debilitating to stop what I am doing to answer these calls, and at age 70, I don't need my blood pressure to be any higher than it is.

How can you allow such widespread disregard of a law YOU are supposed to enforce? It causes our government to appear weak and powerless to prevent scammers from stealing our seniors' money. Shame on YOU.

Howard Upchurch

Stop to ovals. They are not only annoying but I have the right to choose who I don't want to receive calls from.

River Edge NJ

As a Verizon landline user, I'm unable to use services like NOMOROBO. I wish I could. I get multiple robo calls & scam artists calling just about every day. I have looked everywhere in an attempt to find something that will help stop these nuisance calls to no avail. They tie up your line for several minutes & that's not fair! It's MY phone! I am the one paying for it, so why am I being held captive by these jerks? Why can't I have an option that allows me to stop them cold? Now that these scammers can spoof caller ID records, the solution has to be more effective than just blocking numbers. I get the same robo message every day but always from a different number, so blocking wouldn't help at all. How about an option that blocks EVERYONE ON EARTH except the numbers you want to allow to get through? THAT would be HELPFUL! Please give us something for the hard working folks out there that are fed up!

Long Island NY

I am elderly and it is very unsettling to receive a call from myself - obviously a scam. Stop them.

The Federal "do not call" list is insufficient to stop annoying and illegal unwanted calls. Americans should have access to a central "no more robocalls" database. My wife and I are bombarded daily with telemarketers who ignore the "do not call" list. The same companies have hundreds or probably thousands of phone numbers they use so it's near impossible for individuals to block their unwanted and intrusive calls. Robocall blocking capability should be available to everyone.

Allen Benton & Valerie Coler

Both my home and cell phones have been registered with the Do Not Call List for years. Yet I still get unsolicited calls from vendors and collection agencies (who got my number by error). In both instances I am asked to take a specific action (press xxx to be removed from the list or call back) in order to stop these automatic robo calls. I am thankful I signed up with NoMoRobo to intercept many of these annoying calls. What I hear is an initial ring followed by blessed silence. I am 73 years old, a military veteran and retired public school teacher. I resent efforts to hinder my ability to screen unsolicited telephone contacts. Thank you.

I get daily calls from "credit card services" and I don't even have a credit card. I want to be able to control which calls I get on my cell phone. Please help!

Before we had the service provided by robocall blocking solutions, my household and family were inundated with fraudulent phone calls from a variety of scams. We were told that our computers had viruses, called about insurance we didn't need, and products we didn't want. We have been registered with the "do not call" list for years, but this did not alleviate the problem. We as law abiding, tax paying, voters want you to hear our voice, and our voice says, force the phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers.

Thank you

Dear sirs and madams. We had been receiving home repair calls, sometimes ten a day. We still get prank calls, but with Nomorobo, it has cut drastically these scheme callers and illegal solicitations. There were callers that even were hostile, threatening, refused to remove our unlisted phone number from their lists. We even got phony people posing as government agents from the IRS and other agencies threatening us. A check of the net and the phone number revealed them to be national scammers yet they got our unlisted phone number. Nomorobo helped to stop these callers. Please keep this service to protect our family.

Allen Banks
Ossining, New York

Robocalls are both an invasion of my privacy and a tremendous waste of my time. I conservatively estimate that about half of the inbound calls on my phone lines are robocalls. They interrupt both my work and home life.

If I instead let these calls go to voicemail, they almost never leave a message. If they do leave a message, the beginning of the message is almost always cut off because they don't wait to hear if the call is answered before they start their recorded message.

At least with spam email we can mark the senders and send their emails automatically to the Junk Email folder. Why shouldn't we be able to do the same with junk phonecalls?

Eric Friedman

Please let me block robocalls. I get at least 3 every day. Whatever happened to the do not call list?

I cannot imagine losing the benefits of nomorobo! Why would you force me to be subjected to predatory telemarketers invading my home?

Anthony Trombly

My phone # is, by definition, mine to control as I see fit. I have every right as a consumer to filter what enters my home via any and every electronic method. Blocking any call I determine as intrusive clearly is my perogative. The consumer, not an industry, should be whom the FCC seeks to protect.

Mark Miller
Uniontown Ohio

Robocalls are a huge nuisance because I am constantly interrupted to answer the phone only to find out its an automated call or I just hear silence for a minute or 2. The robocalls average 5 per day. Its a problem for me because I work from home and need to concentrate. Instead I am answering robocalls all day! A couple of times I have lost important calls because I have to put my clients on hold to aswer a robocall.

San Diego, CA

robo calls are rude. aggressive and when you get someone and ask to have your number removed, they hand up without a response. they always call you back over and over. before nomorobo I was getting 10-15 per day, now maybe 1 or 2 a month. we as prescriber should be able to have a choice in whom calls us.

Despite being on both the Wisconsin State and the National "Do Not Call" registries, we receive numerous (averaging 2 - 6 every day) unwanted soliciting phone calls, most of them Robocalls. We try to block these calls even though having to block them is an inconvenience because some of our medical providers' calls are blocked, too, but the problem is so bad we don't feel we can just put up with them.

Please do everything possible to protect telephone users from this horrible flood of unwanted/inconvenient phone calls. Certainly we need to be able to block Robocalls as part of the solution since it seems unlikely anything will be done to reduce the volume of these calls.

I would like to continue using Nomorobo Calls product. We get approximately 4 to 5 calls a day. They start as early as 9 am to 9 pm. I continue to enter numbers to keep them at bay. They continually change their call numbers necessitating the weekly adding of new numbers.

Sometimes the calls are silent with no one there, disturbing us with nothing to say

Jan & Howard Bemis

Freedom of speech is one thing but not when I pay for my phone. Phone companies have no right to profit from telemarketers and profit the second time from the consumer. To be without recourse is ludicrous. Instead of supporting the phone companies the government needs to support the consumers who elected the government representatives.

Robocalls need to be stopped. We are seniors and constantly bothered with calls that interrupt our privacy. Our phone is important to us as we are in frail health and have relatives out of state that we need to reach and need to reach us. Any time we have to answer a robocall it is upsetting to us and invades our privacy. Please put a stop to these unwanted calls. Thank you.

To Whom it may concern, Just wanted to say, this is my phone, I pay a premium price for the service and I resent being contacted, on my private line, by Ribo calls in any form. I actually hate all unsolicited calls on this line. If I choose to sign up for a blocking program, my phone, my business, not yours! It must be frustrating for the marketers who went to the trouble to use, as often as possible, my phone number without my permission and a phone detour system interferes with their business.

So Sorry. I do not want their interference in my daily life. Huge Lobby business now active in this I imagine. I was not surprised that the voluntary Do Not Call Gov. List was OK but not enough so I turned my phone off, inconveniently.

After robocall blocking i was able to turn the phone on again. I do not want those people "breaking into my home".

I signed up for Do Not Call for my Father's phone number who was in Hospice at home. Brilliant. Wish we had robocall then.

Know I'm not alone taking a stand against this or there would not be such a response.

Donna Walter
Fort Washington, PA

There is no way you can stop robo calls unless you have websites like Nomorobo. These people call you even if you have telemarketing calls blocked by law. It,s so bad that if you make a law that said,s a customer cannot block robo calls than we will have our phone taken out and let the telephone companies bill someone else.

Alan Heffernan
Watertown, N.Y.

I believe in having the right to choose not to receive robocalls. This should be as publicized as the do not call list, which is actually less effective than Nomorobo because of all the loopholes. I will be keeping my land line because it's no longer a nuisance to me. All the worthless calls have gone away. You collect taxes on land lines, right? Make a smart move that will benefit the government and the consumers.

Dirk Doud
Danville, CA

I find it your efforts to not allow consumers the RIGHT to their personal(as well as cell) phone lines being free of Robo calls just another FINE example of you ALL not listening or giving a crap about consumers extremely foolish. Is it not enough that YOU STILL allow louder commercials on television and no consumer recourse... Please, we ALL know that the head of the (never working) FCC is a former LOBBYIST for Comcast. Have you appointed idiots EVEREVEN heard the term conflict of interest? No of course not you are a USELESS beaurocratic relic with only fighting anti-trust laws on your agenda. Shame on you !! Naughty white men haven't you gotten the message yet?You all should choke on your tax payer paid tones expensive lunches.

Get the Robo calls off my phone or we ALL will start a smear campaign even the Tea Party fools cannot rival. The American public should get rid of your antiquated asses anyway since it is clear you are on the take.What does your integrity go for these days you obscenely wasteful lazy pieces of smelly toilet waste. We're waiting. Your cheap fix of the do not call list is outdated and frequently goes unheeded by your own account.

WAKE UP before the public notices what double standard bloated toads you are... Remember conflict of interest can be applied Federally as well.

Robo calls are out of control. No call lists work for neither our home phone or mobile. Over the years my wife has found some callers outright frightening. Callers who say nothing. Callers who call almost daily. Sometimes multiple times daily. Businesses are so profit driven that requests to stop calling frequently are ignored. Time Warner blocked numbers and Nomorobo have been sanity savers. Nomorobo has been on our phone for about a week and the results have been amazing. PLEASE stop the predatory, heartless, callers. Please demand providers give us the tools to protect ourselves. Thank you.

We use Nomorobo call blocking and there are calls that try to get through every day that are blocked. There are 2 or 3 companies that we use to get calls from every day for the same service that we could not get rid of any other way, even if we talked to them and told them to stop. It was an invasion of our privacy because they knew that we are senior citizens and use deceptive messages to keep you on the line. Now the phone rings just once around lunch time every day and Nomorobo blocks the call.

Please do not take this service away.

We must have the ability to block unwanted calls from computer based telephone sales calls. I am old and have mobility problems, and my dear wife was bed bound, while I was personally providing her with full time care. The unwanted sales pitches were unwelcome, intrusive, and persistent, in spite of my repeated requests to remove me from their call list.

I was receiving 6-8 of them per day. Fortunately I have a digital telephone connection and able to use Nomorobo. Now I rarely get any of those calls. That ability should also be available for people on regular, non-digital phone lines.

Robert Rayburn

We constantly get calls from 800-Service and several others despite being on the no-call list. Sometimes they come every 15 minutes from the same caller. It is so irritating having your phone ring with these robo calls. Please help!

Sandy Harris
Vacaville, CA

Because I have both a digital voice option from Verizon I can see a list of all calls that come in, regardless of whether they were blocked (I can block 10 numbers--I have to keep rotating which get blocked) or whether Nomorob blocks them. Most days I get at least 5 unwanted calls. Some call almost every day. Why wouldn't the Federal government give me the option of blocking all robocalls ???

Washington DC

My wife and I are senior citizens. We receive an average of 8 unwanted calls per day, from people or organizations/businesses with whom we have no relationship nor do we want any.

We have anonymous call block turned on with our carrier, but that doesn't stop the rest. We have been on the Federal "Do Not Call" list since it was first established and still are shown on it.

I believe that it should be mandatory that all public telephone carriers provide call blocking services, under customer control, so that we and others can selectively denote unwanted phone numbers as "blocked" and never hear another peep from them.

I really don't care if the callers are religious, political or business. If I don't want to hear from them, that is my choice, not theirs.

Tom & Sue Banes

Dear FCC:

Please decide for consumers by allowing us to block robocalls and unwanted nuisance callers. Phone companies have been allowed too long to let these calls, most of them scams, to make their way through. They need to provide existing technology to help us block them.

Not a week goes by that I didn't have to report some diabetes or other scam aimed at seniors to the Do Not Call list. Many of these calls continue. There has to be a way for us to limit them.

John Paul Altieri

My phone is used for communication with my friends, family and people I know. I am really irritated by hang up robo calls at all hours day and night and someone trying to sell me something that I don't want. Robo calls are a complete nuisance. I have my sanity back!! I was so happy to hear about nomorobo. It was making my husband and I crazy with all the telemarketing, politcal and stupid calls we got constantly all hours of the day and as late as 9:00 at night. Phone solicitations have become ridiculous. They have now have Nomorobo to give me some quiet. It wastes my time to answer the phone and then hang up when I realize it's a robocalls. Now I wait for the second ring if Nomorobo allows it. It GREATLY reduces my wasted time. I would prefer if the FCC would enforce DoNotCall lists. Productivity is being lost here and only NoMoRoBo is doing something about.

Being able to block robocalls on my home has proved to be a great feature. I do not have any desire to listen to calls made from a computer. I strongly urge you to all the blocking of robocalls on mobile phones as well. I don't want to use up valuable minutes listening to these calls or even being interrupted by these types of calls.

Thank You.

I pay for a phone that is for my personal use. If I don't want to receive calls from people trying to sell me something, I shouldn't have to get those calls! The same applies to organizations that are trying to get me to donate to their cause, or political organizations recruiting me and/or my money.

Jean and John Tieppo

Robocalls calls are a constant source of harrassment and, as a consumer, it is my right to block these calls from my phone which I purchased and own. The government has no right to impose any restrictions on a device that I have purchased with my own money!

First Rob calls should be Outlawed, along with All telemarketing calls. Your organization is a Joke we sign up to have these calls block, but again you've failed to do your job. I can only Wish we could show how get your numbers both Home and office put on all the machines to brother you.

If it wasn't for robocall blocking, I would have changed our number a long time ago. Ever since getting this number 5 years ago, the calls were nonstop! They continually ask for the former owners of the number. There is nothing you can do to get them to stop calling. They sell the numbers to others and it just keeps going. It is never ending. I daily have to block the callers.

If you stop number blocking, be ready to give out thousands of new numbers! We may have to get rid of our landline phones altogether!

Keep robocall blocking products! Thank you,

Paul and Sherry Stephenson
Santa Clarita, California

I think the preponderance of robocalls appearing on my telephones must certainly violate some of my constitutional rights. Possible arguments might be made citing the 1st, 8th and 9th amendments. I should be able to count on my tax-payer funded government representative(in this case the FCC) to protect my rights of privacy and personal freedom and give me the tools to block this unwanted intrusion in my communication links.

James Wisner

My wife and I are retired, and we're thinking about dropping our landline phone service.

Do you know why? We've been on the government's "Do Not Call" list for years, but even so, companies offering everything from "travel discounts" to storm windows are skirting the law and having their computers call us. The worst is that every year around election time our phone rings constantly with strangers asking personal questions about how we plan to vote. We used to ask patiently to be removed from their call list... but we've quit doing that since we learned that they get the list from the CURRENT VOTER LIST. That means we will NEVER get off of their call lists.

These constant calls are a burden for older people like us, many of whom are more likely to fall for slick ads and slick salesmen. The ability to make deceptive sales pitches is all that keeps them going. Please allow us to control our phones and free us from these unwanted intrusions into our lives.

We would rather keep our current phone lines. If, however, you can't or won't help us, the only solution we can think of is to disconnect our landline phones and depend more on our mobile phones, which receive these kinds of calls only rarely.

It's up to you. Do we keep putting up with the hassle of unwanted phone calls or do we pull the plug on the landline phone?

Please help the consumer block Robo Calls!

Kalamazoo, MI

I am in favor of re-starting ROBOCALL type call blocking through my telephone company (Verizon). The phone company appears to favor unrestricted intrusive phone marketing without any recourse by the residential consumer. The residential consumer should be able to switch off repeated phone calls that continue even after the calling party has been asked to stop calling. There is no good reason why phone calls selected by the recipient should remain unblocked. Please enact laws and provide an easily accessible and simple blocking process to protect residential customers from this form of public harassment.

Silver Spring, Maryland

I do not want to receive robocalls. They occur as early as 8 a.m. and as late as 9 p.m. Many of the calls are scams particularly aimed at senior citizens like me. Please do not stop my availability to have these calls blocked.

I need the ability to block these telemarketers who are a very large nuisance. They call at all hours of the day and night, on my home phone, office phone and personal cell phone, and are very rude.

Lily Badalamenti

I hate robocalls the do not call list is a joke. I had to purchase a device to block calls. Make the phone companies let us block these calls.

John Werner

I find robocalls extremely annoying and would like to be able to block them. Please make this possible.

lantana, fl

Try not to live up to my expectatioms FCC. Criminals troll your phone communication lines, victimizing the weak and pestering the rest of us. I don't expect the government to fix anything, but the least you can do is get out of the way.

Edgewood, KY

I will disconnect my landline if the FCC does not allow me to block the annoying, obnoxious robocalls I constantly receive. If it weren't for Robocall blocker I would have disconnected my landline years ago. Why should I pay for telemarketers constantly barraging my privacy with unwanted calls They totally disregard and ignore the National Do No Call Registry that is SUPPOSED to block such calls.

NoMoRobo has been a blessing!!!

Walter Watson
Santa Clarita, CA

A major annoyance and waste of time are robocalls. In some cases when expecting an important call from a doctor or hospital, a robocall can be more than just a nuisance and be actually dangerous. The telephone service that the consumer pays for should not be hijacked by telemarketers. This is especially true for cell phone minutes. Phone companies should make available blocking services for such unsolicited and potentially health threatening calls.

Nomorobo is GREAT!

I was sick and tired of receiving robocalls throughout the day and even into the evening on a daily basis. We had signed up several years back to a 'do not call' list but it never seemed to stop those annoying robocalls. I read about nomorobo in the NY Times, signed up for it and it HAS effective prevented these calls. PLEASE allow it to continue for the sake of peace and sanity.

I use NOmorrobo call now on my home phone. The phone companies are not blocking the calls I am and it is my number and I pay the bill..

Mike davis

I am so sick of being on the state and federal do not call list, and still getting frequent robocalls. The phone number is blocked, so there is no way I can lodge a complaint with the regulatory bodies. The robocallers know it, and taunt me about being able to call me when they want to. The nomorobocall app allows me to block the robocallers., unlike the worthless do not call lists I have enrolled in.

Ray Holderman
Largo,FL

Blocking robo calls should be a consumer choice. The government should allow and encourage phone companies to offer this service to consumers at no additional cost.

Rockwall, Tx

Robocalls are a nuisance. People should be in control over what is allowed to come into their homes. The FCC should require phone companies to give customers options to block robocalls - rather like the Spam key on computers.

Dawn McCormick
Illinois

I hate the fact that I pay for phone service, and I'm bothered by companies I have no interest in because they want my money. I love the Nomorobo service. It works!

Please let me block robocalls. they are worthless, inconsiderate and annoying with no positive value.

If I (or we) don't want unwanted robocalls from businesses or, get this, political calls, why should we have to put up with them? Isn't this an invasion of privacy?

Lakeland, FL

Robocalling is not a right, it is an attack on privacy. Marketers who use robocalling are scammers and cons and need to be stopped. Act for the public interest and ban robocalling. If you don't, I should be able to block robocalls with products that can. My right to privacy is more important than some solicitor trying to scam me out of money. I am tired of being hassled by telemarketers who use robocalling. Do something about it.

Richard and Grace Rinner
Elmhurst, IL 60126

We are sick & tired of these robo recorded messages and most important we don't even know who is calling or where they have no name or no. either so to speak!! We pay our phone bills just like everyone else and won't you to fix this where it will be a thing of the past!! We have tried the "Do not Call no" numerous times & they only ignore it just a mother promise that is a fake!! We want it stopped by blocking products & requests calls we are not interested in in the first place!!

Tuscaloosa, Al.

Robocalls are a nuisance and waste our time. The phone companies should provide robocall blocking as a free service to the customers. We do not have a phone so that we can get all of the advertisements these robocalls want us to listen to. We are intelligence enough to go out and solicit the services we want. Stop the nuisance!!!

Dave Mueller
Camarillo, Ca.

Despite registering my phone number on the National Do Not Call Registry, I was still getting a large number of unwanted phone calls.

After registering my phone number with Nomorobo, the unwanted calls have DRASTICALLY decreased. I cannot understand why any phone company would want to block a service that has proven to be so beneficial to those who use it.

Sylvia Brooks
Fort Washington, MD

Robocalls are destroying our quality of life. We get them all day. Everyday.

From all manner of sleaze artists. FCC _ PLEASE DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS

I am very disgusted with having my personal space invaded by annoying robocalls. I use the currently available "nomorobo" and wish that it could be even more effective. Obviously the "do not call" list provided by the government is meaningless and totally unenforced.

Al Cerulo Jr.
Rockaway, NJ

Nomorobo service is keeping me from being completely insane. I get a call identified as (Unknown 1) regularly twice a day or more. Before Nomorobo I would answer and no one was there. Now it only rings once and is hung up on by the service. I get many calls each day that Nomorobo hangs up on. I am on the national do not call list and on the state do not call list. That is not working. I do not want calls from people trying to sell me something. I heard that there was a prize given for the best way to control and or stop robo calls. What gives! My phone company has the ability to let my phone ring at 2 different numbers and Nomorobo has kindly taken a huge irritation out of my life.

Carole Johnson
Carson, CA

My husband and I have a hard time getting around and the robocalls are not only a nuisance but are also putting us at risk to answering calls that are not important.

Please pass a law to prohibit robo calls. they are useless calls anyway so we don't need them nor want them.

Arundel, Maine

I use Nomorobocalls and LOVE it. Every time I hear the phone ring just once I know that another unwanted phone call has been blocked. I have never NOT received a call I needed since having this service, and it IS a service, so I can only see an upside to having it continue in its present form.

Please help block ROBOCALLS

Bloomburg, TX

It is imperative that consumers be allowed the option of blocking robocalls. The calls are abusive and intrusive. The robocallers often call back 3 or 4 times in a short period of time if we do not answer.

Dena Chamison

actually nomorobo person you told me that I was no longer protected with you. So if you are going to congress that first you should protected those who are signed up with you. IF as you say its the phone company that is not doing blocking why is it my company has a system that blocks calls for me. Just wondering.

I want to use my phone to talk to friends and family, and to contact businesses when I choose. I do not want thieves, liars, other malicious phone users, unsolicited sales pitches or political calls. Nobody I want to talk to uses a robot to call me. Why should I have to hear the phone ring because of these sources? I want to be able to block all robocalls easily.

Harry Slocum
Buffalo, NY

There is nothing more frustrating than these robocalls! I feel as though they are taking control of my phone and my home. It is an invasion of my right to decide who has access to me or my home. There should be a simple option offered through the telephone carriers to "turn on" a robo block if they chose. Others can have the calls come through again IF they so choose.

Robocalls are intrusive and abusive.

Please don't let them continue without blocking products to help us have a fair chance.

Sally Witt
Yardley, PA

NoMoRobo is neat. It saves us a lot of time and aggravation. Do not let it go away.

Hudson, Ma.

I do not like RoBo calls and think they should be banned. They are an invasion of my privacy and an annoyance. My phone is for my personal use and I should not be bothered by unsolicited calls. I currently use a blocking service which does a pretty good job but occasionally calls do get thru. Solicitors are very annoying and should definitely be blocked. Please ban RoBo Calls!!!!!!

Debbie
Dayton, Ohio

Robocalls are annoying, time-wasting and, more often than not, a vehicle used for fraud! Before I signed up for NomoRobo, the majority of my calls were these automatic dialers. Now, I have the ability to let most of them pass by.

Even so, there are vendors out there who hide themselves behind actual subscriber names. WE NEED TO STOP THAT! And, I want my cell carrier to be required to offer robocall blocking products! It's my cellphone that I'm paying for and I should have control over who can and cannot call me!

Don't let the phone companies take away my ability to block unwanted calls. If it's because they want revenue, they can find a way to charge the robocallers for every call they make if they have the wherewithal to do so (and they do!).

Hillside, NJ

I am in favor of Robo call blocking. The fact that the telephone service is a monopoly should not give the phone company the right to invade my privacy. I purchase their service to enable me to make and receive only phone calls from those I want to receive them from as well as those I do not. Any service that would ensure that service meets my needs is a step forward.

While the phone company may hide behind any federal laws that might not allow them block calls their claim does not square with the fact that they may be making a fair amount of profit from selling their own call blocking services.

No call to my phone should force me to listen to any message or caller not of my choosing. If the phone company can't directly supply that service then those services that evolve to do exactly that should be allowed to do so.

Because the phone is a necessity we should not be forced to listen to callers and their interruptions at their will. Those of us who opt out of live sales calls should have the ability to do the same for those callers who decide to circumvent the "opt out" by Robo calling.

Please consider extending the opt out capability to include Robo calling whether blocked by the phone company or, if they choose not to, then by other services willing to step in and solve the problem for us outside of the phone company.

Tom Gulczynski
Houston, Texas

I have every right not to have telemarketing people calling me at 8am all day and at night till 9-10 pm

If I want to buy something or have my chimney cleaned or my roof done, I would pick up the phone and call someone to do it.

I'm sure congress and the FCC doesn't have to listen to there phones ringing all day long even interrupting our dinner.

I want to continue to block robocalls. It blocks out some of the calls but not all. I am the one that pays the phone bill not the FCC so I have every right to continue with blocking robocalls.

Thank you

Huntington, NY

We receive an average of 2-3 robocalls a day, sometimes as many as 5 in an afternoon. We receive even more in the weeks leading up to an election. I'm even starting to get them on my cell phone.

Please make them stop.

Services like NoMoRobo are nice, with its single ring to let us know that another robocall has been blocked. It seems to me, however, that the phone companies could very easily figure out who's making the calls and not accept them.

Preventing the robocall is better than blocking them after one ring.

Paul Hinkley
Lombard, IL

It's ann and an invasion of privacy with these robocalls

Mahwah NJ

I have been bombarded by solicitors robo- calling me at the most inconvenient times. I can't get the rest I need with the phone constantly ringing. It has got to stop! One rushes to the phone thinking it must be an emergency since they often call after 9 PM and early in the morning. I am not well and last month I slipped trying to get to the phone and hurt my hip. PLEASE, I NEED TO STOP THE CALLS!!!

Robot caller blockers such as Nomorobo are the first meaningful progress that I have seen in protecting the public from scammers. We noticed an immediate reduction in calls without messages and we no longer spend our dinner checking the caller ID. This is an important service and should be preserved.

Robocalls are a royal pain in the butt. I continually get unsolicited almost any time of the day or night. On most days my nomorobo system intercepts 3 calls and other days 7 or 8. I only wish I could block call from "Card Services" and other unsolicited caller like polititians and and alleged "uniformed service benevolent associations." Do not mess with a system that works for the a regular citizen.

Thanks,

I'm still - 8 years later - getting calls from Rachel at Credit Card Services. Recently they've been using a local exchange with a number 2 digits different from mine. It should be illegal to fake the origin of a call.

The situation has gotten to be absurd!! Our phone rings constantly with these robo calls! Many call from different numbers so blocking doesn't work....PLEASE get our phones back for us to use as we like, not some robot marketing scheme or scam!

These calls need to be stopped. I've tried being polite to these callers explaining I am disabled and it is difficult for me to reach my phone at times. I've told them I am not interested in their cause, products, or services and still they continue to call. Sometimes up to 3 or 4 times a day. These calls are a nuisance and I feel like the only solution is to not answer my phone. I pay for my phone service and should be able to use it to my liking. My phone provider does not allow me to block these calls and that is not acceptable.

I love Nomorobo and I think it should be an FCC requirement that all carriers enable their services to take advantage of blocking services like Nomorobo. In fact since I am paying an astronomical amount for my home and cellular phones should I not be in control of who I allow to call me?

Steve $ Jackie Holder

Robocalls attack at meal times, usually, and that makes them especially onerous. My at&t "service" does not permit a blocking service, and the "call blocking" feature is limited to six telephone numbers.

Please stop the robocall invasions of privacy by whatever means necessary.

i am sick of receiving many many robocalls every day...they never stop...

We have been using Nomorobo for over a year and it has provided a substantial decrease in the number of robocalls we receive (estimate 90-95% decrease). We have been on the national do-not-call list since it was first established, but like most consumers, we have still been bombarded by unsolicited robocalls from companies who blatantly choose to disregard the law. We have been so pleased with Nomorobo that we have tried to sign up family members and friends, but unfortunately most of their carriers don't allow the service. Given how effective Nomorobo is and how pointless the no-call list has been rendered by companies that choose to ignore it, we strongly encourage the FCC to require services such as Nomorobo be made available to all phone customers, landline and mobile. Thank you for your time and consideration.

California

It's time that you realize that all of these "Robo calls" are an invasion of privacy. These callers usually come across my phone as "Unavailable" or even "Private" so I'm not even able to call them back and have them remove me from their call lists. It's obvious that they are trying to sell something because they won't even leave a message. It's time you start protecting our privacy!!! I'd also like to know why and how they are allowed to call my " unlisted" number! This has got to be stopped and soon!

Buffalo, NY

Please let me continue using the NOMOROBO (Robocall blocking product) on my phone. It has reduced the number of calls I get and made my a lot easier. It catches at least 10 calls per day.

I know, because the calls that are blocked ring only once and when I check the associated number most of the time it is a disconnected number or the number for Immigration and Naturalization Service.

I get on the average of three to four robocalls per day. I don't answer most however, voice mail messages are left for me to erase, etc. I wish you would put a stop to these unwanted calls. Not only robocalls are annoying, but I get a number of live solicitations also. Strange, I'm on the do not call list and have made a number of complaints to no avail. I receive robo calls on my mobile phone numerous times a day. I tried to report violations when they occur, but it requires me to be at a computer, go to the reporting web page, fill out a form, and when all is said and done, it feels like nothing happens. Asking to be removed has done no good, and I suspect that the act of asking confirms me as a living person that can be marketed to on the other end of a phone line. Please do whatever is necessary to stop robo calls. There is no rational use for robo calls that I can think of that comes close to offsetting the harm they cause.

Jon A. Hallgrimsson

I signed up for do not call, it worked for awhile, now I'm getting as many annoying calls if not more than before. Please help to stop this invasion of my privacy!

Robocalls are extremely annoying and intrusive. , especially at 6:30 am and 10:00 pm, Sometimes they repeat at half hour intervals. The public should have control over their own phones especially considering what the phone providers charge plus every fee/tax whatever they add to pump up the rates. I think the phone companies don't want robocalls blocked because they make money from them as business clients. Norobocall products should be freely available to the public and phone companies should be required to provide opt-outs. This should include political robocalls as well.

Takoma Park, Md

I was sick & tired of telemarketer's robocalls, then I started using nomorobo.com to block allow of those Unwanted calls.

The government Needs to leave us alone & Not block

Nomorobo.com from doing what we want - Leaving us alone & bothering us with unwanted phone calls!

Orland Park Illinois

Stop robocalls completely! Almost all robocalls are cold marketing calls and have no meaning to the person called. We now never answer calls thanks to this issue. Thank goodness the cable companies have caller id on the TV so I can ignore the calls I have not initiated. If I want something, I will call. I do not want unsolicited calls at all!!!

Frank J Pelrine

Prior to getting Nomorobo I got up to 10 robocalls a day. Now, because of this free service, we may only receive two or three unwanted calls a week.

Please allow us to preserve the peaceful quiet in our home and protection against phone scammers we enjoy with Nomorobo. We can refuse to open the door to our home to unwanted solicitors, but we can't stop the phone from ringing without blocking services. Please continue to allow blocking robocall service.

I am sick and tired of receiving robo calls. I am about to give up my landline because most of the calls we receive, are robo calls. Some days it's one call after the other. You can't stay in bed late or take a nap in the middle of the day, because we are awakened by robo calls. If I don't recognize the number, I don't answer. But I still have to hear the phone ring. I DON'T WANT ROBO CALLS!!!! Period. I don't know why the FCC is having trouble understanding this. There can't be a single person on this universe that wants a robo call. Thank you!

Robocalls are rude, disruptive, and unwelcome forms of harassment.

another issue is unidentified calls! i do not consider " name not available" or " out of area" to be an identification! NAME AND NUMBER is identification! if that is not available then i dont want my phone to ring! period! Time warmer has a limit of 30 numbers that can be blocked....that is inadequate! I can totally understand why so many are dropping land lines.. we may be next! we value our privacy...please, if we do not welcome your call, go away!

Robo calls are annoying, useless, and a big waste of time and resources. It's an invasion of every Americans' daily lives. I setup my phone for real use and not a place for scheming "businesses" to harass, annoy, and/or make a quick buck off me. I think I speak for a majority of Americans, if not all of them.

Getting robo calls is like getting junk credit offers in the mail, useless flyers on your car's windshield, stepping on dog poo on your way to work, answering a salesperson at your door during dinner with your family. They are all unnecessary and everyone tries to avoid them and has the right to. So why can't we have the right to avoid robocalls by blocking them on OUR private property; our personal phones?

9 out of 10 calls that I receive are robocalls. I am so flipping sick of the calls. A lot of them are scammers. Something needs to be done to stop them!!!!!!!!!!!!

Steve Carlson

I want to choose who can call me and who can't!

It is difficult to fathom HOW MANY junk calls we get - for multiple reasons...first during election time. I vote - I make up my own mind and don't want repeated robo-calls at dinner time interfering with conversation and important activities. Apart from that we get MANY - way too many sales calls because we have a small business. The same companies call over & over all day long. It's terribly distracting and interruptive. If I pick up the phone & immediately hang up - they just call back. If I don't answer, they call back with a different area code and city listed. The problem has gotten out of hand and we Americans don't deserve this lack of respect. I used to try repeatedly to answer the calls and request removal of our name/number from their list, but that also is to avail. PLEASE HELP END THIS MADNESS.

Marilynn Kline
Austin, Texas

Please act to allow me to decline to be included on calls from robotic dialers and especially from recorded messaging and solicitation calls. I recognize that many of these calls are political in nature, and are paid for by special interest groups. Those special interests also support the election of the politicians who appoint your commission's leaders and pay your salaries. The reality is my taxes actually pay your salaries and I want to control whether or not I am targeted by these robotic call centers.

I am sick and tired of the public nuisance of robo calls. Not only do they tie up my phone line with nonsense that I have no interest in, but they are a constant disturbance to my day. It is my day, my time, and my phone line. Not only should they be illegal, but the perpetrators should be severely punished for treading on other people's right to peace and quiet in their own home. This is nothing but abuse that we are forced to tolerate.

Curtis J Schonher

It is simply unbelievable to hear phone companies claiming they are legally prevented from blocking robocalls. Is it possible that there is collusion between phone companies and companies making robocalls?

If i paid for the phone/device, I get to decide who calls me. Not some phone company nor the companies with whom i had legitimate business transactions. It is not them, it is I who get to decide.

Please ensure solutions like nomorobo is made available to all.

I'm getting a lot of unwanted calls some of them displays Private instead of their phone number or some just display 1 instead of the whole number. I like to keep Nomorobo because it blocks robocalls if it rings only once you know that is a robocall saving you time from getting up from bed or interrupting your dinner.

It is my phone I don't want my carrier to tell me to accept robocalls or stop me from blocking those robocalls.

We were receiving as many as 10 calls per day from the same company which seemed to be operating a scam. Options to opt out were not successful and talking with representatives proved fruitless. Only after we learned about nomorobo and call blocking were we able to get relief from these nuisance calls.

If a person or company needs to contact us for legitimate concerns, they still have the option to call us without robo dialing. Please do not prohibit call blocking.

Columbus OH

I feel that Robocalls are a total invasion of privacy. I want the right to block these phone calls.....they are annoying. If I do not want to hear from them, that is my right.....is this not the USA? Where are my rights?

Diane Minto

I hate robocalls. I want to opt out.

We absolutely live and use Nomorobo developed by Aaron Foss. Before we discovered this 100% effective robo call blocker our home privacy was interrupted EVERY nite between 5-9 PM at least 5x per nite by some worthless unsolicited out of state computer call peddling something. We have listed our phone on every do not call list with little result. We totally depend on Mr. Foss's software which should be available on every phone service in America. He should receive the metal of freedom for freeing us from these invasive irritating computer calls. I consider robo calls like a virus that must be kept out of my home. Do not allow robo call businesses or uninformed phone companies to take away the best defense against unwanted robo calls now available. Take whatever steps necessary to make Nomorobocall software available to everyone! David L. Sharrock in Sacramento, Calif. I would welcome any further discussion on this matter with any FCC member.

David I. Sharrock

It has come to my attention that phone companies are lobbying against the product, Nomorobo, which blocks robocalls. I do not know of anyone who particularly enjoys robocalls other than those who initiate those robocalls.

Before Nomorobo was introduced, I was inundated with constant telemarketing and solicitation calls. These type of calls can run up to 8 times per day. As a user of Nomorobo since the first day, I have not been inundated with unnecessary and useless telemarketing calls. It has made my quality of life better. I have also installed Nomorobo on two of my siblings' phone service and they can't give enough praise for Nomorobo. It is outstanding.

I request that phone users be given the option to continue using Nomorobo and not have Nomorobo be taken away from us.

We are so grateful that, as Verizon Digital Voice customers, we were eligible to sign on for the Nomorobo.com service. We used to be constantly bothered by unwanted computer-generated phone calls, especially at dinner time. Although we have caller ID and could identify unwanted callers, we still had to put up with the ringing. Now when the phone rings just once and then stops, we look at each other and say, "Thank you, Nomorobo!" This was a lifesaver during the political campaigns last fall.

Carolyn Sutterfield

Robocalls are the same thing as auto dialers which you said were illegal for telemarketers to use to call people. By consumers having the RIGHT to block these scammers which is what most of them are, since they are using cellphones, VoIP, and even numbers that have been previously registered to land line owners to make their BS calls. You have cut back on way too many things over the years. First it was with CB and your lack of cracking down on all of these illegal CB radios. One look on facebook in the CB radio groups and you can see all of these illegal radios and amps that are being pictured and such. But back to the Robo calling, Im sure everyone of you has a way of blocking calls from these idiots from calling your home, business and cell phone numbers so why cant we? ITS DAMNED ANNOYING to have my phone ring at all hours of the day or night only to find out that its some BS gimmick or scam. Its bad enough with the Political calls which we cant block as they are BS also. Do something right for a change and DO NOT allow these LOW LIFES the ability to call anyone they want. Your DO NOT CALL list is bullshit too. That's how the Robocaller gets around that. Since its not a person dialing, they don't care and they do not respond to removing numbers from their list. On Thanksgiving and Christmas, Days meant for spending time with family We received 40 calls in a matter of minutes from first Bill Gates, then Donald Trump saying we won millions and it took me telling him each time that he had reached the FBI Field Office and US Marshall's Office and the local Sheriff's Department that they finally quit calling. And yes it was a ROBO CALLER, calling with a BLOCKED caller ID, from most likely a VoIP number (Vonage, MagicJack, BasicTalk or some DSL or Broadband provider like AT&T, Verizon, etc). Im one million percent against Robo callers and with such services as Nomorobo, I no longer had to worry about idiots like that calling. Unfortunately this service doesn't work for landlines and Cell phones companies that do not offer a service known as SimulRing (Vonage offers it) as this cut back on 99% of the Telemarketers, hang ups as soon as the Answering Machine or VoiceMail picks up. and we were never disturbed again.

Its time to listen to consumers and DO YOUR JOB protecting and regulating what you should, Just as its illegal to use illegal amplifiers on the CB frequencies, it should be just as illegal if not more for any business in the USA to use ROBO dialers and all business regardless what they do should be mandated to have their caller ID info displayed to better avoid this mess. Yes Congress shouldn't have De-Regulated CB and they should regulate this or force you, the Federal Communications Commission to do your job in enforcing laws, and rules pursuant to any type of communications, Even the ham bands are now being cluttered with robo trash. Take a listen sometime on 14.313MHZ and listen to the guy in Florida cuss and jam the Canadian

Robo blocking products should be legal and allowed 10000000000% since it seems you aren't very well interested in enforcing anything else when it comes to communications

I do not think people have the right to contact me to sell something I am not interested in. If I want to buy something I will call them myself. When you get those sales calls and tell them your not interested, they keep calling you back over and over again.

Bergenfield, NJ

to the members of the FCC - I'll bet that at least one of you and probably all of you, have anonymous call rejection - robo calls are even worse. I get calls asking me how I'm doing and when I say terrible they say "that's nice" some the calls a humourious but most are irritating. My fiance is a registered nurse (working different shifts) and likes to be able to sleep in on certain days and telemarketers, etc. seem to know when to call to piss her off.

Since I have gotten on medicare, I keep getting calls for medical suppliers asking me, and some in a very pushy manner, ifl like them to send me a back or knee or theigh or other type of appliance. 2 years ago I had a swollen knee and since then people call me about my knee.

Some medical venders, utilities services etc call to talk me into changing services. When I tell them I'm not interested, most of them just hang up rudely but never seem to take my number off their lists.

Please, NO MORE ROBOCALLS.

Please allow easy access to robocall blocking solutions. Robocall telemarketers are a very large problem for many Americans. We should be able to control whether they are allowed to continuously interrupt our families.

Jason Ziegler

I wonder why authorities do not close down this problem.

Perhaps these people have a vested interest in maintaining their ability to operate.

Perhaps they don't care if there interrupted with this crap.

With some exceptions (emergency, medical or political) most robocalls are unwanted and fraudulent commercial invasions of privacy.

My home is much more peaceful now that most robocalls are blocked.

It should be my choice as to whether or not I want to block annoying robocalls. It should be illegal for companies to be able make these calls anyway. Let us decide if we want to block these calls by using robocall blocking products.

Even though I'm on the National No-call List, I still get scammers calling me on a daily basis. I would really like my cable company, Consolidated Communications, to be able to interface with NoMoRobo in order to block these unwanted calls before I get annoyed by having my home phone ring. Please do this A.S.A.P.

Please let robocall people do their work.....by getting rid of all nuisance calls. They are a hindrance to our freedom, by invading our privacy in more ways than one. They seem to be impossible to control. LET THEM DO THEIR WORK, ONCE AND FOR ALL FOR EVERYBODY!!!!!!!!!!

Thank you.....

It seems like NOW is the time to limit unwanted calls (both robo and all others that should be covered by the so called National No Call list).

I, for one, do not see how any merchant or marketer, should be allowed access to my home without my express consent. Robo calls have decreased somewhat since signing up for No-Robo. Unfortunately, the unwanted calls received on my No-Call phone numbers now number over 900 in the last three years, and yes I keep a log of the numbers that are calling.

The rights of the citizens should far outweigh the needs of the merchants. "Don't call me I'll all you" is my personal feeling. Enough!

I'm retired so most of the day I'm home, especially in the winter. Without exaggeration I get at least 12 calls a day from 800 numbers. One is a call from "Rachael" from my our called credit card company. Do you know how annoying it is to constantly receive these calls? Especially when one is in the middle of something and has to run to the phone. Thank God for NOMOROBO. Now we still get the calls but the phone rings once so we know its an unsolicited call being blocked. Why is the FCC is against blocking these calls? Probably like everything else in our government, some lobbyist is making on the deal. No one cares about the general public any longer. It's special interest groups that run our country. Next the FCC will be taking down talk radio.

Blocking Robocalls has improved my quality of life.

Each time my phone rings only once I thank NOMOROBO for the blocking of this type of call and allowing me to continue doing what I was doing and not being interrupted by unsolicited sales pitches.

Please ask phone company's to allow the blocking of unsolicited calls so more people can get on with the business at hand and not be subject to the daily interruptions of robocalling.

I don't like my dinners and Sunday morning breakfasts interrupted by telemarketing calls that I do not want. Anything to block these calls from intruding on my privacy would be greatly appreciated!!

Robocalls are very annoying.

They interrupt sleep, meal-time and other calls.

Many are scam callers and if you actually get to a "real" person, they can be rude, actually using the F--- word.

I'm paying for my phone and phone service and as such, have a right to privacy.

Please stop Rachel and her ilk now!

Thanks.

I don't answer my home phone anymore. I screen all my calls as they are all robocalls or telemarketers. I am in favor of anything to stop these annoying calls. Thanks.

Stop these calls!!!! I am getting sick of the stupid calls. Stop Stop Stop

Let me keep my nomorobo so I can keep my land line with its' superior voice quality.

If not I will have to cancel the line and default to my mobile phone.

The number of robo calls are totally unacceptable. I was actually expecting the major operators to do something about it. The no-call list doesn't work any longer.

I have set up Nomorobo for my elderly mother. She is disabled and on bed rest. For years she was constantly disturbed by robo sales calls when she was resting, and it caused an enormous amount of distress for her. I programmed her phone with Nomorobo and it solved the problem. As consumers we have a right to restrict these incoming junk sales calls from disturbing our peace in our homes. I ask that you please address this problem with careful and serious consideration. As taxpayers we have a right to peace and privacy in our homes. Restricting robocalls is no different than filtering spam on your computer, junk mail in your mailbox , or putting a "no solicitors" sign on your front door. Please work to ensure our continued ability to utilize Nomorobo and other similar tools to protect our rights to peace and privacy in our homes. Thank you.

I like being able to block robo-calling..it can be extremely annoying to have your phone ringing every few minutes while trying to spend time with my family..so please allow us to be able to continue to block them.

Salem, New Jersey

Robocalls are annoying, waste both my time and the telemarketers, and NEED TO BE OUTLAWED! Oh wait, they are... so why are we having this debate? It's obvious that you, the FCC, are unable and unwilling to enforce your own laws. And now you want to take down companies like Nomorobo that enable the consumer to enforce them? Why would that be, unless you are in the pocket of the rich like the rest of our government. Don't be part of this once great country's slide into medieval fiefdom. Stand up for the little guy, and reward options like Nomorobo. Stop this unwanted intrusion into our homes NOW!

Gary McCarter

We have been receiving multiple robocalls per day for months. Our phone line is set to block calls from unknown callers, but this does not help. If we use our phone company's call screening service to block a particular number, the robocallers just call back the next time by displaying a different caller ID number, and the phone company limits us to only blocking 20 phone numbers this way. This type of persistent ongoing harassment from robocallers should be illegal. Any phone companies that support this are doing so simply because they are making money from the robocallers and things like wasted cell phone minutes from the robocallers' victims.

Thankfully, technology like the kind used by nomorobo can reduce the number of robocalls that get through, but it needs to be deployed on a much larger scale with full support from the FCC and the phone companies to be effective. Just as automatic spam filters are now a critical part of nearly every major email service, automatic call filtering services like nomorobo should be widely deployed and accessible to customers of every major phone company to combat spam phone calls. Thanks to the FCC and companies like nomorobo, we have the technology to solve this problem. Let's take it to the next level and increase the effectiveness of these spam call filtering services, and make it easy for everyone to block these nuisance calls.

Was told by this guy he was a irs representative and that they did an audit recorded error or shortage of $5981 from tax year 08-13. Said couldn't hang up phone or put on hold. I couldn't call anyone else. Said I could pay and all accounts would be cleared. If I didn't resolve in next hour my case would be turned over to local sheriff office and liens would be put on property and accounts and my paycheck . I was told to go to bank withdraw money then go to Kroger or speedway purchase multiple Green Dot Money Pack cards in $500 increments I had to stay on the phone with him the whole time but not let others know I asked why I couldn't log in online to IRS and make payment he got mad I drove to police dept and said if this is legit talk to the police handed phone to police he hung up

I have had another number calling my home line, I did a reverse look-up and found it was another robo company they call every evening.

Please require that phone companies provide optional robocall blocking features to their customers. Better yet, also implement changes that would reduce the number of robocalls that happen in the first place, INCLUDING political calls during elections. I consider these calls to be an invasion of privacy and in some cases harassment. We have received up to 10 robocalls in a day, about half of which are now blocked by Nomorobo.

Currently my robocall blocking product (Nomorobo) stops approximately 5-10 calls a week to my home. This has significantly improved my life since both my wife and I work from home.

However I still receive at least a couple of spam robo calls a week on my cell phone. I would very much like to employ a similar robocall blocking product on my cell phone as well but I understand you are preventing that.. QUIT PROTECTING THE ROBOCALL SPAMMERS and allow me to have some protection for my cell phone.

Hunter Vegas

The robo callers are scofflaws that flaunt their ability to technically abuse the system to make untraceable unwanted calls that disturb households all hours of the day. The do not call registry is ineffective and there is no enforcement mechanism nor willingness to fund one that apparently works in the consumer's interest in robo caller cases. Consequently, they run rampant. If the FCC had gone so far to sponsor a contest to innovators to develop effective solution to the problem why in the world stop short of getting a recognized effective measure implemented? Regulatory authority to mandate carriers to adopt the technical means necessary should exist. If not, then the commission's strong lobby with Congress to make the necessary legal corrections to save the concern of the telephone carriers is essential. By all means this must stop. Do not permit this tyranny to continue.

Jay Burzak

Please allow robocall blocking solutions to consumers! Our phones should be equipped with solutions to allow consumers to block these menacing calls! The do not call registry alone does block these calls; they find ways around the laws so we should have additional abilities to STOP them!

I am a senior citizen who answers at least 3 soliciting calls each and every day. I'm totally tired of these pests. I am retired cannot afford sales pitches and STILL they call.

Several months ago I went through the nomorobo and it has been wonderful peace and quiet. One ring and gone.

How could this be wrong. Blocking these types of calls gives us the CHOICE of answering or not, which should be important to the government which is supposed to be of, by and FOR the people!!!

Rockville, MD

With Time Warner Cable I am able to use Nomorobo to block robocalls, but my elderly (101!) father has Cox and they do not offer call forwarding with "answer anywhere" so he has to worry about not falling every time he goes to answer a useless phone call. All his carrier offers is a 30 call block list, with which you have to receive each unwanted call before you can block it. Only while it was the last number on your caller ID, however. Comcast does not offer this service either, and they want to buy TWC so I imagine our rights to manage our phone will be threatened as well. Stop this invasion of our privacy, and protect our First Amendment rights, and our rights of privacy.

Robocalling is one of the most invasive and annoying assaults on an individual personal Liberty and freedom. These cowards hide behind spoofed caller ID. I love Nomorobo. It makes my life so much better, to receive a single ring and not have to get up to answer the phone--knowing that the call is coming from a known abusive robocaller.

When you're my age, 70, you get pestered unmercifully by people who call in hopes of taking advantage of the elderly person who owns the phone. You should support each and every means, including Nomorobo, that helps individuals regain control of their own telephones.

Right now I receive approx 10 calls a day. I currently use a roboblocking technology and I couldn't live without it. I have considered removing my home phone because of the quantity of sales calls. Of course doing this would also do away with 911 emergency services being able to easily find my location but this is what the robocallers are pushing us toward. I don't feel these people have the right to disturb the peaceful enjoyment of my property the way they do. The more people discard their home phones the more people can save on the taxes they won't have to pay so I guess there is a positive side.

Larry Keller
Chino Hills, CA

Nomorobo is the best thing to happen in years for stopping robot dialers and telemarketers that think they can call you anytime of the day to try and sell you stuff you do not want over and over. And they do this ignoring the current law and the Do Not Call list I am on.

The telephone companies should be stopping this crap pile of scam and useless phone calls that disturb our homes and dinnertime's. But it seems the phone companies only want the profit that comes from making thousands of useless unwanted phone calls. Nomorobo is the only way I have of blocking these calls and I love it.

The FCC should not be listening to phone companies, but listen to the US consumer who pays the phone companies and the FCC people. Make the phone companies allow blocking of robocalls and telemarketers.

If you want to talk about it in person call me, but be sure that your name show up as you and not "Unknown Caller".

The robocall epidemic needs to be addressed now. Since the government seems unable to put her out of business with fines and legal action, it's time to put an end to the menacing career of "Rachel from Cardholder Services" by forcing the telco oligopoly to provide call blocking services to their customers.

And I don't mean allowing AT&T and Verizon to continue peddling their overpriced "Privacy Manager" services that they've repeatedly tried to sell me. I'm referring to simple, common-sense solutions like NoMoRobo.

It's time that the people paying phone bills in this country get control back over their phones.

We have a right to let anyone and no one have our phone number. Leave it like that unless you want to give out your personal number. I have a short list of people who know my number, family and a smaller limited list of friends and doctors. I don't need a bunch of calls for polls or unsolicited garbage. I'd like it to stay that way. It has been like that for all the years that I have had a cell phone and I expect to keep all my private phone numbers as "private".

Dave B.

Despite the annoyance and interruption that robocalls are, the concern I have is really for unsuspecting individuals who believe it really is Microsoft calling about a virus on their computer and their ilk. Obviously there is money in these shameful ploys and it is unlikely to be able to legislate morality. The unregulated political call are just as annoying and somehow are allowable. Anyone wonder what that is? My phone can only block 20 numbers at a time so I am constantly polling the caller ID to see which numbers are on the hot list. It seems to be an exercise in futility to protest this nuisance. Being the United States, this would probably provoke a restraint of trade lawsuit by telemarketers.

For the past few years now, I get soo many robo calls, I can't even answer my phone anymore. The few times I do answer, thinking it might be from someone I am expecting a call from, they either hang up or if someone is on the other end and talks, they just try and sell me something I don't want and won't take no for an answer. Almost every one of these calls I get are from numbers that don't even exist. If these people were not all rip-off artists, they would not have hide who they are, by using phony names and numbers on their caller ID.

Robocalls are a pain in the neck -- plain and simple. We've placed our phone numbers on the national Do Not Call list more than once. It doesn't seem to do any good. We continue to get robo and boiler room calls every day. Thankfully, Nomorobo seems to intercept some of them, but it's not enough. What ever else you can do, please do it.

Robert Lavine

I am on the "Do Not Call List", and this is not working. I receive approx. 25 to 32 robocalls a day! That is a crazy number. I kept a legal size paper that was filled on both sides with all the numbers, which equaled 4 pages of robocall numbers! I thought the Do Not call list was to block these. Obviously I am wrong. I signed up with Nomorobo and thank goodness the calls have stopped. Please DO NOT LET robocalls get through. They have to be blocked.

I receive approximately four robocalls daily. They are irksome and interrupt meals and other family time. In addition, since I'm terminally ill and in constant pain, they wake me and force me to move which increases my pain.

When I want to buy something I will reach out. We need to stop the robocalls. They call past 9:00pm and earlier than 8:00am and sometimes on Sundays. A lot of times they just hang up if you answer or if they do answer they are rude when you ask them to take your number off the call lists. If they can call us we should be able to call them and block up their lines. Since the FCC cannot stop the calls then we need tools to stop from receiving unwanted calls. We need robocall blocking products desperately as these calls are getting so bad. We can get over 10 per day sometimes.

Robo call blocking products like Nomorobo are great, I gives me back the freedom we all used to have from businesses calling and disturbing our day. if i want to donate to a charity or buy something I will be the one making the calls. Absolutely we should be allowed to use robocall blocking products to prevent our phone from ringing continually throughout the day because of harassing calls by unwanted advertisers. Our lives are much more peaceful since we began using Nomorobo. Now when an advertiser calls, our phone will ring only once, and we immediately know it is a call we don't want. Before Nomorobo our phone rang several times, and one of us would run to answer it only to find the caller was an advertiser we didn't want to talk to. We urge you to leave things the way they are and let Nomorobo continue to intercept all harassing calls.

I use NOMOROBO and love it. It gives me fewer needless interruptions in my busy day. I don't want salespeople calling me if I didn't initiate the call. A lot of them are scammers, too.

Automated Robo Calls are the Bane of a telephone owners existence...please allow technology such as "NOMOROBO" to continue to be legal, and make it easily available to all consumers.

I have used the technology since it became available, and I have not found any negatives, to the contrary, it has allowed me to answer only, what I consider, necessary and "productive" calls...

My wife and I are seniors with health problems. These robocalls come in early in the morning starting before 8am and continue during the day. They wake us up in the morning and while my wife is napping during the day. She is recovering from breast cancer and needs her rest. Never mind about my issues. Stop these calls and also the scam calls telling us we just were awarded $$$$$$ if we take some kind of action. I don't give them the time of day. STOP THIS INSANE PRACTICE PLEASE!!!!

I do not want to ovals on my phone

Please allow us to block robo calls. It's really annoying and an invasion of our privacy.

Greenville, SC

My household has been and continues to be bombarded with robocalls. We have been on a Do-Not-Call list for years and found that reporting these calls never resulted in any relief.

My husband looked into the problem and found that there were very few cases where fines had ever been levied. He also learned that the phone numbers of people calling were those associated with people that had been hired because they could not be pursued since they had no financial resources - thus fining them was useless.

We kept records for months and sometimes received as many as 3-5 calls on each of two different phones.

What use is a phone if one is constantly interrupted with with unsolicited calls, many from the same sources over months and months.

There were times when we called a number back to find that it did not exist. The phone company confirmed that it was a non-existent phone moments after we called it back! What was going on?

Many people are giving up their land-line phones to avoid robocalls and using only their cell phones. Will the phone companies like this solution?

Thank you for taking the time and energy to deal with this serious issue. Something has to be done.

Are the phone companies out of their minds? I really want to have a land line -- I like being able to hear what people are saying on the phone -- but I considered disconnecting mine because of receiving so many robocalls. I am physically disabled and incessant robocalls were more than an inconvenience for me. Nomorobo has made a real positive difference in my life. Please, let consumers continue to use blockins software/

I can't say it any better than my wife, who earlier wrote "When robo callers ignore the fact that my phone is on the DoNotCall list, and call anyhow, I should have full rights to use any technology that I choose to block such calls. Don't listen to phone companies that say the calls can't or shouldn't be blocked. Listen to subscribers; we should be in control of our own phones."

I WANT THE EASY ABILITY TO BLOCK THESE ROBOT CALLS. I DEMAND THE RIGHT TO PRIVACY IN MY OWN HOME! I AM ON THE NATIONAL DO NOT CALL REGISTRY. DOES THAT MATTER TO THE COMPANIES THAT MAKE THESE PESKY CALLS? NO! IF THE FCC CANNOT MONITOR AND ENFORCE THESE COMPANIES TO PLAY BY THE RULES, CONSUMERS NEED CALL BLOCKING ABILITIES. WE NEED A "NO SOLICITING" MECHANISM FOR OUR PHONES. THANKS TO NOMOROBO, I HAVE MORE PEACE AND QUIET AT HOME.

The technology is obviously available to block unwanted calls. What isn't this available for every phone number everywhere? I'm sick of getting calls from "Microsoft" and every other scam you can think of.

I need to have some kind of tool to STOP the robocalls, telemarketers and other outright solicitations to my personal phone. It is very important I keep my phone number and line, but I am interrupted during meals, sleep periods and other scenarios where I would have to stop what I am doing only to hear a computer transfer the call to a sales person or other unwanted call. Nomorobo has made an outstanding effort and has kept me from having my home phone service turned completely off. if the phone company is litigating to allow calls through, bypassing this vital service, then they are not looking out for my interest and should be fined for conflict of interest.

I would like to suggest that you develop a way for me to forward all of the robo calls that we receive on phones that are on the do not call list to my representatives in Congress. this plan will solve the problem in about 2 days!

Nomorobo has been a blessing. I have the ability to block calls I do not want. If I block someone all they do is call from a different number. Then I block that and again they call from a different number. What a time consuming waste. Nomorobo has been effective at blocking these nuisance calls. It is my phone and I do not want you to restrict them from doing a great job. One that I requested they do for me.

Thanks

I work from home and actually like to have dinner with my family in the evening sometimes. Robocalls are the most obnoxious and infuriating technological invention of our time and if I could make them illegal with severe prison sentences for people who run these businesses, I would be in favor of that.

I must get 10-15 robocalls a day. I came across the Nomorobo service about 14 months ago, signed up as soon as I learned about it, and am delighted at the fact that it blocks about 80% of the unwanted calls that come in, allowing me to continue my work and my life with fewer interruptions.

I would strongly oppose any efforts to interfere with robocall blocking, and would in fact be in favor of stronger regulations and penalties for robocalling (maybe including publishing the home phone numbers of the executives of the companies that do this sort of thing so we could ring them up to let them know what we think).

By the way, I have never done anything other than hang up on an unsolicited call that does make it through, so anyone who thinks they are effectively marketing their product or service this way is fooling themselves, at least as far as I am concerned.

I hate robocalls! When I see the names of states where I don't know anyone, I don't answer the phone but I still have to listen to it ring. It is irritating and there's nothing I can do about it. You might say that on any list of irritants, it's about a one, except for the fact that I have been listening to the phone ring for YEARS. If I want more insurance or if I have a credit card problem, I will take care of the situation by myself, locally. I don't need a nameless, faceless phone call to solve my problems. These calls have come at inopportune times, when I've been involved in something, or when waiting to hear from a doctor or a lawyer or a family member. I can't call them and tell them how much I hate their calls and for them not to call me anymore. I can't call them when they're sick or sleeping or waiting to hear a loved one's neurosurgery. There has to be a way to stop this intrusion of my privacy, of everyone's privacy. I'm on the state and federal Do Not Call lists. Why can't I stop these businesses from calling me too? I hope I've made myself clear.

Thank you.

Cumming, GA

As a consumer I am disturbed by the number of calls I get that are fake and scams. Many times during the day and evening they come one after another. 40 to 50 a week. They use fake numbers and can not be contacted meaning their scams. I have been using Nomorobo for many months now and we finally have peace and quiet once again.

Why isn't the do not call list work. I believe you know the answer to that ! More government Bureaucracy !

In addition, we thought the requirement was that robo callers needed allow you to opt out and not call again by removing you from their calling list. Another words take your number off the list????? Well guess what they don't. If you answer the phone they just call more frequent. It's not legitimate it's harassment plain and simple ! We all pay a fee to the Phone companies and they do nothing to protect us from these calls. Therefore it is our right to protect our selves. Big business is not the determining factor because of the almighty dollar. This is what it's all about. BS to that !

Take the time and investigate the facts and get real people involved and I am sure you will get the big picture?????

Robocalls are a nuisance. No matter how often you tell them not to call, it doesn't seem to bother them. Now, they even use my own phone number to call me, and I don't know how they can do it. I've spoken to other people about this and they tell me the same thing has happened to them. This is the one where they tell me about my credit card and I don't even have one. Something should definitely be done about all these annoying phone calls.

I was able to use nomorobo when I had AT&T as my phone provider. Blocking those robo calls was awesome. Well I have since changed provider and I'm now with Cox. As soon as Cox ported my number over my phone was ringing non stop with robo calls. When I called Cox I was told they cannot support nomorobo because they don't have distinctive ring. Consumers should not have to be subjected to these types of calls that continue nonstop throughout the day. Consumers need to have the option to block these intrusive robo calls!

I'm at my limit with the constant load of robot calls I receive. It seems as soon as you put your phone numbers on the National DoNotCall list starts an increase in robot calls. I finally had to go to a service being offered by Comcast to help reduce the number of these calls. Something needs to be done to help the public fight back on this issue. Just in this evening alone there were 3 calls.

We've been getting robocalls for 7 years, sometimes 5 a day. We used to be able to recognize their phone numbers on our TV screen but they now are able to call us using local exchange numbers. David Mooberry

The Do Not Call list was a huge step in the right direction, bringing at least some relief from the annoying spam phone calls that had gotten way out of hand. Unfortunately, that great advance only applies to the honest folks who follow the law. Far more dangerous, and becoming far too common now, are the robo calls from thieves, scammers and other unsavory types that live beyond the law and who prey on uneducated, elderly and careless people. NoMoRobo and similar technologies to block known spammers should be available to everyone. In fact, telcom providers should be MANDATED to make the service available and without cost to the consumer. It's time we put these scammers out of business and this technology works!

Robert Mauldin

We think nomorobo is a great product. It blocks anywhere from 2 to 8 robocalls a day. We signed up for the do not call list, but these callers have found a way around it. We have better things to do all day other than answer these solicitation calls.

Our home is much more peaceful since getting NoMoRobo.

To give people permission to invade our homes with automated harassment is a terrible breach of our rights. You might as well tell them that they're allowed to barge into our homes without our permission to try to sell us stuff, and that we're not allowed to have locks on our doors!

It's impossible to tell a robo-caller that you're on the do-not-call-list. So we need NoMoRobo to be the lock on our doors, to help keep the sanctity of our homes from being violated. Don't take this service away from us!

Fort Collins, CO

I don't like unsolicited calls. I want my name taken off all lists. I have caller ID, if it's a number I don't recognize, I don't answer because more than likely it's a solicitor. Now they've taken to use my own name and number to show on my caller ID. Tired of these calls. My phone number is unlisted for a reason and I'm billed and I pay for that privilege. I'd like it obeyed.

I am tired of having solicitors ignore the do not call list and when there's not even an actual person on the phone, I really get frustrated. Recently, they've taken to leaving recorded messages when we ignore the calls. Stop this time waste.

I hate being disturbed with unwanted & unnecessary calls. I'll never listen or buy anything from these unwanted calls & I hate the bastards that do it.

Since I've been using nomorobo on our home phone. My family can now enjoy undisturbed dinner meals. Telemarketer/ robo calls went from atleast 10 calls a day to none. As a consumer I should be able to elect what phone calls I want to receive & which I do not. The Do Not Call registry, which turned out to be a joke, was supposed to eliminate robo calls, correct?

So, since DNR failed and the FCC failed to enforce it properly this is just another band aid on the DNR festering wound. Those marketers, spammers & stealers of our financials will find a way around whatever weak enforcement the FCC puts in place so why fight this? Robocall blocking products are an absolute necessity in todays world. I receive numerous robocalls and unsolicited solicitations every day trying to sell me many different things. The fact that many of these calls are in violation of the Do Not Call List doesn't seem to matter to the solicitors, so my only defense is a call blocker. Dear FCC

The robocall phone blocking application (nomorobo.com) has been a blessing to me. Before becoming a member of nomorobo.com, I was receiving robo calls every evening when I came home from work. I also received them on saturday and sunday mornings and evenings. This has got to stop. It is an invasion of my quality of life.

Although a small number of calls get through, the nomorobo program has done a great job in decreasing the number of these calls. I found that my retired life was unbearable, with several unsolicited robocalls every morning and several more every evening. Almost all of them kept calling even after I told them I didn;t want their calls.

And the calls were--every one of them--obvious scams! Why would you want to prohibit me from blocking these? Do they pay for this service from you?

Luckily, a friend told me about the Nomorobo service, which has been totally wonderful.

Please help us poor citizens by making it even easier to block these nasty calls.

And don't let the communications companies tell you to prohibit blocking! It'll be a sad day when you listen to them instead of the many people who beg for more help from you in blocking these noxious calls.

If I had been able to enable robocall-blocking on my 92 year old fathers' AT&T landline, he likely would not have fallen victim to unscrupulous scammers preying on senior citizens. These calls are not merely an annoyance - usually at dinnertime - but they are also at times dangerous. We all need the ability to control unwanted phone calls into our homes.

I get ten times as many JUNK CALLS (scams, sales calls, no one on other end calls, etc.) compared to calls that I want.

I pay for my phone – I should be able to block people using my phone for purposes that I do not approve.

Thanks.

I, and everyone else I know, simply HATE robocalls! I don't know why companies insist on using them. They are ineffective. I hang up as soon as I hear it is a robocall; I never listen. But being disturbed by the ring and/or going to the phone is annoying. It is an invasion of privacy.

Recently, I signed up for nomorobo calls and I LOVE it! Please support the right of consumers to block these ridiculous calls.

Thanks for listening.

Please allow consumers to have choices in eliminating unwanted robo calls. They are a nuisance, and even when you tell the caller when they get on the phone to take you off their list, they don't.

Accordingly, services to block those type calls should be available to consumers.

Bruce Davis
Spotsylvania, VA

I believe all robocalls should be illegal. Most of the time there is nothing but dead air on the line for close to 30 seconds after I answer the phone and if I phone people over and over again without saying anything for 30 seconds or more it is called harassment. The political robocalls are the worst. At the least I should be allowed to block those calls if I don't want to receive them. I am paying my phone bill, they aren't.

Kathy
Farmington, NM

I strongly support making changes to whatever procedures are needed to eliminate robocalls. Not only are calls an annoyance, they are more often than not a scam. How many times should Rachel need to call us telling us this is about your credit card. What necessity are the calls telling me that I must be informed that a collection agency needs to talk to me. Call this number. It is time for the FCC to act in favor of consumers, you know the ones you represent. Let us put a stop to robocalls.

Robert Bell

Robocalls are very annoying and I feel as if I am not entitled to privacy. I see no useful reason for them to be allowed. Please pass legislation prohibiting them. Make the phone companies block robocallers. The technology to do this should not be too difficult.

Herbert Schneider

I have a phone for MY convenience, not for the convenience of those who want to interrupt my dinner (and TV, and parties, and sleep, and...) to try to sell me products in which I have not the slightest interest.

I have been using Nomorobo for quite a while and have found it be largely effective in stopping this annoyance. I strongly urge you to make it, and other robocall blockers, more widely available to the public.

No one I know welcomes robocalls and thinks of them as anything other than phone spam.

Please do the right thing for consumers, act in the public interest, and do not cave in to the phone companies. They will still make plenty of money without robocalls.

Arlene Fell
Huntington Station, NY

These calls are annoying. Especially when you have people in your family with health problems, or even more closely than that, YOUR ACTUAL HOUSEHOLD. I don't have time to entertain these calls, especially the ones about credit card services. I don't like those, always push the option to have my number removed, & it's never been removed. Even when my recently departed Elderly Father had this phone number, he would get these calls. & HE DIDN'T EVEN HAVE A CREDIT CARD. WHEN HE'D PUSH THE OPTION TO TALK TO SOMEONE, THEN HE'D TRY TO TELL THEM TO STOP CALLING, THEY'D NEVER LISTEN, THEY'D HANG UP. TO ME THAT'S SPAM, & A SCAM. SINCE IT'S NOT REMOVING THE NUMBER AS REQUESTED. & NOT WILLING TO RESPOND TO EACH PERSON'S COMMENTS, OR CONCERNS ABOUT THIS.

Now UNLESS THE FCC WOULD LIKE TO LOWER ALL OF THE TELECOMMUNICATION BILLS, NO MATTER WHAT THEY ARE, CELL PHONE, LAND LINE, ETC... THEN I'D SUGGEST THEY START LISTENING TO THE PEOPLE, & MAKE THE PHONE COMPANIES EXPAND THE SERVICES THAT ALLOW THE CALL BLOCKING TO MUCH MORE THEN 10 NUMBERS, OR PERHAPS A SEPERATE NUMBER TO DIAL TO BLOCK THE ROBOCALLS. IDK, BUT SOMETHING NEEDS DONE THAT'S FOR SURE.

I think that until someone listens to us, we ALL need to stop using our landlines, as well as our cell phones, & don't pay the bills until WE ARE HEARD.

Martins Ferry, OH.

Please be more proactive in blocking telemarketing calls. Technology that can block these calls should be made available to consumers.

The blocking of unsolicited telephone robocalls should not be disallowed. If there is something that should be disallowed, it is the making of the robocalls.

Since enrolling in Nomorobo I no longer have to guess whether or not I should answer out of area, unknown caller, etc calls. If the call is on the list of robots, the phone rings once and then silence. Calls that I may wish to answer still come through.

Thanks to Nomorobo, I have far fewer disturbed dinners!

Robocalls are a curse. Most of them are made by shady operators and scam artists who thumb their noses at the state and federal no-call lists. We were plagued by six to eight robocalls day until we signed up with Nomorobo. This has restored peace to a household that greatly values peace and resents uninvited commercial intrusions. I am a 70-year-old woman. It is often painful for me to get up out of a chair and go answer my telephone. I am inundated with undesired calls, most of them robocalls, to an extreme level. Since I heard about a service which could block all the robocalls and signed up for it, my life has been a lot easier physically and is certainly less stressful. I am so grateful to have access to this service. If the call only rings one time, I don't have to get up and answer it. I have counted up to 7-8 calls in just one morning! They call on the dot of 8:00 a.m. and at the last minute before 9:00 p.m. I urge you to allow consumers to continue having access to services which block robocalls. I do not know how I managed without it.

The nicest thing I can say about Robocalls is that they suck.

For years I have been getting robocalls from some credit bureau and nothing I do stops them.

I believe in the golden rule of doing unto others what I would have them do unto me - I don't blanket the robocall makers with calls of my own and all I want is for them to cease and desist from calling me.

If I want/need a service/product I can make a call, connect on the Net. I neither need nor want to be bombarded with unsolicited offers.

Robo calls should not be allowed. Nobody likes them. Many times, the phone rings and nobody is even on the other end. Each and every day I receive from as many as 6 robocalls. I have tried on numerous occasions to select the option to remove me them from their call lists, TO NO AVAIL!!! It just makes it easier for them to expand their calling base. One call I've been receiving is from groups with the name Career; I'm retired and over 70; why in heaven's name would I want a new career?

I spend almost half an hour each day reporting these calls to the Do Not Call Registry. I have caller ID on my phone and on my tv; which means I can ignore robocalls and unsolicited calls.

This America land of the free let's keep it that way let consumers be able to block these calls

Sometimes it seems as if these companies have you directly in their pockets.. What other developed countries have to deal with the same stupid crap us Americans deal with on a daily basis almost every single day of our lives? How bout I go file an LLC and send all of you to collections without proof in hopes of getting one of you suckers to pay up?

After years of having an unlisted phone number, and numerous attempts to get telemarketers to stop calling by listing our number with the national no call list with very little results, we finally found the answer with nomorobo. This is a free service for the household user, and it actually works. Please do not stop nomorobo from blocking these intrusive calls.

Nobody else seems to care enough to stop these obnoxious calls to people like us that do not want to be disturbed 20 or 30 times a day by telemarketers who don't care if we are on the no call list. Thank you for having the courage to defend our right to privacy in our own home.

Computers have made our life a lot easier in so many different ways. But their usefulness can be abused. Answering the phone only to find a live person trying to sell me something I don't want is annoying enough. To make it easier and cheaper for companies to contact me by using computers to make thousands of calls is legal. But I believe that I should be able to use technology to prevent and stop this annoyance. Please allow Robocom to continue to protect those of us against annoying, persistent sales calls.

I find robocalls very distracting and a drag on my productivity. I always hang up immediately. Still, they consume precious minutes out of one's day. I love my Nomorobo. I was receiving up to 10 calls a day from people I didn't want to hear from. I pay every month to have an unlisted number and I still was getting numerous calls. Since Nomorobo the irritating calls have cut by more than half. You, the FCC should do more to protect the people.

Lori

I feel robocalls are an invasion of my privacy and would like the option to not receive them.

I love the fact that despite disappointing us in so many areas by constantly arguing, Congress came together last year to make Nomorobo legal. I have a right to stop these constant marketing calls thanks to this legislation and want to continue enjoying it. After 9 back surgeries over a couple of years which ended in a fusion, the last thing I need is to cause myself the pain of getting to the phone to try and politely reject a sales pitch. Please don't make these intrusions and annoying calls legal again, disrupting my home and family life.

I am constantly bothered by robotic generated calling. I have asked my phone company on numerous occasions when they would provide features so that I can use NoMoRobo. No one at my phone company even knows what that is. I even went so far as to buy a $100 call blocker which is a partial solution. I would say that 90% of the calls I receive are from hacked numbers. The phone company doesn't care as long as I keep sending them my monthly payment. Please require all phone companies to offer simultaneous ringing so that I can use NoMoRobo. The do not call list is a joke and is worthless.

Ronald Stowe

I pay for my phones - I should be allowed to decide which calls I can reject or block. It should be MY choice ... MINE. Robo calls are a waste of our time. They are a huge inconvenience. They are an invasion of our privacy. We pay for our phone and that opens us up to a number of advertising, soliciting, survey, and political calls. We don't want any of them. We can block a limited number of phone calls but in recent years robo calls have become so numerous that we can't block them all. I have asked our carrier for this ability but have been told it is not available. I would rather pay $3.00 to block robo calls than to pay to have call forwarding or most other choices offered. Please continue to allow the blocking of robo calls. I am currently using NOMOROBO to block such calls. It has reduced nuisance calls from nearly 10 a day to about 1 or 2. Neither should these companies.

Me, my family, friends and anyone else i speak with; think robocalls, also cold calls from charities, local merchants and politicians are extremely intrusive and detrimental to our personal rights and quality of life. Callers are almost always nasty, argumentative, or just hang up while you are asking them not to call again. also calls start in the AM. and continue into the late evening...(4-5-6) times a day.. sometimes more. My wife and I are senior citizens (70/75) with health issues. Lest we miss calls from our doctors/pharmacist we don't need to be answering or startled by the phone ringing almost every hour or every 10 to 15 minuets, in some cases. These calls should most certainly be blocked and prosecuted by law especially since the are using disconnected or computer generated phony numbers so that we cannot return the call and ask to be put on their do not call list... Some of us are on the government do not call registry but we still receive these unwanted calls.

Robocalls are the bane of everyone. Please block them every way you can.

Since I started using a nomorobo service, I feel like I got my evening life back. The Do Not Call Registry is ineffective. The only peace we've had is by waiting for that one ring...then silence. I have really enjoyed the service that Nomorbo has been providing! They are doing a much better job with dealing with unwanted call than the do not call list, frankly you all should welcome the help!

I hate robocalls. I love nomorobo-robocall blocking saves me aggravation and time.

Don't ban them-rather you should encourage them. Why should I be forced to accept "robocalls" from people I couldn't care less about? Why should they have the right to interrupt me?

I really like the fact that nomorobo keeps those calls from disrupting my day. Every time the phone rings only once, and I know that nomorobo has got my back, I thank the folks at nomorobo.

It is an invasion of my privacy to have unwanted callers be able to call my cell phone. I should be able to block them if I so desire, as I pay the bill for my phone, not the telemarketers!

Myrtle Beach SC

Robocall blocking should definitely be legalized and encouraged.

There are so so many telemarketers and just weirdos calling these days including those solar sellers who use profanity almost every call when you tell them you are on the national do not call list to take you off the list.

We have an unlisted number and we get around 20 calls daily.

Please allow robocall blocking.

It makes the phone I pay for a nuisance. It is an invasion of my privacy. When we are at home the phone rings while we are doing something and we have to stop and check the phone because it is ringing It may be something important, we don't recognize the number so we wait and let it go on the machine. It's a robo call so we go back to what we were doing before the interruption. We did not want the interruption. We want to block all robo calls. We can block a limited number of calls but not enough to cover all the robo calls

Stp the annoying unwanted calls!!!!!!

We are fed up with ROBO calls, 7 days a week all hours. You pick up the phone and no one answers your hello. Several have left a message as a bill collector and we could be in trouble if we do not return the call.

These calls are a form of harrasement and threatening.

If we all switch to cell phones, we would not have this provblem and land lines would become extinc

We have a right as the bill payer to block any annoying and threatening calls on our phone.

I hate robo calls. All the legislation that has been enacted is not working. Its getting worse. There are software apps that can do this but why do we need to do that when the phone companies can do it from their end. The phone companies are a utility and should be trying to better our world NOT make it more difficult and MORE expensive.

Robert Woolley

Robocall has been a god send for me in the past year that I've subscribed to it. Don't let the phone companies convince you otherwise. They just want the revenue they derive from the purveyors of these nuscense phone calls.

Robocalls are an invasion of privacy, a supreme annoyance, irritating beyond belief, maddening, enough to drive a person to drink and I want it to stop! I believe the right to have a device that would put an end to this should be entirely up to the citizen that is being harassed beyond human endurance.

Please, please do something to make these calls illegal. They are an invasive nuisance!!! I want to know how they get my cell #, that is an invasion of my privacy!!

There is NOTHING more enraging than the unending barrage of sales calls, and worst of all, ROBOCALLS coming into my home. Despite government regs to the contrary, you cannot get off these lists and are doomed to listen to these crooks forever. Your "Do Not Call List" is ignored by most everyone. At least stop the robocalls, please.

On days when I work at home it is not unusual for me to receive 4-5 robocalls a day, even though I am on the Do Not Call list. When I have answered these, I would characterize most as certainly or likely criminal in intent. "Rachel from Card Services" isn't trying to lower my rate, she is trying to steal my credit card information! All are deceptive and fraudulent in some way, and are usually presenting false or unhelpful caller ID information. If automated telemarketing were a legitimate practice technology makes robocalls so easy that our phones would be rendered useless by the constant calls. Blocking and whitelisting services should be encouraged, perhaps required. Further, caller ID should have teeth. All calls should have some sort of accountable billed-party identification that is not at the discretion of the telemarketer, and calls that cross borders should be identified as such.

I am an elderly woman desiring to stop the continual robocalls coming into my home. I have infirmities limiting my mobility in the home. Every time the phone rings, I'm thinking it is a call from my sister or daughter. Making the effort to answer the phone and learning it is a robocall advertising a service or product I have rejected already dozens of times, is a needless harassment. Please do something to prevent repeated calls representing the same product or service already politely declined by me.

Donna Farr

I don't want to receive any robotic phone calls. Who does? Do you want to get these calls on your home phone? I don't think so.

So why does the FCC allow this? This is not Freedom of speech or of the press. This is clearly an invasion of our privacy! On MY PHONE, IN MY HOME, I should be able to CHOOSE to receive promotions and advertising or NOT. I choose NOT!

I'm sure that millions of other americans feel the same.

Please allow Nomorobo and other such organization to BLOCK these forced interruptions into our lives!

I'm a Federal Retiree. I love choosing which calls should go through and which ones should be stopped. Nomorobo stops Robocalls after one ring. I have been using nomorobo for several years now. It is the only mechanism I have to reduce the torrent of useless phone calls I get at all hours of the day. The 'do not call' registry is completely useless. Asking the callers, if there is a live person on the other end, to remove my name from their list doesn't work.

FCC: stop being strong armed by powerful lobbies. You have already caved on net neutrality, don't cave on this one. Get a spine.

I am fed up with picking up my phone only to hear some recorded message about some politician and his/her virtues and why I should vote for them. Or some loud voice telling me that I have won a trip to some exotic place. It has gotten to the point where we let calls go directly to the answering machine. But then their messages take up most of the space on the recorder. Being on "The Do Not Call Register" doesn't seem faze these irritating idiots.

As an elderly Navy veteran of 24 years, I respectfully ask that action be taken to block - or allow me to block - the robocalls that blast into my bedroom often in the middle of the night. In my 80th year, I believe I deserve protection from these calls which often originate in foreign countries and contain scams involving financial and identity theft.

Here in Hawaii, phone calls originating in the daytime from Eastern time zones are often received well before dawn. They are much more than a nuisance -their rude awakening can endanger my health.

We need to be able to stop these rob ovals as they are a nuisance. I learned about no morons and when I took advantage of this free service my answering of nuisance calls lessened as calls stopped after one(1) ring.

The misuse and abuse of my home telephone by unsolicited callers, in particular the so called robo-callers, had exceeded a mere annoyance and had become a true harassment. I did all I could possibly do to stem or stop the barrage of calls every evening, during the day, and even late into the night. I registered my number with the Do Not Call (DNC) List. I blocked as many individual numbers as was possible within the limits established by my telephone service provider. I reported the violators of the DNC list to the FCC multiple times. I literally unplugged my telephone to pause the incessant calling. All that to no avail. More unwanted calls, more disruptions to my home life, more annoyance and more frustration UNTIL... I discovered and began to use the NOMOROBO call blocking service. The calls still come in but a single short ring and solicitors are politely told their calls are not wanted and will not be accepted. The number of calls coming in has diminished. What a blessed relief this has been!

I still get all my personal and charitable calls, I certainly received plenty of campaign solicitations and calls from businesses with whom I have an established working relationship. So this service works effectively and returns the control of my phone to me and my family members. much more effectively than the DNC list did.

Since the DNC list has failed to adequately protect consumers from unwanted and illegal calls, I believe the FCC must require all telephone service providers to provide NOMOROBO or similar software to block such calls. Too many of my friends and family are in areas where they are unable to use robotic call blocking and they continue to suffer with a barrage of unsolicited calls and scammers both day and night. The FCC should admit that the DNC has failed. Instead of continuing to ignore the problem or pursuing legal enforcement on the millions of complaints filed, the FCC should require all telephone service providers to provide, free robotic call blocking software. Allowing consumers to block robo-calls is a reasonable solution to this very widespread problem.

I appreciate your consideration and immediate action on this matter.

Unsolicited marketing and political candidate calls to private homes are out of control. Verizon does not support NOMOROBO in my area, probably because we are in the vicinity of several call centers served by Verizon or their old central station cannot accommodate it as it does in some other areas. I have been receiving on average 5 to 6 robo calls per day on my home phone line. Usually when I have just gotten one of my grandkids to take a nap or we have sat down for a meal. Finding Nomorobo has been a god-send. Before finding it, we were getting 5-10 calls per day, from autodialers (many of which never even had a human on the other side of the line) that completely ignored our requests not to be disturbed. We would race to the phone, only to have a dead silence on the other end.

Since setting up my home phone, we have cut our interruptions by 50-80 percent, and it's FANTASTIC!

Thank you Nomorobo!

The National Do Not Call list is only moderately working. It is my right to be able to stop telemarketing calls to my telephone any way that I see fit. The telephone companies should be required to install call blocking features for their customers. My wife is handicapped and it is a problem for her to answer these intrusive calls. I should also be able to buy any type of equipment that I want to be able to stop these nuisance calls. They are more than an inconvenience to us.

David & Della Barna

I receive on an average 15 robocalls a day seven days a week. Many of these call are from the same numbers who have purchased our home and cell numbers. We receive more calls on Monday Tuesday and Thursdays starting at 7:30 am going until after 8:30 at night. I cannot understand why I do not have the right to stop these calls if I have stated to them that we are not interested in what they are selling or can no longer make donations or want to participate in marketing survey's. We have listed our numbers on the national register for do not call list for both house line and cell phone numbers and it makes no difference. These callers never leave a message because they know what they are doing is against the law. These callers claim that they have the right to continue calling because they are working in our area (area code from clear across the United States, or they have called us in the past, they are a non-profit organization, etc. When you try and call back these numbers that appear on your phone long, the call will not go through because it states that the number is no longer in service?

Now with these robocalls going to your cell phone it becomes extremely dangerous because if you are in the process of driving your car.

These Robocalls commit fraud in trying to get you to answer your phone by having a caller ID that states it is a 911 call emergency, That it is Bank of America or State Farm Insurance or other legitimate names that turn about to be someone else trying to sell something.

If the FCC cannot protect us from these practices and nuisance calls then we need to put other people in office that will protect our individual rights.

Robocalls are one of the most annoying things that I can think of. The call from early in the morning until late at night. It is my phone number and I should be allowed to control it as I see fit.

I wish to maintain control over the phone calls I allow in my home. Having recently retired, I was absolutely amazed and disgusted how many robo calls my phone number received every day. Because my wife is still working, I could ill afford to turn the phone off. Yet when I was trying to read or nap, invariably a robo call or calls would disturb my reverie. I consider these calls another form of home invasion, and no one but no one wants their home invaded. The frequency of robo calls was increasing until I signed up with NOMOROBO. It's much, much better now. Please allow me my rights to protect my home from this dastardly type of home invasion. - Thank you.

More than half of the phone calls I receive are robocalls which come at all hours of the day and evening. The Nomorobo call blocking product I am presently using has cut down on 2/3 of them which has been very helpful.

NOMOROBO service has been a life saver since I have retired. The amount of unwanted calls that rang my phone all day drove me out of my house. Being on the do not call list has done nothing to stop the unwanted charity, construction & solar calls. I have seen a huge difference since adding NOMOROBO service. I work night shift, so robot all disturb my sleep unless I turn the phone's ringer off. That's not really an option as I am required to "be on call" in case of work emergency. I need my sleep, and I need my job, and I need an efficient way to keep to robocalls fr getting through.

Logically and Emotionally this effort should be supported.

I can't tell you how many times I have had robo calls that they were totally scamming people. I have worked in the computer area so for me it is easy to spot a scammer but other people, older people like my mother and my neighbors are not so enlightened. One neighbor, who was already unemployed and struggling like crazy got a call and he ended up giving some personal information and it cost thousands of dollars that he did NOT have to get things straightened back out. I think it is high time for the federal government to start going after these worthless jerks who are using robocalls and contacting people who are on the do not call list. These calls occur at various times during my day and sometimes several times a day from THE SAME COMPANY. Also, some of them will call day after day for a week or more.

Consumers should not have to put with this. I consider this a former of HARASSMENT, and just because I own a phone doesn't mean I should have to put with this!!!!!! Nomorobo and services like it have been a godsend. I think ALL robo calls should be banned and made ILLEGAL!

Gary Kahn

Junk callers, or spam callers; called robo-callers here, in effect steal from me. I pay for my personal telecommunications facilities, and these robo-callers feel entitled to use the resource I'm paying for for their own use. Almost always, there is no consultation with federally mandated do-not-call lists.

Perhaps an arrangement should be made to collect a per-call fee from robo-callers who use facilities they are not entitled to use. The carrier could easily compare outbound calls to the do-not-call list and assess a fee/tax for inappropriate calls. Since it does not appear that there are any consequences or enforcement for law-breakers today, this idea would create an additional revenue stream for the regulatory agency while creating at least some consequence for the decision to break the law.

On a similar topic, why do current regulations exempt "charities" and "political" calls. Why are these callers able to skirt the law - what social good is served by allowing these callers to operate in an unrestricted manner.

When the do-not-call rules were first introduced, the number of instances of illegal calls dropped for several months, until the spammers realized that there is no enforcement action being taken to make the plan work.

I use the Nomorobo product as a tool to cut down on spam calls. I can understand why the bad guys want to stop such services from running. Nomorobo is the only tool I have to protect myself against spam dialers.

David King
Columbus, OH

No more Robo call plan detects a known robotic number and stops the call after one ring by answering the phone at a secondary number. I think you should require phone companies to dis-allow caller ID spooking so that the NoMoRoBo style blocking will work every time.

I had to switch my type of landline to "Voice over IP" to get NOMOROBO since my phone company doesn't offer that capability any other way. But I was willing to do it because robotic calls are a terrific nuisance! Blocking Robo calls is a MAJOR concern and should be available on all types of phone service including cell.

I am sick of the hundreds of phone calls I get every month from uninvited solicitors (robocalls). I have received calls every half hour, in one day, during a period of 5 hours from the same phone number. I receive calls from Private Name, Private Number; Unknown Name, Unknown Number; Unknown Name/000-000-0000; and the list goes on. I get at least 10 calls per day from these obnoxious people and when I answer and ask them to put me on the "Do Not Call List" they simply hang up on me and continue to call back. I have put my phone number on www.DoNotCall.gov website three times since it began but the calls never seem to stop and now they are even doing it by fax. We citizens have a right to privacy in all areas of our life and these intruders are not welcomed in any home or business that I know of. The phone companies need to do something to stop these intruders. I tried to get something done by Verizon but they did not offer any assistance. How greedy can they be for the almighty dollar? Please pass legislation that will stop these people from calling day and night, sometimes at 6:00 am.. I am forced to take my phone off the hook every night before bed so they can't wake us up before the alarm; but we cannot be reached by family or law enforcement, in the night, if there is an emergency.

The FCC he's become to friendly with the industry that they were created to oversee. They do this at the expense of their employer the taxpayer. As a person who has trouble getting to the phone I am not pleased when it is a robo call. I have not solicited these calls and want these calls to be stopped. They interfere with my privacy rights. When they start paying for my phone bill they can call me, and only then.

Do you get hundreds of calls wanting money just because you donated a few times? Are you interrupted at dinner, on weekends when you want to sleep in? Once organizations have your number, you become fair game to call morning, noon and night week in and week out. They are phone stalkers! These calls honestly have a negative effect on my well-being!

So please please please let us all continue to have these nuisance calls blocked.

Shame on you for even considering limits to robocalls.

FBI is concerned about your home's safety; buy our security system.

Despite their saying it is the last call; we get the calls over and over again.

I get multiple spam calls everyday from fake numbers. Always the same person, the location always changes. The numbers are never real. Because of that, and because sometimes they are outside of the country, I can't use my call block feature. I work nights and get woken up everyday for fake calls. I implore you, as a simple citizen to do the right thing and ensure we customers have numerous and easy abilities to use tools on our phone accounts to forcefully and proactively block robo calls. Tools like Nomo robo need to be MORE AVAILABLE, not less. This is the only effective device i have seen so far to protect us from relentless marketeers. I receive about 8-10 robo calls per day. I've tried to stop them through my service provider (AT&T) and by trying to communicate with the companies who are calling. I have been on the "no call list" since it was 1st available, yet nothing works to stop these people. I finally found NOMOROBO who won the contest that you created to try & reduce the robo calls. This program has been a godsend by catching almost every robocall. The one it doesn't catch can be added to their list very easily by going online & entering the number. The best thing is that not one of my personal calls have been stopped including my reminders from the pharmacy which are automated calls. This program is GREAT!

Nomorobo has been more than a convenience to me. I have a sleep disorder, and this system has helped me block incoming calls while I am trying to sleep. Also, with severe arthritis it is frustrating to get up to answer call being generated by a computer. I have the cooperation of my doctors, pharmacies, etc., in not generating reminder calls, I don't use my phone system very much, but I am willing to pay for it to have it for emergencies. The phone is for MY use, and I should be able to dictate how it can be used.

Robocalls are highly annoying and I do not want to receive them. I am strongly in favor of having products available that will block robocalls.

I am receiving approximately 8 robo calls each day. It does no good to ask them to remove your number. They just keep calling all hours of the day & night. They know the FCC is on there side. I have been threatened and cussed at. All total I am receiving calls from about 40 different callers. The FCC needs to allow the owners of the called numbers to block them. I have many friends who have canceled there land line because of all the robo calls. It is an option I am also thinking about. HELP!!

Kenneth Ball

You MUST allow Robocalls to be block. We receive appx 5 - 10 calls calls every evening. Starting appx 5pm its nonstop. Those who thought I was exaggerating, I had them come over and listen to the phone ring. Finally, with the help of Nomerobo at least the phone only rings once for all of these calls. We have made the decision to cancel our home line if we are unable to block them.

Jana Weaver

Seriously, I work for someone who uses this system and deal with angry people daily. Some get 30 or more calls a day. Some are called in the wee hours of the morning, primarily those who have moved or are traveling.

Many numbers are associated with family members and they will get called too. Parents call beyond angry as they protect their families.

I HATE having to calm them down.

I HATE getting these calls...both cell phone and landline. They are relentless.

They skirt the do not call law.

I am on the list and so are many that I speak with.

Stop this. Don't you hate all of the above too?

We love Nomorobo; it is saving our sanity. So many, many times every day the phone rings - and then it stops after one ring, because it was a robo call and Nomorobo has identified it for us. Instead of rushing to the phone (and I have arthritis so that in itself is a challenge) only to realize that it is an annoyance call, we just pause to see if it stops after the first ring and then we smile and thank Nomorobo!! PLEASE don't take it away!!!

The availability to me of blocking robocalls is necessary! I am an older adult and I am bothered at least 4-5 times a day with these annoying calls. I have been bothered when sleeping, sick, and after the loss of a dear friend. First, I don't want credit cards, I have enough. Next, these calls...most of the time there would be no one at the other end. They're too busy robocalling that they don't complete the call. This is very invasive of my privacy. The first time I heard of NOMOROBO and that it was free I was ecstatic. Finally an end to these aggravating calls. The FCC and all the phone carriers should hire the NOMOROBO company to block everyone's phones! Hopefully, the Government/FCC will listen to me/us, the taxpayers and support this. Thank you.

Robocallers are some of the most annoying disturbances in modern society. What right do "in your face", marketers have to disturb any American during the course of their day. Regardless if Robocalls occur on a land-line or cel-phone, Robocalls are a constant disruption to the recipients productivity and are very aggravating. How many times have we all been disturbed by Robocallers right after sitting down with our family for dinner?

I signed up on the Federal "Do Not Call List" when it was first created. The "Do Not Call List" was a step in the right direction. It did reduce the amount of Robocalls that I receive, however these annoying calls still continue. I have reported several violators to the FCC, however these annoying Robocalls continue. This is why I now use a Robocall Blocking Service.

Robocalls Blocking Services provide Americans with a tool to fight back against these aggressive marketers that only are concerned with their pursuit of profits at all costs. It is nothing more than a numbers game to the aggressive marketers. They have no concern about the pest to society that they have become.

Bottom Line....Robocalls interfere with nearly all Americans fundamental constitutional right, The Constitutional Right to Pursue Happiness", and to live in peace, without harassment. Any regulation that the FCC can adopt, or tool that can be made available, to stop Robocallers should be embraced and encouraged by the FCC.

Everyday citizens are watching FCC decisions. We will weigh-in, in force, when the FCC renders its decision on Robocall Blocking Services. Please make the right decision to protect American citizens, and help make the United States society a better place for us all.

My husband and I are in our 60s. We subscribe to nomorobo. Without this service, we would be bothered by unwanted and often criminal robocalls several times a day. I mentioned our ages because after turning 60 we became "easy targets" for supposedly the worst of these robocallers. "We need to fix your computer, we need to verify your social security numbers, verify your credit card number, etc. "We are not yet the easy prey they are hoping for, but our lives are much better by not having our time wasted, our lives disrupted or having to be on constant alert to not having our financial info stolen by a phone call. It's an unwanted intrusion into our home and we and anyone else who does not want such intrusions should have easy access to having it stopped.

I'm tired of robocalls. They call all day long, day after day, and you do nothing about it. As an example, "Novatel" (414-877-5571) has called me constantly -- December 30th (11:21 a.m.), January 2nd (11:12 a.m.), January 5th (10:44 a.m.), January 6th (10:59 a.m.), January 7th (3:06 p.m.), January 8th (11:49 a.m.). And that's just one company. Thank God for Nomorobo. They blocked each and every one of these, but many other calls go through.

I hate the constant interruptions from robocalls. I particularly hate it because I am on the national do not call list and that seems to mean nothing to any of them. I also get a lot of calls with fraudulent purposes and that also is hard to get rid of. I therefore demand that call blocking services need to be allowed. If the phone companies are not going to provide this service for free or as a part of the monthly fees, then a service like Nomorobo is essential.

I feel that phone companies should be able to block these for free and should provide call tracing as well for free for these kinds of calls, but they do not want to because it would eat into their income as callers would just not do it if their calls are going to be blocked.

I hate robocalls. They are an insult to my intelligence. Furthermore, I would not buy anything they are selling, even if I did answer them. Thank God for caller ID! The worst thing about them is that if you are gullible enough to answer one, usually there is no one on the other end when you first say "Hello". If you're still on the line 15-30 seconds later when someone at the other end finally realizes that you have picked up the call, you are subjected to a barrage of sales pitches, non-stop. I have a quick answer for these people-just say you're not interested and hang up. Pity the poor individual that does not know how to do this, or is just too polite. I'm sure there are plenty. I don't need or want timeshares, insurance, "lower interest rate" credit cards, or any of the other myriad of solicitations being offered over my PRIVATE phone. These calls are obtrusive, and are a blatant interruption of my privacy. They call at all hours, including Sunday morning. They totally disrespect and ignore my numbers on the do-not-call list and their latest ploy has been to use a local area code to fool homeowners into answering their unsolicited calls. Surely something can be done to stop such practices.

Graham

They invade the privacy of my home and waste my time, usually at the most inconvenient moment. They even make themselves sound like they are a "real" human being. I have had enough! I should have the right to block these calls if I want and I definitely do want them to STOP.

I'm sure there's a reason you are blocking my phone from rejecting robo calls, and I would guess it has something to do with $, but the number of robocalls that infringe on my privacy daily is unacceptable, absurd, and increasing!

Why is it that I have no say in stopping these intruders... stopping them from disrupting my day, infringing upon my personal time...on my life, not to mention the calls that come when someone in my family is sleeping or ill. How absurd to deny me the right to control this issue.

Do you even know what's happening? One of these jerks called me daily except for weekends for a total of 147 times! (I have the phone log to prove it.) And the FCC is telling me, "too bad?" Deal with it?

How dare you prevent me from my right to protect my family from ALL forms harassment. The freedom of these robo-callers, these unwanted intruders, should end where mine begins.

Nomorobo is one the best things I've found to allow me to keep my privacy. When I lived in NC, all those annoying unrequested calls were blocked within a month after I signed up. Here in CA, only certain companies allow blocking of unwanted calls. It's totally ridiculous! Robocalls should be outlawed; it isn't fair that strangers are calling me at home bothering me! I am an avid proponent of robocall blocking products. Just as with the e-mail spam, telemarketing and junk mail before it, we consumers need a means to ensure our privacy and provide us with effective means to combat the growing sophistication used by telemarketers and other more nefarious people seeking to get personally identifiable information by posing as a bank representative or support person. Please support our right to peacefully protect ourselves.

Robocalls are a nuisance, a disturbance of the peace. One should have the option of blocking all of them.

I'm shocked and surprised that even though all my phone numbers--landline and cell--are on the Federal "Do Not Call" list I still receive robocalls and other unwanted calls from solicitors on a daily basis. Please stop this madness by blocking robocalls and increasing penalties for any entity or person in violation of the "Do Not Call" list protections.

If there is something that can be rid of that I'm sick and tired of, it's definitely robocalls. Please allow cellphones to block them.

I appreciate the work NOMOROBO does on my landline. I would like to have the same feature on my cellphone. About 50% of calls on my cellphone are from some kind of solicitations, people I do not know or never contacted.

I keep my cellphone number very private and would like to continue to use as I am pleased, not to give someone the right to call me at any time of the day or night.

I do not want anyone who I don't know to be able to call me on the phone. It is an invasion of my privacy and I totally support Nomorobo in their efforts to block these annoying, unwanted phone calls!

Diamond bar California

I am constantly plagued by robocalls with 4-5 per hour from the same phone number. If I do answer it, there is no one on the line to ask to be removed from their call list. I call the number back to find it is disconnected. I want the FCC to take all measures possible to insure that we can avail ourselves of robocall blocking products.

Scott & Pam Simos

Allow me to block robocalls.

Oak Park, CA

I have had my home tel.no. as well as cell# for several years now only to discover that these nuisance calls have just about quadrupled. That's how much good the FCC No Call Program has worked....IT DOESN'T....In the last 12 months, I have personally asked callers when I can get to a real person to take my name off his list, to no avail. I have even yelled profanitiy at them....nothing works, they just keep callin....

OUR phone companies should be required to technologically fix it so that I can BLOCK any call I want. This should be a req mt. for all phone cos.

This is REDICULOUS....

DARYL G. HUBBARD

Robocalls are annoying. We should be able to block unwanted calls at home and on our cell phones.

Santa Clarita, CA

There is nothing more annoying than being interrupted in the middle of something to answer the phone only to find there is no one there for 2 minutes!!!! I have asked to be put on DO NOT CALL LIST, and have asked them to remove me from their lists, but to no avail..... and if I just hang up on them....they have called back every 5 minutes with no one on the other end!!!! I love having the nomorobo feature on my phone. It has stopped most of these annoying calls.

Linda Poulter
College Point, NY

The landline phone has become a method of assault in our culture based on all the phone solicitors who call on a daily basis. Putting our name on the "do not call" list doesn't take care of the entire problem, and it is less effective all the time, even when we renew it. The phone solicitor assault is even more egregious when it is a robocall. And robocalls now come in at all times of day. The phone is for optional communication, and being called by a robot is not my choice, not my option. Please allow me to use this optional communication device the way I would like. I am the one paying for it.

Christina Engelbrecht

If a NEWT GINGRICH robocall wakes me out of my weekend slumber at 8am EVER AGAIN, I can not be held responsible for my actions.

Is this phone number and the $42 I spend each month to have the number as my personal home number worth nothing?

I would like my FRIENDS and FAMILY to have the opportunity to contact me in case of EMERGENCIES on a Saturday morning at 8am. NOT Newt and his political agenda.

You must allow us the opportunity to OPT OUT of such calls. They RUIN MY LIFE. They are in direct opposition to my pursuit of happiness.

SERIOUSLY! How is this even happening in 2015 America? Please get it together.

Robocalls HOUNDED us mercilessly in the run-up to end-of-year charitable contributions. So I told one charity we'd supported that we were withdrawing our support because of the incessant calls pitching for our contribution.

Before my ability to use Nomorobo, my household was plagued with telemarketing calls. I never do business over the phone, so this was not only a nuisance, but also a complete waste of time.

Nomorobo helped alleviate the annoyance. Please preserve my option not to be incessantly annoyed in my home for nothing.

Mark C.
Hawthorne, New York

Phone solicitations have become ridiculous. They have now have Nomorobo to give me some quiet. It wastes my time to answer the phone and then hang up when I realize it's a robocalls. Now I wait for the second ring if Nomorobo allows it. It GREATLY reduces my wasted time. I would prefer if the FCC would enforce DoNotCall lists. Productivity is being lost here and only NoMoRoBo is doing something about.

The do not call list is not working. I get seven or more calls a day. When I get home after work I don't want to be harassed by my phone which I pay the bill and taxes. The phone is for my use not every company that wants to make a buck. NOMOREROBO catches about a third of the unwanted calls for which I'm thankful. My husband and I expect our home to be a place of peace and quiet, where we are free from unwanted intrusions - but unfortunately, we have been receiving so many automated calls that we feel like we are under assault in our own home!! It should be up to us to choose whether or not solicitors can disturb is in our own home.

Laurie Meyers

My family gets infuriated with telephone marketers. I pay my phone bill to facilitate communications of MY CHOICE at MY CONVENIENCE. We use our phone to call to obtain information, and to enjoy conversations with friends and family.

Sometimes when we are eating dinner, or reading, or involved in our daily activities the phone rings. The enjoyment of our life is interrupted. It is so annoying to have a marketer (usually of questionable intelligence) try to sell me something I have ZERO interest in purchasing. If I was interested - I would be calling them.

Nomorobo is rated highly in our household, right next to sliced bread!

Before I installed this service I was receiving telemarketer phone calls all day long. I still receive charity and political calls, which is ok and I can block them if I want to. This service has definitely cut back on the robocalls and I really appreciate it. The "do not call" list which I have been on for years does not work at all!! This service does work. Even when the phone answerer picks up the call it disconnects it immediately. Thank goodness for that.

Since we installed nomorobo on our landline we have had unexpected peace at home. Someone made a point that legitimate telemarketers honor the Do Not Call lists. Sources of robo calls aren't legitimate business people -- they run scammers. Why would the mobile phone companies support these scammers? We're sooooo tired of getting these calls multiple times a day and multiple days of the month. It's invasion of privacy and an insidious threat to the usual targets: seniors, poorly educated, and the low economic population.

Lyle & Susan Burstad

Irving Ameti

In spite of having signed up for the federal "Do Not Call" list, robocalls continue unabated. These calls violate the law and the callers do not check "do not call" lists. The FTC even awarded a cash prize for a mechanism to stop these calls. The FCC must order all telephone companies to do what they can to block these calls at the customer's request. Consumers should have the right to decide who can and can't call them. When robocalls use useless caller ID (ie: "800 service" or "New Jersey") they make it nearly impossible for consumers to screen these calls. When robocalls claim they're from "cardmember services" and it turns out to be a scam to get your social security number with a promise of lower interest rates on your credit cards they put people at risk for identity theft. The robocalls must be stopped and technology to block them must be both permitted and made available to all consumers.

Joshua Dubnick

I pay for my telephone service. I should be able to block any unwanted calls I want, including robocalls. Please make telephone companies provide this service . Nomorobo has been a wonderful service. I am not bothered at home by unsolicited telephone calls asking for donations or trying to sell me something. There are many less intrusive methods for these companies to solicit my business or donations. I see them on facebook, emails and during Google searches. I do not need them ringing my personal telephone . Thank you

The Do Not Call list is not 100% effective. Blocking calls through my phone company's website can only do so much. Nomorobo has effectively silenced my phone from all of those maddening calls. I am sick of Robo calls. I pay for my phone service. I should be able to set up my account to suit my needs. I hate Robo calls and I will never respond or buy anything from anyone who calls me in that manner. And I think it is especially offensive that politicians are excluded from any current "blocks". I have been on a "do not call" list for years and I still receive calls. I think they should be fined severely enough so that they do not keep calling and ignoring the complaints. They are irritating and probably not working that well for the companies doing them. I don't know anyone who answers their phone when they don't know the caller. It is invasion of privacy and we should not have to deal with it

Denver, Colorado

How can anyone in their right mind not want to be able to stop these pesky ROBOCALLS? Coming at all hours of the day and evening. I don't want to be disturbed by these bothersome calls.

It makes one think that the phone companies are getting paid to allow these unwanted call bother us.

With caller ID, I monitor the calls. If I don't know the number calling, I don't answer. It's a shame. I shouldn't have to put up with this.

The majority of calls that I receive are random and repeated robocalls from solicitors and scammers (often indistinguishable). Easy to use call blocking solutions are required to enable seniors to protect themselves from such calls and to prevent calls from invading the sanctity of homes at all hours of the day and night. The Do Not Call Lists are ineffective as are attempts to prosecute violators since they rapidly change locations, phone numbers, and identities. Services and minutes that consumers pay for should not be subject to such abuse.

It's ridiculous that the general population has to spend a fortune in time and money to block unsolicited spam calls, and be afraid to answer the phone in their own home. It's harassment and it needs to end.

Rich Hawkins
Sterling, VA

It's terribly annoying to have robocalls coming all the time. Nomorobo helps some. FCC should do its part to make it illegal for uninvited computerized robocalls coming to my home. One should not make money at the expense of peace and quiet of any citizen's home.

I am sick and tired of the phone ringing everyday at certain times day I , day out from robo calls! I complained to comcast who said they provided the service to block it. On the surface, they promised to help, but the robo calls keep coming in! That's going to have to stop! Please help protect my right from this disgusting invasive practice.

Seattle, WA

Seriously are you people in Washington ALL out of your minds??!! Thank God this company created the nomorobo program to FINALLY STOP the NONSTOP harassment from these scumbag-dirtbag SCAM telemarketers!!

They scam seniors, poor people, the disabled it's disgusting and you want to allow it?!!

I get up to 6 to 7 calls daily and these Slimeballs constantly change their numbers so they can attempt their continued harassment over and over again nonstop!! Most of these lowlifes are calling from out of the country but can get any USA phone number and area code they want and block their number from us and we're supposed to have no recourse??

The National Do Not Call Registry is an absolute complete joke!! What is wrong with you people at the FCC that you want to allow this? Oh that's right I suppose another corporate pay off to line all of your pockets!!!!

This is disgusting and pathetic and we might as well be living in a Third World country for you to even entertain this as a topic of concern.

Why don't you idiots worry about the real issues going on in the United States not taking away a program that blocks these menacing calls.

Not only can I block with nomorobo thank God I can also block these scumbags through my carrier and you want to take all this away for what reason?? What a bunch of ignorant douche bags you are!!!

Los Angeles CA

The Do Not Call registry is nice, but as you know, not completely effective. Services like NoMoRobo have done a tremendous amount to help us avoid dozens of robo calls every month. Please do all you can to support such services. Also, if we could remove the exemption the politicians enjoy, that would be great too. Every election season we get dozens of calls per week by some idiot politician interrupting our dinner. They shouldn't be able to exempt themselves from the law, and we should be able to block those calls too!

Chris Rink

I live in a small town in a largely rural state, Oklahoma. I had no idea how bad the robocall situation was until I retired last year. In my little town in my rural state I was averaging eleven robocalls PER DAY at my house on my land line. I have had to buy a call blocker just to survive! Not only is it annoying but also dangerous. Most of the calls were attempting to obtain private data or impersonating Microsoft in an effort to takeover my PC or selling something with the assurance that Medicare would pay for it, etc. In other words, robocalls are scams or spoofs that can harm people.

My internet provider, owned by AT&T, provides software in an attempt to block junk mail. Why shouldn't the same company provide the consumer with a means to block robocalls?

Robo calls are a profound form of invasion of privacy. As long as there is a proven block for these types of calls on landlines, the mobile phone industry is negligent for not taking advantage of nomorobo for their customers. It becomes an abuse on the part of the mobile phone companies not to provide a means for their customers to utilize this tool.

On October 2, 2014 my husband died of cancer. During his illness I was constantly interrupted by many robocalls each day. I have blocked as many as I can and have used nomorobo to help me block them. People should not have their lives interrupted by these calls! My husband required 24/7 care and did wind up in a nursing facility. However, before he ended up in the nursing facilities, there were many, many days that we sat here waiting for doctors/nurses/hospitals/insurance companies to call us back, To have the phone line tied up by these robocalls is wrong!!! I am outraged that I do NOT have the power to control who calls my home. When a person is terminally ill, it is important that the phone line remain free for medical personnel to make contact, not some idiot selling something! I want control over the phones I pay for and I want it now. I am damn sick and tired of it!! Give me the power to block each and every one of them!! Thank You!

Anita (David) Phillips

I consider robocalls to be an invasion of privacy. I never answer my phone until I've checked my caller ID. If it's not a number I recognize, I don't answer. It is annoying when sitting in another room, the phone rings, I jump up to see if it's a familiar name/number. We're in our 80's, and it's very annoying to get up and go to the phone to see who's calling. I'm now understanding why so many people have given up their landlines and rely only on their cell phone.

Bob & Bonnie Beck

It's my phone and I don't want robo calls. I should be able to easily block all robo call especially during election time.

Originally, I was pleased with the DoNotCall list; it helped keep spam phone calls from getting to me. But in recent years, companies have ignored the DoNotCall list. Apparently there is no enforcement for the list, so spam phone calls have become rampant. We either need enforcement of the list, or some other way of protecting ourselves. Technology is available to stop robocalls at least. We need to be allowed to use this technology. Phone companies must allow us to block unwanted calls.

Why do we have to be targeted several times every day by these ridiculous telemarketer calls even sometimes when we are involved doing something important? We need robo blocking products and robocall blocking ability to escape from these calls. If we are interested in something, we would contact them first, no need to call us. I am sick and tired of having my home phone (and yes, even my cell phone, for which I PAY for EVERY call in or out) hijacked by robocalls. I want ALL robocalls blocked from ALL sources unless I have specifically put their number on an allowed phone list. I work various shifts, and these calls often wake me up. What was the point of a "DO NOT CALL" list when these telemarketers can get around the laws! I would also like robocalls from charities and political calls barred. NO CALLS!!! Most of the telemarketers that call are trying to get me to sign up for financial services of dubious value, and I fear many are downright fraudulent. Give me back my freedom! I already pay enough to the phone company -- no one should be using a service I PAY FOR without my express permission!

Robocalls have had a very bad impact on our family. They come at times when it is very inconvenient to answer and seem to concentrate on ruining my dinner. For the last 2 to 3 years I have had the robocall blocker from NoMoRobo. This product works perfectly and has enhanced the time that I have to spend with my family.

I am tired of being bothered by these robocalls. If I hang up another number calls right back. I am 63 and not in good health. It is a constant bother to myself and my husband to continue getting these calls. If I wanted their services or sales " I would call them". It has gotten to the point we have to take the phone to the dinner table, because this is the time they call. Also, first thing in the morning. Just what I want to do. is answer the phone to calls that I Do NOT WANT! Please Stop bothering me, and I won't bother you. My time is better spent!

Please allow me to block unwanted calls by blocking all rob ovals. They are a nuisance and constantly invade my privacy.

Robocalls are a daily nuisance. I have tried everything to get these pests to leave us alone. A little help arrived when we found out about Nomorobo. The phone still rings constantly, but at least it hangs up after 2 rings. And, we pay extra every month on our phone bill to have an unlisted number! So we are twice hurt by these robo calls and the phone company who is supposed to be protecting our privacy. This is outrageous.

Craig & Margaret Wert

I love having Nomorerobo on our phone! I only wish it could catch all the robo calls that come in, but it gets most of them! Everyone should be able to set this up on their phones!!!

I am very adamant in requesting that you, who have the power stop these robocalls. They invade my privacy and I am an old senior citizen who can't jump up and answer these moronic calls. Dinner time is there favorite time to call and that sir is BS.

The public needs robocall blocking software.

The do not call list does NOT work. I get at least 6 calls a day and I'm sick of it! Something must be done to stop this annoying practice. I will never buy anything from anyone who annoys me with unwanted calls. So why can't we put a stop to them?

I believe I should have the ability to block robo-calls easily. it's my phone, I pay for it, I should be able to control who can and cannot contact me.

We have an unlisted number and are on the don't call list. We still get many unsolicited calls, annoying ones trying to sell us things we do not want. we would love to have these blocked.

Studio City CA

Our lives are so much better at home now that we are not constantly barraged by robocalls! We used to get so aggravated, and felt so helpless against them. Now, we don't get unwanted calls. While I am not in favor of government forcing business to provide certain services, I would beg you to not prevent services such as Nomorobo from being provided. I wouldn't want to live without it again.

Colorado Springs, CO

I here by request that the FCC let me control who calls me. I get at least 15 teller marketer calls a day. It is really frustrating to have them keep calling you even after you tell them a dozen times to quit calling and to take your number off of their call list. They refuse to listen to people even when you cuss and yell at them over the phone, which is probably against FCC rules also, but you get to the point where you do not care any more, you just want them to stop calling you, especially when you have had no previous contact with them. I really like NOMOROBO calling system because it has all but eliminated these types of phone calls.

Donald Myatt

As an American consumer, I should have the right to block the calls that I do not want to receive. They badger consumers, thinking that they can get business. It's not right! It should be stopped ! And I think I not only have the right to screen my calls, but I have the right to choose which companies I want to buy from and do business with. Thank you for considering my request. I am a senior citizen on social security, and I do not like to be badgered at this point in my life!!!!!! Thank You. Sincerely,

I am a retired systems engineer and had hope to enjoy my retirement. Before I implemented NOMOROBO I was getting more than 10 calls a day at all hours. This was very frustrating and made my life very stressful. Even after turning this robocall blocker on I still get about 3 calls a day. I pay $30 a month for phone service and feel the phone company should find a solution to this problem.

Joseph Filocco

Landlines have become a nightmare with the amount of marketing calls that they get. In one day we get 5 - 10 marketing calls. I should have the right to use any means I deem necessary to block those calls. I use Nomorobo and it is great. The phone rings once and it is done. I don't have to sit through the 4 rings, wait for the answering machine to pickup just to find out it is a telemarketer. It is time to crack down on telemarketers. The phone companies need to offer marketing blocking technologies

Robocall blocking has given us back, control of our phone. The phone may ring, but not long enough to disturb anyone. Without robocall blocking, we probably would have had our phone disconnected as a result.

I should be able to block any calls that I want to block, as I'm the one who is paying for the phone! The calls are a source of disruption and aggravation and to tell me I can't put an end to them if I choose to is abhorrent.

Robocalls are the "Black Plague" of the 21st Century. They are horribly annoying. Every effort should be made to allow consumers to block them as necessary. I used a Telezapper for years until the telemarketers wised up and programmed their machines to not recognize the "disconnected" tones. I am not interested in anything a robocalling telemarketer has to offer.

Chris Franz
Fort Washington, MD

Our phone service is a convenience we pay for. Unfortunately, this convenience has been hijacked by anyone who pays for the privilege of using our phones to disturb us. In reality, most robo-calls not only disturb the recipients by their mere existence, but if the recipient answers the call, there is very seldom anyone to talk to when you answer it. Our phones have become nuisances to be used against us at our cost. We should be required to opt in on an individual caller basis to even receive any robo-calls. Robo-calls are possibly the greatest aggravating nuisance of this age.

Geoff and Joan Shannon

I would like to stop the robocalls. It cost me minutes and money to be annoyed . Please put a stop to these calls

With spyware on the Internet, I am getting more and more unwanted phone calls to go with the spam on my e-mail. I wish there were some way I could do more than just "opt out" on unwanted commercial calls. Can you help? My local phone provider can't, or won't.

Robo calls have gotten out of control. If you do try to call back to see who it is, you get told that the number is no longer in service. Many of them are Internet calls. Nobody can block these kinds, nor from a toll free number.

I get woken up at all hours by the phone and when I answer it is either a recording and or silence. Even the live telemarketers are disrespectful and use only my first name, which I have never used except for legal purposes, and will not take no for an answer. I am 68 years old and have no use for what they are selling and am too polite to slam the phone down but the courtesy is wasted on the pushy sales people. Nomorobo has saved my sanity and should be available to anyone who wants to use it. I am a disabled veteran and deserve to have my peace now.

robocalls drive me crazy. i work at home and they're constant interruptions. i ask to be taken off their call list and they hang up.

the robocallers must be stopped.

los angeles, ca

You can stop the scam calls. All you have to do is return control of our phones to us. We pay for them. We pay for unlisted numbers robocallers use to disturb us and scam us. Our phone companies have the ability to block the calls we do not want to accept. They are the key. If they will not do this voluntarily, you must make them do it. Please make them give us, the consumer, the right to be contacted by only those parties we choose. We pay them for the ability to communicate with those we wish to, but our telecommunication providers appear to have absolutely no concern for our wishes. We pay them. We should decide who contacts us. Do something.

I hate robocalls. I hate all kinds of telemarketing but I especially hate robocalls.

They're supposed to be illegal in California. It's not enforced and the prohibition's ignored. The phone company won't do anything.

Nomorobo's been a godsend. They block at least three, maybe five nuisance calls each and every day.

LOVE Nomorobo !!!! Don't tell me how I can control who calls me!! None of your biz who I want to allow calling me -- you paying my bill? Answering my phone during dinner? I don't think so !! Butt out of my business, seriously, I've had it up to my eyeballs w govt interfering in personal stuff of the public Robocalls drive me crazy- they are an invasion of my privacy - they must be controlled. Please allow programs that disable robocalls.

Sandra wells

I pay the bill, I don't want to hear from people that I have no personal or business interest in. I can call the people or businesses that I want to have a relationship with. It is really an invasion of my privacy, it like having strangers knocking all day or night on your front door or approaching you when you are spending time with your family and friends, having your religious service interrupted. If you want to allow this then have the unwanted callers to pay a fee to me to be bothered by them. I don't open unsolicited mail or invite unwanted people into my home. Give me and other americans the same freedoms that you and other public figures enjoy, a private number, a way to reject unsolicited calls, emails, faxes, mail or anything else that we have no interest in. Block any call that is "spoofed", or that has no valid caller ID. Have some "BALLS", and identify these people, and companies, apply a fine of $1000 for 1st offense, $5000 for 2nd and jail time for the 3rd offense. We have laws to prevent bullying, but, we allow crooks and swindlers to call and abuse, and extort hard earned funds from elderly and innocent victims. I don't care about the outrageous profits that these call mills and advertisers make buying and selling list of possible victims, fine them for providing my numbers to people that I have no relationship with.

Snellville, GA

I'm seriously annoyed with unsolicited calls. We get daily calls from all sorts of charities, political associations, etc. I don't appreciate the calls and also don't want to be rude to people doing their jobs. But, what really annoys me is answering the phone to hear some computer telling me to hold on and be connected to a representative. If I wait, someone comes on the line to ask who I am and what I want. You called me, idiot! Thank goodness Nomorobo is here to help us ward off the onslaught of calls.

Michael & Mary Joiner

I am sick to death of unwanted robot calls at all hours of the day and night. I should have the right to block those calls as much as they have the right to send them. Enough is enough!

Give us a break I get 10+ robocalls a day on my home phone and I'm on every no-call list there is. Can't you put a stop to these annoying calls so that no one can call you unless you 'opt in' the 'opt out' sure isn't working!

PJ Ridley

Telemarketing and automated robo calls are more than a minor annoyance they are a major issue, as most calls promote scams or illegal offers. My phone company does not allow call blocking. The FTC ran a contest to find a method to block robo calls. The phone carriers are thwarting the winning method. Please force the phone carriers to allow the FTC approved method. The do not call list is totally ineffective.

I HATE ROBOCALLS! I DO NOT PAY TO HAVE A PHONE IN MY HOUSE SO THAT I CAN RECEIVE UNSOLICITED RECORDED MESSAGES! I DON'T CARE WHO IS SENDING THEM - IF IT IS NOT IMPORTANT ENOUGH FOR A HUMAN TO CALL I DON'T WANT TO HEAR IT!

William Alkire

Please allow NOMOROBO to continue its service of blocking annoying, unwanted robotic phone calls.
Receiving such calls is terrible and an invasion of my privacy!

Ingleside, IL

I currently have robo call blocking and am very grateful that the phone now only rings once instead of several rings before my answering machine would pick up and then my outgoing message would play out loud while I'm trying to watch a TV show. I was repeatedly pausing my show so the rings and message would play out. I would get several calls every evening all the way up until 9 pm. How frustrating is that, that you can't enjoy a nice quiet night home relaxing before bedtime. Robo calling is harassment. And they keep calling night after night after night. People have the right to quiet without having to resort to unplugging or turning off their phones.

Carolyn Karp
Crownsville, MD

I'm tired of getting robocalls and want the ability to block them. I'm the one paying the phone bill and I think it's only right that I be able to limit the types of calls that come in to my phone.

I'm using Nomorobo and it has been a great help, but I think there's more to be done.

Carol Cartwright

Blocking to vocals on my home phone has rely decreased unwanted, annoying calls. I need it on my cell phone. Force the phone companies to make it available to me. It will help make up for some of the illegal charges made to me when they were aped to charge for phone services I did not order.

The policy should be "don't call me - I'll call you" maybe this also can be applied to browser ads. I have the internet so I'm capable of looking for a business - free up my browser space.

I am disabled & spend a lot of my time at time. Due to my disability, I have considerable problems trying to sleep. It is a real luxury to me, if I am able to fall asleep for an hour here or there. Receiving endless robocalls at my home are extremely annoying & interrupts the rare occasions of sleep I get! I do not want to be awakened 8 o'clock on a Saturday morning to listen to some lousy telemarketer. I do not want telemarketers calling my house 5 or 6 times a day, everyday, to try to sell me something I have already said I don't want.

I like the system we are using--I think it is nomorerobos--except that the phone still rings once and then stops. That is really nice. What would be even better is if the phone didn't ring even once--that disturbs my afternoon nap.

Robocalls are a royal pain...half the time they don't even speak and when they do it is something I am not interested in or need or asked for etc. You need to stop them and/or allow robocall blocking!!!

Robocalls and unwanted solicitations and sales calls drive me crazy! I've registered for whatever do-not-call lists I can get on. And still continue to get robocalls and sales calls. I've got nomorobo on my phone--thank goodness!--and even with that, I get these calls. Do your families enjoy this kind of interruption to their days? Do YOU like it--or are you really insulated from this stuff, unlike the vast majority of the population?

The ability to block robo calls should be not only allowed but promoted and encouraged by the FCC. Robocalls are a major problem for my home life. They call at all hours of the day, and multiply each week. All this and I don't even answer the phone! I want them to stop or be arrested, and additionally, have their business closed!!!

I have had 24 calls from telemarketers etc, between Aug 18th and Dec 12th stopped after one ring since I signed up on Nomorobo. These calls were mostly after hours saving me precious time telling them to stop calling me, yet they continued until I had the calls blocked.

Please allow everyone to continue having these calls blocked.

Robocalls are among the most serious non-lethal forms of pollution facing us in this new century. If there are effective, non-intrusive technical means to block such calls from reaching us, please do what you can to facilitate their implementation - and in any case please do not prohibit any reasonable approaches to testing and applying such blocking measures. We have been using nomorerobo for some time now, and while it is not perfect - phony Microsoft technicians from somewhere on the Indian sub-continent somehow slip through - it nevertheless is a blessing. Please give us a break!

Robocalls are the most annoying and make me think about dropping my land phone line. I am listed on the "Do Not Call" list but that does not stop the calls. Customers need products to block robocalls from coming through. I am so tired of these computerized calls some times with no one on the line, other times with recorded messages that I have no interest in. It is not unusual for the same robocall to come through day after day after day. It must be stopped.

Customers need all the help from the FCC possible.

The robo calls are outrageous. We cannot even ask them to take us off their call list.

It is unfair that we have no recourse to stop these calls (as well as political ad calls.) Please allow us to block these calls.

I have had more than my share of robocalls at all hours of the day and evening. I ask them to take my phone number off their calling list, but they do not and call time and time again. Since signing up for a robocall blocking product, it has made our lives a lot easier when we are at home having dinner or watching TV. My husband and I definitely think this should be made legal.

especially when they call my cell phone, it's MY usage they are using. Plus most robocalls are misleading in their intent. I just now swear at them... Most of the calls I get anymore are robocalls. I am so tired of getting phone calls that I don't want. I have to let them call me over and over everyday unless you let me block them. As senior citizens, these calls truly have become HARASSMENT. The sad fact is that many seniors buy in to what these people say. We have received calls for years and they are very upsetting and getting worse. The callers are getting clever and using phone numbers that one is familiar with so you answer thinking it as an important call. I have responded and tried to "opt out" of their calls but that does NOT happen. In our honest opinion, this is HARASSMENT and preys on a very vulnerable group called senior citizens. Please help aide in stopping this HARASSMENT because that is what it has become. Our idea would be that a person could opt in if they wanted to receive these types of calls; otherwise, they should stop immediately.

Over the last 8 months I have received 141 telemarketing calls. Nearly half were computer instigated. That's an average of nearly 18 calls per month; one per business day.. I like the nomorerobo blocking the telemarketing calls. I know how many 1 ring calls I get in a day (at least 3-5) and that saves me time and efforts to deal with them everytime.

I get at least three calls a day from telemarketers, and that's not counting the three or more calls each day that hang up when I pick up the phone. It is an invasion of privacy. The phone companies must make money at this or they'd put a stop to it. Please make them provide blocking services.

I love Nomo Robo. It was so complicated to set up so I had to have one of the Comcast tech people do it for me. All the Robo calls disappear after the first ring! I have been on the national do not call Registry since it started. However a few years ago it stopped being effective. I was getting dozens of Robo calls every day. Eventually they started showing up on Caller ID with a local phone number. I still get several calls a week from various live telemarketers. However they usually hang up on me after I tell them that I am on the national do not call Registry. Anything that you can do to stop this would be greatly appreciated.

As long as I pay for my service I should have say about who can call me.

Quit making it easy for the scammers of the world to take advantage of us.

Remember it's "We the people" not "We the corporations".

You already let spoofing get out of hand don't tie our hands even further.

I got a call from my own number one day, and I seriously hope they are not using my number to pull more scams on others. I pay for my number and I am not happy it is being spoofed to rip people off.

Nomorobo has drastically cut back on my unwanted calls and I am happy with the service. I can only block so many numbers and the scammers have a unlimited supply of new numbers. You see how frustrating this is for us as consumers. If you do decide to cut off services like nomorobo, I hope you publish everyone who works for the FCC's home phone number so it is available to everyone so you can feel our pain too.

p.s. DoNotCall list only works on companies who obey the law so it really offers very little protection against the crooks.

About 99% of the time when I go to my phone, I see Unavailable, Not Available, Blocked, and "area codes" from outside my area. Right now I have 25 calls from 15 different "area codes" outside my area, and several more from local ones. I have Call Blocking, but I can only block so many calls, then I have to go to the trouble of deleting some before I can block more, and most often, they can't even be blocked. If you pick up the phone to ask them not to call again, there's usually no one on the other end, and anyway that just tells them that they have reached a valid number. The "Do Not Call" list means nothing to them. I have reported some of them, but the worst offenders either don't show their whole number or they show no number at all. This is a huge nuisance. If Nomorobo can help with this problem, why shouldn't consumers have the right to use it?

I don't want my number to be called by someone calling me on a recorded line or someone trying to sell me something I don't want or need. This has to stop. I need a land line number due to health reasons and don't want or need my line tied up with these nonsense callers.

Robocalls are an invasion of my privacy. During the day robocalls waste my time and harm my ability to earn a living. I feel I have the right to employ any type of product which allows me to block robocalls and any sort of SPAM calls. I feel very strongly about this, especially because all of my phone numbers and family numbers are registered with the state and federal 'Do Not Call' programs. I've had to make many complaints with my state Attorney General office do to 'Do Not Call' violations.

Mark McDevitt

I absolutely hate it when anyone calls to try to sell me something on the telephone. I will never buy anything from such callers.

The federal Do Not Call service does not work, as I receive dozens of unwanted calls from robocalls and local merchants. The FCC or FTC should enforce the do not call rule, and impose penalties.

NoMoRobo stops about half of the unwanted calls, but new numbers keep calling me, faster than I can keep registering them.

The phone company should make it easy to block calls, and publicize that service.

NO MORE ROBOCALLS!!!! You probably have no idea how annoying they are. It's ridiculous. PLEASE stop them. We get them on holidays, weekends, and as early as 8 AM on weekdays and weekends.

I have signed up for every "no call" list ever put out. However, everyday I get dozens of robo calls. I use robo call blocking, but the phone still rings before the call can be blocked. Several callers have even figured out how to beat the robo call blocking system. There needs to be "real and certain" penalties put into violations of the do not call laws. Right now the rules, laws, etc., are useless and there is no simple way for the consumer to stop the harassment. We need an effective way that puts an end to this practice. The robo call blocking product is the best tool available to us right now, but it still allows the call to ring into the home before it diverts the call, which is annoying. We need penalties so severe and certain that the practice of violating no call lists is prohibitive. If robo calling tools can detect a robo call after it rings, then calls should pass through a call blocker before the phone rings and not allow robo calls to be completed.

I'm sick of dozens of phone calls a week, interrupting anything and everything in our home! We've been on the Do Not Call registry for years, but nothing stops the robocallers. They lie, saying they're from my credit card company, or a local contractor, or our internet provider...it's phone spam of the worst sort and we have no filters we can install.

Give us the power to live a peaceful life uninterrupted by robocalls at any and all hours (really, how is 7am or 10pm ok in anyone's book?). Give us a break!

Susan Alvaro

I believe I should have the tools to block robocalls. Our phone service provider does not currently provide this service so we use Nomorobo. We would be happy to use any solution that works effectively and do not support any attempts to take away our right to manage what calls we wish to receive.

THank you.

Please, please, please. I'm so sick of robocalls, why the hell can't I block them. I tried to get nomorobo for my phone but it says my phone company supports it, but when I try to sign up it won't do it because I don't have simultaneous ring. I would have to pay more for my phone bill to get simultaneous ring in order to block robocallers, doesn't make sense for me to have to pay my phone company more in order to not get calls I don't want!!

Robocalling is a major nuisance that needs to be stopped. Call blocking products like nomorobo really help when the Phone companies "allow" them. I use the product on my AT&T Uverse VOIP with great benefit. I wish AT&T also allowed this product on their cellular network.

Please make it easy for senior citizens to block robo calls.

It's so incessant it should be considered harassment.

I'm on the no-call list however that's not being enforced.

Atlanta, Ga

Robocalls are more than a daily nuisance -- they have become harassing. I receive robocalls every single day, multiple times a day, ANY time of the day and night, week and weekend. There is no reliable way that I know of to stop these calls -- clearly the do not call list is not sufficient for these kinds of calls. At least using Nomorobo has provided me some measure of peace, but the bottom line is that it is absurd that robocallers can have such unfettered access to my home. It is maddening and quite intrusive.

Robocalls are repeat, invasive breaches of privacy -- in a word, spam; they should be illegal. At a minimum, the public should be able to block them on personal landlines and cell phones. Businesses should have that capability as well, as they hamper productivity in the workplace.

Please do whatever is necessary to eliminate this growing problem as quickly as possible.

Thank you.

I think no one should be disturbed in the privacy of their home. You pay all your personal and private bills and you should have control on who can disturb you in your own home. This goes particularly if you are sick, in the shower, entertaining company, taking care of children, sick in bed, or just resting or on the phone with an important or long distance call. These calls should not be allowed if you should elect to have them stopped. It should not be the cost in money and time to you personally to stop them, but be able to elect to block them.

Blocking unwanted calls is a fundamental necessity in today's society. Unwanted calls are the equivalent of spam mail in email - no one in their right mind would even argue that being able to block spam mail requires so much discussion. Please, do the right thing for the public here and allow us to block unwanted calls.

Redmond, WA

Robocalls are becoming more and more of an intrusion on my family's time and privacy. I estimate that 75% of the calls to my home are robocalls. Many of these calls use a way around the caller ID function to trick you into answering the call. Due to the intrusive nature of these calls, I think the public needs an easy, inexpensive, and effective way to block these calls. The problem is getting worse all the time and demands your attention. Please help!

Please, please make it stop! Even though our phone number is unlisted and we are on the Do Not Call Registry, our phone rings multiple times a day, nearly every day, with unsolicited telemarketer calls. If we ignore them, they keep calling and calling day after day. If we answer, sometimes there's someone there and sometimes there isn't. When there is someone on the line, we ask to be removed from their calling list, but often are met with profanity. Also, if we use the Call Return feature, we find that they were using a spoofed number. These people are up to no good, won't follow the rules, and they don't give up. Please stop the robocalls! Why can't we have peace and quiet in our own homes?

My wife and I are currently serving overseas in Northern Japan. We have a Vonage phone number which is local for our home state. Due to the time difference between here and the States we receive numerous phone calls per month during the overnight hours. Having the ability to block some of those calls - the robocalls - is very important, not only to us, but to all service members and government employees/contractors serving overseas.

I observe your sliding more to commerce only, and leaving citizens suffering because of it. I think your mission is protecting US CITIZENS and standing for net neutrality, and further narrowing the ability for telemarketers to bomb us with unwanted ads. If my telephone, currently free of telemarketers, is allowed by your agency to flood ads - it will be time to get rid of the telephone.

My reaction to ads is to form a negative feeling toward the products touted.

Please do your duty, and work for citizens right to clear channels of flooding ads.

Please allow the blocking of Robo calls. I find them highly offensive and will never deal with any company that gives me a robo. Robo calls are bad enough but we will never get Congress to support a solution there.

I use a pre-pay plan on my cell phone and every robo call cost me a minimum of 25 cents. I am on the no-call list of the Commerce Department but that has become a joke for the telemarketers. I find telemarketers on of the worlds lowest life forms.

Our phone rings incessantly with sales calls. With our robocall blocking product installed, we at least get some relief. We'd love to be able to block all telemarketing calls, but until that's an option, we should be able to at least stop the automated nuisance calls.

It is quite obscene that we even have to request that phone companies provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers...for phone services WE PAY FOR. We are DISGUSTED & FURIOUS that robocalling is STILL allowed at all. What part of this is too difficult for anyone to understand?? WE WANT THE ROBOCALLING TO STOP!!! WE DO NOT WANT ROBOCALLING. WE DO NOT WANT POLITICAL CALLS. WE DO NOT WANT SURVEY CALLS. WE DO NOT WANT ANYONE CALLING WHO WE DID NOT GIVE OUR PHONE NUMBER TO. If this is too difficult to comprehend, give us YOUR phone number and we will call YOU everyday, several times a day, for as long as we want, and then maybe you will understand. We highly doubt that will happen though, because you want your privacy, just like we do.

I like the robocalls it works for me and I should be able to choose who I wish for my phone. Nothing against the phone company but they didn't do the job and after a while the block list at the phone company deleted my blocked calls and had to reblock them once more. Thanks!

Robo calls are an extremely annoying intrusion into the privacy of our homes. They are unwelcome by everyone I have talked to about this. Robo calls can tie up the phone line, preventing others from reaching me and in some cases preventing me from making calls.

Banning robo calls does not infringe on the right to free speech as companies (and politicians) have plenty of other media options for making their sales pitch.

half of my calls are robocalls. they spoof phone numbers to prevent me from not answering "obvious" calls.

the legislation is slanted in a way to encourage scams, coupled with lax enforcement of "do not call" lists creates an annoyance that preys on the non-skilled public.

I URGE you to not only allow robocall blocking but to in fact do everything in your power to stop the practice of robocalls as a gross intrusion of privacy. Robo callers are the bane of us landline owners. Beyond just annoying, they prey upon the elderly. Its a joke that the phone companies can only give you the ability to block 20 numbers from calling you. I use nomorobo and the peace and quiet is enjoyable. My parents are both in their 70s. You know how many unknown calls, Spam or spoofed calls we get its ridiculous. Calls that the do not call list does nothing about. Many of these spoofed, spammed or unwanted telemarketing calls are robo calls. Its bad enough getting these calls on a home phone but so many now get them on their cell phones. So many of the Robo calls are from scammers, who go after Seniors. I google any unknown number that calls my phone or my parents phone. I have both nomorobo and a call blocking device. These robocallers even try to get around the caller id, call blocking devices. I am a big fan of call blocking products and services. It makes lives easier even those in the Government.

Robocalls are increasingly intruding on my family's time and privacy. By my estimate, 50-75% of the calls to my home are these type of calls, and it's extremely annoying! Those who send out these calls are somehow able to disguise themselves on the caller ID in an attempt to trick a person into answering the call. I would like to have the option to block robocalls to my cell phone.

We've turned the ringer off on my home phone, because of all the robocall voice spam. You need to outlaw robocalls, and then actually enforce your regulations with large enough fines to pay the cost of your enforcement division for the first few years, and to ultimately force the robocallers out of business.

I think we should decide what calls we want to receive. We should be able to block robocalls

The FCC has been a great advocate in the battle to shut down robocalling. The easy availability of VoIP PBX technology has caused an explosion in fraudulent calls, hiding behind fake or stolen caller ID numbers. These calls cause serious financial and emotional hardship for victims of identity theft, financial scams, and harassment.

The telecommunications industry would rather let these scams continue, than have consumer-friendly regulations in place that might limit their ability to sell services to unscrupulous operators. The FCC's vital mission to protect the public from deceptive and illegal communications practices should prevail over lobbying by the telecommunications industry.

I surely would like to stop being harassed by telemarketers who ignore the DNC list and phone at 7:30am and 9:45pm, including Sunday. I'm expecting a call from a child or a contractor, so rush to the phone to hear a hang up or no message, or worse they cut me off, hang up mid-sentence when I politely ask to not be called. I get these every day, sometimes up to 10 a day, all unsolicited. I would appreciate a way to stop them, changing my number will only stop it for months at best. And that is inconvenient, having to notify everyone you want to hear from. Thanks.

Blocking robocalls is a necessity. I am a stay-at-home mom who also works from home. I receive robocalls on a daily basis. No matter what I have tried nothing has worked other than Nomorobo. I am on the national do not call list. I have asked the caller repeatedly to take me off of their list. I have reported the callers to the national do not call list. I have received as many as 8-10 robocalls in a single day. They have even resorted to using my own caller ID as their own, which I find frightening to say the least and had even called the police department for advice. These calls interrupt me while I am trying to work & have become an altogether nuisance. It had become very stressful. I am so very thankful to have a service such as Nomorobo. I don't have to stop what I am doing when the phone rings. I just wait to see if there is a 3rd ring. It has been a godsend for me. Please do not make it illegal to block these calls. If anything, the robocalls themselves should be illegal. If I can post a "No Soliciting" sign on my front door, why can't I put one on my phone line? Thank you.

Regardless what current laws from Congress say, or prior regs of the FCC, please work to change things so that WE consumers have protection from the avalanche of unsolicited Robo telephone calls. Even with our phone numbers listed on the "do not call" registry, we are inundated with unsolicited calls. Multiply our experience by the tens of millions, and you have a lot of wasted hours in this country and huge economic losses due to the lost time. Nomorobo had cut down the number of unwanted calls that I get daily. I am also registered on the Do Not Call list, doesn't really work. Nomorobo works. With the help of Nomorobo I get less interruptions of my sleep. I'm glad I saw an article about Nomorobo in my local paper. Thanks.

Robo calls and other unwanted telemarketing calls are an infuriating waste of time. Most simply ignore the "do not call" lists and call anyway. If there was a way to do it, I would block ALL of them on ALL my phones! Dear FCC, Robocalls are the worst sort of invasion of the peace, quiet and privacy of the home. Not only are we being interrupted of our personal time, but this is being done by a machine, a recording. It is a thoughtless and rude marketing device, that is only used by thoughtless, rude marketers because it is so cheep to set up, and because it receives responses from the most vulnerable and innocent members of the public - who should be protected from this sort of exploitation.

We were excited when the "Do Not Call" rolled out that there will be an end to constant telephone ringing. Our excitement was short-lived. The constant telephone ringing has started again from telemarketers using robocalls.

I moved to Lynden, WA in June 2014. I had a new phone number, one that had been previously assigned. I had to many calls to count, all from callers, businesses, scammers robocallers who had nothing to do with us. It was a nightmare. My cable phone company only allows blocking of 10 numbers. There were far more than that. I signed the number up with the Do Not Call registry. Unfortunately, the scammers and robocallers don't seem to respect the do not call list. I was lucky enough to find Nomorobo. I added my number to that registry and, over time, the robocallers stopped. I screen my calls now, do not answer the phone because I know legitimate organizations and people we know will leave a message. I look the numbers up that call and check them online....telemarketers, harassing call complaints, robocallers. Nomorobo has been a blessing. I guess the phone companies get too much money for the phone lines they rent to those awful robocallers and their like.

Supper time is sooo quiet now that I set up NoMoRoBo Calls!!!

This system is so much better than the Government attempt to solve THE SAME problem with the failed "Do Not Call" list(?)

I have been on the "Do Not Call" list almost from the beginning but with the Number and ID spoofing now used by computerized calling abusers, I was loosing the battle to have a peaceful supper!

My Phone company's allotted 30 number blocking list is full to capacity!

I have been using Nomorobo on my home phone for about a year now and WHAT A DIFFERENCE IT MAKES to the peace and quiet of my house. Annoying robot sales calls, from persons I have no intention of speaking with are dealt with in an efficient manner. This does no harm to the caller, their computers simply move on to the next number. I on the other hand am not forced to deal with what on some days is easily 8-10 unsolicited sales calls. AND I AM ON THE OFFICIAL DO NOT CALL LIST.

If cold call sales people are allowed to use technology to dial out to thousands upon thousands of phone numbers at least we the people should be able to use technology to say NO THANK YOU. It would be a serious blow to telephone/telecommunications users such as myself should the FCC or other governmental agency step in to deny me access to technology such as Nomorobo.

Robocalls are a bloody nuisance and a blight. Uninvited they intrude at all hours without regard to the disturbance they create. What's more, most of the robocalls are from scamsters and other quasi-criminals. Our phones are ours. We should be able to determine what kind of calls we receive and when we receive them.. I have been using NOMOROBO since it was made available. I have

Verizon as my phone provider, and have had no problems with Verizon not wanting Nomorobo to block robocalls. However, it appears the AH's making robocalls have found a workaround Nomorobo. I get many unwanted telemarketer calls on a daily basis - showing "Unavailable" or

"Out of area" on my caller ID. In many cases, they do not show area code either. Additionally, when I have tried to call back to test if it is a "live" number, I usually get "this number is no longer in service", which leads me to believe it's a "spoofed number". I feel strongly that the FCC should take the necessary action to require all land-line phone providers to allow their customers to install Nomorobo, if they so desire.

To take it one step further, Nomorobo should be expanded to block non-robocalls as well.

Charles M. Muse, USN, Ret.

We use NoMoRobo to block unwanted calls because Verizon's call blocking options can't do the job completely. With Verizon we can choose to block ALL calls, or block ALL calls that have no caller ID, or block calls from a limited quantity of specific phone numbers.NoMoRobo has no limit on phone numbers we can add to their database. If someone calls us and their phone number matches a number in the NoMoRobo database, we hear only one ring before the caller is disconnected. Why is this a problem for Verizon ? Why doesn't Verizon offer a similar service ?

All companies providing phone services should allow consumers the right to block robo calls. With the vast reaches of the internet, we have the ability to research and purchase goods and services tailored to our lives needs. I need robocalls to be blocked because they are very annoying. I support products like Nomorobo to assist in blocking robocalls.

New York City

I think it is very important for you to consider robocall blocking on cell phones. They purposely call, writing my phone number as the caller ID to cover up who really calls. It is a problem as I have to block it but not sure I really can although iphone has functions. Please consider blocking robocalls on cell phones too! I feel the robocalls are an invasion of privacy and those on landline has been reduced due to Nomorobo. Thank you consideration.

ROBOCALLS are an invasion of privacy. I block them on my VOIP landline and wish to block them on my cell phone.

David Schwoelger

Robocalls have gotten out of hand and are harassing me without my permission. Its evident that businesses as well as politicians will continue their harassment unless consumers have the ability to block unwanted phone calls that disrupt their lives. Consumer protection should be the #1 item to you. You need to allow consumers the right to block such calls at no charge to protect the consumer's personal privacy.

If the schemes perpetrated by phone scammers -- identity theft, real estate fraud, securities fraud, even extortion -- were conducted via mail, they would likely be prosecuted for violating federal mail fraud statutes.

But while the US government looks unkindly upon anyone using the USPS for fraudulent activities, phone scammers seem to do so with impunity, because I have no way of finding out who they are, where they're calling from, or stopping their unwanted calls from reaching me at all.

And so, I'm forced to endure robocalls with spoofed caller IDs (identity theft), non-existent property investments (real estate fraud), pump-and-dump stock scams (securities fraud), or threats of lawsuits from "Internal Revenue Services [sic]" unless payment is made (extortion).

Phone carriers are unwilling to provide customers with effective measures to block or prosecute unwanted robocalls, and blithely ignore the inconvenience and potential illegality of these practices.

And the National Do Not Call Registry is an impotent, unenforceable sham. Despite my being on both the National DNC registry as well as my state's registry, these calls persist.

Services like Nomorobo provide a valuable and wanted service to fill the void created by the inaction and indifference of the phone carriers. If you can't compel the carriers to act against fraudulent phone practices on behalf of US phone customers, AT LEAST don't obstruct the free market from providing innovative and useful solutions on our behalf.

We must be able to block robocalls. It is hard for us older people to get up and head to the phone in time, just for a telemarketer and robocall.

I have calls on my work cell, interrupting business. I have to answer all calls as they may be a new customer and instead I get repeat calls from some companies, several states at all times of day. Please help stop these calls!

I'm fed up of my phone ringing again and again and again, with the callers just hanging up. I'm on the do not call list, but there seems to be no enforcement. They call my wife's cell phone, even though this is illegal. Robocalls are a huge intrusion and time waster for all Americans.

Robocalls have a negative affect on the quality of my family's life. We get approximately one dozen calls at various times during the day wanting us to vote for a candidate, give to a charity, buy subscriptions, or remodel my home because the company "is in my neighborhood." Help--please!

Robo calls are invading my life, I get 6-10 phone calls per day. I do not want to hear these sale pitches. WE are seniors on limited incomes , if we need something we will research and find the companies we choose to work with.PLEASE do not stop NOMOROBO. My life has been much more peaceful since I registered with them. Mrs. Judith Pantoja

Please, oh please block robo calls. Yes, I have a phone that can filter, but the intrusion into my home is a violation of my privacy, my sanctuary, my home. (I also often proverbially scratch my head, wondering who would ever respond to or buy a product from a company that would so intrude on ones privacy and what brain-dead company would think they would)

I am 82, har of hearing' caring for a wife who can't get out of her chair without help. I registered with Nomorobo a year ago. I use the built in call blocking on my phone It helped a lot but I still get 4 to 10 robo calls a day. Some.times 3 or 4 from the same number. I guess someone is talking to them, not me. I hate them.

I have a phone for my use for both personal and business. I should be able to block robo calls that interfere when I am on a call, and I should not have to give up my call minutes for calls I do not want. In my opinion robo calls are an invasion of my privacy and I should be able to block these intrusive calls on my phone, or have some other way to stop getting calls from anonymous and unknown persons and businesses.

James Kreiling

I am sick of telemarketers. I am also sick of calls when you answer no one says anything. It makes me think that they are checking to see if you are home and then call you on another number. Being that I pay for phone service, I think I should be allowed to choose who I want to talk to. I like my privacy.

We desperately need MORE robocall blocking solutions, and ways to enforce the Do Not Call List!
Please help the American people! Laws making it easier to get taken off call lists, or to enforce penalties on companies that don't take you off lists are also needed.

ROBO CALLS ARE DISTRACTING, TAKE UP TIME WE COULD USE FOR OTHER THINGS, WE WOULD NOT EVER BUY ANYTHING SOLD THRU A ROBO CALL. WE HANG UP THE SECOND WE REALISE THAT IT IS A ROBO CALL. WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO "THE DO NOT CALL" LIST?

When I called Verizon to ask them to let me use call forwarding to block robocalls through NOMOROBO, they said that service was discontinued and no alternate service was being offered that would allow me to block those calls. We are being forced to endure this constant irritation and invasion of our privacy in our own home.

I have robocall blocking on my telephone. Wonderful!!! About 5 or 6 robocalls are blocked each day. My home telephones show me the numbers blocked. Actually, my telephone service provider gave me the information to enable me to have robocall blocking. I own my phones. I should have the right to determine who should or should not be permitted to call my number and disturb me with fraudulent offers, etc.

Peace of mind - that's all we want. Our phone lines are for emergency calls and for connecting to our loved ones: both family and friends. It's OUR phone and we should have complete control over our ability to communicate with vendors and service providers at OUR own convenience. When unwanted calls destroy the peace and quiet of the day, when it takes us away from our personal activities and priorities, when it becomes a complete nuisance - it's an invasion of our lives and is totally unacceptable. NOMOROBO is part of the family. I don't know what we would do without it. We are less angrier and we have PEACE OF MIND. Please keep unwanted calls away.

C. McDermitt

Robocalls are disrupting our home life. They are relentless. We can block individual phone numbers, but robocallers then change their number by a couple of digits and continue calling from the new number. Being on the no-call list does not work.

Please put a stop to this.

I have been so disappointed in my government. I signed up on the Do Not Call List when it was first established. And in the beginning it worked. And then it began not to.

I thought there were laws preventing unwelcome callers, and so I dutifully reported each unwanted caller. But nothing happened. It became a demonstration of the ineffectiveness of the government, and particularly the FCC.

And then we found NoMoRobo.com. Finally, peace at home in our time. NoMoRobo has stopped over 90% of the robo-calls to our home. I know this because we still get one ring, and then it goes to NoMoRobo. The ratio of those one-rings to the telemarketers that still get through is more than 9:1. AND robo-calls that I DO WANT still get through, eg., the pharmacy notifying me that a prescription is ready. AND it's FREE. All hail NoMoRobo.

But there is so much farther that this could go. While this works on my home Verizon FIOS system, my understanding is that ATT Wireless is keeping NoMoRobo from working, and whereas telemarketing calls on my wireless have previously been small, annoying they have begun to increase also.

It seems incredible to me that the FCC would even consider a proposal from the phone companies asking to stop companies that block robo-calls. REALLY!! The FCC cannot do it's own job with the Do Not Call List enforcement, and now they might consider stopping private companies from doing that by giving in to huge phone companies. Just exactly who is the FCC trying to represent??

Irvine, CA

Robocalls have gotten WAY out of hand. It's difficult to eat, sleep, have a conversation with friends or read without being interrupted at almost any hour from early morning until 9 or 10 o'clock at night. I pay for the phone; why can't I have control of who tries to use it. Can it be that it would inconvenience political candidates (especially incumbents)? Come on; get real!

I have 3 landlines and 3 cell phones in our home.

1 landline at our cabin and 3 business lines.

I am tired of getting calls about lowering my credit cards (they are all paid off), refi our mortgage (we have a very low rate), that I called to get a new roof and/or windows and/or fence and/or paint etc. they are all new w/i 5 years.

Especially when they say they talked to me about it a few months ago and I did not. To top it off, it is on a business line.

I get calls at all hours from 4am to midnight.

Then there are the scams about cutting my power off, IRS calling saying I owe back taxes etc.

Almost all are robo-dialed!

This is as bad or worse than spam!

Please help us stop this!!!!

Thank you,

We get so many robot calls we hesitate to answer our phone sometimes -- and sometimes we've missed important calls because we didn't answer!

These robo calls are annoying, invasive, and a waste of our time. Please, please require all phone companies to provide ways for us to block robo calls. And tell them not to charge us a fee for the opportunity to block robo calls.

I spoke to our Comcast billing dept. just today to ask why our monthly bill has gone up again. And why we get charged a "Regulatory Recovery Fee" which is "neither government mandated nor a tax, but is assessed by Comcast to recover the costs of certain federal, state and local impositions related to voice services." Aren't the fees they charge for their services supposed to cover their expenses plus provide an income?

I understand that New York State sued them and WON !!!!! please advise.....

The most irritating thing is a robocall that keeps calling and calling.

Had one that for 6 months would call me everyday at 9:00 AM. This is an invasion of my privacy, plus the disruption of my sleeping schedule.

And nine times out of ten, you don't know who the caller is, because the information is blanked out, the word unknown is used.

My phone is for my benefit not for a sales operation, a politician to toot his horn or someone wanting a donation.

All this should be blocked, period. I'm paying for my telephone service, not the robocallers.

Grand Prairie, TX

I joined the National DO NOT CALL list. I have caller ID/CALL BLOCKING installed on my phone. Yet, I still get the blasted robocalls. What does a person have to do to be free of the nuisance that is unsolicited robocalls that are an utter waste of time? I no sooner block one number then it seems to roll over to another state code. I know writing this will do no good since privacy seems to be a thing of the past.

I am so fed up with robocalls that I am ready to cancel my AT&T landlines permanently. (that will not increase interstate business)

Most robocalls are scammers and looking to take advantage of the elderly and vulnerable. We deserve protection from them.

Registering all my family's phone numbers in the National Do Not Call Registry did not reduce the telemarketing calls we receive. Submitting complaints on the National Do Not Call Registry appears to be hopeless, as we never know the results and our complaints do not reduce the repeat calls we receive. We have to answer our phones to get messages from our kids, their schools, and other valid communications. We seem to be getting more scam and telemarketing calls from all over the world. Too many telemarketers are untouchable, and the laws and regulations to prevent violators seem less and less enforceable.

Technology allows telemarketers to acquire new numbers and discard them at will. Proof of this is the latest trend to use local numbers that look familiar to us on caller ID so we will pick up the phone. How do we know when such a call is from one of our kids who may have lost their phone, run out of battery, or is stranded in some way and has borrowed another friend's phone? We must answer calls from local and familiar numbers. Most telemarketers are using robocall technology, this separates them from valid callers and provides a way to identify them. According to the FCC's web site "The vast majority of telephone calls that deliver a prerecorded message trying to sell something to the recipient are illegal." So it's no wonder telemarketers hide behind their technology and use it to obscure themselves.

Our political representative's good intentions to try to control technology with legislation almost always results in innovation and the birth of pirate organizations who figure out how stay ahead of the "rules" they create. Lawmakers unfortunately just can't keep up with changing technology. The only way to fight technology is with technology and the only technology that has worked for us is NoMoRobo.com. For us, NoMoRobo.com has made the telemarketers technology ineffective, and they do it for free! Please don't leave us defenseless by handicapping, limiting or taking away our defenses. Please support the innovation of consumer protection technology like NoMoRobo.com.

We need to have control over our phone ... we get so many unsolicited calls, our quality of life has gone down dramatically

Robocalls have seriously affected how we use our phone at home. My husband suffers from dementia, and I do not want him to answer sales calls. I am afraid he will unwittingly give out credit card, bank information or his social security number to strangers he has no business dealing with. In order to circumvent potential problems, I limit our phone to 3 rings, check caller id when possible, and let the answer machine catch the legitimate calls. Friends and family are instructed to contact us on the cell phone. Our home phone has become a hassle, no longer the beneficial tool it once was. Please allow consumers the ability to choose for ourselves if we want solicitation calls to be allowed to enter our home. Allow us to decide to use a robocall blocking product. Thank you.

I run a small Real Estate Office, Myself and One Agent. I take all the calls to my office. While it is extreme aggravation, Here is a problem I don,t understand. I take the time out to call the number back hoping for an opt out, which many of these robo calls & solicitors have. HOWEVER, I am amazed at the percentage that are the number is no longer in service or disconnected. About 1/3rd, .33 pct. !

I greatly appreciate being able to block robocalls and want to continue that option. Nomorobo has been a great service as I value my time and don't want to waste a minute of it answering a phone call I don't have any interest in. Everyday lives seem to be full of advertisements in print, on the television, on the radio, on the internet and even driving to the local store and I'd like to be free of any attention grabbing notice in one area - my phone.

We not only support blocking robo calls, we desperately want it as soon as possible. We no longer answer our home phone since 9 out of 10 calls are robo calls. Now, we have started receiving them on our cell phones. These calls are more than a nuisance. They interfere with our other responsibilities. In most cases, we can not figure out how the calling party even gets a return for their effort.

Please allow the blocking of unwanted calls to my home phone. No one should have the right to intrude via my home phone on my privacy and peace of mind. The "Do not call" list has proved totally ineffectual. as time has gone by. At first it worked, but now it is totally useless against aggressive marketing companies which openly flaunt the law. We were getting almost 50 robo calls per week. That's significantly more phone calls than we get from friends and family. It's annoying, and we could not get them to stop. We enlisted the nomorobo service, and that has cut it down a bit more than half, but it's not enough. The phone service providers have much more capability to screen these calls than an indirect service can. I would prefer not to receive the calls at all, but facilitating my ability to control receipt of such calls would at least be a start.

Michael and Bertha Trutt

Robocalls waste time. Time used to get to the phone, the seconds necessary to determine it is a robo call, the time to get back to what you were doing. And, let's face it, it takes time to "get back into" what you were doing. Yes, we can hang up, but why do we have to lose all that time. If we like the politician, we will vote for him. I can state as a fact that I have voted for the opponent of a robocaller because I resent being hassled. When they have NEW information to impart, they have a press conference. Robocalling is harassment by anyone who uses it - be they politicians or sales people. Please stop it !

To whom it may concern. I am completely satisfied with the service I receive from not receiving those calls of scammers, and telemarketers.

With robocalls blocked, our lives are more stress free. We were always rushing to get to the phone before the party hung up in case it was an important call. Often when we picked up the phone there would be no immediate answer because the caller had dialed several phones at once and we were not the first to pick up. In other situations we would receive calls over and over again from the same advertiser and often they were from different cities or parts of the country. Robocalls do not respect privacy.

As a retired person I'm home longer hours and bothered continuously for 10-12 hours a day with robocalls. I will never purchase anything from an unsolicited caller & I should be able to block the calls. I've even considered disconnecting my phone because the problem has gotten so bad. I have a right to screen calls to my phone. If I don't want to receive certain calls, I should be able to do so. If I want to use a service to do this, I should be able to do so. I work nights and have to sleep during the day. I do not like having my sleep disturbed by annoying phone calls.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if the government actually enforced a law as simple as the one against telemarketers and robocalls?! It's simple, straightforward, and very clear!. I have been using nomorobo on my home phone for a while and it is wonderful!!! No more dinner interruptions! Before, even if I answered the call, followed the instructions to be removed, I still got the same calls over and over. Nomorobo is the best thing since DoNotCall!!

Robocalls are a nuisance to anyone's quality of life. I get as many as 6 to 8 robocalls daily. When I call back the caller ID phone that is calling to get them to stop calling is usually a "non working number" so I cannot find out who it is that is calling. Most of these numbers are random computer aided phone numbers that are in a data base of non working phone numbers that they get to appear in the caller ID so you cannot report them to the FCC. Robocalls are total shame, probably a crime in the way that no one find out who they are or where they are calling from.

I hate robocalls and believe I should have complete control of who calls me and who doesn't. Robocalls are an invasion of my privacy!!! I select when I'm going to talk on my phone. With Robocalls I have no control over who's calling me. You can't talk to a recording!! Stop the madness! I pay for my phone call experiences. I should have the right to block whomever I want from my private life. The minute the phone rings, it is directly in my personal space. If I need to purchase something, that's my decision not some stupid recording machine being run by someone who is only out to make a lot of money, that I can't stop from calling! Please stop robocalls!!!! Pass legislation that let's the people decide on who is calling them. We have the right to block callers, but we can't block robocalls! It's not right! I need my privacy back! I am a disabled person who requires a lot of sleep due to an illness. Robocalls are always calling any hour of the day waking me up. PLEASE! I WANT CONTROL OF MY PHONE!

I called you guys about 18 months ago because I was getting calls from Rachel From Credit Card Services up to five times a day. The problem (reason I didn't just change my phone #) was that the number was on all my accounts, Web sites, business cards, letterhead, etc., and all my business associates had it, so I really didn't want to change it. I assume you keep a record of calls to the FCC so you should be able to reference mine. I gave your agent a list of the numbers they had used to call me over a two year period. I don't have that phone anymore, but it was at least fifty phone numbers. I also told your agent that I had proof that robocallers were using the National Do Not Call List to "harvest" good (active) phone numbers. My wife and I have two Time Warner digital phone lines. Our phone numbers are not consecutive. The only lists in the world where are numbers are associated are with Time Warner and your National Do Not Call List. We would get robocalls on our phone lines within seconds of each other. Before signing up with Nomorero, we routinely got two or three robocalls a day on our land lines. Since activating Nomorobo we haven't had to answer a single one. This service is a Godsend. Please encourage the cellular phone providers to install it as well. If it were available I would still have my old cell number. (Yes, I finally said uncle and changed it. I don't favor capital punishment, but I'd make an exception for Rachel.)

Robo calls don't care if you have a sick child or parent in your home. They call several times in a row, days in a row, very early morning, late at night , during dinner, etc. They are ruining the quality of my life. Even when you pay extra for caller ID and don't pick up the phone, you still hear it ringing.

I have gotten fake calls from the "IRS" and other scams. I am on the "DO NOT CALL" list and still get calls. I get these phone calls on my regular home phone and cell phone.

Mildred Manzella

Nomorobo has allowed me to change the rage I get several times a day from these phishers and scammers to satisfaction when Nomorobo cuts them off

I hate these calls with a passion, they enrage me.

Do not call lists are simply ignored by scammers. Do not reward them for breaking the law.

Give Nomorobo a grant to improve upon their smart work

Work with the NTSA to catch the scam callers and prosecute them, Please

Robo calling is an invasion of my privacy. It also is extremely annoying when I receive calls at night or early in the morning. Most are from mortgage companies or credit companies. I am on the do not call lists, but still get the calls. I have complained to the government agencies but to no avail. There should be a federal law to make them illegal.

Please require the phone companies to find a robocall blocking solution for consumers like me. It is EXTREMELY annoying to receive such calls any time of year but particularly during elections. Such calls do not provide any useful or often truthful information.

Are you not listening. Nomorobo saved us. Thank you

Most of the calls that my wife and I receive are from robocalls or other unscrupulous types despite our 3 phones being on the do not call list. Furthermore I had to cancel data to my cell phone because I kept receiving unwanted spam emails that I had to pay for, 10 cents an email for unsolicited emails (I use a pay as you go service with ATT Gophone). It is far past due time that something be done about these unsolicited spam callers and telephone companies should be compelled to offer a service to block these unwanted calls. Of course since the telephone companies make money from the recipients of the calls I understand their reticence. However I, for one, do not understand why the phone companies can make money from someone who receives a call. Even third world countries I have been in only charge the call initiator. If this was the case we would probably have far fewer problems.

My name is Chris Hernandez. I am a person. Why should companies have the right to call me? Using technology, without humans ready to say "hello" when I answer, but they don't want me to use technology to stop them. People have rights not machines.

Chris Hernandez

Why should I or anyone be charged for a call that I did not want, didn't know who the caller was, and was being solicited by the unknown caller or the case in point....robocalls...computer generated calls, which are actually trying to find out what time people are home and answer their phone, so the next barrage is from the salesperson who now knows what time you will answer your phone and the intrusion starts all over again.

Nomorobo is a blessing that has revolutionized our homebound tranquility. Previously we were getting a dozen unwanted robot calls a day to our unlisted number that disrupted our naps and daily routines -- worse at election time. Now they are cut off after one ring; only real calls get through. PLEASE DO NOT LET US DOWN and take away this lifesaving amenity!

Eric Edmunds

I think it is very important for you to consider robocall blocking on cell phones. They purposely call, writing my phone number as the caller ID to cover up who really calls. It is a problem as I have to block it but not sure I really can although iphone has functions. Please consider blocking robocalls on cell phones too! I feel the robocalls are an invasion of privacy and those on landline has been reduced due to Nomorobo. Thank you consideration.

Los Angeles, CA

I would like to take this opportunity to share my personal experiences with companies and individuals using robocalls to solicit me for products or services. Rather legit or not it has gone way passed solicitation into blatant forms of harassment. I got them for years on my home and cell phones from sun up well into the night. My wife works first shift and I work third. With an elementary school aged child. After commuting an hour and a half to get home at 5:00am after working 8-9 hours and a two hour commute to work. I could not go to sleep until I have dropped our daughter off. Get home tuck into bed to fall asleep. Around 9:30am sometimes sooner the phone would start ringing. I cannot ignore the phones because of my wife and child is not in the home with me. Not to mention elderly parents that deal with medical issues.

In the beginning I brushed it aside, it was just solicitations. That led to my requesting to be removed from the call list every time. After being assured I would not be contacted again. It keeps happening to date. I have submitted a boat load of complaints to the Do Not Call List, I have filed complaints with the FCC. And it still continues. I cannot disconnect the home phone because of community response and my daughters school contact. I came so close to doing it. Until nomorobo was offered as a landline solution. Today the only time my home phone rings is if it's the school, the job, or an evacuation call. Problem now is my cell phone. I have been dealing with this since 2009. Dead calls, hang ups, solicitations, spoofs, all none stop. Every hour on the hour. Many when I call back to complain I learn the number is disconnected etc. which is hard to understand seeing I just get a call from it. I went to purchase an iPhone because I was told it had number blocking capability. And it does. And it works pretty darn good too. Problem I'm having now I'm getting calls from the same companies with different numbers from different cities, and states. And I'm back to square one with the same results. Companies that use such tactics would never get my business, even if I needed it I would not use them. It doesn't matter how many times they call. If they knocked on my front door and offered it free I wouldn't take it. So these calls are no longer solicitation for me, their harassing me and my family. And as it stands I have no protection, no privacy, and no rights.

Because I'm on the road late at night and early mornings. Not to mention there are no more pay phones in Southern Ca. I need my cell phone not only for personal communication. I need it in case of emergency.

Please help me and millions of others like me. Nomorobo is a free service that gives me peace and peace of mind. I've tried everything else. This works in my home and I trust it will work for my cell. Both services I pay for, I should have the option to opt out, and better yet opt in to receive solicitations.

Thank you

Not only should the people have a right to access and use robocall blocking products, but the phone companies themselves should be required to make those blocking solutions easily available to their customers, including those who are not tech savvy.

Thank you.

Many days the calls are relentless, interrupting nap time (I am an older, retired person), meal time, visits, and other activities. They start at 8 AM and often come in as late as 10 PM. These calls are a total invasion of my life....We are warned to refrain from letting strangers physically into our homes.....These calls are doing nothing but annoying us with strangers attempting to con us, frighten us, sell us some unwanted and unneeded item....They are the same as unwanted strangers physically entering your home. Let us stop the calls.

Blocking robocalls is a true blessing. I've retired, and the early morning calls were driving me crazy. Then the dinnertime calls... Half the time, the line goes dead when you do answer. Henrietta Carter

I receive no less than six calls per day and weekends, even more. They invade every bit of privacy and continually disrupt my day. Most days I just let the calls go to voicemail. The calls are a firm if legal harassment and I want to control what calls get through on my phone line. It is ludicrous that consumers have to be subjected to unwanted calls from companies looking to solicit some their slip shod offers as a way to rip off unsuspecting, ill informed consumers. They prey on the weak and elderly with absolutely no conscience of the devastating end result. I have a 91 year old father who answers every call to his phone. I always worry if he will be rooked into buying some useless insurance or hand over is savings to one if these crooks. You must give the consumer control of the calls they receive and stop these scammers before they inflict any more sorrow and regret

I am so SICK AND TIRED of getting phone calls that are hang ups, loud breathers, recorded telecalls - you name it. And this, on a private number that I do NOT give out. How is this possible? But more than how is it possible that I GET them, how is it that I do NOT have the RIGHT to STOP them and block them? I didn't call them - they are calling me! I am not asking the FCC to block these calls, I am asking for the RIGHT TO DO THIS MYSELF. This is completely ridiculous.

Robin K

I used to get 10 - 14 robo and unsolicited taped calls per day. Since I enrolled in nomorobo, I get one or two. We NEED to have access to entities which can block robo calls for our sanity and peace of mind. Seriously, I am on both the national and state do-not-call lists, yet those people continued to call without regard to the lists. Seriously, if the government - and that includes the FCC - cannot protect us from robo calls, how can we possibly have any faith in their ability to protect us from terrorists? Please show some common sense and make robo blocking available to EVERYONE, and not just to those who have phone services through their computers. Thank you.

The do not call list has not worked for a couple of years now. Too many sales calls are coming from real and spoofed numbers. If the government can't help control this very annoying problem then let the people have the power to stop this intrusion. Nomorobo has brought peace and sanity back to our house. The do not call list is not working!!! I was tired of getting scam calls, sometimes fifteen a day. Why would you want to keep people from getting calls from people that ignore the do not call list?

Mckinney tx

Dear FCC,

I use a service called "Nomorobo". They try to block all the nuisance phone calls I get on my phones, both home phone and cell. These calls are a huge disruption in anyone's life, and cause extreme stress and anxiety. It isn't fun to hear your phone ringing at all times of the day and night, only to have to stop whatever your doing to answer it, and find that on the other end is a machine trying to sell you something.

I pay to have my phone in use. I do not wish to have these stressful calls coming through. They take up my valuable time, and stress me out every day trying to sell me rug cleaning services, and all kinds of things. I get these calls several times, every day, and it's overload !!

As citizens of the U.S of A., we should have the right and a way to stop these darn calls !!

If Nomorobo can do this for me, then they should be allowed to do so, as long as I agree to their terms and conditions. Matter of fact, I shouldn't even need Nomorobo. I should have a way on my own to be able to put an end to every nuisance phone call that interrupts my line. And It shouldn't cost me anything either. The Gov't should be paying for it, as our phone service is Gov't regulated.

It hasn't worked 100% for me since I've been using Nomorobo. But it does help. I can tell by the amount of stopped calls I count every day.

Some still get thru cause they have their tricks. But we need something to put an end to this rash of annoyances in our lives.

Joan S.& Fred Z.
So. Bound Brook, N.J.

I use NoMoRobo. And Anonymous Call Blocking. And smart call blocking on smartphones to prevent certain recognized phone numbers from ringing.

It's MY phone. MY privacy. MY dinnertime, or run, or bike ride, or hour watching TV, etc. The FCC must enhance the Do Not Call regulations to facilitate excellent services such as NoMoRobo and to encourage that the Telephone Companies participate, cooperate and even implement RoboCall and unwanted call blocking.

The commercial value of these calls, and whatever 'free speech' rights these callers, might have, is always subordinate to the Privacy Right To Be Left Alone of the individual.

Technology such as Robocall Blocking is a necessary improvement to our ability to stop others from interrupting our privacy. The FCC must regulate in a way to assure that a robust market is created allowing the telephone consumer to NOT hear from UNwanted robotic or commercial calls. I support NoMoRobo and its principles.

Jay Libove

Enough is now far more than enough. Relentless calls - over and over with many from the same number(s). Rarely is a message left - they just keep calling. I put their number on my phone blocking system, but it only holds a very limited amount, so it's a constant battle of remove the old and add the new. Not what I need to be doing all day.

Fix the Do Not Call list (actually, start out by enforcing it) and allow the poor consumer (ME) access to an easy to use and complete solution to this continuous invasion of my privacy.

Thank you.

I absolutely want to continue to be able to block robocalls. They're disruptive and definitely intrusive. We are so tired of years of Robocalls. It use to be one could ignore the 800 numbers but now it is bad enough that one has to answer them because even doctors offices and folks you do business with use the 800 numbers. It is so annoying when the same Robo callers call over and over. This pass election was crazy with one political call after another and from the same political folks running for office, it was over baring.

I have been utilizing the services of Nomorobo for the past 16 months and I am very satisfied with having countless unsolicited junk phone calls being diverted from my phone. The FCC is totally useless in eliminating unwanted phone calls from anyone trying to get the attention and money from unsuspecting people whose phone numbers they have acquired through unknown means. Robocall has filled this niche of blocking unwanted phone calls from recording devices which the FCC has ignored for years. You must not allow unwanted crank phone calls to continue. If you enact laws to prevent this type of unwanted privacy intrusion from occurring Nomorobo would not have to do this for all the telephone users who are subject to these intrusions due to your inaction.. Pass laws to stop robot phone calls, which do not abide by the Do Not Call restrictions, and continually annoy everyone who uses all type of telephone services.

The number of violations to the FTC Do Not Call List are growing expidentially. Not only am I getting calls from telemarketers and robocalls on my home phone; I also getting them on my cell phone. Blocking numbers locally doesn't do much good because they are forever spoofing the number that appears on my caller ID. Many a time I've let the call go to voicemail, tried to return the call only be told that it is not a working number or the number had not been assigned.

I've repeatedly told these callers to remove my name and number from their database but it has fallen on deaf ears. I have an unlisted landline number and cell number that has only been given out to very few people. I don't as a rule give out my phone number online to to complete strangers.

There is very little privacy left these days. My computer has been hacked, credit cards compromised, and my phone bombarded with telemarketers. The National Do Not Call List is a failure. The FTC has privatized their efforts into building a national database of "white, grey and black lists" to literally shut these culprits who are committing fraud using "crowd sourcing". The government is to serve and protect its citizens. I subscribe to <http://nomorobo.com/> The call will ring once (when blacklisted) and the free service endorsed by FTC 2013 award prevents the illegal telemarketing call from being answered by me or by voice mail as a hang-up. There seems to be a legal loophole, with a financial incentive for Call Centers to invoice the carriers through monthly tariffs for connecting calls either answered by your voice mail or a human being ... This is the reason why majority of calls are hang-ups - because they get paid whether they speak with you or don't speak with you, so long as either a person or a machine answers the incoming call!!!! Either way they are committing fraud and violating the law. It's time to enter the 21st century by reverse engineering this by fighting this as if it's cyber warfare by using automated means to stop their robot calls! This includes the FCC enforcing the laws with wireless carriers, just as the FTC does with landlines.

Kevin Morgan

We are VERY frustrated & tired of our home phone ringing from robocalls numerous times a day and at all hours ranging from 8:00 AM thru 10:00 PM. We signed up with a robocall blocking company and ABSOLUTELY LOVE IT!! Since we signed up, this company has blocked almost all robocalls. There are companies that change their number often, therefore it gets through to the phone, but having 1 or 2 calls per week that are robocalls compared to 5-8 per day...it is great to have this service. We wish for every person to have this service offered to them....PLEASE!!!!

I consider robocalls to be more than annoying and irritating. They are really an invasion of privacy. I sometimes receive 7-8 of these calls per day. I do not want my phone ringing incessantly with calls from individuals that I feel should not even be calling me because I am on the Do Not Call List. Please allow us to block robocallers. It is beyond shocking that you, the FCC, won't listen to private citizens and consumers in this country. We, the people, are sick to death of unwarranted, intrusive, and annoying "robocalls." We demand that your agency allow our local phone providers to provide us with the tools to put a stop to them.

The "National Do Not Call Program" is a joke. Our home phone number has been on it for years and still the intrusive calls come into our home at all hours of the day and night, from 7am all the way through 11pm - and we are sick of it. Did you hear that? Let me repeat it for you:

To whom it may concerns

I support robocalls blocking at 200%. They are annoying and are interfering with my daily life events: for example I have recieved a call at the same time where one of my family members was stuck with a flat tire on the road, I had to answer the call without realizing that a loved one was indeed was needing my help, ending up with a costly scenario, and thank god everyone was ok, just to mention an incedent. Let marketeers use mailing instead this will keep the post office open and printing companies open and not to mention the supply is being used to generate mailing and the jobs being kept.

Robocalls must be stopped and all robocall blocking products should be approved, certified, encouraged and used by those Americans who want control of their own phone usage. My wife and I are bombarded daily with unsolicited automatic phone calls. Irritating is a nice way of putting it.

I do not want robocalls.

They invade my privacy.

They are unnecessary.

Avon Lake, OH

Isn't it enough that we are bombarded daily with telemarketers on our landlines.....??? PLEASE allow consumers to prevent unwanted calls on our cell phones! Why should innocent consumers have to pay for unwanted calls, or put up with them? Privacy IS important - STOP UNWANTED ROBOCALLS!

Studio City, CA

Robocalls should be blocked...they are an intrusion into personal privacy and, in some cases, cost the receiver of such calls money!

STEPHEN ALEXANDER

I despise robocalls and certainly feel that I should have the right to block them.

I hate robocalls and very much want to be able to block them. They are an incredible annoyance.

You need to do something to stop these calls! We get an average of 4 calls per day from telemarketers with spoofed phone numbers. So called Canadian online pharmacies, solar panel companies, home repair contractors. They just laugh and cuss me out when I tell them that I am on the DNC call list. They call from 6am to 10pm. I'm ready to get rid of my home phone to get it to stop.

David Clement

I am literally being harassed by telemarketing and robocalls despite being on a do not call list.

I am a senior citizen and need my phone, but am now considering alternatives given the deluge of calls that now come in daily to my home.

Please help support any means to stop this intrusive incursion into my life.

Thank you.

Everyone should have the option to control how their phones treat calls

I hate the calls that come at all hours of the day,a nuisance that you have to answer the phone for some sales pitch.

Nomorobo.com is a God-send for stopping telephone scammers. I use them just about every day. I never pick up the phone anymore unless I recognize the caller ID. Nevertheless, I get far more anonymous calls that prey on senior citizens like me. Nomorobo does a great service for society. I've blocked numbers on my portable sell phone plus I block them on the ATT website. I've filled up all the slots available to stop annoying phone calls. I don't understand why ATT does not have enough slots to block all of them. But ATT is just for the money it makes for calls. So, I urge you to allow nomorobo to to continue blocking the hundreds and thousands of robocalls that I get every year.

The FCC should permit companies to offer products which block robocalls. 'Junk' phone calls have been the death of the home telephone.

I pay for my telephone, therefore it should be for MY convenience, not for the benefit of advertising agencies and scams. If I choose to have these calls blocked it should be allowed.

Wendy Jarvis

I am getting calls everyday and the national "Don't call list" is not helping!

All communication networks are granted for use by the people and the citizens of this country instruct you to protect us.

If you refuse to outright ban robocalls, then you should permit robocall blocking solutions.

Wendy Hagmaier

All possible tools should be used to eliminate robocalls. They are a constant drain on productivity in my business and we have been victims of scammers. Thank you for your efforts to eliminate this unscrupulous and annoying imposition on the public.

I work afternoons and I am sick and tired of stupid calls waking me up. I need some way to block the b.s. without stopping important personal calls.

Jerome Moncman
Canton, Ohio

We are immensely thankful thankful to Nomorobo for blocking probably 20-30 robocalls per day. The robo calls are what the FCC should be fighting, not anyone who is helping in any way to stop them.

block robocalls now!!!

Robocalls are one of the more disgusting and insidious invasions of personal control and privacy invented so far.

The FCC should have no business restricting the rights and options available to citizens to block these aggravations. It is incredible that this is even being considered by the FCC and we can only conclude, without knowing more, that this is a classical case of "follow the money" and some powerful entities are trying to unduly influence the FCC and it will be corrupted if it accepts what is offered and restricts robocall blocking.

These calls everyday morning noon and night has to be blocked by the phone companies without cost to me or others any extra charge. It can and should be a high priority starting today.

NOMOROBO is a service to protect my family from unwanted phone calls. I read about it in the AARP magazine. It has been free and it has been extremely effective. Our family life is virtually free of these nuisances and scams, which has improved our quality of life.

Please do not affect the ability of NOMOROBO to assist my family as they do.

Thank you.

Nairobi calls, please. I am a senior citizen and feel harassed by these unsolicited and disruptive intrusions.

I signed up with Nomorobo in May of 2014. Within a day of activation I saw a big drop in the number of nuisance calls i was getting. I had gotten tired of the constant unwanted calls, I registered with Do Not Call, but that didn't have much affect. When I heard about Nomorobo I was skeptical, but signed up anyway. Anything that might help would be a blessing. I'm glad I did. There are still calls coming in, not as many. The biggest thig I have noticed now is spoofing caller ID with loccal names and numbers. As far as Nomorobo is çoncerned, I would recommend it to anyone that has access to it. I believe it should be available to everyone. These calls have been so annoying that I don't answer the phone anymore, I screen all calls. I shouldn't have to.

Every citizen should have the right to block harassing and nuisance phone calls. And these calls are HARRASSMENT. Once you have informed a company you don't want them to call that should be the end of it; but NO, legally you have to tell them three times before you can take action against them. Which means you have to log each of these calls. Once you have all this information you still can't get them to stop, because the government won't enforce the few laws they have in place. This has got to STOP! Why is the aggressor and harrasser so protected in our society while the victim continues to be victimized. At least services like NOMOROBO gives each person the choice to block calls from numbers that are known to be harrassers. Since the government won't take action to control these companies they should at least give citizens the right to make their own choice to protect themselves. The government "Do Not Call List" has little to no effect at reducing the number of nuisance calls. Let someone who can do the job right do it. The government should be funding enterprises like NOMOROBO. At least our tax dollars would be going to something worthwhile.

I no longer have control over my own phone. I get calls day and night from the same numbers over and over. Sometimes they even use my own phone number to call me. I have called my phone company (Xfinity) and they tell me they can do nothing to help me stop these calls. I have put myself on the national do not call list and reported dates and times of repeated unwanted calls--all to no avail. I pay a lot of money for my phone services and I would like to put a stop to these harassing phone calls. Asking them not to call only makes it worse. Please help stop robocalls.

The Robocalls are a real problem as my phone rings constantly and disrupts my days work. These should be stopped so I can get important calls and not just junk calls.

I am a senior citizen and my wife has chronic disabilities. We live alone, and feel like we are being terrorized in our own home by "robocallers". Our phones are all the do not call list available to us but they still call because they know they can get away with it. What are we to do? We are targeted simply because the robocallers know that senior citizens are gullible and easy to take advantage of, and most have good credit! 90% of all the calls we receive are from 800 numbers and from others who have the ability to cloak their calls in numbers that are not traceable like 000-000-0000.

The phone company offers call blocking features but it is a worthless feature because robocallers can manipulate the caller id to over-ride any and all attempts to identify them!. What are we to do? I really feel that if we can't get help to stop these unwanted harassing annoying calls, either my wife or myself is going to die from the stress or have a heart attack while trying to answer the phone! p.s. has anyone looked at how much money the phone company makes from robocalls?

Theodore Rhodes Sr.
Long Island New York

Not only should robocalls be banned, but the practice of using phony caller ID credentials and phone numbers should be banned. I have even had phone calls that showed my own name and phone number in the caller ID screen. Personally, I think it should be a felony, because it is circumventing the "Do Not Call List" restrictions.

Do they enjoy getting robocalls? Of course not. They have there phones blocked.

Why should I be forced to endure the incessant unwanted calls on a service I pay for? At least the robocall blocking product I use cuts the number of unwanted calls.

Sue Fay King
Ballwin, Mo

The number of unwanted and burdensome calls received is growing astronomically. My phone service, AT&T, only allows me to block 20 calls. This number is ridiculously low and does not as a practical matter satisfy in any significant way the blocking of unwanted calls, particularly computer generated dialed calls that have no reasonable purpose other than to annoy!. Services such as "robocall" are absolutely necessary and should be expanded to permit legal action against harassing entities that place unwanted calls.

David E Lovejoy

My family have sent complaints to the FCC without any action on robocalls on my phone. We are on the do not call list, but calls still come. We pay a lot of money for phone service, these calls waste data.

Susan + Michael Kollins

Robo Call blocking is a necessity since the do-not-call list does not work and everyone ignores it.

I currently get several calls every day that I don't want and are just machines trying to sell me something.

NOMOROBO has been the best addition to my phone system in years.

Donald Ferguson

Robocalls are nothing more than another attempt by companies to control what they want me to hear and when to hear it. How about 8AM and then after 9PM. I should have the right to decide who and when.

Russell Wells

Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone to be a convenience for mankind. It is... except when one is interrupted by unnecessary calls. That would be calls from solicitors, robocalls, calls where no one is on the other end of the line and wrong numbers. It's well known that the fee for 'phone service is way higher than it needs to be. It's also known that the 'phone company administrators and executives are grossly overpaid. At least, part of the provided service should be the ability to block all unwanted calls.

Gary Plantinga

I can't tell you how many times I've complained about Robocalls. I have pages of documentation where these companies call and disrupt my day and evening. I finally got a phone that will block more numbers than my carrier allows. No sooner do I block one number and the companies start calling back with one number changed. Furthermore, some one started spoofing my name and number. Would I like to block all these companies, you're damn right .. if I need something, let me be the one to call them.

Barb Santucci

Please give the public the ability to stop unwanted calls. I want access to products that can help me do this, require phone companies to offer these capabilities.

Please, as a consumer, my family and my extended family asked me to plead with you to have robo calling placed as an option on the "Do Not Call Me" or a blocking solution made "more easily accessible to consumers."

It's an annoying invasion of our privacy, and would like the phone companies to allow an option to stop any future calling of this nature.

Respectfully,

Mr/Mrs George Toscano & family

Stop all ROBO calls and enforce the opt out provisions of our laws since they seem to be routinely ignored.

It's time to stop robocalls. The FCC needs to compel telephone service providers to allow companies that are capable of fighting these intrusive nuisance calls to operate freely.

I am tired of Rachel from cardholder services, disembodied voices offering seniors life alert bracelets, and the untold scammers impersonating Microsoft, the IRS, ad nauseum.

I pay for my telephone service. I pay taxes to allow the FCC to operate. I should not have to pay for scammers to continue to operate.

Please ACT!!

We are just plain fed up with constant barrage of robo calls they wake you up, they wake up the babes, they interrupt you breakfast, lunch, and dinner. and not just robo calls but also regular sales calls and they are very pushy, you tell them that you are in the do not call list and they say oh this does not affect us we are not under that rule, and they become very rude,the FCC should put their foot down and put some teeth into a law that would stop them because they just do not learn.

I am tired of all these calls I get despite the fact that I register and re-register with the donotcall.gov website. The only thing that has helped even a little is nomorobo but these companies and individuals still manage to figure out a way to continue to harass people on their home and cellular telephones. I'm tired of it and I want YOU to do something about it.

CARL BELLINI

On any given day, our home phone line receives roughly 8-10 calls from 800 numbers. None of the numbers are from companies we deal with or have given permission to contact us. These calls start at 8am and don't cease until 9pm.

This is AFTER registering on several occasions for the FTC's do not call list and utilizing an online robocall service! The next step for us is to disconnect our home line. We essentially took matters into our own hands and enlisted the help of a free service (NOMOROBO) to assist us eliminate these calls. WE DIDN'T WAIT FOR A USELESS GOVERNMENT TO HELP US!

None of this would be necessary if your agency and it's employees would perform the work we are paying you to do. Instead of monitoring radio and television for the use of profanity, maybe you should be cracking down on these offenders who are insistent we absolutely need a home alarm system, new windows, insurance, investment opportunities & the slew of charities (most questionable) who desperately need our money.

In my opinion, your agency needs to have a budget cut.
